The colonel made the usual dope-reversal reservation in announcing his list, but said the two-score and ten athletes he had chosen were the outstanding representatives of the Pacific Northwest had to offer.

On his list Hayward named five members of the 1932 Oregon track varsity, and three Webfoot graduates. The present student-body members he selected were Paul Starr, Hubert Allen, Mason McCoy, Al Edwards, and Art Holman. The alumni were Ed Moeller, Ralph Hill, and Bobby Robinson. He also chose Warren Demaris, supple-armed javelin thrower on the Oregon freshman squad.

Prep athletes included Two high school athletes were included among the group. One was Bobby Grayson, the "Touch-down-kid" from Jefferson high in Portland. Grayson is figured to place in the 100-meter race. He covers the 100-yard stretch in .99. The other prep luminary Hayward selected was Fiser, rangy high jumper from Olympia high in Olympia, Wash.

Colonel Hayward believes Starr, Rebel Bledsoe of Washington, and Grayson will be the chief contenders in the dashes. He thinks Allen and McCoy and Holman will be favorites in the hurdles, with the latter also figured in the longer sprints. Broad-shouldered Ed Moeller is regarded as a cinch to qualify in the discus. His chief competitor will be Paul Jessup, ex-University of Washington giant.

Robinson's chances in the pole-jump are slim.

Most of the students have begun, or at least should begin, to think about going home, for spring term will be over in only two and a half weeks. How to travel—by foot? by train? by auto? or possibly by aeroplane?—is a question that must be considered.

Students who have long distances to travel are reminded that they must have permission from their parents to return home via auto. Does this hold good for aeroplanes, too? We presume that it does, though the dean of women didn't say.

Maps of Mt. Hood Region Completed

Two maps of the Cascade range in the Columbia gorge and Mt. Hood region made by John Allen and Meredith Sheets, both of whom receive their master's degree in geology this spring, will be on display in the Co-op window today.

This mapping is the most complete work done on any project of this kind in the state and is the first to be done in this region, reports Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, professor of geology.

The field work was done by 11 students under the direction of Dr. Hodge last summer in which 10,000 square miles were covered. The actual compilation of material and the making of the maps was done entirely by the two men as part of their master's theses.

The maps will ultimately form the basis of an illustrated book which Dr. Hodge plans to publish next year, discussing the features of the little known Mt. Hood region.

Group Tentatively Approves Project

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Rivers and Harbor projects in the Pacific Northwest to cost $1,250,000 were tentatively approved today by one house committee while another heard a plea for legislation to begin work on the huge $185,000,000 power and irrigation project for the Columbia river basin.

After Representative Hawley (R., Ore.), had stressed the need for the work, the rivers and harbors committee approved modification of the existing Columbia and lower Willamette rivers project below Portland and Vancouver to provide a 30-foot depth in the St. Helens channel and a 30-foot channel, 500 feet wide, connecting the upper end of St. Helens channel with the main ship channel at a cost of $50,000 with $6,600 annually for maintenance.

Every Man for Himself, Screams Webfoot Charley

Quick, Watson

Civil war's raging in Washington.

If you don't believe it, pick up the paper and see for yourself. Every congressman from Abbott to Zilch is staging a battle for his home state and telling the rest of the country to "go to hell."

Minnesota vainly tried to get a tariff on copra to "protect" butter. Oregon's fighting tooth and toe nail for a lumber duty.

Every state is trying to yank itself out of the depression by its own bootstraps; and all at the expense of the rest of the country. Can't slit the other fellow's throat and then expect him to eat your grub.

Something's got to be done. And when our best business man, Henry Ford, loses fifty million bucks in a year, it's got to be done "damn" quick.

Profanely,
WEBFOOT CHARLEY.

Fraud Charges Bring Call for Re-Vote

Error in Checking Appears Cause of Election Fiasco

The sophomore class will go to the polls again tomorrow to vote for class officers for the coming year, it was ordered yesterday by the executive council, governing body of the Associated Students.

The election will be supervised by the same board that took charge of the student body elections this year, the council decided. Under this arrangement Walter Evans, retired vice president of the student body, will have charge of the election.

37 Too Many Votes
A new vote was made necessary when the counting board for the first election, held on Tuesday, discovered that there were 37 more ballots cast than there were names checked on the polling lists.

In announcing the decision the council issued the following statement:

"In investigating Tuesday's sophomore class election the executive council has found no evidence of fraud, but has found that certain mistakes were made in the conduct of the election. Since the error would influence the results in three of the four offices, it has been found advisable to have a new election under outside supervision."

Officials Appear

Alvin McKelligan, president of the class, and John Kendall, chairman of the election, appeared before the council and stated the facts of the case. They were questioned by several members of the council.

Glenn Heiber and Roy McMullen also appeared to state their case before the council and answer questions.

Socialists Fight In Berlin Streets

BERLIN, May 25.—(AP)—Smoldering political passions in the new Prussian diet broke out in hand-to-hand fighting between national socialists and communists today with a violence unprecedented in the parliamentary of Germany.

With fists, knivels, chair legs and water bottles, the legislators fought their battle to the bitter end without police interference, General Karl Litzmann, senior member of Adolf Hitler's national socialist party, having declined the services of the police several days ago.

Japanese General Dies in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, May 26.—(Thursday)—(AP)—General Yoshinori Shirakawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese imperial forces here, who was wounded by a bomb April 29, died today, Japanese military headquarters announced.

When the emperor learned that General Shirakawa was nearing the end, he conferred the title of baron upon him and further honored the leader with a gift of wine, symbolic of love and respect. Despite his weakness, the general insisted upon the ceremony of sharing the honors with his staff. In his hospital room they gathered around him and sipped the wine in a dramatic ceremony.

General Shirakawa and six other high Japanese officials in Shanghai were wounded during ceremonies celebrating the birthday of Emperor Hirohito. Y. Kawabata, president of the Shanghai Residents' association, died from injuries suffered in the same explosion.
