Track Tryouts Will Be Held Today To Determine Entries

Five Track Events To Be Run Off at 2 o'Clock This Afternoon

From his bed, where he has been confined for the last few days because of illness, Colonel William L. Hayward, track coach, last night issued a call for all of his track athletes to meet in the first competitive tryouts since the intramural meet more than a month ago. The meet will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Hayward field, and aspirants for both the freshman and varsity squads will compete.

The program will consist only of track events, which number five in all; the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 440-yard dash; and the two longer runs, the 880 and the mile.

In the short distances Paul Starr and Paul Bale will be the pick of the field. Only one freshman, Art Clark, is expected to press these two lettermen.

A host of fast men will line up against one another in the 440-yard dash. Four speedsters, Marrs, Rollwage, Holman, and Dolloff, who composed the crack Webfoot mile relay team last, will be on hand. Talent Greenough, a freshman, has been doing well at this distance so far this year, and should make a bid for a place among the leaders. Oregon's chances in the quarter look good this year, and with two weeks to go before the first meet of the season, the above cinder men should be making the circuit in record time.

Oregon's chances in the 880 yard run took a severe setback last week when it was announced that Tom Moran, crack half-mile runner, was unable to run for the remainder of the season due to a weak heart. Moran, a two-year letterman, had been looking good in early workouts this spring, and his loss will seriously handicap Colonel Bill's squad this year.

Another ranking man in the half-mile event, Harold Myers, freshman runner, was forced out of competition at the first of this term because of eye trouble. With these two stellar performers out, the field is left open for the development of new material in this event.

Bob Hunter and Bob Wagner, the latter a freshman, look to be the best in the entries for the mile run. Hunter has turned in some fast times already this year, and

Cards, Athletics Slated To Repeat In Pennant Race

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—For the third successive year, the champion St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics have the backing of the majority of experts to win the major league baseball pennant races.

The most striking feature of the sixth annual Associated Press pennant poll, compiled today, is the apparent conviction that it will be a two club contest in each circuit. The two Manhattan entries, the Giants and Yankees, are named as the only real challengers to the present rulers of baseball's big league roosts.

OCCIDENTAL FAVORED

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—Occidental track and field athletics may add an actual victory to their moral victory over the Bruins in football last fall when they meet U. C. L. A. at the Westwood campus on Saturday afternoon.

The Tigers, champions of the Southern California conference, are expected to score heavily in the field program but are scheduled to run into considerable competition in the track events.

BRUIN TEAM LEAVES

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—Faced with a heavy five-day schedule, a squad of sixteen Bruin baseball players, Coach Alvin R. Montgomery, and a student manager, will leave here by boat tonight for the annual tour of schools in the San Francisco bay district. Games will be played with San Francisco university, Santa Clara, St. Mary's, California and Stanford, beginning on Monday.

Wagner has always been right on his heels. Other promising athletes have been turning out daily and may upset some of the seeded stars this afternoon.

Hayward wants all those who have been working out regularly to be on hand slightly before the hour today so that the meet can begin sharply at 2 o'clock. He hopes by this meet to get a line on the probable entries for the opening meet of the season, the Oregon-Oregon State relays, to be held at Eugene April 23.

Score Flashes

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—(AP) Los Angeles and Portland continued their heavy hitting today, the Angels winning 12 to 8 to even the series at two games each.

Lou Finney, Portland, and "Foots" Blair and Gilly Campbell, Los Angeles, hit home runs to bring the total of such in the four games to 14.

Orwell and Miller, starting hurlers, both were knocked off the rubber.

Bill Cronin, Angel catcher, was banished from the game in the third inning after he protested too vigorously a plate decision by Umpire Cady.

STARS DROP ANOTHER

OAKLAND, April 8.—(AP)—Oakland tied the series with Hollywood today at 2 by scoring a 4 to 3 victory over the Stars. Pete Daglia, off to a flying start in the first seven innings limited Hollywood to 3 hits and one run but was nicked for three hits and two more scores in the eighth when he was yanked. Ludolph stopped the rally. The Oaks got to Vance Page for two hits and three runs in the third, scoring their final run in the seventh off Sheehan.

Senators Beat Reds

SACRAMENTO, April 8.—(AP) The Sacramento Senators put a strangle hold on the first series here today by taking their third game out of four from the Mission Reds. The score was 9 to 7.

Collapse of Securities Prices Alarms Senate

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP) Aroused by the collapse of security prices and reports of foreign campaigns against the American dollar, the senate banking committee in an emergency meeting today ordered an immediate investigation of the stock market.

A subpoena was issued for Richard Whitney, president of the New York stock exchange, ordering him to appear here Monday with all records relating to short sales at the close of business today.

Further declines in stock prices today following a persistent downward drive all week prompted the emergency session of the committee. It was held an hour after the New York stock exchange closed for the day.

Fascist Council Would Renounce Reparations

ROME, April 9.—(Saturday)—(AP)—The grand council of Fascism came out flatly in favor of renunciation of reparations and cancellation of war debts in a resolution adopted at a session presided over by Premier Mussolini which lasted until early this morning.

32 College Boxers Win Tryout Places

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 8.—(AP)—Thirty-two college warriors proved their right tonight to places in the Olympic boxing tryout lists by reaching the semi-final round of the first national collegiate boxing championship tournament.

By the rules of the tournament, all semi-finalists qualify automatically for the Olympic tryouts in San Francisco, July 20, 21, and 23, but the national collegiate committee, meeting tomorrow, may decide to choose 32 qualifiers for the tryouts without strict adherence to the original plan.

In all 20 colleges and universities qualified men for the semi-finals in probably the greatest collection of college boxers ever brought together for a single tournament. Penn State led the list with five men in the semi-finals to be staged tomorrow afternoon. The finals are listed for tomorrow night.

Dink Templeton Sees It Through; Eastman's Race

By DICK NEUBERGER

ONLY 35 miles from the school where he achieved fame and distinction both as an athlete and coach, Robert L. (Dink) Templeton lies bed-ridden in a San Francisco hospital. He has been there almost half a year and probably will remain at least that long before he is released. He is suffering from arthritis, a disease common to older persons but unusual to one as young as Dink, who is only in his low 30's. Arthritis is an infection of the joints, as painful as it is serious. All through the long winter Dink has suffered from it. For a considerable time he was a very sick young man. Only in recent weeks has he begun to take a turn for the better.

Every sports follower on the Pacific slope hopes for the speedy recovery of Dink Templeton. As head track coach at Stanford university, and before that as an all-around athlete in the Cardinal and White, Dink made a host of friends. His recovery might mean track defeats for Stanford's Dick Templeton adversaries on the track, but all the Indians' opponents stand united in praying that he will be a well man soon.

But not even the pain of arthritis and the possibility of being a cripple the rest of his life has broken Dink Templeton's spirit. His heart is still out on the track field at Stanford. Every time the Stanford boys run a race Dink runs it with them. In the little white-painted bedroom at the San Francisco hospital he visualizes every move his men make. The results of all the meets are telephoned to his bedside and he suffers with the Stanford lads in their defeats and glories with them in their victories.

There is no more stirring example of Dink Templeton's courage in the face of adversity than that which took place before Ben Eastman's epic quarter-mile run two weeks ago. Stanford was meeting the Los Angeles athletic club in an unimportant dual meet at Palo Alto when the incident occurred.

It was just before the 440 and the runners were ready to go up to the post. Suddenly a field telephone jingled. Ben Eastman was wanted. The blond runner jogged up to the stand and picked up the receiver. Thirty-five miles away Dink Templeton was talking to him. "Ben, this is Dink. Cool down, kid. Don't get excited. Remember this is just another race. Run that first 220 yards like you never ran before. But don't strain. The rest will take care of itself."

Ben replied, "Yes, coach," and calmly hung up the receiver. Dink's words of advice were ringing in Ben's ears like train bells when he started the race. He got away badly, outdistanced the pack 20 yards out, and was off like a bullet out of a gun. Around the track he jogged, coming into the stretch like an express train. Forty-six and four-tenths seconds after he had started, he snapped the white tape. The timers huddled eagerly. It was a new world's record, beating the mark Ted Meredith established for the University of Pennsylvania back in 1916.

Those of the Stanford track team were jubilant over Eastman's success, but not more so than the pale man in the hospital at San Francisco. "I knew it, I knew it!" he cried over and over again after the result had been telephoned to him.

That's the kind of man Dink Templeton is. Ben's great race was more of a tonic to him than a dozen doctor's prescriptions. A few more performances like that and Dink will be well once more. Insofar as Dink Templeton is concerned, a record a day keeps the doctor away.

When he was playing football at Stanford, Dink was the best punter in the country. His high, accurate spirals won more than one game for the Cardinal and White. He kicked almost as fast as Johnny Kitzmiller and seldom were one of his boots even partially blocked.

Speaking of punters, who'll function in this highly important department for the Oregon varsity in the fall? Last night Prink Callison had Elmer (the Great) Brown, Bill Bowerman and Joe Walsh all testing their skill. In addition to these lads there will be Mark Temple and Leighton Gee, who did all the regular punting last year, helped now and then by Captain Schulz. All three lads were doing well last night, although a fairly stiff breeze helped most of their boots. Walsh and Brown both are accredited punters, but kicking 'em is something new for Bill Bowerman. His sole duty last year after Doc Spears had moved him into the backfield was to block for the ball-luggers.

MAXWELL ADAMS TO TAKE OHIO PASTORSHIP

(Continued from Page One) member of our group dealing with student problems. We regret his leaving very much, for he has made a considerable contribution to the life of the University students. We are glad, however, to hear that he is getting this greater opportunity."

In his new pastorate Mr. Adams will again be doing considerable work among college students, for the Northminster church in Columbus is located but two blocks from the Ohio State university. Not only will he be in charge of all University work, but the congregation of his new church will be composed largely of students and faculty members of the Ohio university.

It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Adams, with their small daughter, Joan, will leave Eugene about July 1.

College Oarsmen To Battle Today In Crew Classic

California and Washington To Vie in 29th Race At Seattle

SEATTLE, April 8.—(AP)—The 29th renewal of the Pacific Coast crew classic on the fickle waters of Lake Washington here tomorrow will see the powerful sweep swimmers of California and Washington open an Olympic year of rowing in the U. S.

Close to 100,000 persons from all parts of the Pacific Northwest were expected to swarm to the new three-mile course on the picturesque lake to watch the three-race regatta, one of the most colorful and dramatic spectacles in the West.

An alert exclusive group gained the 1,500 seats on the first observation train to ever follow the events on the Pacific Coast. The course was shifted from the south to the north end of the lake to take advantage of railroad tracks running along the shore the full length of the racing lanes.

A stinging, raw wind that hindered Washington workouts through most of the training season was still on hand today and the Seattle weather bureau reported it would likely blow up treacherous white caps tomorrow. Intermittent rain also was predicted presaging anything but good conditions for the regatta. The wind was expected to come out of the southeast, blowing down the course with the shells, however.

Experts considered the three-mile varsity race a toss-up, picked the Washington Huskies to win the three-mile junior-varsity event, and gave the California freshman boat the edge in the two-mile yearling opener.

Intramural Tennis and Golf Tournaments To Start Monday

Headaches Held Boon to Golfer by U of Illinois Prof

URBANA, Ill., April 8.—(AP)—If you wish to play a good game of golf, just work up a headache and maybe you'll put old man par where "he" belongs.

The golf player with a headache has the advantage over his companion who feels "fit as a fiddle." Dr. Coleman H. Griffith, psychological research director of athletics at the University of Illinois said today. His explanation:

"This headache keeps him from pressing and from experimenting. He is out merely to play the game and this means he is out to do that which he has been most in the habit of doing.

"If a man goes into golf feeling fine, either of two things may happen. He may start to make each hole in one and thus be guilty of pressing; or he may experiment. Pressing breaks up timing and rhythm; experimenting may lead to disaster.

"The man who has a headache or is not at his best, will not be guilty of pressing. He will play his natural game.

EMERALD ... of the AIR

A gangster play, "The Triple Cross," adapted from a story of the same title which appeared in the Liberty magazine, will be presented during the Emerald of the Air hour over KORE this afternoon at 4:15 p. m.

The story is declared to be unusual with a real punch in it. The plot presents a new slant on gangster life, showing the cowardice of the genuine gangster.

SCHMELING ARRIVES IN U. S.

Schedules for Rivalries To Be Mailed to Entrants By Next Tuesday

The intramural golf and tennis tournaments will get under way next Monday, April 11. The schedule for both events, which are to be run off on a strictly elimination basis, will be mailed to each of the entrants on or before Tuesday, April 12.

Twenty-two of the male tongs have indicated intention of vying for the net title, while 19 are slated to show wares in the divot-digging rivalry. Several of the houses have entered one man to play two positions in the racket competition and will have to use their alternates because one player is not allowed to hold down two places on one team.

The complete first round scheduled in the tennis tourney follows:

- Monday, April 11 4 P. M.
Phi Delt vs. Alpha Upsilon
SPE vs. Omega Hall
5 P. M.
SPT vs. Beta
Yeomen vs. Kappa Sig
Tuesday, April 12 4 P. M.
