

Kostka Hurt in Practice; Won't Play Saturday

Shoulder Is Dislocated In Dive for Ball

GEE TO FILL PLACE

Hero of Santa Clara Game Sent to Bed After Collision With Ralph Terjeson

Oregon's newest backfield sensation, 225-pound, Stan Kostka of South St. Paul, Minn., was put to bed tonight with a painfully dislocated shoulder. He sustained the injury in secret practice today while going after a lateral pass that was just out of reach.

Kostka dived for the ball at the same time as Ralph Terjeson, playing defense on the second team. The big Oregon ball-carrier came down on his arm, and the force of the 190-pound Terjeson falling on top of him threw his shoulder out of joint. It took the combined strength of Colonel Bill Hayward and Dr. Santa Caniparoli, team physician, to set the injured member in place.

Kostka Goes to Bed

Kostka immediately was driven to his home at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house, where he was put to bed. He was not at skull practice tonight. Leighton Gee, veteran triple-threatener who weighs 160, will probably start in his place.

There still is some possibility that Kostka may play against Washington at Portland Saturday. If he does, however, his effectiveness will be hampered by his injury.

Kostka was in a large measure responsible for last week's sensational 7-to-0 victory over the Santa Clara Broncos.

It was Kostka who pushed over the sole touchdown of the game, after a sensational 33-yard run in which he broke through the Bronco line to place the ball within scoring territory.

Kostka, Mikulak and Temple were the only consistent ground-gainers against the stiff defensive game played by the Broncos. Both men are of heavy, line-plunging type, that is so essential to the Notre Dame style of football as practiced by Callison.

It was upon Kostka that Callison had planned to build his offense about for the coming game with the University of Washington Huskies in Portland this Saturday.

Sunday Organ Concert Is Postponed for Game

Due to the exodus of students from the University of Oregon to Portland this week-end, there will be no organ concert Sunday, October 9, according to John Stark Evans, organist.

The next concert is scheduled for Sunday, October 16, at 5 p. m. in the auditorium in the music building, and every Sunday thereafter during the fall term of school.

Journalism Students Invited to Allens' Home

A large, black-crayoned card on the journalism shack bulletin board today announces that the Dean and Sally Allen invite all journalism students to come to their home at 2239 Birch lane, on any or every Wednesday evening, at any time between 7:30 and 10:30.

"This is not a party, a reception, or an 'at home,'" the notice states. "Come as you are, do as you please, go when you please."

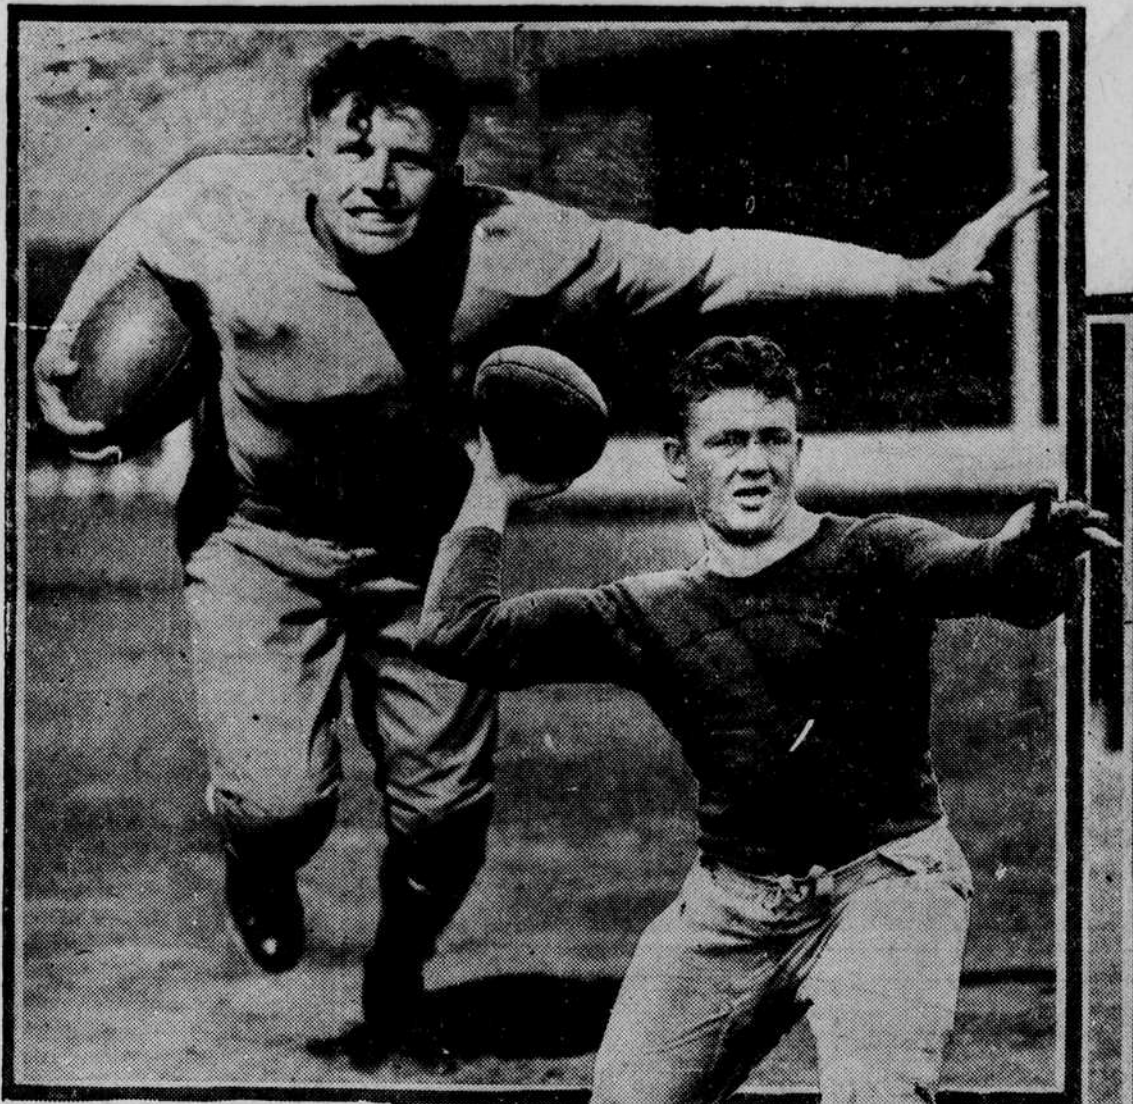

Socialist Candidate Relates Party Arguments and Plans

By JACK BELLINGER

The future of the socialist party in the colleges and among the educated classes is very encouraging. Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president, remarked Tuesday afternoon following a luncheon given in his honor at the Multnomah hotel in Portland.

Mr. Thomas said that there are now about one hundred and fifty socialist and liberal organizations and "Thomas for President" clubs in various colleges and universities throughout the United States. Some of the best activity is at the University of Minnesota, where the presidential candidate talked to a large group of students. There is also a very active group at the

Barometer Sports Editor Is Barred From Grid Practice

Bud Forrester, sports editor of the Barometer, student body publication of Oregon State college, has been barred from attending football practice at Bellfield in Corvallis, it was reported late last night in an United Press dispatch to the Eugene Morning News.

The action was taken presumably because of a story which appeared in Tuesday's issue of the Barometer, saying that Coach Paul J. Schissler would resign if he failed to defeat the University of Oregon team this year. The story appeared under a banner headline asserting that Schissler was "on the pan."

Statisticians Engaged In Consumer Survey

Professor John Rae's course in business statistics is conducting this week a consumer survey in Eugene to determine the preference of housewives for different brands of bakery goods and flours. They are also surveying types of retail institutions through which merchants prefer to conduct business.

The survey covers the entire city and the results are gained first hand by the students in the course. They are making a canvass armed with special questionnaires and forms.

Prof. Kelly Will Give Lectures Over KOAC

Professor C. I. Kelly, of the school of business administration, will give a series of 10 lectures on the "Functions of Life Insurance" over radio station KOAC, at Corvallis, beginning Friday evening, October 7, at 8:30 p. m. Lectures will be delivered on each of the following Fridays at the same hour.

These lectures are sponsored by the Life Underwriters association and the University, and are prepared by individual members of the Underwriters association under the supervision of Professor

Reid Asks Voters To Register Now

Frank B. Reid, in charge of the work against the Zorn-MacPherson "school scrambling" bill in Lane county, yesterday called attention to the fact that the roll of registered voters in the office of the county clerk failed to include certain members of the faculty and employees of the University who are entitled to vote November 8.

The registration of voters will close this Saturday. Those who have not registered may do so at Little Deady hall, Eighth and Wilamette streets; the Oregon pharmacy, Thirteenth and Kincaid streets; or at the office of the county clerk in the courthouse.

Students 21 years of age and over also may register and Reid asks that they do so before they leave the campus this week-end for the football game in Portland.

Women's Houses Vote Unanimous On Annual Derby

Open house will apparently remain a part of Oregon's traditions for another year. Helen Raitanen, president of the Heads of Houses, reported last night that women's organizations had voted unanimously to extend all men an invitation to the much-discussed "union derby." The date was set for October 28.

Social secretaries representing men's living groups met yesterday and voted without dissent to accept the invitation.

It is understood, however, that a number of houses were not represented at the meeting of the social secretaries, and that few, if any of the fraternities have taken formal votes on the question.

Only one house, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, voted last year not to participate in open house. Herb King, president, declared last night, however, that the fraternity would probably fall in line this year with the decision of the rest of the campus.

Order of the 'O' Will Lead Rally At Igloo Tonight

Preparations for the Oregon-Washington game will be brought into full swing with an all-campus serpentine and rally starting from the Co-op at 7:00 this evening, it was announced by Cecil Espy, chairman of the rally committee.

Led by the Order of the "O" and the University band, the serpentine will enter all fraternity and sorority houses along its route and gather students. The rally will travel down Kincaid to 11th street and will follow 11th to Hilyard. Students will go south on Hilyard to 13th, and east on 13th to Alder. The procession will march south on Alder to 16th street, and conclude the circle by a short cut through the graveyard to the Igloo.

The mass meeting at the Igloo will be featured by a number of peppy yells and short speeches by

Homecoming Planned For November 4, 5

Slogan Is 'Back To Fight For Oregon'

GAME AT CORVALLIS

Plans for Annual Celebration Are Rounded Into Shape by Hall and Brown

"Back to Fight for Oregon." Behind this banner, Oregon alumni will return to the campus the week-end of November 4 and 5 for their annual Homecoming and their final pledge to the University of their support at the polls on November 8, when they, their friends and all friends of higher education in Oregon will have an opportunity to vote against the Zorn-MacPherson "school scrambling" bill.

Preliminary plans for Homecoming were being made yesterday by Alexander G. Brown, secretary of the alumni association, and Robert M. Hall, president of the Associated Students.

Plans Held Up

Announcement of Homecoming plans have been delayed pending consideration by the student officials of Oregon State college on the request that the annual Oregon-Oregon State football game be transferred to Portland. Early this week word was received from Corvallis that the original plan to play the game at Corvallis would be adhered to.

Several seasons ago the plan of holding Homecoming on the occasion of Oregon State game regardless of whether it were played at Eugene or Corvallis was decided upon. Following this policy, Homecoming will be held November 4 and 5, although the game will be at Corvallis.

Rally to be Feature

Preliminary plans call for alumni participation in the bonfire rally on Friday night, November 4, and on Saturday morning, November 5, at 9:30 a. m. the annual meeting of the Alumni association will be held. This meeting will be adjourned in time for those who desire to make the trip to Corvallis on the special train rather than by automobile.

Saturday night will include an alumni reception and dance and Sunday will be left more or less open for reunions by various campus organizations and the usual vespers services.

Westminster Forum Invites New Students

Westminster forum, Sunday evening group of Westminster association, discussed "Prestige and Campus Activities," under the leadership of John L. Casteel of the University speech division.

A large turnout responded well to Mr. Casteel's points with a lively discussion ensuing. Bill Gearhart, president of the group, announced that hereafter the evening meetings will be from 6:30 to 7:30 with a social half-hour following. New students on the campus are especially urged to attend the meeting next Sunday, when another topic on campus life will be discussed.

Casteel to Visit Albany

John L. Casteel of the speech department is to leave Saturday for Albany to attend a meeting of the Intercollegiate Forensic Association of Oregon. The session will determine subject and place for the after-dinner speaking contest to be held the second Friday in December.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

Members of Eugene Y. W. membership drive may obtain cards and material at the bungalow.

"Thomas for President" club will be organized tonight at 7 o'clock in the "Y" hut.

Eugene girls wishing to join Y. W. C. A. frosh discussion groups may get information at the bungalow.

The Women's Physical Education club is giving a party tonight at 7:30 in Gerlinger hall. All P. E. majors and minors and physical education faculty are invited.

Mu Phi Epsilon will meet this afternoon at 5:30 at the home of Mrs. H. W. Chapman.

Millrace Braved By Peggy Cullers To Rescue Fags

Late Tuesday afternoon Peggy Cullers, of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority, turned mercenary in the extreme, and, fully clothed, braved the swift current of the icy millrace in a frenzied effort to rescue an unfortunate package of cigarettes.

Her heroic act was witnessed by several male students, who stood pop-eyed on the bank, too stunned to leap to her assistance.

Miss Cullers didn't need assistance, however. She retrieved the floating package with ease.

Trials Due Next Week for Men's, Women's Debates

Varsity Teams To Be Given Trips, Competition With Groups From East

Men's varsity debate tryouts will be held Tuesday evening, October 11, at Friendly hall, room 13. A five-minute speech will be required of your own choice will be required.

As a result of a complete reorganization within the speech division, the opportunities for students in forensic activities has become exceedingly plentiful. Every student will be entitled to his share of participation and training under the direction of Professor W. A. Dahlberg, who for the last two years has coached his men into two successive Pacific coast championships.

The director is particularly anxious that freshman and sophomore men try out for a place on the squad. Those who show unusual ability will debate the eastern traveling teams and will tour the northwestern states during the winter and spring terms.

All women interested in trying out for the women's varsity debate teams will meet Thursday evening, October 13, at 8 o'clock, in room 13, Friendly hall. Those who are unable to attend should see Mr. Casteel before the time of the meeting.

Each speaker will make a five-

Emerald of Air Programs To Be Resumed Monday

McMullen Named Director, Will Be Assisted by Ethan Newman

Emerald-of-the-Air, regular feature over KORE last year as an adjunct to the Emerald, will be resumed this year with the first program scheduled for Monday, October 11 at 4 o'clock. Roy McMullen who took part in programs last year has been appointed radio director by Sterling Green, managing editor of the Emerald. McMullen will be assisted by Ethan Newman who also aided in program production last year.

The programs to be given daily at 4 o'clock, will contain features from the Emerald as well as dramatic productions, songs, skits and other attractions.

Several students have indicated their desire to take part in program production and any others interested are asked to see McMullen as soon as possible. A meeting to which all interested are invited, has been announced for 4 o'clock today in the managing editor's office in the journalism building, at which necessary organization will be completed.

New Rulings Made For Incompletes

Only one term will henceforth be allowed students in which to remove incompletes from their records, it was announced yesterday by the registrar's office. A full year has always before been the limit of time for the completion.

Students earning incompletes must remove them by the close of the next term they attend college. Extension of time may in some cases be allowed upon petition to the Academic Requirements committee, through the office of the registrar. The extension will consist in the majority of students whose completion of work involves attendance of winter and spring classes.

The ruling takes place immediately, and all incompletes earned previous to the present fall term must be removed by the end of them?

Oregana Editor Announces Staff For Coming Year

Work on Book Goes Ahead Rapidly; Several New Features Planned

Virginia Wentz, editor of the 1933 Oregana, announced yesterday that the editorial staff of the publication was complete, following the appointment of the assistant, associate, and art editors, and the selection of section assistants.

Bob Zurcher, who has been active on both the Oregana and in other campus affairs, will handle the position of assistant editor of the publication; and Jack Bellinger, Sigma Delta Chi and previous member of Oregana and Emerald staffs, will be associate editor. Ralph Schomp was named art editor to take the place of Allen Proctor, who failed to return to school this year.

"Oregon Celebrities" will be the theme of this year's annual, and several new features have been planned by the staff. Work on the book is progressing rapidly and it is expected that pictures will be taken soon.

The complete editorial group is as follows: secretary, Mary Snider; sororities editors, Margaret Bean and Shirley Sylvester; fraternities, Floyd Dorris; administration, Genevieve Dunlop; publications editor, Barney Clark; women's section, May Masterton; R. O. T. C., Sterling Green; literary, Jim Brooke; music, Marie Saccomanno; alumni, Jane Opsund; school year, Eloise Dorner; juniors, Elsie Peterson; underclass, Mary Stewart; seniors, Thelma Nelson; forensics, Lillian Rankin; features, Maxine Rau; law, Dave Eyre; art, Hazel Corrigan; drama, Betty Harcombe; sports, Willard Eberhart; honoraries, Florence Nombalais; dances, Helen Raitanen; photographic, Ruth King.

Assistants named so far are: fraternities, Don Owen; school year, Edith Peterson; seniors, Patsy Lee; honoraries, Edith Clement; features, Helen Stinger; art, Rhoe York and Clayton Wentz; and office assistant, Dagmar Haugen.

Coggeshall Has Staff Position at Minnesota

Reginald Coggeshall, assistant professor of journalism here two years ago, has just been appointed to a similar position at the University of Minnesota, for 1932-33, the Publishers Service of July 21 announced.

He is to teach courses in newspaper reporting, foreign news sources, current newspaper problems, and law of the press. He will also lecture in the senior course in contemporary affairs.

Auto Driven Under Orders, Says Mother of Miss Gorrell

Mrs. O. Gorrell, whose daughter, Ardis, was the first victim of the new anti-automobile ruling, stated last night that she had insisted that her daughter use the car yesterday afternoon. It was either a case of use the car or miss a class, she said.

Outside of stating that she thought it hard to disassociate the using of cars by town students from school and family affairs, Mrs. Gorrell refused to give her opinions on the new law.

"It has been the custom in the family for me to drive Ardis to school every morning on my way to Eugene high school, Mrs. Gor-

Ardis Gorrell Canceled For Violating Auto Ban on Campus

Registration of Ardis Gorrell Canceled

CLEANUP STARTED

Immediate Action Is Taken by Faculty Committee on Driver Of Family Car

By DICK NEUBERGER

The long arm of Carlton Spencer's faculty committee reached out yesterday and cancelled the registration of Miss Ruth Ardis Gorrell of Eugene.

Thus the committee makes good its threat and promise of two days ago to begin rigid enforcement of the anti-automobile rule. Miss Gorrell, the first victim of the legislation passed by the state board of higher education last spring, was apprehended by Special Police Officer O. L. Rhinesmith as she left the Gorrell family car in front of the art building at approximately 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Upon learning that Miss Gorrell had not yet applied for a temporary permit, Rhinesmith requested her to appear before the faculty committee later in the afternoon.

Request Not Filed

Chairman Spencer of the committee said Miss Gorrell admitted she had been driving on the campus without a permit when she appeared before the group to answer to the charges. "Had Miss Gorrell filed a request for exemption from the rule, she would have had a temporary permit when approached by Officer Rhinesmith and would not have had to appear before the discipline committee," Spencer said following the meeting.

After hearing Miss Gorrell's statement of the facts, the group decided she was guilty and reported her case to the registrar's office. The latter had no choice other than to cancel her resignation in the University.

Rule Set Forth

This penalty was imposed by the state board, and is set down as follows in the rules governing the student use of automobiles: "The use of a car contrary to the regulations will result in cancellation of the student's registration. Those charged with the violation of the regulations will be granted a hearing before the same committee that grants the permits."

Miss Gorrell now can obtain readmission to the University by appearing again for the faculty committee, and stating her reasons for requesting such. Should the committee grant her plea, she then can re-register by going to the registrar's office and paying $2, which, incidentally, is twice the

Student Praxies Will Gather Here

Delegates to the 1933 meeting of the Pacific Student Presidents' association will meet on the Oregon campus next spring, it was announced yesterday by Bob Hall, Associated Students president. This campus was chosen for the next convention at the session held in the South last spring.

Hall was elected vice-president of the association. The new president of the group is Phil Kellogg of U. C. L. A. Bob Cross of Washington State is the new secretary-treasurer.

All universities and colleges on the Pacific slope are represented in the association. Delegates from about 25 colleges attended the 1932 convention.

Auto Driven Under Orders, Says Mother of Miss Gorrell

Mrs. O. Gorrell, whose daughter, Ardis, was the first victim of the new anti-automobile ruling, stated last night that she had insisted that her daughter use the car yesterday afternoon. It was either a case of use the car or miss a class, she said.

Outside of stating that she thought it hard to disassociate the using of cars by town students from school and family affairs, Mrs. Gorrell refused to give her opinions on the new law.

"It has been the custom in the family for me to drive Ardis to school every morning on my way to Eugene high school, Mrs. Gorrell stated. "Yesterday, however, I left the car with my daughter so that she might get to her post-graduate class at Eugene high and back again on time. Ardis complained of feeling ill and I insisted that she take the car and pick me up after her last class.

"While I don't care to make any statement on the merits or disadvantages of the new rule, I do feel that it is hard for students living in town to differentiate from use of the car for school use and for family affairs. I have been sending my daughter downtown every Saturday to shop. The new rule makes that impossible."
