Not long ago, Dr. Koo completed a six-months tour of colleges and universities in Australia and New Zealand. He was one of the leaders at the recent quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer Movement and took an important part in the world conference of the Y. M. C. A.

Lively Action, Music Praised In Tomorrow's Faculty Film

By S. STEPHENSON SMITH
"The Girl from the Reeperbahn," the Faculty club film at the Colonial tomorrow afternoon, is a spirited and spectacular melodrama which tells the story of a girl from the Great White Way in Hamburg, who is washed up on an island where a great lighthouse stands, far down the harbor. Speaks Tomorrow

Dr. T. Z. Koo, vice-president of the World's Student Christian federation, who will lecture here tomorrow at an all-campus assembly. The assembly will be held at 10 o'clock in Gerlinger hall.

George Barron And Mary Galey Will Give Recital

George Barron and Mary Galey will be featured in the last student recital of the term, to be given in the music auditorium Thursday evening at 8 p. m.

Barron, a basso profundo, is a graduate student in music. He was bass soloist in the Christmas oratorio, "The Messiah," and has been heard many times in incidental solos with the University Polyphonic choir, of which he is president. Harold Ayers will accompany him.

Miss Galey is a senior piano student of Jane Thacher, and has played in several recitals on the campus.

Barron will open the program. From the "Magic Flute" by Mozart will be drawn the air, "O Isis und Osiris," from Handel's "Agrippina" will be taken "Col Raggio Placido." Martini's "Plaisir d'Amour" closes the group.

Mary Galey will play the four movements of Grieg's "Sonata in E-minor," the allegro, andante, menuetto, and finale.

Five songs by Schubert will constitute Barron's second group: "Das Wirtshaus," "Auf dem Wasser zu singen," "Der Tod und das Madchen," "Der Wanderer," and "Aufenthalt."

Miss Galey's second group will contain Liszt's "Consolation" and three numbers by Chopin, the waltz in A minor, prelude in D flat, and polonaise in E flat minor.

Barron will close the recital with five art-songs, "Denn es gebet dem Menschen" by Brahms, "Im Spatboot" by Strauss, "Auf ziner Wanderung" by Wolf, "L'Heure Exquise" by Poldowski, and "Couplets de Vulcan" by Charles Gounod.

The musical accompaniment throughout is in the best Rathskeleler tradition; with echoes of Strauss and Lehar. This film has the best music with it, of any so far. The German dialogue is witty and colloquial; but the action is so animated, and the purely cinematic phases of the play are so well worked out, that one need not know German to follow the film.

This is a film which all students of German should certainly see; but students of human nature and those interested in night club life on the continent, will find a strong pull in this picture. The storm scenes are positively Byronic; the hairbreadth escapes are thrilling; and the leading lady is, I suspect, a South German or a Viennese; she is some Fraulein.

Death of Briand Regretted By Interested Faculty Men

Activities for World Peace Of French Statesman Win Praise

The death of Aristide Briand, noted French statesman and diligent worker for peace, drew comment from faculty members interested in international affairs yesterday.

"Briand's death removes from international affairs one of the outstanding figures of the 20th century," Dean James H. Gilbert, of the school of literature, science, and the arts, remarked yesterday. "His vision was too profound to be fully appreciated by his own generation. History will establish the name of Briand as a figure of outstanding importance in international affairs."

Dr. John R. Mez, of the department of economics and political science, especially praised the French statesman's support of a United States of Europe, his work in helping develop the Briand-Kellogg pact outlawing war as an instrument of national policy, and also for the Locarno treaties of 1925, which restored a peaceful atmosphere in Europe.

Chandler B. Beall, assistant professor of French, expressed regret at the passing of the "apostle of peace," though he added, "he was a great statesman who would have been greater if he had had the courage at certain decisive moments to eclipse himself and sacrifice personal or party interests to the national or international cause."

Law Faculty Plans Fishing Journey to Siltcoos Lake

For the fifth consecutive year the law school faculty will spend two days during spring vacation on a fishing trip to Siltcoos lake, near Florence.

"They're beginning to expect us," remarked Carlton E. Spencer, professor of law, who conceived the idea five years ago and who is again making the arrangements for the outing this time.

With North Beach on the lake as its objective, the party of six will probably leave Thursday, March 23.

Those who will take this annual outing are: Wayne L. Morse, Orlando J. Hollis, Guy S. Claire, Charles G. Howard, and Mr. Spencer, all of the law faculty, and Hugh E. Rosson, graduate manager.

Included in them are letters from the Rotary club of Medford, the Kiwanis and Rotary club of Ashland, and the Grants Pass Rotary club. The talks were given last month.

Sousa's Death Severe Blow To Music World, Says Stehn

"Because he was so endeared to the public through his many musical works, his extensive musical tours with his band in many countries, and because of his personality, John Philip Sousa does not have an immediate successor," said John Stehn, director of the University band yesterday.

As to a logical successor to the great director," Stehn pointed out, "Bohemir Kryl seems to be the only one available for this mythic raking in the American musical field. It will be mythical because Sousa will always be regarded as the most outstanding bandmen by the American people not only because his band has played in every city in the country of any size, but also, distinguishing him from previous mentioned directors, he is known throughout the world for his stirring compositions."

Another distinguishing feature of Sousa's rightful place in the musical field was the fact that he had directed more than 1000 college, high school, amateur, and municipal bands throughout the country in the last ten years.

When Sousa's band was in Eugene four years ago on its last tour of the country, Sousa directed the University band in playing his own composition, "King Cotton."

OSC Tranquil While Reports Tell 'Riot' Tale

President Kerr Denies Board Action Riles

Deferred Pledging Scare Causes Fraternities To Gather

By WILLIS DUNIWAY
The peaceful quiet of the Oregon State college campus is still unbroken.

A hurried trip to Corvallis last night proved this. Reports current here yesterday afternoon said that students in the Oregon's State school of commerce, abolished by action of the state board of higher education Monday, had greeted the board's decision with open revolt, not attending classes and staging a general campus walk-out.

Dr. Kerr surprised Oregon State college, expressed surprise in Corvallis last night at the report. "Students here don't do such things," was his only comment. F. Marion Chandler and George Howie, editor and associate of the Barometer, seconded Dr. Kerr's statement.

Even though a "riot" by students at Oregon State may not have followed the board's action, special discussions have been held. Presidents and managers of all fraternities and sororities on the Corvallis campus gathered hurriedly last night to hear President Kerr explain points at issue in the action of the state board.

"Greeks" Hold Meeting
The question of deferred pledging of freshmen to Greek letter organizations is of paramount importance on both the Eugene and Corvallis camp. The possibility of houses closing due to decrease in membership and revenue were discussed at the Corvallis meeting last night.

Further discussion of the state board of higher education's action will be undertaken this morning at Oregon State at a special student body assembly.

With the report of the curricula committee of the state board finally adopted, attention now turns to the next meeting of the education body to be held in Portland, Wednesday, March 16. Deans of each of the six newly-created schools at Eugene and Corvallis and the medical school at Portland will be named at this time.
