By DICK NEUBERGER
This is going to be short and sweet. It's about yesterday's baseball game with the Washington Huskies and the less said the better and deserves excepting, of course, Mr. Lamar Gaw who pitched a fine game for the visitors and deserves a little publicity for his efforts.

In case you Tubby Graves haven't heard already, our distinguished guests won 3 to 0. Mr. Gaw, a brother of the Celebrated Wilson Gaw, who hit a home run last spring in his first appearance as a pinch-hitter for the Seattle Indians, hurled masterfully. He confined Oregon to five hits, three of which were accumulated by Cliff Potter, who took Johnny Londahl's place on third base.

It's No Use
Ken Scales was the victim. It was the third time this season that Ken has suffered when his associates failed to give him any help in the way of runs. It's a crying shame for a pitcher as good as Ken to be forced to get along with the support he's been accorded this year. Potter, with his hitting, and Londahl and Shaneman, the cumbersome catcher, with some creditable fielding and catching, tried to help him along, but they couldn't do it all.

The Huskies opened the proceedings in the second inning. Therein Red Hutchinson doubled and romped home when Weber knocked a single which Horner fumbled in left field. No further activity occurred until the eighth when the lively visitors produced two more runs. Nelson opened with a walk. He was followed by Lee who singled. Nelson scored on Anshutz' bunt, and Lee came in on another

Nurses Get Rest; Infirmary Breaks Five-Year Record

BUSINESS was bad around the infirmary yesterday. Nurses moved listlessly about, seeking in vain for a mouth to shove a thermometer into or a pulse to take.

There were none. For the first time in five years, the University infirmary was absolutely sans patients.

The three survivors who had been holding down the beds answered the call of spring early yesterday and, carrying their nighties under their arms, walked out to greet the May sunshine. They were Betty McRobbie, Dorothy Andrade and Ross Smith.

Lecture on Jazz Will Swell Funds For Tennis Team

S. Stephenson Smith's Talk Tomorrow Will Send Net Stars to Seattle

As part of a program to finance the tennis season, S. Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English, will speak in Villard assembly hall at 11 tomorrow morning on "Jazz, the Music of Today."

A nominal admission charge of 10 cents will be levied. All money taken in will be used to send the Oregon tennis squad to Seattle this week-end for matches with the University of Washington. Since the elimination of tennis as a University-backed sport, an organized attempt has been made under the voluntary leadership of Mr. Smith to make the tennis squad self-supporting. This is the first development of his plan.

In addition to Mr. Smith's talk, a talented staff will aid him in the presentation of the program. Josephine Rice will render many selections from the works of John Alden Carpenter's "Krazy Kat," and George Gershwin's "American in Paris." Sally Addelman, soprano, recently featured as Mrs. Peachum in the "Beggars' Opera," will sing selections from the leading "blues" songs.

Vinton Hall has promised to give some jazz arrangements of popular songs on the piano.

In his lecture, Mr. Smith will endeavor to trace the relation between jazz music and the music modernistic and also all of the modernistic trends in the arts and literature.

The layman is assured, however, that there will be nothing technical or unduly highbrow in the talk. If the program is successful other money-raising measures will be provided for in the future to get matches with Oregon State and other tennis-minded schools.

Announcement of the new appointments will be made some time early next week. Fewer section assistants will be used this year than in the past. Assistants for the sororities, fraternities, seniors, honoraries, sports, and school year sections will be the only ones selected.

Assassination of Japanese Laid to Militaristic Greed

The recent assassination of Premier Suoyoshi Inukai by Japanese officers and cadets seems to be a warning to all politicians in Japan that the slightest failure to obey the mandate of the militarists will result in the most terrible consequences to themselves, Dr. Harold J. Noble of the history department, an authority on Far Eastern questions, said in an interview yesterday.

"The murder of the Japanese premier," he declared, "should convince the most skeptical that Japan's policy since last September has been largely directed by the military cliques rather than by the civil authorities."

Whether the assassination will result in eventual establishment of military dictatorship, he stated, or whether it will cause such a revulsion of feeling in Japan that the power of the militarists will be broken, is impossible to foretell at the present moment.

Dr. Noble explained that the Minseitō party, of which the murdered premier was the head, advocates friendly relations with

China, while the Seiyukai party which is now in power under the leadership of Kishiburo Suzuki, who is slated to be the new premier of the empire, stands for a positive policy—using military action if necessary.

Dr. Noble said that under the new government, and with the pressure from the military groups, the bombardment and attack in Shanghai was carried out in February and March. But owing to a combination of economic forces and a world-wide condemnation, the Japanese government agreed to withdraw its Shanghai forces (many of which are transferred to Manchuria for action there).

"This relinquishment of the Shanghai gains which is apparent evidence that Inukai's government doesn't and can't plan to continue its aggression in Central China, appears to have been viewed by ultra-reactionary younger members of Japan's armed forces as a betrayal of their program; and in consequence, they have murdered the man who aggressively has been carrying out their ambitions," Professor Noble concluded.

Lindy Not Fooled By Curtis' Story 'Jafsie' Testifies

Dobson-Peacock Expected To Be Questioned by Police Today

BULLETIN
TRENTON, N. J., May 17.—(AP)—It was learned from an authoritative source tonight that a request had been dispatched from the attorney general's office to Dean H. Dobson-Peacock at Norfolk, Va., asking if he could come here "colatorially" for questioning on the Lindbergh case.

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP)—The "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnaping case said tonight neither he nor Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been "taken in" by John Hughes Curtis and his story of contact with the abductors.

"I knew it all the time and so did the colonel," said the educator who on April 2 tossed a package containing $50,000 ransom to a man on the other side of a New York cemetery wall.

"The colonel knew that I was the only one who had the real contact, which was proven through the symbols, the suit and the pins." Dr. Condon apparently referred to the three tokens by which he said he was sure he was dealing with the actual kidnapers—the cabalistic signature of the original ransom note, the sleeping suit the baby had worn when stolen and pins with which the child's undergarments were attached.

"This is what broke my contact," Dr. Condon continued, as he dug into a pocket and produced a newspaper clipping bearing the headline: "Curtis says Colonel Lindbergh authorizes him to pay $100,000."

"The kidnapers saw that story and thought there was a chance of getting more money," he added.

Dr. Condon said he thought there was a chance he might have been able to persuade the kidnapers to return the baby alive without the payment of any money, had he been able to get in contact with them early enough in the case.

"We know plenty that has not come out yet," he said cryptically.

He said his motives for acting in the case were "patriotism," the home, school, state and society."

In reply to a question about whether he ever had been afraid of the kidnapers, Dr. Condon said: "No. They broke contact with me when the baby was about to be returned and placed me in a position of discredit in the eyes of the country."

Fisherman Shoots Bass From Tree With Gun

WALLACE, Idaho, May 17.—(AP)—Earl Elstone, out fishing, shot a four-pound bass out of a pine tree with a shotgun.

Shearer Appoints Directorate for Freshman Picnic

Time, Setting for Yearling Event Is Scheduled; Meeting Called

Complete plans and appointments for the annual freshman class picnic were released yesterday by Dick Shearer, general chairman of the event.

The affair will be held Friday, May 27, at Swimmer's Delight, local amusement resort. The picnic is the final yearling class activity and in past years has been the scene of a great deal of activity between freshman and sophomore classes.

Committee heads named by Shearer yesterday include: assistant chairman, Hartley Kneeland; secretary, Helen Scruggs; publicity, Parks Hitchcock; grounds, Grant Thuemmel; refreshments, Nancy Archbold; patrons, Cynthia Liljequist; dance, Bob Hart; transportation, Bill Davis.

Pre-Law Students Issue Challenge

Pre-law students, meeting last night at the Craftsmen's club in their first official session, issued a challenge to members of the law school to a kitenball game to be played early next week.

The game will be the first step, declared Tom Tongue, president of the underclassmen's association, in the program to awaken more close contact between the pre-law majors and the students of the law school.

Carlton E. Spencer, professor of law, gave an informal address, pointing out the necessity of a close relationship between pre-law subjects and the regular law curriculum.

Charley Offers Political Advice To Mr. Hoover

Hard at Work
Every one from the president down has swung into action on the Lindbergh case.

Clues are as plentiful as wheat in Dakota, and about just as valuable. Every police force from Hohokus to Walla Walla has been deluged with hot tips. You can't stir out of the house without stepping on a Lindbergh investigator.

Like all other prospering enterprises, the kidnaping has now been afflicted with the great American racket. For $50,000 anyone would have told you where the baby was; and now for half that sum they'll hand over the murderers.

The presidential proclamation was hot stuff for Hoover. Got him all the votes in Hopewell. All he has to do now is find the murderers and the rest of the nation will vote for him.

Parzych Tells Story of Lindy Baby Abduction

Man Claims To Be One Of Kidnapers

Names of Other Members Of Gang Revealed in Long Questioning

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP)—Frank Parzych, 30, who told police here today he and five other men kidnaped the Lindbergh baby, was questioned for hours at police headquarters and then taken by a corps of detectives to an undisclosed destination.

An effort was made to reach Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of New Jersey state police, before Parzych was taken from police headquarters after 8:30 p. m. in a department car.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan and two detective captains rode in the same car. Their machine was followed by another filled with detectives.

Story Is Doubtful
Police earlier said Parzych, who was arrested on a wife abandonment charge, admitted being a narcotic user and that he had been drinking heavily. Although they said they doubted the truth of his story, they started to check its details.

The prisoner at first gave his name as Frank Smith but later admitted he was Frank Parzych, 30. His story was said by Police Mulrooney to be substantially as follows:

A few months ago, while he was working on a rum runner, an occupation he pursued for eight months, he and five other men plotted to kidnap the Lindbergh baby. When their craft put into land, they went to a town in Long Island, where they made the ladder to reach the nursery window.

Details Recounted
The ladder was made in two parts and was of maple, Parzych believed. In a gray automobile, he and his companions drove to Hopewell. Parzych waited at the

Hopkins' Pupils Plan Two-Piano Recital Thursday

Eight Students To Appear In Concert Event in Music Building

Rivaling in unusualness the piano-concerto recital given by several of George Hopkins' students recently, eight of Jane Thacher's piano students will present a program of two-piano music at the music auditorium Thursday night, it is announced from the music school.

They will be assisted by Robert Gould, organist, who will accompany Miss Johnson in the first movement of a Mendelssohn concerto for piano and organ.

Those who will play together, in the order in which they will appear on the program, are: Helene Ferris and Helen Ferris; Aimee Sten and Mary Galey; Lois Johnson and Norma Lyon; Maude Stehn and Margaret Atwood.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock and will be over by 9. There will be no admission charge.

Wife Seeks McLean's Removal as Co-Trustee

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)—Through a bank president and newspaper executives, an attempt was made today to prove that a court should remove Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, as co-trustee of the vast estate left by his father, the late John R. McLean.

The suit was filed in the District of Columbia supreme court for McLean's three minor children by their mother, Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, daughter of the late Thomas Walsh, western mining magnate, who himself left millions.

Women Pay for Loss in Emerald Contest with Party

TONIGHT, from 8 to 10:30, the usual buzzing of typewriters at the Emerald newsroom will be quieted, copy, paper, pencils, and everything pertaining to news will be cast definitely aside and gaiety will reign supreme.

Having lost in the recent contest between the men and women in putting out the Emerald, the women, in keeping with tradition, will honor the men with a party. Everything has been arranged to make the affair a real tribute to the work displayed by the men in issuing the Emerald totally unaided by female hands, according to those in charge of the party.

All students who worked on either the men's or women's edition is urged to attend.

Sigma Delta Chi Show at Colonial On Deck Tonight

'Front Page,' Stage Acts, 'Caught Plastered' On Program

What George Godfrey, co-owner of the Colonial theatre, declares to be the biggest bargain show of the year will be presented tonight with Sigma Delta Chi's showing of "The Front Page," famous two-fisted newspaper yarn.

Vaudeville acts featuring Chick Burrow and Wilbur Thibault, the Theta Chi Blue Boys, and the Max trio will vie for attention with the Colonial's weekly festival night.

To cap it all, Godfrey declares that "Caught Plastered," starring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, will be held over and shown after the regular feature without extra charge.

Sulphurous language, pungent humor, sparkling dialogue and a gripping tale of the fight for news have made "The Front Page" one of the four-star pictures of the year. Hildy Johnson, the prototype of the metropolitan go-getter newsgatherer, is played by Pat O'Brien. The smooth, ruthless managing editor is portrayed by Adolphe Menjou. Edward Everett Horton and Slim Summerville are also featured.

Seiyukais Determined To Control Government

TOKYO, May 17.—(AP)—The shaky Seiyukai party put up a strong front against militarists and nationalists in its determination to retain control of the government today despite an army demand for a non-partisan cabinet.

The ultimatum of military leaders that they would support only a national, non-partisan cabinet blocked efforts to reorganize the government, necessitated by the assassination of Premier Suoyoshi Inukai.

MANY FEARED PERISHED
ADEN, Arabia, May 17.—(AP)—Shipping agencies feared that more than 200 persons may have perished abroad the blazing French motorship Georges Philippart off Cape Guardafui, Italian Somaliland, as 254 haggard, smoke-grimed survivors arrived here today.

We Endorse (EDITORIAL)

FRIDAY of this week, voters will go to the polls for the primary election.

In one important place on the ballot, student voters will find five men running for representative in the state legislature. Three are to be elected. On the basis of their past records, and their pledges for the future that every effort will be put forth in the interest of the University of Oregon so that it will maintain its rightful place in higher education, the Emerald heartily endorses three men.

They are Earl Hill, Charles A. (Shy) Huntington, and Elwin A. McCornack. These are the men we need in the legislature from Lane county.

Two Announce Candidacy for Soph President

Ferguson and Davis Toss Hats in Ring

Aspirants of Other Classes Actively Engaged in Boosting Tactics

By JULIAN PRESCOTT
Freshmen stepped into the political arena yesterday with the announcement that Bob Ferguson and Bill Davis are in the running for sophomore class president. This was the first definite step taken by the yearling class in facing the political situation.

Both Ferguson and Davis will make official announcement of their tickets within the next few days.

In the other classes, supporters of Cecil Espy and Orville Bailey, senior aspirants, and Neal Bush and Ed Schweiker, junior aspirants, were boosting their candidates wherever they met voters of doubtful allegiance.

Both Bailey and Espy are accounted strong tickets and any prediction of how the voting might go can be classed as pure guess work this early in the campaign. Bailey's athletic record is expected to be offset some by the record of Espy for work with the present juniors.

Journalism Vote Split
The school of journalism vote, which might have been expected to swing with Esther Hayden, Espy candidate for secretary, was split between the two tickets when Bailey announced Betty Anne Macduff for vice president. Helen Raitanen is expected to draw strong support among the sororities which will offset the journalism vote for Miss Hayden. Marjorie Swafford, who is opposing Miss Macduff, is banking on swinging a counteracting vote.

Representatives of the Oregon Yeomen have met with Schweiker and pledged their support to his cause. Bush, on the other hand, has been lining up Greek organizations which he claims will more than offset the independent vote.

Other Candidates Listed
Candidates for the other junior class offices are Evelyn Kennedy and Maxine Reed for vice president, Virginia Hartje and Nancy Suomela for secretary, and Les Dunton and Julius Rehal for treasurer.

Mahr Reymers yesterday entered the battle with Bernie Hughes for senior class barber. Reymers said that he expected Hughes to drag down a pretty heavy athlete vote. But Reymers had no doubt of his ability to get together a line-up with a large number of fast reserves that will be able to wear down the heavy shock troops of the Hughes supporters.

Seven Women Elected To Pi Lambda Theta

Those elected were Edith Luke, junior in education, Eugene; Elinor Clark, junior in language and literature, Portland; Rachel Locke, junior in education, Quinalt, Wash.; Willametta Logsdon, junior in education, Riddle; Vera Pallet, senior in education, Eugene; Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery, Portland, who is working for her Ph.D., and Ruth Jackson, graduate student in English.

Traveler Will Lecture On South Seas Tonight

Dr. J. R. Wetherbee, local eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist, who has just returned to Eugene from a tour of the Pacific basin as educational director on the S. S. Mariposa will give an illustrated lecture on the South seas tonight in the geology lecture room in Condon hall, at 7:30.

Dr. Wetherbee has been on several such tours and is well posted on the peoples and regions visited, according to Warren D. Smith, professor of geology and geography.

The lecture is open to students and faculty who are interested.
