

Casaba Squad To Depart for Idaho Contest

Battles in Potato Country To Open Conference

Cougars, Gonzaga on Menu Also for Strenuous Road Session

With the bad taste of a close pre-season defeat at the hands of the hands of the Dallas city five, Coach Bill Reinhart's varsity basketball squad will leave this afternoon for Moscow, Idaho, where they will meet the Vandals Friday and Saturday nights. Ten men and Student Manager Walt Baker will make the trip.

Five games are scheduled for the road trip. Following the two-game series with Idaho, the Web-foot journey nine miles to Pullman, Washington, where they will face the Cougars on Monday and Tuesday nights. On Wednesday night they meet the Gonzaga quintet in Spokane.

Five Wins in Seven Games

The varsity wound up its practice schedule with a hard-to-take defeat by an independent team in Dallas, 26 to 23, Tuesday night. This gives them five wins in seven pre-season games. The other team to defeat them was the Multnomah club outfit of Portland, which won an overtime contest, 36 to 32.

The Vandals have a squad that averages around 6 feet 2 inches in height. Besides the first stringers, there are three other candidates for the varsity who can keep this average up. Wicks and Barrett, lettermen, are the scoring threats of Coach Rich Fox's team. Both of these men caused Oregon plenty of trouble last year.

Cougars Favored

The Cougars are favorites to press Washington for Northwest title honors this year. As was the case last year, the Cougars will have a great advantage in height, with Huntley Gordon, 6 foot 5 inch center, the big threat. Last year Oregon had little difficulty in defeating Gonzaga, so one victory on the road trip seems very probable.

Reinhart announced last night that the traveling squad would not be chosen until some time today. The men from whom the group will be chosen includes Roberts, Robertson, Levoff, Calkins, Wishard, Watts, Olinger, R. E. Rogers, Rubenstein, Stahl or Potter.

Cap Roberts, Spook Robertson, Hank Levoff and Captain Calkins are the only ones sure to start. So far Jim Watts, Max Rubenstein and Cliff Potter have done most of the playing in the vacant position.

The team will leave Eugene at 4:45 this afternoon and will return next Thursday.

Law Review Traces Work Of Oregon Bar Conclave

Barristers Round Out New Year At Marshfield Meet

The complete proceedings of the recent annual session of the Oregon State Bar association held at Marshfield, and a number of articles of more than usual interest are included in the December issue of the Oregon Law Review, published by the law school of the University of Oregon for the bar association. The issue has just come off the press and is being sent out to members of the association.

Talks by leading lawyers and others given at the association meeting are reproduced in full. These include "The Lawyers Changing Responsibilities," by James R. Raley; "The American Law Institute," by George Rossman; "Research and the State," by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall; "Changing Trends in Legal Education" by Dr. Wayne L. Morse, and "America and World Problems as Viewed from Europe," by George Bernard Noble.

A summary of the proceedings of the bar association; a memorial editorial to the late Ralph Pinney, student of the law school who passed away November 3, 1931; notes and comments on recent cases and book reviews complete the issue.

The Law Review is edited under the direction of Charles G. Howard, professor of law.

Oregana Photos Due Immediately, Bailey Declares

STUDENTS who have not yet had their pictures taken for the 1932 Oregana are advised by Roger Bailey, business manager of the yearbook, to visit the Kennell-Ellis studio as soon as possible. Only up to and including Wednesday, January 13, will the studio be available for student portraits, Bailey declares.

Second Oregana Campaign Plans Made Last Night

Meeting of Staff Members Held for Subscription Drive Discussion

Definite plans for the second Oregana subscription drive were formulated at the meeting of the house representatives and the business staff held at the Alpha Xi Delta house Wednesday night. Maxine Reed, circulation manager, conducted the meeting.

Eddie Wells, circulation manager, spoke of the need for more subscriptions and urged the cooperation of his co-workers in obtaining subscriptions from the remaining few stragglers. It is imperative that the subscription books be in by Saturday noon. They may be turned in either to the Alpha Xi Delta house or the A. S. U. O. office.

"The first drive was very successful as shown by the number of houses which went one hundred per cent," according to Roger Bailey, business manager.

Murray Warner Essay Contest Will Close Soon

Mez Lists Course Requirements For Entrants

With only a short time remaining before the Murray Warner essay contest closes, John R. Mez, chairman of the contest committee, announced that those who intend to enter the competition should have taken, or should be enrolled in, at least one course in anthropology, art, economics, history, international relations, politics, or race relations of the Pacific area. The contest will close on April 1. Those who expect to participate are urged to prepare their papers now.

In the first division of the contest, which is open only to American students, the highest prize will be in the form of a trip to the Orient, at estimated cost of $500, and the second prize will be $50. In the second division, which is for Oriental students, the first prize will be $100 while the second will be $50.

Office Girls Commence Work at Campus YWCA

Office girls are taking their hours at the Y. W. C. A. this week, and all those desiring the few hours that remain should sign up at the Y. W. C. A. or see Marjorie Swafford, chairman of the office committee.

These girls act as hostesses at the Y during their hour, greet people, answer telephones, have charge of files of resources used in the various activities, and tend to many small jobs.

Emerald Business Staff Has Many Posts Vacant

Due to the failure of many of last term's students to return to the University, several positions on the business staff of the Emerald are available, according to Larry Jackson, business manager. All men and women interested in working in the business office of the Emerald or soliciting advertising are urged to see Jackson or Harry Schenk at the Emerald business office in McArthur court.

Oratory Trials For 5 Contests Set January 21

Men and Women Called By Casteel

Experience Unnecessary; Cash Prizes Offered To Victors

Oratory tryouts for the 1932 season will be held Thursday evening, January 21, in Villard hall. At that time Oregon's representatives in the State Old Line contest, the State Peace contest, the State Extremism Speaking contest, the Pacific Forensic League Oratorical contest and the contest commemorating the celebration of George Washington's birthday, will be chosen.

Entrants will give ten-minute extempore speeches on any subject of American party politics. The orations must be written out and read or memorized and given in oral delivery.

All Students Eligible

All men or women students interested may compete regardless of the experience they have had previous to this time. They are to get in touch with John L. Casteel, associate professor of English, or Walter Hempstead, instructor in English, in the speech department as soon as possible.

The Old Line contest will be (Continued on Page Two)

Unique Costumes To Win U.S. Gold At 'Co-ed Capers'

'Have you your costume for the Co-ed Capers yet?'

If you haven't, it's about time to get on the boat. Hunt early and avoid the rush in the attic. Only seven more hunting days before the big event opens at 7:30 next Wednesday in the big gym of Gerlinger hall.

Costumes of any sort and variety will be in order for this all-women splurge which replaces the April Frolic given on previous years. Prizes for the best costumes will be given in the form of gold pieces; $5 for the first, and $2.50 for the second. Take heed, all ye sufferers from ye deprehs! Here's a big chance to earn your room and board for a week!

One of the snazziest little acts that has yet been presented to the campus this year is promised by the Senior Cops when they officially open the Capers with a song and dance. Words and music of the song were written by Beth Ann Johnson, and Elizabeth and Esther Kaser of Junior Vovil fame. Marie Myers is the slave driver.

Between acts, which will be given by the four classes in competition for the Laraway cup, there will be features and dancing, with Con Hammond's orchestra. And if that doesn't satisfy your soul for a good time, you can buy popcorn balls and eskimo pies at a nickel apiece.

Is a Saint a Dud If He Ain't In Mud, Wonders Cynic

Hats off to Frank Roosevelt! He may take a licking but he'll take it like a man

To a hostile legislature he says, "Increase personal income tax, declare by law that the labor of a human being is not a commodity, set a minimum wage for women and children, let cities generate their own power."

He fires a broadside at the iconoclasts by declaring for the "right of every individual to make a living out of life."

And "Yellow-Sheet" Hearst broadcasts "Roosevelt is too Wilsonian." Nope, Franklin D. doesn't come up to William Randolph's ideal. Probably couldn't flash a photo of a brothel or roll a drunk for a love note.

Irately Webfoot Charley.

Class Of '32 Will Present Scholarship To Debaters

Parade, Dance To Feature Welcome Tomorrow; All 11 o'Clocks Out

The Pacific Basin debaters, Roger Pfaff, David Wilson, and Robert T. Miller, will be presented with a scholarship by the class of '32, it was announced yesterday by Hobart Wilson, president of the class. "The scholarship was selected by the committee," Wilson said, "as the most appropriate reward we, as fellow class members, could give to the debaters in return for their service to the University and the state."

The presentation is to be made at the formal banquet to be given in honor of the three Oregon debaters tomorrow night at 6 o'clock in the men's dorm. Dean James H. Gilbert will be toastmaster, in President Hall's absence, and Vice-President Burt Browner, Brian Minnaugh, president of the student body, the three debaters, C.

Governor's Relief Program To Help Worthy Students

$250 or More To Be Used To Employ Number on Landscaping Job

Through the governor's unemployment relief committee, students working their way through the University who are unable to find employment will be given work during the next few months by the $250 allowed the University. These funds are part of a contribution voted by the University faculty last term for unemployment relief.

Students will be selected from those applying for work to Mrs. Charlotte Donnelly, employment secretary. The money will be handled through the office of George York, superintendent of grounds, who will give the students work in landscaping, principally around the new fine arts museum.

University faculty members will contribute $6500 during the five winter months, about $1000 of which goes to the state. The remainder goes to the Lane county relief fund. The amount received by the University was taken from the funds contributed by the faculty of the University.

L. Starr, of the state board of higher education, Ann Baum, president of Associated Women Students, and Walter Hempstead, Jr., of the speech division, will also speak.

Tickets for the formal banquet will be on sale at the Co-op until 5 o'clock this afternoon for 75 cents, the cost of the dinner.

Plans are also progressing for a rally and parade at the depot tomorrow morning at 11:25 and a big student body dance at McArthur court from 9 to 12 tomorrow night, with George Weber's six-piece orchestra furnishing the music.

All 11 o'clock classes will be dismissed and the libraries closed so that all students and faculty members may be present to greet the returning debaters. The band will be in uniform, and a parade will form at the station to escort the three men down Willamette street from the depot to Thirteenth.

The dance will be informal, with tickets at 75 cents a couple, to be sold and taken at the door.

Kopy Krawl Has Promise of Being Best Ever Staged

Night of January 16 Holds Store of Merriment For Frolickers

Plans for the enlarged Krazy Kopy Krawl, sponsored by Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising professional fraternity, are progressing "very, very satisfactorily," according to an announcement made last night by John Painton, co-chairman of the event. The annual dance will be an event of January 16, and will be held at the Cocoonat Grove.

Useful and attractive souvenirs for those attending the dance have already started arriving on the campus and promise to outdo even the gifts of former years, according to "Slick" Jackson, who is in charge of favors. Each guest will be given a package containing a number of these souvenirs as he enters. "Last year those attending got the greatest amount of pleasure from throwing the shaving cream around," Jackson commented, "so this year we will have plenty of that and other things even more adaptable for slinging."

Oregon, Utah Teams Debate Industry Plan

Contest Is No-Decision Pre-Season Clash

Cooperative Control Given As Solution For Economic Ills

Economic planning, in the form of centralized industries under control of regional, sectional, and national economic councils, was presented as a solution to our present economic difficulties by Rolla Reedy and Wallace Campbell, defending the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, That the federal government shall provide for a system of cooperative control of industry," in a pre-season debate last night with Jay Parkinson and Ted Moss from the University of Utah.

However, the Utah debaters contended that this plan had too many flaws, and that "the cure is having the leaders in the United States and the other countries of the world use the same measure of foresight which has led them up the trail from feudalism."

They admitted the necessity of cooperation and suggested that the government should act in an advisory capacity rather than setting up superfluous boards. They denied that competition was "eco-

Doctor's Orders Accommodated By Dorm Diet Table

Whether your ailment requires Boston clam chowder or boiled dinosaur eggs, the health department of the men's dormitory will do its best to supply you under the plan tried out last term which was supervised by Miss Genevieve Jones, University dietitian.

With the inauguration of the diet table plan the health authorities hope to provide for all students residing in the dormitory, who are under doctor's orders.

"If it is within the bounds of reason we try to accommodate the students as to the food they are supposed to eat," explained Miss Jones.

Popular Twilight Organ Concerts Will Be Resumed

SUNDAY organ concerts by John Stark Evans, professor of organ, will be resumed this term, Alice B. Macduff, assistant dean of women, announced today. The first of the series will be next Sunday afternoon at 5 in the Music auditorium. "The concerts will be held, as nearly as possible, without interruption every Sunday throughout the term," Mrs. Macduff said. The programs will be announced each week as during last term.

Enesco Chooses Fitting Program For Concert Here

Student, Town Audience Promised Pleasure By Selections

Georges Enesco, eminent violin virtuoso, will open the A. S. U. O. concert series next Sunday afternoon in McArthur court. His program has been termed a "splendid adaptation to the demands of the audience" by members of the faculty of the school of music. It was especially selected to please the great number of students and Eugene townspeople who are expected to attend. Students will be admitted free on showing their student body cards.

The program Enesco will play Sunday follows:

- I
- Sonata in D Major.....Hendel
- Adagio, Allegro, Largo, Allegro
- II
- Sarabande and Tambourin.....LeClair
- Bagatelle.....Scarlattini
- Largo Expressivo.....Pugnani
- Praeludium and Allegro
-Pugnani-Kreisler
- III
- Poeme.....Chausson
- IV
- La Fontaine d'Arethusa.....Szymanowski
- Caprice No. 24.....Pagnini
- Zigeunerweisen.....Sarasate

The concert will begin at 3 p. m. General admission has been set at 25 cents, and A. S. U. O. officials are confident that there will be a large public response to this gesture. They are making an experiment never before attempted on any university campus. When Enesco played at Stanford and Washington several years ago, admission was one dollar. When he played here in 1927, the prices were the same.

Response to the 25 cents admission price for Handel's "Messiah" given by the University Polyphonic choir and orchestra at the close of last term was so enthusiastic that Assistant Graduate Manager Robnett decided in favor of continuing the policy for at least this first concert of the A. S. U. O. series.

Other concerts in the series will present the Kedroff Russian male quartet, the Eugene Gleemen, the Portland Symphony orchestra, and the University Symphony orchestra.

University Men To Speak At Congregational Church

Reedy and Campbell Will Also Talk at Newberg Soon

"What we would do to reconstruct civilization" is to be the subject of talks by Wallace Campbell and Rolla Reedy, of the University Speakers' bureau, at the Congregational church Sunday night at 7:30. Reedy and Campbell are also planning to speak in Newberg a week from Sunday.

"The Speakers' bureau," Campbell said, "is a clearing house for off-campus speakers. Downtown organizations can get students to give talks simply by calling John Casteel at the speech office, and campus speakers interested in getting off-campus experience may register with him."

Noted Faculty Men of Oregon To Give Talks

Lecture Series Is Listed For Winter Term

Everyone Welcome, Says H. G. Townsend for Committee

A series of public lectures by distinguished scholars of the University faculty will be held during the quarter, it was announced yesterday by Dr. H. G. Townsend for the committee on Free Intellectual Activities.

The lectures will be given on Monday or Tuesday evenings, beginning about the middle of this month and continuing through February. They will probably be given in Villard assembly, since the Guild theatre is in constant use for drama rehearsals.

"The lectures will be open to the entire community as well as the student body," declared Dr. Townsend yesterday. "They promise to interest persons important aids to intelligent living in a modern world."

The speakers and their topics are as follows, and will be presented in approximately the order given below:

- Lectures Open
- Elmer Pendell: "Institutionalism in Economics."
- S. Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English: "Some Phases of the Psychological Novel."
- W. E. Milne, professor of mathematics: "Relativity: Its Hypotheses and Conclusions."
- Edwin T. Hodge, professor of economic geology: "The Ancient History of the Columbia River."
- J. D. Barnett, chairman of the department of political science: "The Cooperative Commonwealth."
- A. R. Moore, professor of animal biology: "Form from Chaos in Biological Systems."
- The dates of the talks will be announced later, according to Dr. Townsend.

$600 Offered as Prizes In Peace Essay Contest

New York Society Is Extending Opportunity to Everyone

Three hundred dollars is offered as first prize to the student of any college or university in the United States who writes the best essay on "How can the Colleges Promote World Peace?"

The contest is sponsored by the New History society of New York for the purpose of obtaining younger, more broad-minded, humane ideas for the solving of world problems. There are also second and third prizes of $200 and $100, respectively.

The papers, which are to be original manuscripts not exceeding 1200 words, are to be submitted between January 5 and April 5, 1932. The winning manuscripts will be published in the New Historian magazine, and announcement of the winners will be made May 23, 1932.

The contest is open to both men and women students, but no entrant should submit more than one paper.

Phi Beta Trio and Faculty Members Entertain Lions

Members of University faculty and student body staged the entertainment for the local Lions club weekly meeting Wednesday noon at the Eugene hotel. Hugh Rosson, graduate manager of the University, and Roland Robnett, assistant graduate manager, were the speakers for the luncheon.

Rosson discussed the 1932 football conference on the Pacific coast and told of the problems encountered in scheduling games with the northern and southern teams. Robnett described the program that the University is carrying out in the way of concerts and other musical activities for the students and townspeople.
