

Dean Faville Is Honored At Big Banquet Here

Tribute Paid Business Administration Head

Students, Faculty Group Gather for Third Affair of Kind

By THORNTON SHAW
On the eve of his retirement as head of the school of business administration, Dean David E. Faville was honored last night with a banquet at the Osburn hotel. More than 100 students and faculty members were present to give their good wishes to the dean.

This banquet was the third of its kind this term, Dean Eric W. Allen and Dean Henry D. Sheldon having been honored at similar affairs earlier in the term. Like its predecessors, this banquet was a surprise to the honor guest.

Depression Lacking
The spirit of depression which so commonly marks farewell parties was notably lacking at the banquet, which was largely humorous from beginning to end, including speeches, programs, and all.

Telegrams, purported to be from such notables as Will Rogers, Herbert Hoover, Aimee Semple McPherson, James J. Rolph, and Dean Hugh Jackson, were read by the "master toaster" (toastmaster), Daniel D. Gage. Attempts to confirm these telegrams last night proved fruitless.

Miss Hedges Speaks
Janice Hedges ("cinnamon toast"), who was the first speaker on the program, exhibited a chart showing astounding increase in the percentage of women students in the University with the coming of Dean Faville. She ended with a

New Playground Opened to Public

A novel playground, situated on 13th and Hilyard streets, consisting of a ping-pong court and a nine-hole golf course, said to be the only one of its kind in the country, was opened to the public Saturday under the management of Milt Bristol, brother of Al Bristol of the multigraph department of the University.

The manager is making arrangements for a state ping pong tournament to be held at the playground some time this summer. Consent and cooperation of the ping pong association of Portland is being sought for the materialization of the plan.

It was also learned yesterday that an inter-society and inter-fraternity tourney will be conducted under the auspices of the new recreation ground some time this week. Prizes will be offered for the winners.

Art Student Chooses Fresco Work For Graduate Thesis

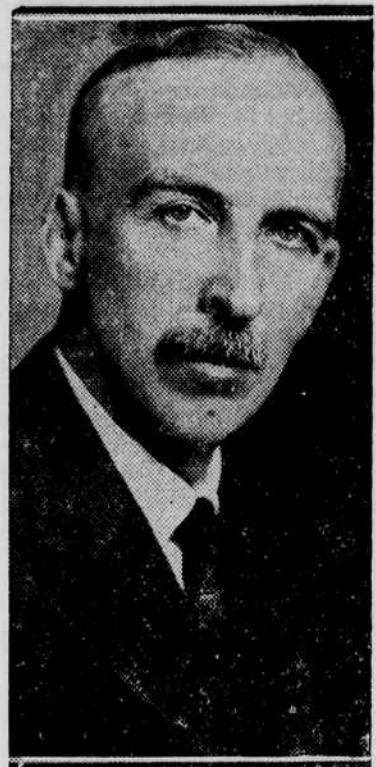

By ROSE HIMELSTEIN
Those who have gazed upon the painted figures on the walls in the corridor of the art building and wondered about the theme of the drawings will learn that this form of mural decoration is called fresco. Lucia Wiley, graduate student, has selected this interesting decorative theme as her thesis.

"Fresco is the oldest type of wall painting," Miss Wiley explained. "These paintings are accomplished by applying water color on wet plaster. And do you know, that this phase of art was used in early tomb paintings in Crete, Greece and India and on all primitive forms of art?"

"It was also used by the foremost artists of the middle centuries. Michael Angelo, Raphael, and Giotto used this form of painting," she said.

"The amusing thing about the fresco work," Miss Wiley continued, "is that there is a chemical

Honored

Dean Henry D. Sheldon, of the school of education, to whom the 1932 Oregonian, issued yesterday, is dedicated. Dean Sheldon retires from his position at the end of this year. He was honored at a banquet last week in recognition of his service to the University.

Barnes To Give Advance Lecture On Beggar's Opera

Politics of MacHeath's Era To Be Subject of Talk Tomorrow Night

"Politics, Politicians, and Statesmen at the Time of the Beggar's Opera" is to be the subject of a serious (hear! hear!) lecture at Villard hall at 7:30 tomorrow night by Dr. Donald Barnes, of the University of Washington, paving the way for Friday's presentation of the Beggar's Opera.

The hear! hear! in parenthesis is a direct quotation from Dean Eric W. Allen of the school of journalism. Dean Allen recalls Dr. Barnes as the A-one wise-cracker of this campus when he was in the history department here.

But the lecture will be serious "in so far as Dr. Barnes may be willing to live up to the ideals of the committee on Free Intellectual Activities which is sponsoring the lecture. It will cover the period 1720-1730, the background of the opera."

"Dr. Barnes is a debonaire, youngish (and always will be) professor of the man about town type," Dean Allen said yesterday. (Continued on Page Two)

Law Students To Desert Books for Sport Dance

Law books will rest on their shelves in darkness tonight when members of the law school association gather at Midway for their annual spring sport dance. Abbie Green and his band will play for the dance and Billy Slevers will contribute the feature numbers.

The committee in charge includes John Yerkovich, chairman, Francis Cheney, Bill Bartle, Francis Hill and Art Ireland. Members of the law school faculty will be included in the guest list.

Opposition to Kerr Expected At Forum Meet

Steering Group Draws Recommendations

Resolutions on Docket for Meeting of Group on Thursday Night

Proposals that the student parliament should go on record as opposing the candidacy of Dr. Kerr, president of Oregon State college, for the position of chancellor of schools of higher education in Oregon; that the parliament should declare itself as working toward definite legislative power; and that the A. S. U. O. should supply the materials for the conduct of its business, were selected by the steering committee of the student parliament yesterday as the basis for discussion at the meeting of the newly formed body tomorrow night.

Committee Proposals Listed

The proposals are: "The Student Parliament of the University of Oregon, representing the entire student body of the University of Oregon, hereby goes on record as opposing the choice of either Dr. Hall or Dr. Kerr for the resultant institution of the combination of the two schools (Oregon State college and the University of Oregon). This resolution is passed upon the following considerations:

1. As the president of each institution in has been an active participant in interschool rivalry, the inevitable result of the appointment of either would be an injustice to the other division of the new institution.

2. We openly condemn the action of the Oregon State College Alumni association as bearing characteristics of predatory political action, exempt from any interest in the state institutions of higher learning as a whole.

3. That in respect to matters affecting the life of students at the University, hearings be allowed accredited representatives of the undergraduate student body of the University of Oregon.

Shack Number Is No Longer Puzzle To County Clerk

What is the street number of the journalism shack? That was what Walter B. Dilard, '00, county clerk of Lane county, wanted to know recently.

It seems that the street number of polling places must be known by the county clerk's office in order to designate exactly where they are. The Shack is to be used for the first time as a voting place for Eugene precinct 12 in the approaching primaries.

No one at the journalism building knew its correct address, but a call to the city engineer revealed that if it had a number on it, that number would be exactly 1200.

For the further guidance of townspeople and students who are voters in precinct 12—which stretches from Alder street nearly to the city limits between 13th avenue and the mill-race—and who don't happen to know where the Shack is, George E. M. York, superintendent of buildings and grounds, will put a sign on the journalism building.

High Hat Rent Library Adds Three New Books

Those afflicted with spring fever will find the new books that have arrived at the High Hat rent library appropriate "medicine."

There are two mystery thrillers that will brighten up the dull moments. One novel is by Agatha Christie, famous for her mystery stories, called "Peril at End House" and the other one is "The Greek Coffin Mystery" by E. Queen Ellery, who presents a new deductive problem even stranger than "The Dutch Shoe Mystery."

Those who care for Louis Bromfield, will find his new novel, "A Modern Hero," an interesting one, which deals with the rise and fall of a financial adventurer.

ADS Pledges Will Sport 'Sandwiches' During Initiations

FOUR men will be seen about the campus today in various kinds of clothing and ringing various kinds of bells to call attention to the advertising sandwich boards which they will be wearing. Harry Schenk, president of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising honorary fraternity, announced last night.

The four men are Mahr Remyers, Auten Bush, Tom Tongue, and Bob Hall.

At 10:50 these men will be seen on the library steps where they will deliver their comic speeches.

The initiation itself will take place during the annual advertising conclave taking place on the campus this week-end.

These conclaves are arranged by Alpha Delta Sigma together with Gamma Alpha Chi, national women's advertising honorary.

Oregon Educators To Speak on NBC Circuit Tomorrow

Pres. Hall, Dean Gilbert, Hugh Rosson Slated For KPO Program

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, and Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, and Hugh Rosson, graduate manager, will speak on the Western Intercollegiate Broadcast over NBC-KPO network stations Thursday, May 12, from 2 to 2:30 p. m., P. S. T. Dr. Hall will speak on "The Place of a University in the Program of the State." His talk will touch upon the function of a university in developing a research program of benefit to the citizens of the state and the influence of a good university upon the development of future citizens.

The remaining 15 minutes of the (Continued on Page Two)

Six Named Heads Of WAA Festival

Plans for the annual W. A. A. Strawberry festival are definitely getting under way with the appointment yesterday of six chairman by Mildred Ringo, general chairman of the affair.

Those appointed were finances, Alice Madsen; orchestra, Margaret Morrison; strawberries and ice cream, Harriet Seltzer; properties, Bernice Wainwright; posters, Frances Haberlach; and publicity, Virginia Wentz.

The festival has been scheduled for next Tuesday, May 17, and will take place on the faculty tennis courts, if the weather permits. It is sponsored by W. A. A. each year. Fresh strawberry sundaes will be served and dancing will provide for entertainment. Further plans will be announced later, Miss Ringo said.

Let's Smoke Out The Darn Prudes, Curses Charley

Birth control talk emerged from alleys and by-ways and came smack before the American Medical association convention yesterday. Used to be immoral to even think of it. And Margaret Sanger was a name to frighten girls with.

Looks as if medicine will fall in with the clergy and advocate common sense legislation on contraceptive information. The ethical doctors are entitled to a break.

Proponents declare birth control will solve many economic and social problems: lower mortality rates, reduce immorality, eliminate the physically and mentally defective.

But maybe we want mental defectives. Strong, healthy horses are OK, but when it comes to homo sapien I'm afraid our statesmen might worry.

Frankly, WEBFOOT CHARLEY

Oregon Lineup Shifted For Tilt With Idahoans

Reinhart Not Satisfied With Team's Showing

Two-Game Series Opens Against Vandals This Afternoon at 4

By BOB RIDDLE

When the Idaho Vandals cross bats with the Oregon Webfoots today they will meet a decidedly revamped Duck lineup, for Bill Reinhart is very much displeased with the showing of his proteges in the past series with Oregon State and the Washington State Cougars. The Webfoots will meet Idaho in the first of their two game series on Reinhart field today at 4 p. m.

For the past two days Bill has been experimenting with his boys in order to mold together a team that will function both afield and at bat. In late practice sessions the made-over nine has been doing just that, but as to what it will do in fast company is yet to be seen. With eight lettermen to work with the Oregon varsity should be accomplishing far more than it has to date, so Reinhart is out to discover the reason for its slump.

Mimnaugh at Second

The most radical change is at second base, where "Tex" Mimnaugh has been moved from his old berth at right field. Mimnaugh played at the keystone sack two years ago so should be right at home as soon as he becomes accustomed to the post. Mike Mikulak will move from left to right field to fill the vacant position, and probably Cliff Horner will take left field. "Slug" Palmer was slated to hold down center, but turned up with a bad case of poison oak which will probably keep him on the bench. Either Ken Scales, a (Continued on Page Two)

International Bank Closes Books With Profitable Record

Stockholders Decried Tariff Walls as Barrier to World Prosperity

BASEL, Switzerland, May 10.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Bank for International Settlements today closed their books upon a profitable year—despite financial troubles the world around—and approved a report declaring that no single nation can reasonably hope to recover good times in isolation from the rest of the world.

Gates W. McGarrath, president of the bank, told the annual stockholders' meeting that the "international monetary system cannot function properly" so long as international balances and payments are continually upset by changes in tariff barriers.

Financial leaders of the world, including the governors of 20 central banks and the representatives (Continued on Page Two)

Recital To Feature Concerto Excerpts

Five women students of George Hopkins will appear in a joint piano recital at the music auditorium tomorrow evening, it is announced from the school of music.

It is to be a piano concerto recital, and each of the recitalists will play not more than two movements from well-known concertos by great composers. Those who will take part in the program are Betty Evanson, Carolyn Haberlach, Edith Grim, Gladys Foster and Edouise Ballis.

All of these students are well known, Miss Foster and Miss Ballis having already appeared in recital this year, and Miss Haberlach scheduled to give her senior recital next week.

To this, the most unusual recital program of the year, is added the feature that Mr. Hopkins will play an orchestral accompaniment for each concerto on a second piano. It will not be a two-piano recital, however, Mr. Hopkins' role being confined to supplementary accompaniment.

The program is to begin at 8, and will be free to students and the public.

Kerr Not Chancellor Candidate

Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of Oregon State college, who has been "hoomed" for the position of chancellor of Oregon's higher educational system by O. S. C. alumni, told the Emerald last night that he has never been a candidate for the position. Additional comments on the chancellorship were few and far between.

House Managers Discuss Affiliated Buying Possibility

Action on Unified Purchase Of Foodstuffs Plan Is Expected Tomorrow

Action on the Affiliated Buyers central purchasing plan presented to fraternity and sorority house managers yesterday afternoon, will be taken Thursday, May 19, Roy Brown, president, announced.

Ralph Walstrom discussed the proposed group buying plan before the house managers, pointing out that savings could be made if the Greek-letter living organizations were to unite and buy foodstuffs in connection with the University dormitories under the guidance of the state purchasing agent.

Ubangi Savages In Barnes' Circus Sure Drink Beer

A case of beer a day and all goes well with the Ubangi savages who appeared here yesterday with the A. G. Barnes circus. No beer, no work, so beer they have and the show rolls on.

Three saucer-lipped women, the wives of a tall, marked-faced Ubangi gentleman, stole the show from the wild animals who have heretofore been the "hit."

The Ubangi hall from the hot zone of Africa where the mercury stays around 150. Oregon climate is not to their liking, and when they appear on a platform in the menagerie tent, they don themselves in robes and see to it that a stove is lending heat.

The four African beer drinkers lead an easy life. Twice daily they appear before the circus audience and, while mulling a mixed jargon, try to sell pamphlets telling of their native customs. They are unable to speak English. French is their language, but even students of that language would find it hard to understand what they mean to say.

The circus management has been granted permission by the French government to exhibit the Ubangis.

Clay Chosen Member of Parliament by Pledges

Chuck Clay, junior in pre-law, was chosen to represent Skull and Dagger, sophomore service honorary, pledges, in the student parliament, at a meeting of that body last night.

Discussion was held at a meeting on a proposed picnic trip up the McKenzie river with pledges of Kwama, women's service honorary. According to present plans the trip will take place some time within the next week.

Kerr Silent On His Action If Post Is Offered

Repeats He Has Never Been Candidate

O.S.C. Head Refuses To Eliminate Self as Possibility

By STEPHEN KAHN

As enigmatic as the famous "I do not choose to run" phrase of Calvin Coolidge, was the declaration made yesterday by Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of Oregon State college. In a long distance telephone interview with the Emerald last night he confirmed his previous statement, "I have never been a candidate for the position of chancellor."

When the quotation was read back to him he signified his emphatic approval with a decisive "That's all right."

Kerr Dodges Questions

Despite his vigorous affirmation that "he has never been a candidate," Dr. Kerr refused to definitely answer the question, "Would you accept the chancellorship were it offered to you?" He hesitated a moment and replied, "I would rather not discuss that subject."

In response to the inquiry, "Do you favor the plan of the state board of higher education to secure an outside man?" Dr. Kerr swiftly answered, "I don't care to discuss the chancellorship at all."

Whether the Oregon State president would enter any objection to the possible endorsement of Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall for the chancellorship was not revealed. "I'd rather not say," he countered.

Quiet on Consolidation

Dr. Kerr would neither endorse or criticize the contemplated plan of the Marion County Tax Equalization league to initiate a petition for the consolidation of the University and the college on the Corvallis campus. "All I know about it," he said, "is what appears in the papers, and I have no comment at all. I don't want to get into controversial matters at all. I have nothing to say."

Football Player Goes Upon Operating Table

James A. Gemlo, member of the freshman football squad, was operated on yesterday afternoon for acute appendicitis by Dr. A. F. Sether at the Pacific Christian hospital.

Gemlo was still under the influence of the anesthetic late last night. His condition was pronounced "good."

Gemlo is a native of Minneapolis, Minnesota. His friends are keeping his family informed.

Thacher Asked To Lead At Advertising Confab

W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and advertising, has been asked to take charge of the educational departmental and student conference for the annual convention of the Pacific Advertising Clubs association, to be held in Vancouver, B. C., early in July.

Mr. Thacher originated the educational department seven years ago, and was in charge of the same feature when the convention was held in Portland in 1927.

Beggar's Opera Scheduled For Friday and Saturday

By PARKS HITCHCOCK

The theatre-going audiences will taste a bit of the gay, naughty, and satirical comedy when they gather to see the Beggar's Opera, vivacious musical work to be presented Friday and Saturday nights at the school of music auditorium. The entire production is under the supervision of S. Stephenson Smith.

From blustering, braggadocio MacHeath, the swagger highwayman, to small-souled, petty "Mr. Peachum, the entire range of characters are portrayed, encased in a fantastical finery of setting and costume that that grand old age of "Merrie England" was alone capable of bringing forth.

Some of the finest voices in the state are displayed in the rollicking and naughty ballads and songs of the period. Buck Nash, gifted baritone will carry the lead. Others in the cast are S. Stephenson Smith, Guy Wernham, Agnes Petzold, and many of the other leaders in campus vocal circles.

The whole production is transformed in a dreamy metamorphosis into that fragrant and lacy age when people took their time and did things in a delicate manner and a delightful way.

In conjunction with the presentation a serenade conducted by the men's choruses is planned, probably for Thursday night.

This is the first operative venture that the campus has ever embarked upon and promises local theatre-goers a genuine touch of that bon vivant era when the opera was the life and expression of the aesthetic music-lover.

Tickets are on sale at the Co-op and at McMorran and Washburne's at popular prices.
