Three Classes Will Elect New Officers Today

Polls To Be Open From 9 Until 3

Constitutional Changes Up; Seniors May Vote on Separate Ballot

By JULIAN PRESCOTT
Freshmen, sophomores and juniors will go to the polls today to elect their class officers for the coming year. The polls of all three groups will be open from 9 to 3 o'clock.

The freshmen will vote in the Y. M. C. A. hut. Polls for the sophomores will be in Villard hall, probably in the lobby at the north end. Juniors will mark their ballots in room 201A Condon hall.

The two constitutional amendments will be voted on at the same time that ballots are cast for class officers. Separate ballots will be provided for the amendments.

Seniors May Vote

Seniors may vote on the provisions at the junior class polls. They will be required to show their student body cards.

Eligibility of voters and class designation has been checked by the registrar's office against class cards filled out at the beginning of this term. Thus, if a student is listed as a sophomore on his class card, he will vote the sophomore ballot.

Candidates for president of the 1932 senior class are Orville Bailey and Cecil Espy. Other names on the senior ticket will be Betty Anne Macduff and Marjorie Swafford, vice president; Esther Hayden and Helen Raitanen, secretary; Bob Needham and Charles Stryker, treasurer; Bernie Hughes and Mahr Reymers, barber.

Junior Race Hot

The junior presidency rests between Neal Bush and Ed Schweiker. Running mates of the leaders are Evelyn Kennedy and Maxine Reed, vice president; Virginia Hartje and Nancy Suomela, secretary; and Les Dunton and Julius Rehal, treasurer.

Competing for the leadership of the sophomore class, Bill Davis and Bob Ferguson have been a bit

Seniors Will Award Albert Cup Tomorrow

Decision as to the winner of the Albert prize will be made at the meeting of the senior class tomorrow night, it was announced yesterday by Hobie Wilson, president.

The meeting will be held in room 105 Oregon building at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the last meeting of the class of 1932.

Last Mu Phi Epsilon Meeting on Tonight

Mu Phi Epsilon, national women's music honorary, will hold its last program meeting of the year at 7:15 tonight at the home of Mrs. Josephine Chapman.

Mrs. Samuel Jameson will talk on "Musical Therapy."

Bicycle Built For Two Takes Michigan Boys On Long Tour

Riding all the way from Michigan to Oregon on a tandem bicycle may seem a lot of unnecessary trouble to most people in this day of fast cars and trains, but according to Carl and Royal Atkins, campus visitors yesterday, it's a lot of fun.

The two brothers rolled into Eugene yesterday morning after having travelled 7,000 miles on their way around the United States. They left Bellaire, Michigan, on August 30, last year and reached Oakland, California, their destination, just before Christmas. They plan to go on to Portland from here and then go back home through Yellowstone national park.

The old song, "A Bicycle Built for Two" was the idea inspiring

Vote 'No'

VOTE "NO" today on the amendment to the constitution regarding the eligibility of candidates for student body office.

The amendment in its present form is even more ambiguous than the article of the constitution it is supposed to clarify. In the first place, there is the question of interpretation of the term "completed" in the proposed amendment. The amendment reads that candidates for office "must have completed at least seven and not more than nine terms at the University of Oregon at the time of nomination." The question arises whether a "completed" term shall mean merely a term of residence at school, or shall mean the passing of so many term hours.

But more important still is that the proposed amendment leaves the way open for considerable difficulty on another point. A student might, if this revision is made, attend some school other than the University of Oregon for two years, then transfer here and in seven terms be eligible for student body office. He would be eligible even though he were a senior and due to graduate in one more term. He would be eligible even though it were his sixth year in school.

The present article in the constitution reads simply that candidates for student body office "must have completed at least seven terms at the University of Oregon and must be of junior standing at the time of nomination." Obviously, what is needed is a definition of junior standing. Since the amendment does not clarify this point, and since it is open to criticism from other angles, it should be voted down. The constitution as it stands is the lesser of two evils.

Parliament Will Convene at Last Meeting Tonight

Ronald Robnett To Speak; Two Resolutions Will Be Discussed

The student parliament will wind up its affairs for the year at its final meeting at 7:45 tonight in Guild hall. Ronald H. Robnett, assistant graduate manager, will be present to answer questions concerning the graduate manager's office.

Two resolutions will be discussed by the body. The first provides that the present steering committee of the Parliament remain in existence through to the first meeting of next year.

The second resolution calls upon the president of the student body to appoint the steering committee of the Parliament as a permanent committee on constitutional revision.

There will be discussion from the floor on plans for the organization of the body next year.

Recommendations of the committee on rules and credentials regarding additional organizations to be represented in the Parliament will be considered.

Delegates without credential cards will be admitted by giving their names at the door, according to Arthur Potwin, president.

Students Asked To Call For Oreganas at Once

A number of students who have paid for Oreganas has not as yet called for their books, it was reported yesterday by Roger Bailey, manager.

These books may be obtained at the graduate manager's office, in McArthur court, and Bailey urged that students call for them at once, so that they may be distributed before the end of school.

Hendricks Tea Today Honors 6 Departments

The all-campus tea given by Hendricks hall will take place today between the hours of 4 and 5:30.

The music, languages, biology, physics, chemistry, geology departments have been invited as special guests.

"During the rush and cramming this week, it will be well worth one's while to drop in for a chat and a cup of tea," said Ivy Walker, chairman of the affair.

"Since this tea is the last one of the year, we are hoping that everyone comes."

Clara M. Smertenko will pour. Eldrid Wold will act as assistant hostess and the girls who will serve will be Rose Himelein, Linda Hango, Mary Ella Hornung, Helen Bellani, Gwen LaBarre, Fern Jefferies, and Peggy Vest.

Governor Moore To Order Reward For Kidnapers

Special Bill To Be Passed By State Legislature of New Jersey

By FRANCES JAMIESON HOPEWELL, N. J., May 23.—(AP)—A $25,000 reward loomed ahead of the man hunters engaged in pursuing the Lindbergh baby killers tonight as they opened up new channels of inquiry by mail.

At nearby Trenton leaders of the state legislature, which reconvened during the day, cleared the way for passage of a bill empowering Governor A. Harry Moore to order a reward. The governor was prepared to act immediately.

"We think," said the governor, "and hope the reward may cause someone who knows something to squeal."

While he pointed out the state of New Jersey could not make a grant of immunity he said the measure authorizing the reward would have "more latitude" regarding its payment than the statute limiting routine rewards to $1,600.

Reviewing the wide-flung search in progress and commenting on the reward, the governor said:

"Then we will have done everything it is possible for the state to do to bring the perpetrators of this crime to justice."

Meantime law enforcement agencies throughout the nation were circled with specimens of handwriting contained in two ransom notes believed to have been received from the abductors of the infant through the aged Dr. John F. Condon.

Oregon Player Forfeits Year Of Competition

Ted Giesecke Declared Ineligible

Prof. H. C. Howe Makes Announcement of Coast Conference Action

By BRUCE HAMBY
Troubles are hitting the 1932 Oregon varsity football team even before Coach Prink Callison starts to form his next fall's Webfoot eleven. Due to his participation in a soccer game in Portland last month Theodore (Ted) Giesecke must forfeit a year of eligibility in the Pacific coast conference.

The announcement of the ex-Commerce high school star's ineligibility was made yesterday by Professor H. C. Howe, Oregon's faculty representative in the conference. Giesecke was a numeral winner on last fall's freshman team. During the past spring practice he played regularly in all four games. He was second to Roy (Rosy) Gagnon in the number of minutes played.

Rule Disqualifies Ted

The rule disqualifying Giesecke, according to Professor Howe, is in section 23 of the conference rules and regulations. The clause in part is as follows:

"No athlete shall represent any club, organization or team, other than his own institution, in any athletic contest from the opening of fall term to the close of spring semester . . ."

The penalty for such an offense is the loss of an entire year of participation, future eligibility being granted only if the athlete remains in college during the year he is ineligible.

His Team Won, Anyhow

Mott Has Margin In Close Election

PORTLAND, Ore., May 23.—(AP)—Revised returns from one of the closest election fights Oregon ever has seen, late today gave James W. Mott, state corporation commissioner, a lead of 86 votes over Representative Willis C. Hawley, veteran congressman from the first Oregon district. In the same district William Delzell was only 53 votes ahead of Harvey Starkweather in the race for the Democratic nomination to congress.

The count in the Republican race stood at 5:30 this afternoon: Hawley, 30,734; Mott, 30,820. An error in tabulation from Lincoln county earlier had placed Hawley in the lead. In the Democratic contest Delzell had 11,858 votes, Starkweather, 11,805.

Reviewing the wide-flung search in progress and commenting on the reward, the governor said:

"Then we will have done everything it is possible for the state to do to bring the perpetrators of this crime to justice."

Meantime law enforcement agencies throughout the nation were circled with specimens of handwriting contained in two ransom notes believed to have been received from the abductors of the infant through the aged Dr. John F. Condon.

Yank the Cotton From Your Ears, Warns Charley

The Chorus Swells

The voices in the wilderness are growing louder.

To the cries of the discontented and the disgruntled were added the sonorous statements of two Americans who can be called neither socialists nor communists. Borah cracked the ice by ominously declaring that he wouldn't join the Republican convention next month. Disappointed in the G. O. P., Bill?

And Roosevelt sounded a warning that social revolt threatens unless something is done to equalize the distribution of national income. "Millions in want will not stand by silently forever," he said, "while the things to satisfy their needs are within easy reach."

To which I have nothing to add.

Succinctly,
WEBFOOT CHARLEY.

Nancy Thielsen Will Give Senior Recital Tonight

Songs by Brahms, Strauss Included in Ambitious, Varied Program

Nancy Thielsen, soprano, will appear in her senior and farewell recital at the music auditorium this evening at 8:15 in a program which will be open to students and the public.

Miss Thielsen, who has studied voice with Arthur Boardman for the past three years, is one of the best known student singers on the campus. She has appeared in several previous recitals and has taken solo roles several times in Polyphonic choir concerts.

She has also been very prominent in campus dramatics, her fine performance in the leading role in "Holiday" and "Twelfth Night" last year being still remembered.

Accompanied at the piano by Lucile Cummings, Miss Thielsen will present an ambitious and diversified program. Opening with a song by Giordani and an "Air and Variations" by Proch, she will then present a group of five German songs by Brahms, Strauss and Rinken.

Firecrackers, Horns Arouse Local Curiosity

Popping of firecrackers, honking of horns, yelling and all the other various and sundry noises that with political rallies brought a call to the Morning News from a disturbed citizen last night and then to the Emerald to find what the excitement was about.

All the disturbance was, however, merely the accumulation of pre-election enthusiasm into rallies through the streets, as a last demonstration before the class elections today.

Tex Minnaugh Gets Both Blows of W. S. C. Mound Star

Washington State scored in the second inning when Mel Lee singled and came home on Sarboe's single. In the fourth inning Olmo and Sarboe were walked and both scored on a single and an error.

Minnaugh scored Oregon's only run on an outfield fly after his two-bagger put him on base. A dust and wind storm made play difficult.

The score:
R. H. E.
Oregon 1 2 3
Washington State 3 7 1
Donin and Shaneman; Norby and McKay.

Orangemen Conquer Idaho

MOSCOW, Idaho, May 23.—(AP)—Two wild Vandal pitchers gave Oregon State college an 11-to-4 victory over the University of Idaho in the opening game of their conference series baseball here today.

Spiers and Lacy gave eight free passes, four each, and allowed 12 hits. Oregon State played errorless ball. Jensen, Beaver left fielder, hit a triple in the fourth, scoring two men ahead of him, but was himself caught on the stretch as he tried to force the hit into a home run.

Geraghty, Idaho centerfielder, hit two triples and a double and walked once in five times at bat.

Rain Calls Off Band's Last Mill Race Concert

The University second division polyphonic choir's presentation of Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation," proved to be the last major musical event of the school year as "Old Jue Pluvius" succeeded in having the University band's last outdoor concert scheduled for Sunday evening at the mill race amphitheatre called off.

Persistent drizzles and cloudbursts made it necessary to cancel the program which will not be given this year because of a crowded calendar for the remaining Sundays.

'Tis Merrie Stuff, Thursday's Play

"Come and laugh at the very remote ancestor of the Mack Sennett comedies," invites the drama department.

Thursday afternoon, May 26, "Gammer Gurton's Needle," described as a "Ryght Pithy, Pleasant, and Merie Comedie," will be played on the lawn between the old library and Deady.

This is the last campus dramatic production of the year and is to be given at 4 o'clock. No admission will be charged.

The audience is requested to bring their own "box seats" in the form of pillows or rugs and to sit on the grass.

Increases in Fees Also Are Decided; School Budgets Cut

For Two Schools

$209,340 Will Be Saved Through Changes

Dr. Walter Taylor Sumner, Episcopal bishop for Oregon, was quoted in the Oregon State Barometer as saying consolidation of the University and the state college was "inevitable." When the Emerald talked to him, he pleaded that he had not been fully quoted. Bishop Sumner favors keeping the two schools as they are unless the higher education experiment fails.

'Keep Two Schools' Bishop States in Correcting Story

State Board Should Resort To Consolidation Only If Experiment Fails

Statements attributed to him in an interview in the Oregon State Barometer, that "consolidation of the two schools is inevitable," were corrected by Dr. Walter Taylor Sumner, bishop of the Episcopal diocese in Oregon, in a long-distance telephone conversation with the Emerald.

"My attitude is that the two schools should keep their entity

Oregon B.A. School Said Among First in Country

Oregon is accredited with being one of the first colleges in the United States having a business administration school, according to a pamphlet recently received from the Kansas university by David E. Faville, dean of the school.

Frank Strong, president of the University from 1899 to 1902, and later chancellor at Kansas is credited with having fostered the commerce work.

Chester Washburne Relates Geologic History of Oregon

An ancient lake the size of which the Great Salt lake is just a hint, and another which covered much of northern Nevada and southeastern Oregon, and still another above whose waters Judkins point and the Coburg hills barely rose, were of the same geologic age and resulted from similar natural causes as a former immense body of water in Bolivia, South America. Lake Ticiaca is a mere remnant of this.

This theory was advanced by Chester Washburne, of New York City, consulting geologist for petroleum companies the world over, at the annual joint meeting of Sigma Xi, science honorary, and Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honorary, Saturday evening in Gerlinger hall.

Washburne, a brother of Carl G. Washburne of this city, completed his education in geology, under the famous Dr. Thomas Condon, in 1905, and since that time has visited practically every portion of the world. He has held government geological appointments, but has spent the greater part of the intervening years locating potential oil fields, particularly in South America.

Oregon's climate has become wetter in the last 60 years, according to Mr. Washburne, as evidenced by the fact that oak trees some 300 years old are now completely overshadowed by young firs on the hills and mountains of the Willamette valley.

Mr. Washburne lauded the works of his teacher, Dr. Condon, whom he characterized as an old-time naturalist, and expert in no line, but interested in every field of science.

Preceding the lecture, the old members and initiates of the two organizations attended a banquet at the men's dormitory. Lewis Goodman, student at the medical school in Portland, was presented with the $25 Sigma Xi research award at this time.

Faculty Members Agree to Salary Cuts of 5 to 15 Per Cent

PORTLAND, May 23.—(AP)—Banning student automobiles, voting to increase student fees, and making numerous slashes in budget items the state board of higher education held one of the most important sessions of its history here today.

The ban on student automobiles on the various campuses is effective except in cases where students come a considerable distance to their classes or earn a living through the use of their cars.

This action was taken on recommendation of the student welfare committee, of which Mrs. Cornelia Marvin Pierce is chairman.

Deferred Pledging Postponed

The board agreed to let 35 juniors in pure sciences at Eugene complete their work at Corvallis but receive their degrees from the University of Oregon. Juniors in commerce and mines at Corvallis will be permitted to complete their work there and obtain their degrees.

Action on the deferred pledging proposal was postponed by the board.

Increases in student fees voted by the board are expected to yield $29,000. Approximately $60,430 were cut from the budgets of the various institutions.

Faculty Salaries Cut

Faculty members of the various institutions of higher education volunteered to accept a reduction on a sliding scale of from 5 to 15 per cent. This alone will save $120,000 a year, the board announced.

The reductions and the expected increase in revenue from student fees totaled $209,430 and covered an apparent deficit of $160,000.

The measures adopted by the board were contained in a report presented by E. C. Sammons, chairman of the finance committee. Of the $60,430 cut from the budgets, about $30,000 was cut from
