OREGON SPORTS

Oregon opens its Northern division baseball campaign against Oregon State at Corvallis Friday, providing, of course, the diamond there isn't under water by that time.

A Real Track Starr; More About the Admiral's Ark

By DICK NEUBERGER

THE flood tide at Hayward field reached a new high-water level yesterday and Admiral Reinhart hurriedly rushed forward plans for the construction of his ark. The breakers were booming off the break-water at McArthur court as the admiral met with his ship-building committee to make the necessary preparations for his project. Reinhart believes he has about two weeks in which to build a boat that will be seaworthy, having computed that the water will not be above the roof of the igloo until that time.

In the meantime, the admiral announces there will be surf-bathing at the baseball diamond every afternoon from 1 to 4. Beach patrols have been organized and those in charge say the dangers of drowning have been reduced to a bare minimum. Construction of the ark will start this afternoon on the top of McArthur court. The materials will be raised to that point by a crane.

Practically all the stateroom space on the "A" and "B" decks has been reserved already, but Admiral Reinhart says there are some choice inside rooms yet available. Mr. Omar Clyde Palmer, the celebrated chef, has spent the last two days getting the commissary ready. Everything is shipshape in the galley, announces Mr. Palmer, who promises A-No. 1 meals if he has to cook them himself.

So much for the ark. You will be kept informed upon the latest developments in its construction from time to time in this column.

This fellow Paul Starr is a star in action as well as name. His running performances against Oregon State Saturday were the feats of an iron-man. He ran on four of Oregon's five victorious teams and packed the baton every time a record was broken, the Webfoots smashing three marks. Oregon's little captain won all the heats he competed in, easily outdistancing the best dashmen the Beavers could send against him. He was by far the outstanding hero of the Webfoots' unexpected victory. Lanky Art Holman and Paul Bale also did some creditable work for the winners. For the Orangemen, Bill Mullins, a plucky half-mile, ran a nice 880 to help his team run away with the two-mile relay. A splendid sprint in the last 100 yards of his race enabled Mullins to bring in the baton far ahead of Oregon's runner.

The Webfoots' triumph was good medicine for Colonel Bill Hayward, who climbed out of bed to direct his men on the field. He went back home immediately after the meet, but yesterday Mrs. Hayward said he was much improved. Ed Moeller, the discus thrower, who coached the Oregon runners in the colonel's absence, did a fine job. Ed's ambition is to be a track coach and Colonel Hayward thinks he'll make a good one.

The most expensive baseball player ever to perform in this state has been sent to the Cleveland Indians by the Chicago White Sox. Chalmers (Bill) Cissell, who paraded in the Portland infield before he was sold to the Comiskey men for the stupendous price of $123,000, has left the team which paid almost an eighth of a million dollars for him. That's quite an investment for the Sox to let go. They never really did realize dividends on Cissell, either, for he batted an aggregate average of only .261 for them and his fielding was above average, but not exceptional.

The first conference baseball games this week-end, provided it stops raining, of course. The Webfoots perform at Oregon State Friday and then the two teams come over here Saturday. A good start against the Aggies would make Oregon's baseball outlook 100 per cent. Probably either Ossie Edwards, Ken Scales or Johnny Anderson will pitch the first game. Johnny seems to be the southpaw Admiral Reinhart has been wanting so badly.

Moeller Calls for Frosh Relay Meet Aspirants

All freshmen who will compete in the Oregon State relay carnival must report at Hayward field this afternoon, Ed Moeller, assistant track coach, announced last night. Moeller says it is absolutely necessary that every yearling who may participate in the meet be on hand promptly at 4.

ALL women who wish to enter the first women's campus golf tournament must signify their intentions to Florence Tennant sometime today. Miss Tennant can be reached at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house. She says there will be two divisions, one for those women who shoot above 50 and one for those whose scores are below the half-century mark. The qualifying rounds will be played Friday, Miss Tennant announces. Inasmuch as this is the first golf meet ever sponsored by the women, she requests a good turnout. She says it is imperative that all intending to enter should get in touch with her immediately.

Sigma Delta Psi Aspirants Warm Up Despite Rain

Cutler Lists Records for Athletic Honorary Competition

With the advent of fair and warm weather, interest in the activities of Sigma Delta Psi, national athletic fraternity, is at a higher pitch than it has been the last few months of cold climate, in which aspirants for entrance to the group could not practice on the outdoor event requirements.

Russ Cutler, who is director of the local chapter, urges prospective members to get in some training to pass any of the hurdles remaining which bar their entrance into the honorary. He also urges old members to try to improve their records in any of the tests.

The records in the individual events follow: 100 yard swim—1:02.8—held by Paul Lafferty. Handstand—61 seconds, held by Philip Dale.

100-yard dash—0:10.3, held by Hal Lewis. High jump—5 feet 10 inches, held by Bill Palmer.

Broad jump—20 feet, held by Bob Voegtly. 120-yard low hurdles—0:13.6, held by Art Holman.

Fence vault—5 feet 10 inches, held by Russ Cutler. Football punt—60 yards, held by Art Holman.

Sharkey Shouts 'Just One Sock!'

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Big and bellicose as ever, perhaps even more of both, Jack Sharkey drove into town today to express some of the strangest sentiments that ever fell from the lips of a prize fighter.

"I don't care," he said, "if there aren't ten people out to see me fight Max Schmeling June 16. I don't care if there's only two judges and the referee. All I want is one solid smack at the Dutchman."

Jimmy Johnston, little mogul of Madison Square Garden's boxing world, stared at him in amazement.

"But John," he gasped. "You mean . . . you don't . . . not no cash customers . . ."

Sharkey was very firm about it. "In these times there won't be many cash customers anyway. You aren't fooling anybody talking about $1,000,000 gates and 80,000 people. I don't care whether anybody comes, except Schmeling. I'll ruin him."

WHITMAN BEATS IDAHO

MOSCOW, Idaho, April 26.—(AP)—Bunching their hits in the fourth and fifth innings, the Whitman college Missionaries took their seventh straight game of the season, from the University of Idaho baseball team here today. The score was 8 to 7.

In the fourth inning, Hector, Whitman short stop, hit a home run with two on bases. They play again tomorrow. The score: Whitman 8 7 2 Idaho 7 13 4 Clow and Dudgeon; Lacey, Jacobs and Mac Nalley.

Soft Ball Tilts Unharmd By Precipitation

All Slated Games Played Yesterday at Last

Fiji, Yeomen, SAM, Theta Chi, Pi Kap, Phi Psi, Beta, Alpha Upsilon Win

TODAY'S DONUT SCHEDULE No contests of any kind will be played this afternoon.

For the first time in several days, each and every soft ball game in the intramural tournament was played yesterday. With the relenting of the rain, all the slated frays went off according to schedule. No donut activities are on the program today.

Closer and more tightly played tilts were in evidence, and not a game of the runaway vintage was displayed. The Fiji nine beat Sigma hall, 6 to 1. The Yeomen slugged the greatest numbers of runs earned by any one team yesterday, when they downed the Sigma Nu squad by a score of 16 to 6.

The Sigma Alpha Mu tossers downed Sigma Chi, 6 to 3, in a hard fought struggle. The Betas were in possession of a shutout victory as a result of the stellar pitching of Preston Gunther, who tamed the Kappa Sigma batters to gain a 2-0 conquest.

Theta Chi won a ball game without so much as handling the pellet by taking a forfeited fray from the Zeta hall aggregation. Alpha Tau Omega splashed to a conquest in the mud over Pi Kappa Alpha and entered a game on the right side of the ledger, the final score being 8 to 4.

Phi Kappa Psi trimmed the Alpha hall combination to the tune of a 9-5 success, while the Alpha Upsilon swatters were sending Sigma Pi Tau down to defeat, 7 to 5.

Summary of the games: Fiji 6, Sigma hall 1. Batteries: Johnson and West; Wiltshire and Ruff.

Yeomen 16, Sigma Nu 6. Batteries: Schneider and Wicks; Deuel and Fisher.

S. A. M. 6, Sigma Chi 3. Batteries: Golschmidt and Rotenberg; Will and Sherman.

Beta 2, Kappa Sig 0. Batteries: Gunther and Hug; Weed and Stocker.

A. T. O. 8, Pi Kap 4. Batteries: Lake and Pope; White, Cuppoletti and Kiel.

Phi Psi 9, Alpha hall 5. Batteries: Burnett and Sleeter; Peterson and Goodyear.

Alpha Upsilon 7, S. P. T. 5. Batteries: Henderson and Mauzey; Short and Marlatt.

Willamette Wallops OSC In Pre-Season Clash

SALEM, Ore., April 26.—(AP)—Behind three-hit pitching of Andy Peterson, the Willamette university baseball team defeated Oregon State college here today, 6 to 2, tying up the series. A third game will be played at Corvallis tomorrow.

Peterson struck out 12 batsmen. Oregon State 2 3 2 Willamette 6 8 3 Hughes, Woodard and Keema; Peterson and McCann.

Stimson Will Try To End Deadlock

GENEVA, April 26.—(AP)—An attempt to smash the disarmament conference deadlock will be made Friday at a meeting of the "Big Five" statesmen which was arranged today largely through the efforts of Secretary of State Henry Stimson.

Much significance was attached here to Premier Andre Tardieu's decision to attend. A deadlock has resulted from the division of the conference into two camps. Heading one faction are the French who hold that the way to handle the disarmament program is for each nation to contribute arms and ammunition to an international police force supervised by the League of Nations. Bruening and the United States are the leaders of the other faction, whose thesis is there should be specific reductions in certain classes of arms by each nation.

Reinhart Drills Swatters For Annual Tilt With Orangemen

Individual Instruction Is Given Hurlers for O.S.C. Series

Jack O'Brien's frosh baseball team will tangle with Salem high school tonight at 3:30 sharp.

By BOB RIDDLE

Wonder of wonders! The proverbial Jupiter Pluvius became chicken-hearted and allowed Admiral Reinhart's baseball squad its first real chance in over a week to work out before the first of the traditional series with the Oregon State Beavers at Corvallis today.

Admiral Reinhart was quick in taking advantage of the break, too, and tutored the boys through a stiff three-hour drill which lasted until 6:30 p. m., when it was finally decided that in order to play any longer it would be necessary to install field lights. Admiral Bill decided that this act would not make such a hit with the board of higher education so he called a halt, much to the disgust of the players.

Most of the individual instruction in yesterday's practice was given to the pitchers. Anderson, Edwards, Scales, Donin, and Charles worked in order, and showed lots of stuff. Anderson, ex-thrower, worked in the old-fashioned style, and the only left-hander on the pitching staff, showed most of the tutoring. He showed a big variety of balls but was inclined to be a trifle wild. Plenty is expected of him before the season is far advanced.

Ossie Edwards was next in line and had the batters popping easy flies during his brief sojourn on the mound. His fast ball was zooming in with unusual accuracy and his curves were breaking perfectly. He is almost a sure bet to hurl in one of the games of the State series. Ken Scales, sole lefterman from last year's team, followed Edwards to the mound, and strutted his usual stuff. He is another sure starter.

The remaining chuckers, Ed Charles and Ike Donin, though hit lustily at the start, settled down and finished in great style. Charles lacks the variety of balls thrown by some of the other hurlers, but his peculiar delivery stands him in good stead, and he should develop into quite a winner. Donin relies mostly on a fast ball, and though he is inclined to be rather wild in streaks he will doubtlessly be heard from this season.

Infield practice took up the remainder of the drill. It is a sure thing that the Webfoots will have plenty of spirit in their line-up if nothing else, and that is what it takes to win ball games. The other big factor considered on a winning team is experience and in this respect Reinhart's crew is far from lacking, with eight of the nine positions filled by veterans. Chester, Londahl, Stevens, and Potter are all old infield stand-bys, not to exclude "Duke" Shaneman, catcher extraordinary, who is proving the work-horse of the outfit. He seems to never tire of keeping up the old chatter, and is proving a great source of consolation to his pitchers. He is also swinging a wicked bat in practice tilts.

In Oregon State the Webfoots will meet a team of considerable prowess. Bad weather has also been playing them tricks, but the Beavers have managed to get in one practice game with the Willamette Bearcats, and were victorious, 3-2, although Peterson, Willamette pitcher, struck out 23 State men. Admiral Reinhart has yet to see his men in action this year, but is far from downcast. Good weather for the two games should work as a stimulus to the ball club.

Yeomen Find Way to Finals In Net Rivalry

Donut Championship To Be Played Tomorrow

Independents To Vie With Phi Delt Racketeers For Tennis Title

The Yeomen swung their way into the finals of the intramural tennis tournament yesterday when they trounced the Chi Psi netmen, three matches to none. The victors will battle their arch-rivals, the Phi Delt, tomorrow to decide the championship in the racket event.

Their victory brought the Independents, to the finals in the tennis competition for the second season in a row, but the Zeta hall aggregation overcame them in the final argument last year.

In the singles fray, Lloyd Gordnier, playing his first tournament battle for the conquerors, outlasted George Babson and won two out of three sets, 6-2, 6-8, 6-0. Gordnier took the first set easily, but his opponent came to life in the second session. The victor got his second wind in the deciding heat and galloped into a victory.

The first doubles team of the Yeomen, composed of Tom Mountain and Del Thom, disposed of John Guild and Bob Trimm in easy fashion to gain a 6-3, 6-3 conquest. The victors outclassed the Chi Psi tandem team by their superior all-around play.

Dick Dallas and Ingram Kjosness, the Independents' second duo, sent Paul Austin and Don Thompson of the Chi Psi squad down to defeat, 6-3, 7-5.
