

Lane County Clerk Speaks For Classes

Dillard Will Describe Ideas Used by Government

New System To Be Used for Students Embodying Practical Newspaper Experience

W. E. Dillard, clerk of Lane county, talked to the 11 o'clock section reporting class this morning and will talk to the 8 o'clock section a week from Thursday. He will describe the county government and court system, which the classes are studying in connection with news sources.

R. S. Bryson, city recorder, spoke to the classes on city government last week. Other townspeople will come before the classes, at various times during the year, to outline the possibilities of particular news sources. The intensive coverage plan, as worked out last year, will be put into effect November 1. Reporters will be assigned beats to include the entire city of Eugene. Classes will be divided into four practice newspapers.

Both members and professors of the reporting classes last year consider the new system far superior to the one used formerly, when regular assignments were given out at each class period. By the new system, one afternoon each week is spent by the student in gathering news and writing it up.

Plans for Intramural Volleyball Announced

"Plans for the inter-house volleyball tournament are now complete and we are urging the girls to get their houses registered at once," announced Dorothy Goff, head of intramural volleyball, yesterday. As an added incentive house practice any afternoon at 5 o'clock will be counted toward intramural practice also.

Houses must register on the W. A. A. bulletin board for entry in the tournament by Wednesday, October 19.

Prof. Hurls Issue At Non-Daters of San Diego College

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 10.—Mixed emotions rocked the student body of San Diego State college this week as it tried to decide just how to take the challenge fung at non-daters by Professor Harry C. Steinmetz of the psychology department.

The challenge, which minced no words, appeared in the form of an editorial in the Aztec, student weekly, and called upon members of both sexes, who are inclined to be timid about seeking companionship, to "get into the running."

And Professor Steinmetz offered a definite plan—a kind of automatic dating bureau: "For heaven's sake (said he) and your own, make yourself attractive to the opposite sex. do a little flirting and get a date. You know if this editorial fits you. If you haven't a date this week, forget your silly pride; fold this paper so the title of this editorial ('Does This Fit You?') shows, and walk around with it; flap it about carelessly in class today and tomorrow; interpret it where you see it as a welcome to become acquainted."

Earlier in the editorial, he declared: "Worse than being head over heels in love in college is being indifferent or socially starved through lack of contact with the opposite sex. Insofar as biological and eugenic ends are concerned, the average fraternity and sorority, especially the ritualistic sort, as a substitute for natural adjustment, is a subversive and frustrating institution."

University To Be Host to Forensics

A landmark in local speech history will be reached when the University of Oregon will play host, during March, to the Pacific Forensic league.

The league includes 12 major colleges and universities, according to statement of J. L. Casteel of the speech division, and their sessions are generally of three days' duration. Present officers are Professor Orr, of Washington, president; J. L. Casteel, assistant professor of Oregon, vice-president; Professor McCall, of Washington, secretary. The session of the preceding year was at Pomona, Washington, and campus representatives were Wallace Campbell, senior in sociology; Rolla Reedy, senior in education; and Hobart Wilson, a last year's senior in law.

Activities of this year's session. Mr. Casteel stated, will include extempore speaking, after-dinner speaking, impromptu, forum and a debate tournament.

Interaction Class To Be Conducted Weekly

School teachers, Principals, clerks, bookkeepers, secretaries, housewives, printers, nurses, and barbers, are among those occupations represented in the social interaction class conducted every Wednesday evening by S. H. Jameson, professor in sociology, in the Commerce building.

The course is available only through the extension division of the University, and the total enrollment at present numbers 58.

Westminster Officers To Have Picnic Tonight

Under the leadership of Rev. Fred R. Morrow, student pastor, and Les Dunton, student leader of the Westminster organizations, the officers of the various groups will gather at the park behind Skinner's butte for a short picnic tonight.

According to Mrs. Bryant, hostess, the officers will meet at the Westminster house at 5:30, and from there will go to the park, where they plan to eat at 6:00.

Bovard To Head OSPEA Group For Coming Year

Local Profs Are Elected Officers by Physical Ed Association

Dean J. F. Bovard of the physical education department, was elected president of the Oregon State Physical Education association at its initial meeting of the year last Saturday, held in the Y. W. C. A. building at Portland.

This group is composed of all people in the state of Oregon who are in any way connected with physical instruction, including all university, college, and high school instructors as well as recreation workers.

The meeting Saturday was held for two purposes: the election of officers and the organization of the program for the coming convention which is to be held at Portland during Christmas holidays.

Following are the remainder of the officers elected: Dr. C. V. Langton, O. S. C., vice-president; Miss Jane Woodruff, U. of O., secretary; Miss Florence Baker, Portland, treasurer.

Executive committee: J. E. Hewitt, O. S. C., Miss Florence D. Alden, U. of O., and Margaret Hagedorn, Portland.

Will V. Norris To Read for Meeting

Will V. Norris, associate professor of physics, has received an invitation to read a paper, written on whatever subject he wishes, before the Physics conference of the Willamette valley, which is to be held on the second Saturday of November at Reed college in Portland. The members of the conference will discuss the uniformity of subject matter in physics, and any new suggested plans for teaching.

This meeting, which is held once each term, is attended by physics professors from all schools in the valley, including Linfield college, Reed college, Willamette university, Pacific university, Albany college, Oregon State college, and the University of Oregon. It is a local organization, although the members plan at some time to become a section of the national American Physical society.

YWCA Mass Meeting Today for Freshmen

All freshman women interested in the activities of the campus Y. W. C. A. are invited and urged to attend the mass meeting to be held at the bungalow, on Kincaid street near the Co-op, this afternoon at 5. At that time nominees for official positions on the fresh commission will be introduced, and will give short speeches.

Because of ineligibility through higher class standing, the name of Ruth Vannice as a candidate for treasurer has been substituted by that of Virginia Younie. Elections will be held at the bungalow from 12 until 4 Thursday.

Stromberg To Be Secretary of 'Y' For Coming Year

The University Y. M. C. A. has begun a new venture in leadership. With the appointment of Eugene T. Stromberg, graduate student, as secretary for the coming year, the "hut" and its activities are now in charge of a man young enough to be on common footing with undergraduates, and experienced enough to be a capable leader.

Stromberg, who graduated in 1931 from Nebraska Wesleyan at Lincoln, included the presidency of the college YMCA cabinet among the activities of a distinguished undergraduate career. Last year he was on the staff of the Omaha city YMCA.

Stromberg is sympathetic with the difficulties of college journalists. For two years he was editor of the weekly "Wesleyan" at his college. He was a member of Blue Key, senior men's honorary corresponding to the Oregon Friars. His honoraries include Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic, and Phi Gamma Mu, national social science.

BAREFOOTED LASSIES HOLD LURE FOR MULLINS

(Continued from Page One) Mullins were split up, "Kayo" being the only one that was able to leave town, due to the efforts of the police to keep anyone from going eastward.

Mullins, however, continued on toward Kentucky, passing through Kansas City, St. Louis and Louisville, finally arriving at his home town, Jenkins, Kentucky, in ten and one-half days traveling time. Kayo lows he feels right at home there; for there are about 2000 Mullinses in the one county surrounding Jenkins and every other man he spoke to was a relative. His mother and youngest brother are at present living in a log cabin over 100 years old.

He claims that conditions are considerably different from Oregon. There four-fifths of the women are bare-footed and every other mountain man is a moonshiner. "Corn" retails at $1.50 the quart.

The old feud spirit still remains and with vengeance. On the day "Kayo" left to return to Eugene eight men were killed in one of the traditional quarrels 20 miles below his home. All the participants in the quarrel were extinguished. That particular district averages one death a week from this cause. Mullins says that most of these feud killings occur at the weekly church meetings. Most of the men labor peacefully on their farms or at their moonshining during the week, but they come to church pretty well liquored up and if they happen to see an old family enemy, a homicide is likely to occur.

"Kayo," whose real name is Clarence E. Mullins, is one of nine brothers in a family of 14 (the average Mullins family, by the way, is 16). He has made his own way in the world from the age of 14, visiting most of the states in the Union under the pressure of the wanderlust.

"A Nous, La Liberte"

This picture is decidedly different from the usual run of Hollywood productions, and must be viewed with different standards of appreciation in mind if it is to be enjoyed. Anyone expecting melodrama, broad humor, or a brilliant love story will be definitely disappointed.

The appeal of this film is in its satire on industrial life, human society, modern love, and Charlie Chaplin. Rene Clair uses slapstick as the medium for conveying his shafts at modern manners and customs, and the action, therefore, must be watched more carefully if one is not to miss the subtle commentaries of the author.

Scenery and photography cannot be criticized, and the massive settings afford a greater relief from the commonplace devices of the Hollywood studios.

Two friends escape from prison. Emile is recaptured while Louis succeeds to the ownership of a huge phonograph factory. Emile at the end of his term follows a pretty girl into a factory and to his surprise he is set to work. After some trouble in the shop, he is brought before the owner. It is Louis. After the first surprise they renew their friendship and celebrate with a hilarious party. The police soon learn that Louis is an escaped convict, and the two friends escape as beggars, broke but happy.

CLAIRE AND MAGRUDER PUBLISH NEW LAW TEXT

Dr. Guy S. Claire, of the law school, in conjunction with Dr. Frank A. Magruder, of Oregon State college, finished a book this summer called "Elements of Constitutional Law." The new text has gone to the publisher and Dr. Claire expects it to be published in time to be used as a college text next fall.

This book will emphasize things in constitutional cases that are not ordinarily printed in other books. The work was divided into two parts between the two professors, Dr. Claire taking the legal aspect and Dr. Magruder taking the political side.

COLUMBUS DAY BRINGS FORTH DREAM OF CHRIS

(Continued from Page One) Spaniard) inexplicable habits of bathing often and wearing little or no clothing, peered out from behind trees as the flag of Spain was raised on a nameless islet far to the east of the "Indies" they were supposed to be.

Now Columbus and 1492 vie with George Washington and 1776 for popularity, in spite of the fact that we realize that if it hadn't been Columbus it probably would have been somebody else who ran into dry land where there ought to have been still more ocean, into a new country where there should have been the ancient and fabled "Indies." Indeed, they say that Lief Erickson was 494 years before Columbus. But what did Lief do about it? Not enough to make much difference to us.

It would be interesting to imagine Columbus' predicament if he

Committee Plans Textbook Change

The textbook committee, which is responsible for the changes in textbooks every two years, will meet on November 25 to decide what books will be changed in the coming year. From now until then they will make a careful study of all the new texts published in the last two years. This committee, which is a legal requirement of the state of Oregon, also undertakes the duties of a course of study commission to cater to the growing needs of the various courses.

Jamboree Plans Talked

Plans for the Journalism Jam, all-campus dance usually held on homecoming week-end, were discussed at the meeting of Sigma Delta Chi today. The dance has not been listed on the social calendar as yet, and the date it will be given has not been decided.
