

Polls To Decide Fate of School Consolidation

University Students To Oppose Measure

POTWIN IS DIRECTOR

Voters on November 8 Will Cast Ballots Affecting Destiny Of Higher Education

By DAVE EYRE
The election polls will be closed in exactly 954 hours. The fate of the University of Oregon will then have been decided.

Election day—November 8—will have become a reality and if Mr. and Mrs. Registered Voter crawl into a dilapidated booth and mark 316 X Yes once more than they do 317 X No, Messrs. Zorn and Macpherson, authors of the destructive school moving bill, will have won a victory and the taxpayers of Oregon will put their heads together and wonder about the expenditures that will be necessary to move the University of Oregon to Corvallis, the law school to Salem, the Oregon normal schools at Monmouth, LaGrande, and Ashland to Eugene, and establish junior colleges at LaGrande and Ashland.

Students Fight Bill
Students played an important part in the fight against the Zorn-Macpherson "juggling" bill during the summer months, and plans announced last night by Art Potwin, director of the student anti-merger campaign, point to an even bigger drive to defeat the measure. A vigilant committee of some 25 campus leaders and superior workers in the summer campaign will be named Tuesday morning, and in its hands will rest the task of carrying out a program that will make voters over the entire state merger-conscious.

Brief details given out from Potwin's office last night call for student mailing of political cards to taxpayers, assistance in registration of voters, and student distribution of literature showing the evils of the bill.

Network Covers State
More than 100 A. S. U. O. members and their assistants combined into one great network that covered the entire state this summer, and together they accomplished an abundance of work that should go far in defeating the Marion County Tax Equalization league's gift to the taxpayer: "Bill Moving University, Normal, and Law Schools. Establishing Junior Colleges." (Official Bulletin title).

Art Potwin spoke highly of his organization's work last night as he outlined plans for the coming pre-election campaign.

"As director of the students in the campaign against the school-moving bill," he said, "I thank all members of the student committee for their enthusiastic cooperation and earnest endeavor to defeat this vicious proposal. In all parts of the state students have been working and planning with the alumni, and their efforts, if continued until election day, shall play a great part in vanquishing the foes of higher education."

The election polls will be closed in exactly 953 hours and 57 minutes. The fate of the University of Oregon will then have been decided.

Hours Unchanged For U.O. Women

Spiking any rumors that may have been floating about the campus to the effect that hours for women would be changed to correspond with those at Oregon State college, the office of the dean of women issued a statement this week that hours will remain the same as they have always been, 10:30 for week nights and 12:15 week-ends. Canoes may also still be rented for the mill race.

Students To Hold Parade Tonight, Announces Espy

Tonight will see the first rally of the year, when the associated students, led by the Order of the "O," will unite in a gigantic serpentine and parade from the campus to the down-town section of Eugene in anticipation of tomorrow's game with Santa Clara. Every student should be in the rally, urges Cecil Espy, chairman of the rally committee, recently appointed by Bob Hall, student body president.

The serpentine will form in front of the Co-Op at 6:30. All organizations will have early dinner in order to release their members for the demonstration. As soon as the serpentine has been organized, it will proceed down Kincaid street to 15th avenue, led by the Order of the "O." From 15th street the procession will proceed down Alder to 11th. There it will meet the band and will march down 11th to Willamette and north on Willamette to 8th. There the main rally will be held, with Ed Wells, Mickie Vail, and Ed Schweiker, yell leaders, leading the songs and cheers. After a brief speech by Bob Hall, the rally will break up, and the rooters, forming into one large body, will proceed down Willamette to 13th, and thence to the campus. The rally will be brief, and the main body of the students should be back to the campus by 8 o'clock, permitting those who wish to attend Church Night.

Though the dean of women has ruled that the girls may not join the serpentine, it is urgently requested that they attend the rally, as they will be able to accompany the marchers and to participate in the main rally down-town.

The rally is sponsored by the Order of the "O," jointly with Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary. Espy will name the full personnel of the rally committee early next week, he declared.

Figures Show 625 New Students on Campus This Year

Total Registration Given as 1863 Here, 1865 at Oregon State

University of Oregon has 625 new students as compared to 605 at the Oregon State college, according to figures released Saturday night. Revised figures will not be released until tomorrow.

These figures show the total registration of the two schools to be about equal, the University having 1863 students and the college 1865.

Total registration here at the same time last year was 2403. Freshman total 494 as compared to 555 registered at this time a year ago. Other new students totaled 131, compared to 248 last year.

There were almost twice as many new students at the state college last year. It was 1002 while it is 605 now.

Frosh Men Will Frolic At Stag Party Saturday

A stag party for freshman men is scheduled for the University Y. M. C. A. Hut at 8:00 Saturday evening. All first-year men, or other men students new on this campus are invited to attend.

Former Students Will Spend Winter in Vienna

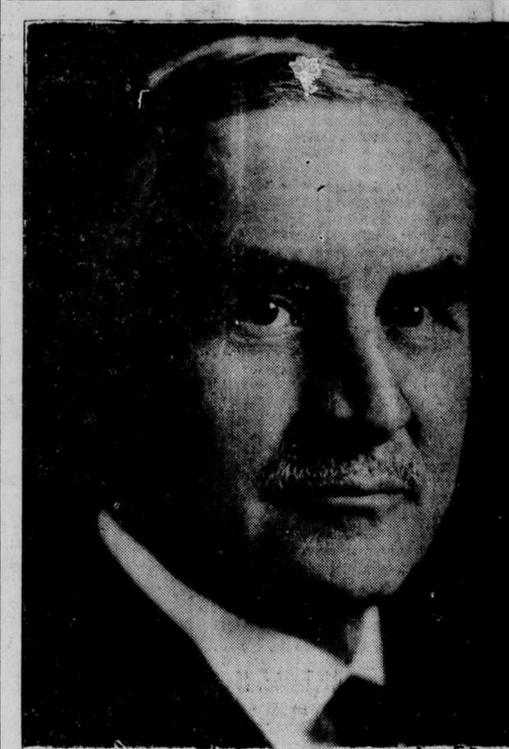

Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Hall, who were students at the University of Oregon last year, are spending the winter in Vienna, according to word received by Mrs. Hall's father, W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and advertising.

The couple have been abroad since June and are traveling by motor. Mr. Hall will use his traveling experiences in articles to appear in the Portland Oregonian.

Faculty Men Will Hold Open House Tonight

Open house for all men members of the faculty will be held at the Faculty club tonight at 8 o'clock. Those who are new on the campus are especially urged to be present as this will provide an excellent opportunity for old and new members to become acquainted with each other. Refreshments are to be served at 9:30, according to those in charge.

They Made Educational History

New milestones in the educational history of Oregon were marked off when Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall (right) resigned from the presidency of the University of Oregon, and Dr. William J. Kerr (left) was appointed chancellor of the Oregon institutions of higher learning this summer. Dr. Kerr has taken up his residence on the Eugene campus. Dr. Hall will step into a position as director of the Brookings Educational Research Institute.

Tongue, Liston To Aid in Production Of 1933 Oregoniana

Bailey Releases Selections For Business Staff Of Yearbook

With preliminary preparations for the 1933 Oregoniana getting under way, Roger Bailey, business manager of the student year book, last night released the completed list of business staff appointments.

Heading the list are Bailey's two assistants, Tom Tongue and Kathryn Liston, who will aid Bailey in his second year at the head of the business department.

In charge of advertising will be Ed Cross, junior in business administration, and Charles Robnett, sophomore in advertising. Three assistants, Phillip Corrigan, Bob Trimm, and Tom Clapp, will aid in handling this department.

Gordon Day and Helen Stinger will work together at the head of the circulation department. Their assistant will be Edward Field. In charge of organization will be Blema Parker, junior in business administration.

Two sophomores, Malcolm Bauer and Donald Fields, will be in charge of all publicity for the yearbook. Roberta Moody, office manager, completes the list of appointments.

John Evans Will Present Organ Recital Sunday

The second of a series of organ recitals by John Stark Evans, University organist, will be presented Sunday at 5 o'clock at the school of music. These programs are short, lasting about 40 minutes and are arranged for appreciation by students.

The programs for Sunday are posted on the bulletin boards and carry explanatory matter with each presentation. Following is a summary of the program: Suite—AUS. Ernster Zeit, Scheve, Arr. JSE; Berceuse, Guilmant; The Squirrel, Powell Weaver; Chorale—A-minor, Cesar Franck.

Ahoy There, Lads! Coogan Is Here

The boys and girls who have been scouting about on roller skates lately, and perhaps some of their friends, will be interested to learn that Monsieur Jackie Coogan will be Santa Clara's yell leader at tomorrow's football game. Yes, it's the same Jackie who used to make juvenile movies. He's expected to arrive here today.

Hall Commended by Moulton For Extraordinary Qualities

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, for the past six years president of the University, is to become director of the Brookings Institute for governmental research at Washington, D. C.

Announcement of his appointment voiced strong praise for Dr. Hall. In the statement made by H. F. Moulton, president of the institute, he said:

"Dr. Hall has been chosen for this outstanding position because of his unusual combination of qualities. Trained both in political sciences and law, Dr. Hall has long been interested in broadening and deepening of research in the field of social sciences generally."

The directorship of the institute will be turned over to Dr. Hall on January 1, and he is now in Washington, D. C., where he will be joined by his family on that date.

The Brookings Institute was founded in 1916 by a body of outstanding business and educational leaders in order that research work might be done in order to promote economy in the field of public administration. This institute has done notable work in the reorganization of the budget plan of the United States, in the introducing of fiscal and administrative reform in state government, and in working out plans of public administration.

The institute plans to extend its research into the science of government, and will endeavor to better conditions of public administration. The appointment of Dr. Hall was viewed favorably by

Graduate Gets Position On Detective Magazine

Fred Michaelson, who was graduated in 1923, has taken a position as reader for Muncy's Detective Story publication, at 280 Broadway, New York.

Michaelson has been writing fiction for several years. He and Leon Byrne, another graduate of the University of Oregon, wrote the book, "Ocean Parade" together. Both were enrolled in the school of journalism.

New Instructors Added For Language Courses

Two new part-time instructors have been added to the French department, according to Dr. Ray P. Bowen, chairman of Romance languages. The new men are A. J. Mathews, formerly instructor in French at the University of Georgia, and Lewis Ellis, graduate of Washington State college. Dr. Timothy Cloran has returned to teach language courses after a year of absence in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Myers, former instructors in the language department, are now doing graduate work at the University of California.

Oregon Students Are To Be Guests On Church Night

Motifs, Dancing Included In Various Features Of Entertainment

Tonight is church night on the Oregon campus. Seven Protestant churches are opening their doors to the students at 8:30, and the Roman Catholic church will begin its entertainment at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Hazel Prutsman Scherwing, dean of women; Mrs. Alice Macduff, assistant dean of women; and Mrs. Margaret Edmundson Norton, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will visit the different churches that are entertaining this evening.

The Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Episcopal church, 12th and Willamette streets, will entertain at a "Prison Riot." Banned windows and doors, a rogue's gallery and other prison effects will be used in the decorative scheme. A mock trial will be a feature.

The Presbyterian church will entertain at Westminster house with a "Gold Mine" idea. The basement will be transformed into a mine to demonstrate the various Westminster activities. Refreshments will be served.

The Baptist church, Broadway and High streets, is transforming its gymnasium into a marine garden. There will be several booths throughout the rooms decorated in keeping with the motif.

The Christian church, 11th and Oak streets, is having a harvest festival, with refreshments, decorations and entertainment in keeping with the motif. The Catholic church will entertain with a dance at St. Mary's hall, beginning at 9 o'clock. Dancing will continue until 11 o'clock.

The Congregational church is having a party at its student center, 13th and Perry streets. The Episcopal church will have an informal reception with refreshments at the home of Rev. H. R. White, 465 E. 11th avenue. All Lutheran churches are having a combined program, with refreshments, at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow.

Women's Intramural Sports To Start Monday

All Oregon women will soon find "Professors" Hockey and Volleyball" greeting them from the bulletin boards of the various living organizations on the campus.

Each fall term the Women's Athletic association sponsors hockey and volleyball for girls at 4 and 5 o'clock each afternoon.

The first hockey practice is to be on Monday afternoon, October 3, at 4 o'clock on the women's athletic field. Daily practices will follow at the same hour each day. Volleyball will start on Monday at 5 o'clock.

Has anyone noticed a sudden influx of canny sons of Scotland to the campus this term? Or is it just the depression after all? Whatever it is, college students aren't losing notebooks and pens as promiscuously as they did a year ago.

So far this year, only one lone pen has found its way to the lost and found department in the University depot. Come on, somebody claim it.

O.S.C. Barometer Fails To Appear On Regular Date

Lack of Funds Is Given as Cause of Suspension Of Publication

BULLETIN
A late dispatch from Corvallis last night stated that the Oregon State college board of control had tentatively decided to put the Barometer on a tri-weekly basis. Financial distress was the reason cited.

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Sept. 29—(Special)—The Oregon State Daily Barometer, campus publication of Oregon State college, did not appear yesterday. It was the first time in a decade that the paper had not been printed as scheduled. Financial difficulties were given as the reason for the suspension of publication. A plan to put the paper on a three-times-a-week basis was seriously discussed. The editor of the Barometer is Waldo Taylor of Portland. The adoption of the tri-weekly plan would necessitate the abandoning of the "Daily" in the paper's title of "Oregon State Daily Barometer."

The Oregon Emerald this morning published its first issue of the 1932-33 school year. There will be another tomorrow, and thereafter the paper will continue on its customary five-times-a-week basis, thereby retaining its identity as the "Oregon Daily Emerald."

Bud Forrester, ex-sports editor of the Barometer, and now assistant director of athletic publicity at Oregon State, was on the Oregon campus Wednesday night. He said the tri-weekly plan probably would be put into effect at Corvallis, and confirmed the report that dire financial straits were the causes for the Barometer's difficulties.

O. L. Rhinesmith Is Enforcing Ban On Campus Autos

Students Must Prove Act Not Willful if Caught

"Checking up on those who are driving cars in defiance of the newly-enacted ban on them has already begun, although the real drive will not begin until the final permits have been issued," states O. L. Rhinesmith, special enforcement officer.

Any student who has not been exempted on the grounds of physical handicap, business uses, distances from the campus, or marriage, and is apprehended driving a car will be dropped from registration. He may apply for re-issuance, but unless he can prove that the offense was not willful, he will not be allowed to re-register.

Mr. Rhinesmith has a full list of the license numbers of the cars owned by students and intends to enforce the regulation strictly. Approximately 110 petitions for exemption have been received already, and as soon as the faculty committee has passed upon them, they will be issued permanent permits and a special license tab with the initials "U. of O." on it.

Jobs Now Open On Emerald Staff

A number of positions, both for men and women, are open on the business staff of the Emerald, it was announced last night by Harry Schenk, business manager.

Those wishing to apply for positions as advertising solicitors or office assistants are advised to see either Harry Schenk or Harold Short at the Emerald business office in McArthur court this afternoon if possible, or on any afternoon except Saturday.

Oregon State President Comes Here With Fine Record

EUGENE TO BE HOME Work of Getting Five Schools Under Way to Begin Immediately

By DON CASWELL
Notable among the series of events preceding the opening of school was the announcement by the state board of higher education of the election of Dr. J. W. Kerr to be the first to occupy the newly created position of chancellor of all institutions of higher learning in Oregon.

The announcement came at the conclusion of an executive meeting of the state board held September 6, in Portland, after the board had held an extensive discussion and series of ballots in which Dr. George Frederick Zook, president of Akron university, was rejected. Dr. Zook had been a visitor in Oregon during the summer at the request of the board, and was seriously considered for the position.

Salary to be $12,000
The salary of the new chancellor was set at $12,000, although the original plans of the state board set the salary at $15,000. His office places him at the executive head of all five institutions of higher learning, and his responsibilities at present are more than the load originally prescribed by the unification plan, since presidents of the college and University have not yet been appointed. Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, for the past six years president of the University, had resigned his position previous to the appointment, in order to head an eastern educational foundation. Dr. Hall was granted leave until the end of the year on full salary.

During a meeting with the board after his notification of appointment Dr. Kerr suggested that he might be permitted to establish his residence in Eugene, in order that he might better acquaint himself with the problems and conditions at the University, having virtually built the college to its present status in the 25 years he was president of the college, and being already well acquainted with all of the conditions there. He also requested that his assignment to office might be granted immediately, since he stated there was a vast amount of work to be done in getting the five schools under way in accordance with the unification plan set forth by the state board earlier in the year. The board granted both requests.

Chancellor at Campbell's
Dr. Kerr took up residence in Eugene shortly before the opening of school, and is at present occupying the Prince L. Campbell residence, pending the vacation of the regular president's home by Dr. Hall's family.

In his acceptance speech Dr. Kerr said:

"I have been in college work in Oregon long enough to realize the responsibilities of such a position. I labor under no delusions as to the task confronting the man who may occupy the position. If I occupy it, I'll give the best I have—all the time! I shall have but one objective: to help all concerned toward the end that these institutions will best serve the state."

Kerr's Career Noteworthy
The appointment of Dr. Kerr followed a noteworthy career of 38 years as a college president. A graduate of the University of Utah, Dr. Kerr attained his first college presidency at the age of 31 at the Brigham Young university, after having been an instructor of physiology, geology, physics, and mathematics for several years.

He served in this position for six years, leaving in 1900 to become president of Utah State college, where he presided until 1907. In that year he came to Oregon State college to take over the presidency there. In his 25 years at the college, Dr. Kerr created a college of national scholastic recognition from the small institution of three major buildings with an enrollment of 807 students, and in which eighth grade certificates were sufficient for registration prerequisites.

Widespread comment from the editorial columns of the state have voiced only the highest approval of the board's selection, and the action is generally looked upon as a move for better understanding and co-operation under the unification plan, which is going into effect for the first time.
