

Critic Calls Foster Recital 'Refreshingly Unconventional'

By DAVE WILSON
Gladys Foster, student pianist, makes no attempt to dazzle an audience with an exhibition of mechanical keyboard technique. One feels that she plays each number for the beauty that is in it, and few can bring out all the shades and variations of that beauty better than she.

Her senior recital at the music auditorium last night was refreshingly unconventional. Instead of opening with the usual concerto of formidable proportions, Miss Foster presented a first group consisting of three numbers of purely classical origin, in which style and delicate melodic treatment were everything.

The Mozart Fantasia in D-minor and a Scarlatti Pastorale were played with delicate tone-shading and perfect touch. In the Bach "Bourée" Miss Foster showed that she knows how to combine vigorous interpretation with sharp precision.

The longest composition on the program was Schumann's Sonata in G-minor. The Presto movement was heavily chorded, but fairly sparkled in its swift movement. In the Andantino, Miss Foster was at her best with the slow, melodic beauty which distinguished her first group.

Debussy's "Les Cloches a travers les feuilles" is subject to a wide range of interpretation. Miss Foster's rendition was smooth and graceful, though she perhaps did not bring out the carillon passages with full effectiveness.

Palmgren's "Berceuse" was the outstanding number of the third group. Chasin's "Rush Hour in Hong Kong" was as tumultuous as one would expect.

Opening the concluding group with a Dohnanyi Rhapsody, Miss Foster brought out all its Slavic charm. The concluding number, Schlozer's Etude in E-flat, was an abstract composition of graceful power.

The Mu Phi Epsilon string quartet played two intermission selections.

Students Plowed Out of Paths on U.O. Vacant Lots

PATHS that crossed the vacant lot south of Condon hall are no more by virtue of the fact that the lot has been plowed preparatory to seeding to grass.

As a result of this move on the part of the grounds department they are asking the cooperation of the students in refraining from cutting across this lot on their way to and from classes.

Bona fide walks are to be installed across this ground in the future for convenience of those who used the former paths.

'Hands Off' Stock Market, Advises David E. Faville

While Richard Whitney, president of the New York stock exchange, and the United States Senate banking committee argues in Washington over alleged bear raids and their relation to the present nation-wide depression, David E. Faville, dean of the school of business administration, remains in Eugene and formulates opinions on the investigation.

"In my opinion the United States Senate banking committee's investigation of short selling operations in the stock market is a tragic farce," said Dean Faville, "and it is simply one more case of government tampering with business and hindering economic recovery."

Resumption of the stock market decline last week precipitated the committee's sudden investigation of the market and the probable effect of the market on economic recovery.

"The stock market supplies an outlet for securities and protects the liquidity of property," continued the dean, "and if the stock exchange is closed there is no tangible medium for the expression of honest opinion as to economic conditions, even if these conclusions are not optimistic."

The depression cannot be cured by disguising true conditions and suppressing facts as they exist. The government would do well to keep 'hands off' on the stock market."

Ballet Advocated At Funeral Rites By Noted Dancer

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—Dancing at funerals was advocated today by Florence Rogge, dancer.

"Not insane hopping around to the accompaniment of jazz," she hastened to explain, "but the slow, graceful movements of the ballet, which is the ideal vehicle for the expression of all emotions—sorrow as well as joy."

Her argument is that the Greeks, instead of weeping while a funeral oration was being read over the body of a loved one, gave personal expression to their sadness in appropriate dances and she sees no reason why Americans should not do likewise.

"If every girl in the country took up ballet dancing, America would soon have the most beautiful, most physically perfect womanhood in the world," Miss Rogge says.

Cars Ready for Newport Retreat

Formal discussion of arrangements for establishing libraries in the various living organizations on the campus will be started Thursday when a committee representing the University mothers will meet with student and faculty representatives. The library plan has been under consideration for some time.

Members of the Mothers' committee are Mrs. F. W. Bond, president of the organization, Mrs. Walter Cook and Mrs. J. F. Hill, all of Portland. The campus groups are led by Karl Onthank, dean of personnel.

Under the house library plan books, magazines and current journals of board cultural interest would be available at each living organization for use by students outside of study hours. The material would be primarily such as is not carried at the University library.

It is felt that if the material is available at the residences many students will do an increased amount of reading outside of their course work. This has been found true on several campuses, notably that of the University of Chicago, according to Dean Onthank.

Co-op Manager Departs For Seattle Conference

Marion F. McClain, University Co-op manager, left for Portland last night to continue to Seattle with a group of Co-op managers from California schools, where the group will attend a conference of the Western States Division of College Book Stores.

Mr. McClain stated that this year the College Book Store association will work to perfect their buying organization. Their principal work consists in co-operative buying for the group.

Last year the association bought 100,000 pounds of one kind of paper from mills located at Hoquiam. That there was no depression as regards the examination output is indicated by the fact that the group bought a solid car-load of blue books of the type used for examinations.

Eight-Day-Old Baby Eats Twelve Meals Each Day

KANSAS CITY, April 12.—(AP)—Charles B. St. John, who weighed only a pound when born eight days ago, has developed such an appetite he requires 12 meals a day.

Each of the 12 meals is one tablespoon of milk.

PRESIDENT DOBBS VISITS
President J. V. Dobbs of Pacific university was a visitor on the Oregon campus yesterday. President Dobbs, who is looking about for possible additions to the Pacific university faculty, interviewed a number of the members of the faculty of this campus.

Pan Hellenic Sets Time for Dance

Final plans for Pan Hellenic dance were announced yesterday at a meeting of that body by Helen Raitanen, general chairman. The dance, an informal, will be held on Friday, April 15, beginning at 9 o'clock, at the Chi Omega house.

This is the first dance of its kind to be given on this campus. It is for all old and new presidents of women's houses and Pan Hellenic delegates. The success of the dance will determine whether the organization will restrict itself to inter-sorority business or whether it will also engage in social functions.

The music will be provided by Sherwood Burr's orchestra, and the decorations will follow the motif of spring. Flowers and colored flood lights will be used.

Florence King is in charge of inviting patrons and patronesses. Included on this list are Dean Emeritus John Straub, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Schwering, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Dean and Mrs. Karl W. Onthank, and Miss Florence Thompson.

Complete committee appointments include Florence King, patrons; Dulcie Lytsell, refreshments; and Virginia Howard, publicity.

Two freshmen from each house have been commissioned to help with the decorating and cleaning up.

Hoover and Committee Clash on Economy Plans

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP)—A wide difference of opinion on how best to secure enactment of a big non-partisan retrenchment program to help balance the budget grew today between President Hoover and the house economy committee.

The president invited the group to meet with him again tomorrow at the White House and included in his letter to Chairman McDuffie a suggestion that the entire economy program be embodied in a single bill.

McDuffie, however, has held out for submitting the program in three bills, one for legislative changes, another to reduce appropriations, and a third to consolidate activities.

TALKIE TOPICS

Maureen O'Sullivan and Johnny Weissmuller in "Tarzan, the Ape Man," opening at the McDonald today.

McDonald — "Tarzan, the Ape Man," with Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan. First night.

Colonial — "Young As You Feel" with Will Rogers and Fifi Dorsay. First night.

State — "Five Star Final," with Edward G. Robinson, and "Penrod and Sam," with Leon Janney.

Rex — "Devil's Lottery," and "Corsair," with Chester Morris and Alison Loyd (Thelma Todd). Closing night.

The Ambassador
Will Rogers all dressed up and fit to kill appears today and tomorrow at the Colonial in "Young As You Feel."

The most surprising thing about it is that he slicks his famous bangs down with something or other, and appears perfectly at ease in all the swell duds.

Will is a business man, successful (in these times!), and bound to show his young sons that he isn't to be outdone in the business of making whoopee. He works on the theory that whatever age you feel, is your age.

Fifi Dorsay, the Canadian girl who wishes she could go to Paris some day, assists Rogers in the whoopee-making. There's our idea of an assistant, especially in the business of making whoopee. Lucien Littlefield also is featured.

In addition to the Rogers show the Colonial has a special feature, and insists on accompanying them. In the middle of the jungle Tarzan drops in from the tree tops and takes the girl just like a good cave-man should, only not by the hair. They haven't become that realistic in the movies—yet. And so they fall in love.

There's an elephant stampede—a tribe of pygmies captures them; and Tarzan kills lions and tigers by twos. We'll tell you about it tomorrow.

Fast Action Urged For Big Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP)—Full speed ahead on the billion dollar tax bill was ordered today by the senate finance committee, as leaders of both parties sought a program to assure business of prompt action.

The spirit of cooperation gathering behind the budget balancing legislation drew appreciation from President Hoover.

It was said at the White House the president has no plans for a dramatic economic conference but intends to keep contact with the industrial and banking leaders of the nation. In this connection, the national economic situation was surveyed today at a meeting of all the governors of the 12 federal reserve banks with the federal reserve board.

There has been a feeling in the capital that bankers have not been taking full advantage of the liberalized credit provisions of the recently enacted Glass-Steagall bill. No announcement was made at the treasury on the federal reserve parley.

Viennese Nights To Be Faculty Club Offering

"Viennese Nights" the musical cinema which is to be the Faculty club offering at the Colonial theatre Thursday, has played to more people than any other musical production ever put on film, according to records of the motion picture industry.

The appearance here Thursday will be the third in Eugene, and many persons who saw it both of its previous performances are planning to attend again.

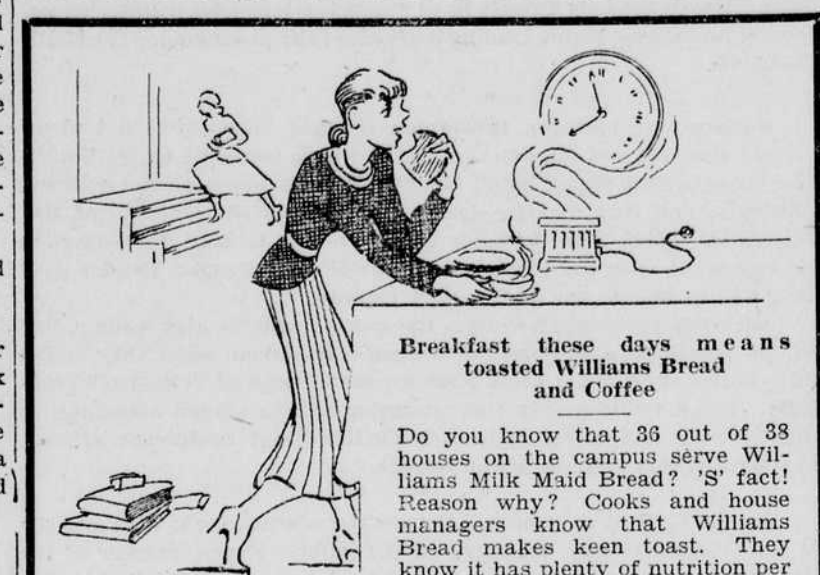

This will be the last appearance of "Viennese Nights" in Eugene, since it is now officially "in the vault" or out of service. A copy was furnished the Faculty club as a special favor, it is stated.

Surprise Nights Listed

Every night in the week except Saturday and Sunday will be "surprise nights" for 10 University students at the Colonial theater, it is announced by Russell Brown, manager. Each day 10 names selected at random from the Student Directory will be posted on the box office, and these students will be admitted free on the day the names appear.

The list of 10 will be changed each day, it is announced.

New anesthetics made of synthetic perfumes, which will give the patient subconscious sensations of fragrance, have been predicted by Prof. Marston T. Bogart, head of the organic chemistry department of Columbia university.

Breakfast these days means toasted Williams Bread and Coffee

Do you know that 36 out of 38 houses on the campus serve Williams Milk Maid Bread? 'S' fact! Reason why? Cooks and house managers know that Williams Bread makes keen toast. They know it has plenty of nutrition per square inch. And they know that the college man and woman has not yet been found who tires of that Williams Bread flavor.
