

Famed Violinist Billed To Open Series Sunday

Georges Enesco To Give First of Concerts

Noted Rumanian Musician To Come Direct From New York City

The 1932 A. S. U. O. concert series will open next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. in McArthur court with the presentation of Georges Enesco, Rumanian violinist and one of the outstanding musicians of Europe. Students will be admitted on student body cards. General admission is 25 cents, with reserved seats at 50 cents.

Enesco will arrive in Eugene late Saturday night, direct from New York. He arrived from Paris Monday, and after a short conference with his American tour managers entrained for the coast. He will play Monday evening with the Portland Symphony orchestra under Willem van Hoogstraten's direction. He is the fourth of five soloists to play in the Portland Symphony guest artist series this season.

Was Child Wonder
Enesco was a child wonder, entered in the Vienna conservatory at the age of seven. At 11, he won the first prize in violin competition in the conservatory, and before he was 21, heard an entire program of his works played at the Paris Conservatoire, where he was a prize pupil. After his graduation, he was appointed court violinist by Queen Carmen Sylva, and maintained the position as court composer under Queen Marie of Rumania.

Throughout Europe he is acclaimed as the father of the new national school of Rumanian composers. The New York Philharmonic orchestra played his work in 1910, and in 1921 the famous Ficzakley string quartet played

Crumbaker Reads Paper At Economic Conference

At the Pacific Coast Economic conference, held at Corvallis December 29 and 30, Dr. Calvin Crumbaker of the economics department of the University, read a paper on "Problems of Service-at-Cost Under Public Ownership." The main topic of the conference was "The Relation of Business to Government," and discussion of the present business depression.

Twenty schools and colleges were represented in the conference. Those from the University, in addition to Dr. Crumbaker, were Dean Faville and other professors of the school of business administration.

On The Guard, Men! Co-eds 'Ahunting Will Go' This Year

The season is open. The hunted creature turns and relentlessly pursues the hunter. Leap Year is upon us.

For the benefit of coeds and fair instructresses whose thoughts may wander toward members of the University staff, the "Pigger's Guide" has been consulted to discover who is and who isn't eligible.

The survey brought out the fact that there are but 20 eligible men, so competition is apt to be keen. However, a brief mention of the possibilities should be of value.

Are you interested in music and the arts? Louis Artau and Dean John J. Landsbury of the school of music, and Frasier Brownell, instructor in interior design, are unattached, according to our authority.

Or do your interests lie in the fields of political or social sciences? Professor Waldo Schumacher and James D. Barnett, of the political science department, and John H. Mueller, associate professor of sociology, are listed as unmarried.

Several English department members are eligible, but the mortality is somewhat high, for we are informed that Pat V. Morris-

Three New Proud Fathers Members of Oregon Faculty

At least one 1932 leap year baby will grace the University campus. She is Carolyn Janet Moll, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Ernest G. Moll. She arrived early on the morning of January 3.

Another new arrival on the campus is Elizabeth Jean Erb, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald M. Erb. Miss Erb enrolled at the Pacific Christian hospital on December 16.

Jack Linwood Van Loan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Van Loan, also joined the University group. His father was a member of the school of education staff and is now principal of Roosevelt junior high school. He arrived on December 16 also.

Oregon Law Dean To Become LL.D. At College Today

Morse Will Receive Fourth Honor Ever Bestowed By University

The fourth doctor of laws degree ever to be granted by Columbia University will today be conferred upon Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University of Oregon school of law, who is now at the eastern school, where he completed his work for the degree and delivered a series of lectures. Word of this high honor to be given the Oregon man was received here in a wire from Columbia this morning.

Not only is Dean Morse the youngest dean of law schools in the country, but he has conducted law researches and investigations into criminal justice which have gained him nation-wide attention. Outstanding of these have been his national study of the grand jury system and his leadership of the Oregon Crime Survey. Dean Morse received his undergraduate and masters degrees from the University of Wisconsin, and his bachelor

Dr. Cressman Receives $500 Archaeology Grant

To continue his archaeological research work of Pre-Columbian Oregon, Dr. Luther S. Cressman, professor in sociology, recently received a $500 grant from the National Research Council.

Dr. Cressman plans to divide his work into three parts, the first two to be finished during the summer. The first part includes the completion of excavations begun at Gold Hill last year. He will next make a study of rock inscriptions in Oregon, and finally will make a survey of shell mounds along the coast.

sette was married in October. However, E. C. A. Lesch, S. Stephenson Smith, and Walter E. Hempstead Jr. are still in circulation, though vague rumors have already been set afloat by hopeful and designing young things.

If you speak German, Edmund P. Kremer or Eric A. Pollard should be willing to listen to you. If it's French you like best, Roy P. Bowen, chairman of the Romance language department, is available.

The dean of the school of business administration, David E. Faville, is still free, but what is Leap Year for? Tom Stoddard, once student body president and now assistant graduate manager, is also still on the eligible list.

In the library, you'll find John A. March at the reference desk. Leonard Hagstrom, University editor, looks like a pretty fair prospect, too.

But we shouldn't advise you to be too much interested in the other two eligibles—Clifford L. Constance, assistant registrar, or C. Easton Rothwell, one of the supervisors at University high school. The Pigger's Guide didn't tell us, but we have been informed that they have already been driven to cover.

Courtesy Tips Will Be Given By Honoraries

Etiquette Queries Box to Be in College Side

Book Published in Spring Designed To Answer All Questions

Do you use the right fork at dinner? Do you dress correctly? Do you shrink from meeting patronesses at campus formals?

If these things bother you, worry no more and seek an easy solution to your problems by using the question box installed for that purpose in the College Side Inn by Phi Theta Upsilon, upperclass women's service honorary, and Skull and Daggers, sophomore men's honorary.

Honoraries Sponsors
Since many students are unfamiliar with campus formalities and Oregon traditions, Phi Theta Upsilon, under the inspiration of Helen Evans, president, and with the co-operation of Neal Bush, president of Skull and Daggers, is launching a plan that will aid both men and women.

All questions or suggestions for collegiate etiquette placed in the box will be answered in an "Oregon Courtesy Book," which is to be published spring term as a practical handbook available for all students, the two presidents announced last night.

Emmajane Rorer Author
With the announcement of the unique plan, the only one of its kind ever attempted on any campus, the two presidents revealed that the book would not be a boring account of how to act at a particular time and place, but will have a real collegiate flavor and theme. Emmajane Rorer, a member of Phi Theta Upsilon, is writing the story, which centers about the activities of typical college characters.

Other groups enlisted to aid the two organizations in the publication are Pan-Hellenic, the Interfraternity council, and the Philomatele hobby groups sponsored by Phi Theta Upsilon.

Injured Student Convalescing in Portland Hospital

Janice Hedges, Senior, Has Bad Auto Accident During Holidays

Janice Hedges, senior in the University, was seriously injured Saturday in an automobile accident in Portland. She received bad cuts on her head and arms and suffered from loss of blood.

Witnesses stated her car swiped a fender of another car; the blow throwing her car off its course. It jumped the curb, plowed across a lawn and crashed into a wall.

Although her condition was serious, Miss Hedges, who is being treated at the Emanuel hospital, is reported to be recovering fast and expects to return to the University to resume her studies in two weeks.

Miss Hedges is a senior in business administration. She is a member of Phi Chi Theta, commerce honorary, is president of the Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority, and president of the heads of houses organization on the campus.

Six New Pledges Named By Campus Fraternities

Four fraternities on the campus announced the pledging of six men yesterday, the second day of the winter term. Compared to numbers pledged in past years at this time of the year, this figure is unusually small. Sigma Alpha Epsilon led the list with three new members.

The houses and their pledges: Chi Psi—Thomas Crawford, Holmby Hills, Cal.

Phi Delta Theta—Claus Versteeg, Portland.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Stanley Kostka, South St. Paul, Minn.; J. B. McClain, Eugene; George Sanford, Omaha, Neb.

Phi Gamma Delta—Frank Walker, Portland.

Debaters Garner Trophies

The University of Oregon's Pacific Basin debate team is shown here with a few of the many awards they won on their 35,000-mile good-will tour, which took them to eight countries during the past seven months. A formal welcome for the team will be held on the campus Friday. Left to right: Robert T. Miller, Pendleton; Roger Pfaff, Eugene; and David Wilson, Portland.

Pacific Debaters Returning To Campus Friday Morning

Presence of Entire Student Body Expected at Depot For Welcome

All the University of Oregon will be on hand to greet the three Pacific good-will debaters—Roger Pfaff, David Wilson, and Robert Miller—when they arrive at the Southern Pacific depot Friday morning at 11:25, January 8. A welcoming celebration that will rival that of any returning athletic teams has been planned.

Following the University rally a banquet will be held at the new men's dorm, at 6 o'clock. Tickets will be on sale at the Co-op and those wishing to attend must get them there.

The city of Portland cooperated with the University and staged a rousing welcome under the auspices of the Portland Chamber of Commerce and the East Side Commercial club. Several hundred persons, representatives of the various civic clubs, University student body, alumni and Mothers' and Dads' organizations were on hand to meet the debaters when they arrived in port on the Admiral Farragut at 9 a. m. Sunday, January 3.

Following the greeting at the dock, the debaters were guests of honor at an informal breakfast held at the Multnomah hotel. At that time greetings were extended by representatives of local and state organizations, and each of the debaters gave short talks on impressions of the countries they had visited.

Morris Represents Oregon At International Conclave

Dr. Victor P. Morris of the economics department, represented the University at the annual meeting of the Institute of International Relations held at Mission Inn, Riverside, California, on December 13 to 15. Professor Morris participated in the round table discussion on international trade and the discussion on the section on tariff and debt question.

Current problems such as the Russian five-year plan, the Manchurian crisis, and the present world-wide depression, were discussed at the conference.

The meeting was attended by representatives from New Zealand, England, Russia, the United States, and the countries of the Far East.

Webfoot Team Awaits Utah Debate Clash

Reedy, Campbell Ready For Mormon Attack

Cooperative Control Plan To Face Forensic Guns Tonight

Oregon's pre-season debate schedule opens this evening at 8 o'clock, when Wallace Campbell and Rolla Reedy, varsity debaters, will meet a team from the University of Utah in room 110 Johnson hall.

The Oregon debaters will take the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, that the federal government shall provide for a system of cooperative control of industry." The debate will be no decision. All varsity and freshmen debaters are required to attend.

Question Important
The question that is being debated has gained importance during the last six months because a number of noted economists, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor, and other organizations have put forward plans for cooperative control of industry.

Campbell is a third year man on the varsity squad. He took part in the state extempore speaking contest last year and in the first state after-dinner speaking contest. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, national public speaking honorary fraternity.

Reedy Debates
Reedy is serving his second year on the varsity team and was a member of the freshman squad year before last. He participated in three varsity debates here last year. He is president of the campus Y. M. C. A.

The debate was to have taken place Thursday evening, but a long distance call last night from the Utah team, which is touring the Pacific coast, put forward the event to tonight.

Second Oregon Drive Will Begin On Campus Today

Circulation Managers Call Kick-Off Meeting for Tonight

A second Oregon drive to reach students who have not yet subscribed for the year book will start today and end Saturday noon. Maxine Reed, assistant circulation manager, said yesterday.

Plans for the drive will get under way tonight at 7:30 o'clock at a meeting in the Alpha Xi Delta house. House representatives are to attend or send a substitute, Miss Reed announced. The second drive must be completed by Saturday noon to allow students to pay part of the cost of the book on their winter term fees.

Each house representative turning in a 100 per cent subscription list will again receive a free copy of the Oregon, it is announced.

Nella Roster Fractures Arm in Skiing Accident

Victim of a skiing accident on the upper McKenzie, Miss Nella Roster, foreign student from Italy, was suffering from a fractured wrist. Miss Roster was prevented from attending the Christmas ball in Portland which was given in her honor, because of the accident.

According to a physician's report the fracture is of a minor though painful nature.

Webfoot Charley Introduces Self to Emerald Readers

STEP up, folks! Meet Webfoot Charley, campus cynic. Every morning, starting tomorrow (while he remains in our graces), Charley will consume valuable front page space with inane remarks on the weather and other appropriate subjects. Feeling that the Emerald lacks a discerning critic like Brisbane, Charley has kindly consented to fill the gap.

Let it be understood that Webfoot Charley's remarks are solely his personal opinions, and in no way reflect the beliefs of the editor or his staff. Charley will have a free rein—until he oversteps the bounds.

Charley has chosen to remain incognito. Poison pen letters, he says, have taught him the value of anonymity.

Step up, folks! Meet Webfoot Charley, campus cynic. He may be censured, but never censored! Good luck, Charley.

'Co-ed Capers' Is Slated for Next Wednesday Night

Women Will Give Program Of Stunts in Place Of April Frolic

Replacing of the annual April Frolic of former years, the first "Co-ed Capers" on the Oregon campus will be presented a week from tonight in the gym of Geringer hall. The affair, like the April Frolic, will be exclusively for women.

The "Co-ed Capers" will begin promptly at 7:30, when the senior Virginia Grone cops, led by Marie Myers, will give a song and dance. Following this will be stunts by the four classes and features by some of the best campus talent, according to those in charge.

Prizes Given
The Laraway cup will be awarded to the class presenting the best stunt during the evening. Prizes of five and two and one-half dollars will be given to the individual, couple, or group with the best costume characterization. Honorable mention will be made also for costumes.

The April Frolic has been done away with, following the acceptance of the federal report on higher education in the state recommending that "recruiting" of students in any way be abandoned.

Champion Rifle Shot of U.S. Pays Visit to Oregon Campus

With the title of the deadliest shot in the United States, mild-mannered, unassuming Lieut. Emerald F. Sloan, ex-Oregon '22, paid the campus a visit yesterday on his way to a cougar-hunting expedition on the upper McKenzie.

Sloan captured the American rifle-shooters' crown in a three-weeks' shotmaking contest held at Fort Perry, Ohio. Twice coach of a championship team, Sloan narrowly missed taking the title the year before.

"I was leading the field by seven points," he narrated in his modest but enthusiastic manner, "when in the final stage of the match I was ordered out to shoot at 7:30 one rainy morning. The bullseye was completely obscured by the mists, and all I could make out was the number of my target. From this I calculated the probable position of the bull and blazed away. I scored 96 points, which isn't bad considering I was working purely on mathematics, but it wasn't enough."

Undaunted, Lieutenant Sloan returned this summer and in the preliminary tryouts fought his way to the select band of 12 who were to represent the entire United States army, and then entered into

2515 Register For Semester At University

More Expected To Enter School After First Few Days

Just 2515 students had registered or taken out their registration material up to yesterday afternoon, it was announced by the registrar's office. It is expected that there will be a few more enrolling the remaining days of this week.

The registration figure is 226 less than that for the second day of winter term a year ago. A drop of 355 from the total enrollment for fall term is also shown.

The decrease from last year's figure is held to be primarily due to financial difficulties. Although the statistician's office has not compiled figures on the number of students flunking out, it is reported that the number is not unusually large.

The number of "for rent" signs posted outside living places indicates that many students either have moved to cheaper quarters or have not returned. Mrs. Charlotte Donnelly, housing director, says that though she has not compared figures, she is of the impression that more men are living out than in the past.

Several students who have been working for several years but who are now unemployed have returned to the University this winter and will somewhat offset the number who have dropped out. Several have also returned for graduate work.

Three Sorority Houses Robbed During Vacation

Theta, Alpha Xi Delta and Delta Gamma Entered
A minor crime wave swept over the campus during the holidays when three women's houses were broken into and ransacked. The sororities reporting the mauling were Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Xi Delta, and Delta Gamma.

The burglars were surprised and frightened from the Alpha Xi Delta house on the evening of December 20 by a student living at the house. The sorority had evidently undergone a hurried search but nothing was missing. The invaders had effected their entrance through the basement, gaining the main floor by prying the woodlilt to one side.

The Kappa Alpha Theta house was likewise upset during the absence of the members, although no objects of any value were taken. A visit of the campus mauler was also reported at the Delta Gamma sorority.
