LEMON PALOOKA

Wot chance have wee pore columnists got with the U. of O. debate team back?

THE QUESTION NOW ARISES, WHICH IS THE FUNNIEST, OUR DEBATERS OR LAUREL AND HARDY?

And, while we're about it, we might as well bore you with the remark that the rumor is running rampant about Dave Wilson getting back into pigging form rapidly. There's an A. O. P. mixed up in it, but far be it from us to drag a lady's name in the dust. (Well, mud, if you want to be choosy.)

BAD TIME STORY
And now, you little rascals, if you will climb upon my neck (Sonny Boy!) I'll tell you a story, and would you mind, Marvin, not chinning yourself on my watch chain. Be a nice boy, and I'll give you a nice, swift lollypop in the slats.

Well, anyway, there was a traveling salesman that—, Oh, pardon me. That's another story indeed. This is the one I meant to tell you. There was a boy who came to college. Yes, they still do that. This boy was a very, very nize sorta fella, always went to Sunday school and practiced his music lesson every day.

One night, a bunch of the boys was whooping it up with a big bull session, and Eddie (that was his name) was sitting into it. All the boys were sitting around, and pretty soon one of them pulled out a pack of cigarettes and offered one to Eddie. (His name was Eddie.) "No, thanks," said Eddie (for that was the boy's name) drawing out a package, "I'll smoke one of my own."

Oh, yeah, I forgot to tell you his name was Eddie.

Little Morphine Annie gets back on the job again with the crack that "She was only a tugboat captain's daughter, but she was Ferry nice to me."

AND, LEST YE FORGET, THE MONMOUTH—I MEAN MAMMAMMOTH TITLE CONTEST CLOSES TONIGHT. IN CASE YOU ARE IN DOUBT ABOUT THIS BIZZ, WE ARE ON THE LEVEL. TWENTY - SEVEN CENTS CASH TO THE WLUUER. WRITE A NAME FOR THE COLUMN.

EMERALD of The... AIR

One of the stirring scenes depicted in "Journey's End" will be broadcast during today's Emerald of the Air period at 4:15 over KORE. An idea of the subject matter and cast may be obtained when Leonard Dart as Captain Stanhope, Martin Geary as the colonel, Jack Stipe as Second Lieutenant Hibbert, and Charles Shumaker as the sergeant-major, present the 15-minute excerpt planned for this afternoon. "Journey's End" is to be played in Guild hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week.

A sports review by Bruce Hamby, Emerald sports writer and campus correspondent for the Journal, will be featured during the Thursday broadcast. The Max trio, consisting of Max Reid, Max Moore, and Max Gross, will go before the microphone Friday.

Kansas University School Is Modeled on One Here

Ex-Oregon Head Began System While Teaching There

The discovery that the college of commerce at the University of Kansas is modeled after the commerce school at Oregon was made recently when Dean Faville of the school of business administration received a letter from Dean Frank Stockton of the University of Kansas.

Dean Stockton found while writing the history of the Kansas department of economics that the system used had been inaugurated by Dr. Frank Strong, former president of the University of Oregon from 1899 to 1902.

It is usually thought that the school of business administration at Oregon was established in 1914 but investigations of the University catalogs definitely date it back into the nineteenth century.

When Dr. Strong was president of the University the courses offered at the business administration school included foreign language, elementary engineering, history of commerce, finance, exchange, banking, business methods, and general economics.

Master Dance Aspirants Urged To Sign for Tryouts

Girls interested in master dance tryouts are requested to sign their names on the list in the dancing room in Gerlinger hall, Virginia Hunter, president of the group, has announced. Tryouts will be held January 27 at 8 o'clock in Gerlinger hall.

Those passing successfully the four requirements will become members. They are to create an original dance, improvise to music, perform some of the technique, and have had two terms of interpretive dancing.

Congress club will meet over College Side Inn at 7:30 tonight.

Collegiate Bards Asked To Hand in Oregon Poems

As was said once last term: "Now is the time for all would-be poets to come to the aid of their year-book." The Oregon needs high quality verse for its literary section. Nothing of the Ogdan Nash type unless extremely clever will be even considered, except for lighting fires.

If there are any Elizabeth Barrett Brownings or collegiate Keats' on the campus, show your metal, or rather, your verse, to the literary editor of the Oregon. By the way, the Oregon office is in McArthur court, and the deadline for copy comes very soon.

Dave Williams, senior in mathematics and Rhodes scholar will introduce the subject "Federal Taxation."

DR. HOOVER IN OAKLAND
Dr. Glenn Edwin Hoover, formerly a professor in the economics department of the University, is now a city councilman at Oakland, California, and is also teaching in a college there. In a recent number of Pacific Municipalities, devoted to the interests of the League of California Municipalities, League of Oregon Cities, and other associations, there appeared an article by Professor Hoover entitled, "Wages in the Public Services."

BOOKS OF THE DAY

EDITED BY ROY SHEEDY

A Trilogy of Three Plays. em em A TRILOGY OF THREE PLAYS Mourning Becomes Electra. By Eugene O'Neill. Liveright.

By ROY SHEEDY
In these days of literature and drama something either strikingly original of very extreme seems necessary to cause more than a ripple of attention among the critics and blase public. O'Neill chose the last named course, going to the very omega of cold-blooded drama in telling this story of family morals in high-tension post-war days. Nine acts of murder, suicide, adultery, incestuous desire and deep hatred produce the effect for which the author was striving, that of making his play a sensation. It is to O'Neill's credit that while he is successful in this, he does not allow his work to become cheap or melodramatic as it surely would have in less adept hands. Reviewed as a stage performance, one wonders how an audience could sit through five hours of this
