

Frosh Casaba Throwers Get First Workout

Forty Yearlings Respond To Callison's Call

Aspirant Hoopsters Grilled In Floorwork, Passing; Prospects Rosy

Having put the University of Oregon freshman football team through one of the most successful seasons in the history of Oregon, Coach Prink Callison issued the first call for turnouts for the yearling basketball squad last night.

A first-night practice consisting of practically nothing but floor work and passing was on the bill for the 40 Frosh that greeted the first call of the 1932 hoop season. As yet, the material that will be on hand to mold out the first-year team is fairly undecided, but in the squad that turned out for the first session, there was shown that the 1932 team will be all that can be expected of it.

Last year's team went undefeated in seven games until they came to the final tilt with the Oregon State Rooks, who took their measure in the last of a four-game series.

Following is the record of the 1931 squad:

- Oregon Frosh, 47; Chemawa Indians, 25.
- Oregon Frosh, 46; Chemawa Indians, 19.
- Oregon Frosh, 54; Albany college, 19.
- Oregon Frosh, 44; Salem High, 22.
- Oregon Frosh, 31; O. S. C. Rooks, 21.
- Oregon Frosh, 35; O. S. C. Rooks, 25.
- Oregon Frosh, 25; O. S. C. Rooks, 15.
- Oregon Frosh, 24; O. S. C. Rooks, 46.

Of this last year's squad Jim Watts, Gib Olinger, Bill Eberhart, La Grande Houghton, Ike Donin, Jack Robertson, John Jeffers, and Mark Temple are all in school at the present time and will be making bids for varsity berth this year.

The following men of the class of '35 reported for practice last night and will form the yearling squad:

Men of Troy To In Rose Bowl Tilt Mix With Tulane

Pigskin Toters From Land Of Cotton To Try for National Honors

Two football teams emerged from the turmoil of upsets in last Saturday's grid games to climb to a favored position in the gridiron limelight. These squads, who are expected to fight it out for the top rung in the national football ladder in the annual Rose Bowl game at Los Angeles, are Tulane from the South and Southern California, who represents the Pacific Coast.

Tulane at Top
The Tulane team is the only major undefeated and untied aggregation in the country, and although several smaller schools have had a perfect season they have not shown anything to warrant national recognition. The Trojans from U. S. C. were defeated early in the season by an inspired St. Mary's eleven, but their victories over California, Oregon, and Notre Dame since their early setback have placed them in a favored place to win the national laurels.

W. S. C. at New Orleans
Sunday, a determined Washington State team left Pullman, Washington, to travel to New Orleans to have it out with Tulane in the game of most interest to football fans in the Northwest. From comparative performance, W. S. C. has hardly an outside chance of winning from one of the three undefeated teams in the country but Babe Hollingberry and his boys left for the Gulf with all the determination to uphold the West's impressive record in its invasion of other sections of the country for the past season.

Hoover Asks Grid Contests For Charity

O. D. Young Requests Aid of Universities

Nationwide Cooperation in Unemployment Relief Program Assured

Regular football season finishes during this week, but football games will go on for another week to carry out the nation's need for funds for charity. In all sections of the country, in response to the call of Owen D. Young, the spokesman of President Hoover, this nationwide post season is something absolutely new in the history of the game and is tremendously significant. It is the method by which the students of the schools and colleges are endeavoring to do their bit for the unemployed.

The plan was formulated in New York on November 17, with Mr. Young officiating, and the result of this meeting has been that 131 colleges have responded to Mr. Young's call for aid. Seven of these teams will give the net proceeds of one regular game. Reports are not complete of high school and preparatory school plans, but many are being arranged and it is probable that they may exceed in number those to be played by colleges.

East—Western Maryland and University of Maryland.
West—Miami university, Cincinnati university and Northland college.

South—University of Chattanooga and Tulane.

The colleges that plan to give a percentage of the proceeds of a regular game are:

East—Holy Cross, Boston college, Amherst, Williams, Manhattan, College of the City New York, Hobart, Worcester Tech, and Rochester university.

West—Yankton college.
South—University of Virginia.
The colleges that will play special games are:

East—United States Military Academy, United States Naval Academy, Yale, Brown, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Providence, Rhode Island State, Columbia, Princeton, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Union, Rensselaer, Davis & Elkins, Pittsburg, Duquesne, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, Lehigh, Long Island university, St. Johns and Moravian.

West—Washburn college, Haskell Indians, Westminster College of Missouri, Findlay, Adrian, Notre Dame Team B, Purdue Team B, Northwestern, Michigan, Purdue, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Minnesota, Indiana, Illinois, Chicago, Washington university, Oregon State, Quincy, Notre Dame, Wooster, Utah, University of Oklahoma, Marquette, Creighton, and St. Louis university.
South—Georgia Tech., University of Kentucky, Duke university, Oglethorpe, and Guilford.
In addition, special games will be played by the Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals and Cleveland Indians, professional teams.

Beavers to Play Benefit Game Saturday

The Northwest's contribution to the nation-wide plan of unemployment relief this season will be the Utah-Oregon State game in Portland next Saturday. This game, the proceeds from which go entirely to charity, is part of a widespread collegiate support of Owen D. Young's plea for relief funds.

Boxing Tourney Will Begin Action On Next Monday

Eighteen Entries Signed up With More Men Expected To Show Ware

Mitt-slingers of the campus have been working out for the last month in preparation for the all-campus boxing tournament to be held next week. The preliminaries of the tourney have been scheduled for December 7 and 8, with the finals on the books for December 10.

All entries must be in by next Saturday, December 5. Each boxer is allowed a leeway of three pounds over the weight at which he intends to show his wares in the tournament battles.

Roster Swells
So far 18 men have signed up. With the return of the football squad and the grid season finished, the number of entries is expected to swell. Several members in the regular boxing classes who have not yet entered are also expected to be in the running for the all-campus boxing titles.

The entries and their weights are as follows:
Max Dunaway (148), Max Pulido (115), Jerry McGlenn (140), Ben Pasion (116), Maurice Pease (125), Ed Harding (145), George McShatko (160), Howard Nachtman (145), Tom Cole (135), Rex Sorenson (160), Harry McCall (175), Clement Cole (160), Harry Smith (135), Sam Nigh (135), Wilfred Paul (heavyweight), John Welch (145), Fred Sears (145), Don Weed (160).

Five Oregon Men Make Places on All-Star Teams

Warner and Louttit Give Webfoot Seven Berths

Oregon secured seven places on two early all-star Pacific Coast football selections—one team chosen by Pop Warner, veteran Stanford coach, and the other by Tom Louttit, Coast conference official. Five Webfeet were given mention on the mythical elevens, two being chosen on both selections.

Pop Warner evidently overlooked the record of the lemon-yellow and green men when he gave them but two places on his third-team choice and one honorable mention. Bernie Hughes at guard and Eric Forsta at center both made Pop's third string. Honorable mention was given big Bill Morgan, tackle.

Louttit placed four Ducks upon his teams, all of whom were given honorable mention. His choices were Forsta, center; Morgan, tackle; Temple, halfback, and Mikulak, fullback.

The first-team selections of both men are as follow:

Pop Warner's Choice
L. E.—Colvin, Stanford.
L. T.—Schwegler, Washington.
L. G.—Baker, Southern California.

C.—Medonick, California.
R. G.—Corbus, Stanford.
R. T.—Smith, Southern California.

R. E.—Wellendorf, U. C. L. A.
Q.—Shaver, Southern California.
L. H.—Toscani, St. Mary's.
R. H.—Pinckert, Southern California.

F.—Gill, California.
Louttit's Team
L. E.—Arbelbide, Southern California.

L. T.—Schwegler, Washington.
L. G.—Hurley, Washington State.

C.—Williamson, Southern California.
R. G.—Rosenberg, Southern California.

R. T.—Tozer, California.
R. E.—Stone, California.
Q.—Shaver, Southern California.
L. H.—Pinckert, Southern California.
R. H.—Mohler, Southern California.
F.—Gill, California.

Gael Clash Ends Webfoot Gridiron Season for 1931

Driving Green-Clad Team Swept To Defeat Before Raiders' Attack

The 1931 football season at the University of Oregon is a thing of the past. Last Thursday, when the Webfeet closed the present season with a 16-0 loss against St. Mary's, their molasses from Oregon hung up the gridiron and cleats for another year.

Coach Dr. Spears ran into the same unfortunate circumstance that toppled St. Mary's from the pinnacle of Coast football by trying to take on three hard games in the short period of 12 days—it can't be done successfully, as both teams have found out.

Too Many Games
The Gaels dropped a couple of heart-breaking ball games to the Olympic club 10-0 and to U. C. L. A. three days later 12-0 while Oregon came through with a win over the ruins, only to wind up the season with a second straight loss to the Gaels, after only 5 days rest.

The Webfeet played all over the field during the first half and for most of the time inside the St. Mary's 30-yard line. Three times Leighton Gee kicked out of bounds inside the St. Mary's ten-yard stripe and three times did the Gaels stave off a touchdown by bracing with Brovell kicking out of danger.

And then the second half. All it took was the Gael score on the first kick-off of the period and Bud Toscani scampering down the field 98 yards to put the Moraga Marauders on the upper hand. From then on, it was the same old story for Oregon—the inability to come from behind to win.

Although in this final game a loss was a hard pill to swallow, the previous records of the only two teams to better the Webfeet, namely U. S. C. and St. Mary's, somewhat take the sting out of the losses. One, the Trojans, is being seriously considered for a national championship after downing Notre Dame for the first time in the Irish' 26 starts and the other the Gaels' claims the distinction of being the only team to tromp on these potential champions.

IN THE PRESS BOX with Walt Baker

OREGON'S football season is now a thing of the past. For almost three months some 40 green-shirted men enrolled in college here have spent most of their time, in fact anywhere from four to six hours a day, developing a team to represent the University.

At the outset of the 1931 season, it was hardly thought possible that the Webfeet would put anything so very much on the field. New men, inexperienced, and a small turnout for the sport put a crimp in any pre-season hope that was given out from this part of the country. The University of Washington and Oregon State were the real contenders from this section, with Oregon a very weak dark horse. Oregon beat Washington and tied Oregon State to win a purely emblematic Northwest title; lost to Southern California and finished up the season in third place on the Coast with one defeat—a sparkling record for a gloomy outlook.

For out-of-the-schedule games, the Webfeet won four, lost one with St. Mary's, and tied with North Dakota, including a 14-6 victory over New York university.

The resume is inadequate, but it gives a fairly good representation of the potentialities of future Oregon teams. Six men graduate from this year's eleven and, of these, only two are regulars. Looks bright for next season, doesn't it?

FRESHMAN OUTLOOK DIFFERENT
Perhaps the biggest factor entering in any consideration for Oregon's chances next year is this year's freshman squad. This yearling outfit, unlike any other freshman team ever to enroll at the University, is made up of ball-players who love the game and play it because it's football and not just because they enjoy wearing a felt numeral around for the rest of the year. In past years, it has been the custom of the University freshmen to turn out for first-year football, make a numeral and then drop the sport, leaving a big job on the hands of a coach in bringing in new material to a varsity depleted by graduation.

The 1931 freshman team are football players, good football players, and hold the game in high esteem for the love of the sport itself. Next year's varsity will see practically the entire squad back to turn out for what will be the start of one of the most spectacular eras in football at Oregon. It may seem premature to predict anything and, from the way our dope has been going of late, more of a drag than a boost, but the Webfeet, under Doc Spears' tutelage, will start a climb next year that will eclipse anything heretofore in Oregon football.

OREGON DUE TO "GO UP"
My basis for this statement is the fact that Oregon's 1931 "sophomore" team are now veterans of 10 tough games, nine out of the 11 starters of the games at the end of the season will be back in uniform next year; and about 25 of the footballingest Frosh ever to appear on the campus will be in there to round out a squad that will, in time, hold its own with anything in the country. Oregon finished up the season with a .750 win average with an admittedly uncertain team—and it is open to conjecture, although the situation is pretty plain, just how will the powerful eleven of 1932 perform? Our guess is that in about two years the Webfeet are going to start knocking over all comers—beginning with 1932.
