

Cast of 'Hamlet' Will Include All Players of Guild Theatre

The cast of "Hamlet," which is to be given on the campus April 29 and 30, will include all the Guild Hall players. The title role, played by Gene Love, is so dominant throughout the play that one can hardly point out a feminine lead, says Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt in commenting upon the selection. In a sense, both Ophelia and Queen Gertrude play "opposite" Hamlet. These parts will be taken respectively by Marian Camp, whose delightful "Dulcy" opened the Guild theatre season, and by Inez Simons, who recently achieved distinction in the role of Andromache in "Trojan Women."

The doddering Polonius is Wilbur Walker, who, as Sergeant Mason in "Journey's End," gave relief to a grimly relentless situation. Chuck Shumaker, appearing as Hamlet's constant friend, Horatio, was the sergeant-major of the war play; and Warren Gram, who will be remembered as Raleigh, will play Laertes, brother to Ophelia.

Two newcomers, Al Culverwell and William Anderson, will play the comic grave diggers. Bob Ferguson, Leonard Dart, and Ethan Newman appear as Francisco, Marcellus, and Reynaldo. Wilbur Thibault is the Player King and Louise Marvin the Player Queen. Ladies and gentlemen of the court, messengers, and other characters include Louise Webber, Ann Powell, Beth Hurst, Betty Buffington, Dorothy Esch, Howard Steib, Ethan Newman, Russell Clarke, Bob Loomis, Hagan Moore, Roland Boles, Martin Geary, Russell Tinkham, and Howard Ragan.

'O.K.' MEYERS' GREAT MAN, CAMPUS LEADERS

Not once. But he exuded personality. And he isn't conceited. "Oh, no, of course my campaign wasn't serious. I didn't know anything about it until one morning they called me from the Seattle Times and said 'I hear you're running for mayor.'" Vic Meyers' campaign was the brain-child of the news room of the Seattle Times. They were looking for something new to publish. They found it. They said they would give him a top head if he would go down and file his candidacy for mayor. Cost: only $75.

As far as his platform was concerned, Vic remarked: "Oh, I'd get a gag; somebody else would get a gag; everybody got a gag. We got Laura La Plante to come up from Hollywood to act as my campaign manager."

"Was she awfully clever?" I asked. "Oh, no," Vic answered, "but the type. A beautiful blond. You know."

Vic got out a huge scrap book, chock-full of clippings, and showed it to us. "I'm on my way south now to make a picture, "The Jazz Mayor" for R. K. O. We'll make some electrical transcriptions, too."

"Did Seattle take your campaign very seriously?" asked Duniway. "Oh, no, but I got 5,000 votes." (and that is easy to understand, having met the man.)

Vic comes originally from Portland. He used to play at the Multnomah hotel and at Seaside. "Did you go to college?" we asked.

"No, and I certainly envy you youngsters who get to go to college. I'm going to give my youngsters every opportunity."

"How many children have you?" "Two, a boy and a girl," and with the economy of movement which seems characteristic of the man, Vic walked over to his scrap book and began turning the pages. "Here's a picture of the girl. She was only 11 hours old when this was taken. The papers said it was just a publicity stunt."

Besides his scrap book, Vic has a box literally overflowing with clippings. "I subscribed to one of those clipping bureaus. You know. I ran up a bill of some $660, five cents a clipping."

Vic didn't say that with pride. Rather it amused him, made him wonder. He's a perfect showman.

Demos Say House Will Vote on Bonus

WASHINGTON, April 14—(AP)—A House vote on cashing the two billion dollar soldiers' bonus virtually was conceded today by Democratic leaders.

After another Ways and Means committee hearing—held under police guard because of disorders created by a Communist group—Representative Rainey, Democratic leader, said:

"A House vote seems assured. Advocates claim enough votes to pass the bill. Maybe they have them, but I believe the opponents are making headway."

Even then, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve board, and chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was assailing the plan for issuing new currency to pay the bonus as "dangerous."

From Indianapolis came a statement by Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, reiterating his view that the Detroit convention delivered "a clear and unmistakable" mandate against the bonus.

"It authorizes no action but clearly restrains the American Legion from asking for the immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates," Stevens said.

Both Democratic and Republican spokesmen made clear every effort still is being made to stop the bonus.

GREEN TO BE NEW MANAGING EDITOR OF PAPER

Established a weekly newspaper in Portland and later bought out the East Side Enterprise in that city, acting as editor of the combined publications.

Green entered the University with the class of 1933, serving on the Emerald as reporter and production assistant. He was elected editor of the 1929-30 edition of the freshman Emerald. Re-entering school again this year, Green was appointed to the post of day editor, later promoted to telegraph editor and, recently, to the position of assistant managing editor.

The appointee is president of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic professional fraternity and chairman of publicity for Junior Week-end.

HUFFAKER SPEAKS

Dr. C. L. Huffaker spoke to the Oregon-Washington School Men's club in Portland at the Sign of the Rose Saturday, April 9, at 6:30. Dr. Huffaker's subject was "The New Education."

TALKIE TOPICS

Robert Montgomery and Norma Shearer in "Private Lives," showing at the Colonial today and tomorrow.

McDonald—"Tarzan, the Ape Man." Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan.

Colonial—"Private Lives," Robert Montgomery and Norma Shearer. First night.

Rex—"Are These Our Children?" Eric Linden and Arlene Judge. Last showing.

State—"Local Bad Man" and vaudeville.

It's exactly what the sophisticated people like, hence college folks will like it. It runs Maurice Chevalier a close race for risqué lines.

Those Kids

"Are These Our Children?" with Eric Linden and Arlene Judge, will show for the last time tonight what happens to naughty young people who drink too much and run around with bad girls. Also a tear-jerker. Tomorrow comes "God's Country and the Man," for one day.

The Ape Man

Johnny Weissmuller, the Adonis who out-Apollos Apollo, is still swinging through the branches of the McDonald theatre jungle today, and will continue to make love by means of a bath of love in the crystal clear jungle pool through tomorrow night.

There's a little monk in this show who rivals his human contemporaries for acting ability, but Maureen O'Sullivan, Neil Hamilton, and C. Aubrey Smith keep ahead of him. All Weissmuller has to do is stand up and look pretty. And does he look pretty? Ask the girls.

Professor Morris To Give Talk at Portland

"Is There a Relation Between Reparation Payments and Prosperity?" will be the topic of a lecture to be given by Dr. Victor P. Morris of the economics department Tuesday before a class in instructive course in finance sponsored jointly by the Security Savings and Trust company and the First National bank of Portland.

According to Professor Morris, the talk, which is one of a series of five lectures, will be given at the Studio theatre building in Portland.

William J. Burns Dies in Florida

SARASOTA, Fla., April 14—(AP)—William J. Burns, world famed detective, died at his home here tonight.

Mr. Burns, who was probably the most famous individual in the detective business, died unexpectedly. He was 70 years old, a native of Baltimore and spent much of his early life in Ohio.

He founded the detective agency bearing his name and was director of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice from 1921 to 1924.

Monument Honoring Hill To Be Dedicated

PORTLAND, April 14—(AP)—A huge granite monolith placed on the Columbia River highway near Crown Point in honor of the late Samuel Hill will be dedicated May 13, the anniversary of the famous road builder's birth.

Set in the four sides of the stone are base reliefs depicting an Indian camp. The discovery of the Columbia river by Lewis and Clark, methods of transportation before the Columbia River highway was opened, and a bust of Samuel Hill.

Botanist's Experiences Discussed at Meeting

Experiences as a pioneer botanist in Oregon were discussed by Professor L. F. Henderson, curator of the University herbarium, at an open meeting of Beta Lambda, biological honorary, last night in Deady hall.

Henderson, the best informed man on Oregon flowers and trees today, is the only living pioneer botanist of Oregon, and his talk covered his early work. For 16 years he was head of the department of botany at the University of Idaho.

INFIRMARY HAS EIGHT

Hagan Moore, Marian Robbins, and Orval Thompson were admitted to the infirmary Thursday, and Katherine Popp, Elinor Clark, Charlotte Ulen, Everett Horrell, Charles McCormack, and Fred Staver still remained.

Lindbergh, Wife Urge Necessity of Silence Secrecy

Police Officials Refuse To Answer Questions on New Contacts

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 14—(AP)—The veil of secrecy which was lifted a bit recently to disclose portions of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's unsuccessful ransom negotiations, was suddenly and perhaps significantly, reimposed late today.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, said he had been requested not to answer questions about "contacts established or re-established" with the kidnapers because publication of such facts "would probably interfere with negotiations."

Today's reference to the "re-establishment of contacts" was interpreted as referring to the attempt of Dr. John F. Condon, 72-year-old educator, to get in communication again with the man to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom April 2 in the shadow of a Bronx cemetery.

Dr. Condon was asked if he thought the kidnapers local men because they seemed so familiar with that section of New York and he replied:

"I can't answer yes or no, but I want to tell you we are fighting the shrewdest band ever organized in the United States."

Colonel Henry Breckenridge, Lindbergh's attorney, appeared to consider the discovery of one of the ransom bills in New York last week so important a clue he held a long conference with New York police.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced that at the lawyer's request, detectives would attempt

World Fellowship Body Anticipates Good Year

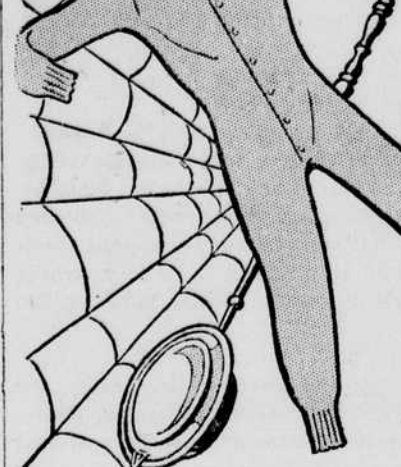

The most successful term of the year is anticipated by the World Fellowship group of Y. W. C. A. this spring, with a complete revision of committees and larger membership.

A meeting held at the bungalow last night concerned Hawaii and its people, a program led by Margaret Jamie and Mary Ella Hornung, freshmen from Honolulu.

Under Helen Binford, leader, the group has attracted many guests to its meetings, with the aid of such speakers as Nella Roster, Marcia Seiber, and Pik Wan Hoh. International relations, peace plans, and racial problems call for the most attention.

MUELLER TO LECTURE

Professor John H. Mueller will lecture before the American Association of University Women at Salem today on "Russia." The talk is scheduled for 1 p. m. at the Elks club.

Red Flannels and Bed Warmers have gone . . .

TIME WAS when the winter season brought out the old red flannels, the bed warmers—and a switch from fresh, crisp foods to hot, heavy dishes.

We've said good-bye to flannels and warming pans—thanks to modern steam-heated homes, closed cars and well-heated schools. However, a lot of folks still think that cool weather makes it necessary to eat heavy foods.

• But a change is taking place here too. More people every day are enjoying crisp, ready-to-serve cereals like Kellogg's Corn Flakes. And what a delightful difference it makes! Meals as crisp as summer itself! Delicious and healthful.

Try Kellogg's tomorrow for breakfast. Enjoy them with milk or cream and sliced bananas. Splendid for a bedtime snack. These crunchy flakes are so easy to digest they encourage restful sleep.

Get your favorite eating place to brighten the menu with Kellogg's.

Sez Sue SHOPPING COLUMN

And so we all lie ourselves to the "Frosh Glee." They say that sports clothes will be the order of the day. So come to the Eugene shops with "Sue" and she'll tell you where to get a sports outfit that'll be the cleverest at the dance!

Clear Crystal
Reflects the soft, low lights of the dance floor and adds greatly to one's charm. Lovely necklaces of genuine crystal fashioned and cut in attractive designs. Priced at one dollar and up, at Laraway's Jewelry Store. They also have clever pieces of novelty jewelry that can be worn with most everything. Dogs and elephant clips will add that distinct note of fashion to your sport clothes.

Spring Fever?
Not a bit of it! Spring to us means that it's time for sports again. So get out your golf clubs and dust off your tennis racket. And come into the Oregon Pharmacy, on the edge of the campus, for all the things you need. They have both tennis and golf balls. And they have colored glasses to protect your eyes from the sun's glare. And now that the millrace will be becoming so popular again, come to them for bathing caps. Remember, they have the campus agency for Western Union service.

At the Dance
Flowers add to the festivity. There's the Frosh Glee this week-end and lots of house dances coming up. The smart place to order your corsage is at the University Florist, straight down Thirteenth a couple of blocks. Don't forget, they'll give you the best quality flowers, straight from their greenhouses. When you have guests for dinner, order your centerpiece from them.

In the Spring
It's time for showers and weddings again. If you're at the point of distraction for a gift that's different and shows originality, the problem's solved! Come to The Oriental Art Shop, in the Eugene Hotel building, and let them help you select just the right gift. A metal lamp, cunningly devised, a Japanese print, a lovely bit of jewelry—they have a store of clever things to offer to you. You'll find just the right gift to please!

Accessories Make the Costume
—and hose are a very important item! You'll need a lovely new sheer pair to go with your spring formal, and perhaps several pair for campus and sports wear. Buster Brown's Shoe Store, on Willamette Street, has a new array of chiffon and service weight hose in all shades for just one dollar! Economical, yet the very best. Every pair replaced if not satisfactory!
