The STUDENT CHURCH

By GENEVIEVE DUNLOP

Some student religious groups are continuing plans laid last term and using similar topics in their meetings, while others have adopted new arrangements in organization and study programs, and the plan of letting the members decide the policy for this term is being followed by some.

Presbyterian

The freshman group, meeting at 9:45, will hear John J. Landsbury's views on "What I Think Are the Most Important Things in Life." The upper class group will continue the study of the Gospel of Mark. The topic for this Sunday will be "How Jesus Met Life's Questions."

Eva Burkhalter and Theodore Pursley are the leaders for the discussion of "Am I Different Because Christ Lived" at the 6:30 meeting of the Westminster forum. A social half hour precedes the worship service.

Members of the forum are to form a choir for the candlelight services which are being held at the Central Presbyterian church at 7:30.

Episcopal

Corporate communion services are being held at the Episcopal church at 8 Sunday morning. This will be followed by a breakfast at Lee Duke's cafe.

The Student council will meet in the Men's lounge of Gerlinger hall at 7. Business matters of the groups will be discussed at this time. Eileen Hickson is president of the organization.

Baptist

"Cooperation" is the motto for the Baptist young people for this term in both the Bible class and the evening expression group. The Chi Omicron Sigma Bible class will meet at 9:45 in the club room of the church, with Mildred Johnson as teacher.

The Baptist Young People's Union is holding a mission school in cooperation with the church. The topic for consideration at the meeting at 6:15 will be "The Karens, a Tribe of Burma." Rollin Calkins is the leader.

United Lutheran

Bernice Conoly will conduct the meeting of the Luther league at 6:30. The subject to be discussed is "What Shall I Do With My Money?"

First Christian

The Loyal Bereans are starting a new course on the history of the Hebrews. "David's Success" is the topic on which Mrs. R. M. Day will talk. The class convenes at 9:45. "What Shall I Do With My Money?" will be considered by the members of the Young People's Christian Endeavor. The group will plan the budget of the organization for the coming year. By ROY SHEEDY Fox McDonald

Zane Grey's hard-riding, quick-shooting gang is with us again, this time in "The Rainbow Trail," a sequel to "Riders of the Purple Sage," which appeared at the McDonald a few weeks ago. George O'Brien is again the hero, though playing a different part. The talkie is good, as westerns go, showing some fine shots of the Grand Canyon. Supporting O'Brien is Cecilia Parker, a newcomer, and stuttering Roscoe Ates, besides some of the swiftest villains you ever saw.

The story concerns the attempt of Shepherd (O'Brien), to reach a secret valley where two people have been imprisoned for 15 years. After escaping death by the width of a horse hair several times and, yes, in the end, wins the girl. There are the usual improbabilities for which these dramas of the old West seem especially licensed.

Roscoe Ates appears once more in a two-reel comedy which has its humorous moments.

At Heilig Tomorrow

One of the largest groups of comedians to ever appear in one talkie is playing in "Her Majesty Love," which begins its three-day run at the Heilig tomorrow. Marilyn Miller, the vibrant dancer and singer, heads the cast and is supported by able Ben Lyon and the following old troupers: W. C. Fields, Ford Sterling, Leon Errol, and Chester Conklin. The picture is by no means flawless, but there are many laughs, some good music and considerable romantic atmosphere.

You Try Somebody Else. I Should Have Known Better. By Ted Black and his orchestra. Victor Record No. 22854.

Here are two good tunes on the same record. Both are done in the same swaying slow rhythm and soft, echoing style that make Guy Lombardo so well liked. "You Try Somebody Else" is a De Sylva, Brown, and Henderson number, which ought to vouch for its "danceability." In both pieces the Lombardo manner stands out, with an introduction and first chorus done by muted trumpet and a flute and clarinet trio background. . . . muted trombone and one-string guitar obligato . . . sax trio with the Lombardo "echoing crescendo" . . . Dick Robertson sings a crooning tenor with bass, piano, and more one-string guitar to help . . . full orchestra winds up with accented syncopation, and dies out on the notes of the vibraharp. Strongly recommended. It's at White-Marlatt's.

Community Liberal (Unitarian)

The Young People's group is to consider "Choosing a Vocation" at the meeting at 7 at the manse. Hale Thompson is in charge of the hour.

Methodist

"Prayer" will be the topic of the University class at the morning meeting at 9:45. Dorothy Nyland will lead the discussion. Wu Tang is to talk to the Wesley foundation on "The United States and the Manchurian Situation." There will be a social hour at 5:30 and the devotional services will commence at 6:30.

Comic Leon Errol, who is starring in "Her Majesty Love," showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Heilig.

with Fred Von Welligen, the son of a wealthy German manufacturer. The entire story, by the way, takes place in Germany and furnishes opportunity for numerous parodies on its inhabitants. To continue, the barmaid's love affair runs into difficulties of course, but the couple return to each other's arms in the last few feet of film.

The comedy situations are obvious but entertaining, and provide a welcome rest from some of the recent heavy dramas.

Mining Engineers To Hear E. T. Hodge Deliver Paper

Exposition To Deal With Oregon Mineral Deposits

Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, professor of economic geology, will be the principal speaker this evening at a meeting of the Oregon section of the American Mining and Metallurgical Engineers in Portland. He will deliver a paper on mineral deposits of Oregon.

As a result of extensive research in geology in the Oregon district, Dr. Hodge has discovered that various mineral deposits can be related to four periods of development. At four different times intrusions of volcanic rock have produced mineralization. This discovery, according to the geologist, will enable researchers to look for mineral deposits more intelligently. This furnishes the first clue they have had in Oregon of any systematic occurrence of mineralization.

Dr. Hodge presented these discoveries before Christmas at a meeting of the Western Mining Engineers at Spokane.

Journalism Honorary

Elects Betty A. Macduff

Following the meeting of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism honorary, held yesterday afternoon in the Journalism building, it was announced that Betty Anne Macduff, junior in journalism, was elected to fill the presidential chair left vacant by Eleanor Jane Ballantyne, who is dropping out winter term with intentions of returning spring term.

It was also decided that the honorary would give a no-hostess luncheon for the wives of the delegates to the annual Oregon State Editorial Press conference, which is to be held on the campus January 21, 22, and 23. The luncheon will be held on Friday. Alyce Cook was placed in charge of the arrangements for the event.

From Other College Circles

Dying Student Aids Science

From Boston comes the story of a heroic Harvard medical student who dedicated the last four months of his life to medical science in a careful study of a heart ailment that resulted in unusual observations not generally known.

The student was Alfred Seymour Reinhart, 24, who had worked his way through Harvard by scholarships to graduate "magna cum laude" and had spent three years in the medical school previous to his recent death.

Rather than take drugs which would have prevented his recording of any final reactions, he endured excruciating pain. The ailment resulted from an attack of rheumatism that affected a heart valve when Reinhart was still in high school. During his student days at Harvard he discovered that tiny particles were breaking off from the scar on the injured heart and lodging in his blood vessels.

Last July symptoms appeared which he knew meant an early death. He then decided to spend the remainder of his life in an effort to aid medical science and entered a special laboratory set aside for him in a Boston hospital.

Scholars Not Depressed
Financial losses of their parents in the depression have caused students of Bowdoin college in Brunswick, Maine, to display a marked increase in desire and ability to obtain good grades. This is the opinion of Dean Paul Nixon, who discovered that the number of mid-semester warnings for poor grades has dropped noticeably this year.

Oh, Yeah?
The modern youth who uses the term, "Oh, yeah?" is only about 1500 years behind the times, asserts Max J. Herzberg, superintendent of English in Newark public schools.

Beowulf, about 500 or 600 years after Christ, would have used "yeah," and he believes that the term "yea" of the Bible is the same word.

Man Worth Exactly $1

An English lecturer reveals that the average man weighing 140 pounds is composed of enough water to fill a 10-gallon barrel, enough fat for seven cakes of soap, enough carbon for 9000 lead pencils, enough phosphorus for 2200 match heads, enough magnesium for one dose of salts, enough iron for one medium-sized nail, enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop and enough sulphur to rid one dog of fleas.

Whether the man be an idiot or an Einstein, the lecturer said, the whole is worth at present prices about $1.

Strange Curricula

How about one of these for that "pipe" course?

Temple university offers credits for studies in "Social Etiquette." Barnard college grants credits to all who take the course in "Resting" on the roof of Barnard hall. New York university offers credits in "Personality Development." Southern California encourages students to look up their own family trees in a course in "Genealogy." "Waiting on Table" is in the curriculum at Ohio State.

Bartering at Beloit

The depression has converted the Beloit college registration into a bartering process. Meat, potatoes, eggs, fruit, chickens, and vegetables are acceptable in place of registration fees. The faculty announcement of the return to barter explained that it was one measure to combat the dole.

Co-ed Loses Suit

Holding that it is unfair to allow a student who falls low in his studies to retard others, the circuit court of appeals of Ohio recently ruled in favor of Miami university in the ouster suit of Miss Jean West, 21, who was dismissed from the university last year for poor grades.

Miss West had won a decision in the common pleas court to the effect that a state-supported institution could not expel a student for poor grades if she chose to keep on studying.

Attention, Corvallis!

Amateur milkmaids at the University of Minnesota have challenged co-eds of the University of Wisconsin to a milking contest. An artistically engraved milk can will be awarded to the winning team.

We Wonder
A survey of Indiana high school seniors on the basis of their choices of careers has shown that those planning to be journalists register the highest ratio of intelligence. The intelligence rating of the students on this basis was in the order:

Journalists, scientists, ministers, lawyers, farmers and physicians.

Girls planning to be lawyers showed a higher rating than boys with the same ambition. The lowest class among the girls was those who were planning to do clerical work.

Intellectual Balance

Honor students and "flunk-outs" balanced each other fall term at the University of Washington, with 300 in each group recorded.

FIVE IN INFIRMARY

Five students were still confined in the infirmary Friday, and three were allowed to leave Friday morning. Carl Webb, Robert Tugman, Warren Gill, Elden Wooden, and Clara Maertens are still suffering with colds and other ailments, while Dave Epps, Richard Carter, and Jose Farinos were those able to return to their work.

Let's talk Straight from the Shoulder

WHAT you want in a cigarette is taste. You want mildness . . . smoothness . . . and satisfying pleasure when you smoke.

All right then . . . get this straight.

CHESTERFIELD pays top prices . . . yes, and a premium for the ripest, mellowest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows.

The curing and conditioning is done by specialists . . . men carefully trained in handling these fine tobaccos.

IN BLENDING, also, Chesterfields are different . . . Instead of merely mixing the tobaccos together . . . we cross-blend them. It's like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco. That's how we get that Chesterfield flavor. Milder . . . and a more pleasing aroma.

Cigarette paper? Only the purest that's made is good enough for Chesterfield.

PICK UP a package. Note its clean appearance . . . free from heavy inks. It's moisture-proof, too.

And three big factories at Richmond, Durham and San Francisco—operating under the strictest sanitary standards—rush them fresh to you.

Good . . . they've got to be good. Because they're made that way. And most important of all . . . you can taste this goodness in the cigarette. You can tell it in the smoke.

Light up, Mister! Try Chesterfield.

Let the cigarette do its own talking.

You'll get the whole thrilling story, in just two words . . . "They Satisfy!"

"Yes Sir—Mild yet they Satisfy"
