'Buttonholing' Mars Second Frosh Election

Shady Tactics Charged At Polling Place

STATEMENT IS MADE

Bowerman Says Electioneering Not So Bad as in Other Years

By JULIAN PRESCOTT

That the freshman elections should go off without any repercussions seemed almost too good to be true. And it was.

For even in the same issue of the Emerald that announced the results of the election appeared a communication to the editor protesting the "buttonholing" of voters at the polls.

And shortly after the publication of the protest the student body officer in charge of the election, Bill Bowerman, issued a statement concerning the campaign tactics of the parties in the field. He neither denied nor alibied. His statement follows:

"It is true that there was electioneering at the polls. On several occasions election officials told the offenders to go outside the lobby of Johnson hall, but they returned pretty quick to tell those marking their ballots how to do it.

"One time when I went to the polls after a class there was a group of men campaigning for one candidate or ticket and a group of women working for another. The only difference was that the women were more efficient, each co-ed taking one voter, while the men ganged up on the persons whose vote they wished to get.

"Class elections have always been held in Johnson or Villard hall without any particular difficulty from electioneering. It would undoubtedly be an improvement if voters could have absolute privacy while they are marking their ballots.

"Electioneering at the polls could be stopped quicker and easier, however, if the political leaders of organizations would not urge the members of their group to go to the polls to persuade every voter to vote for their candidate."

Disinterested observers at the polls confirmed Bowerman's statement that the "buttonholing" was being done by the supporters of at least two of the candidates for president. They also said that from the aspect of electioneering the election this year was considerable of an improvement over that of last year.

Penny Pinchers Watch Library Fines Change

You who find it necessary to hoard your pennies in this so-called depression had better watch your p's and q's when you borrow books from the circulation library at Condon from now on; for, get this—beginning today, an additional fine of 10 cents will be charged for all fines on overdue books that are not paid when the book is returned.

This new penalty was added to cover the cost of mailing reminders to negligent or absent-minded students who fail to return the books that are in constant demand, and also to stop the late return of so many of the popular novels.

This Gal Trades Cattle for an Education

Miss Ellen Percy, of Plettenberg, La., a freshman in the Louisiana State university, pictured when she rode her horse onto the campus and shook hands with President James M. Smith of the school. Miss Percy brought nine head of cattle, some of which are seen grazing in the background, which she traded for her tuition fees.

Eugene Students May Drive Cars For Family Use

Interpretation of Ruling Is Made by Enforcement Committee

Town students will be permitted to drive family cars at the order of their parents on family business not connected with the University or social purposes, it was announced last night by Carlton Spencer, chairman of the auto enforcement board.

At the meeting of the board yesterday, the greater part of the time was taken up by discussion of local students and family cars. A number of petitions relating to family driving were brought before the board.

Omar Hoskins, who suffered cancellation of registration at the meeting of the board Monday, had not made application for reinstatement last night.

A new statement was brought before the group for consideration and was adopted as an established part of the regulations now in force governing student use of autos.

The complete ruling follows:

"The regulations governing student use of automobiles promulgated by the state board of higher education prohibit "students who are local residents from driving family cars." This is inter-

Faculties Unite in Use Of KOAC for Lectures

Since the combining of the administration of the University of Oregon and Oregon State college, the Corvallis radio station KOAC is used by faculty members of both institutions for a series of educational talks.

Professor John M. Rae is now giving a series of twelve lectures on "The Human Side of Banking." His lectures are delivered at 7:30 every Tuesday. Next Tuesday he will give his third talk on "When and How Banks Lend Money."

Last Changes In 'Pigger's Guide' Due Tomorrow

Students! Stop, look ,listen! Final proofs are being read on the student directory, so if you want to be certain the boy friend (or the girl) can find you, make sure that your latest address is recorded at Johnson hall. Tomorrow's the deadline, so you'd best get your number in the "Pigger's Guide" —unless you want to be in for a long, lonely winter.

Dean W. L. Morse On Committee of Regional Council

Dr. Seashore To Be Other University of Oregon Representative

Dean Wayne L. Morse of the law school has received word that he has been appointed committee member of the 1932-33 Pacific Coast Regional council. Dr. Robert Seashore, of the psychology department, is the other University of Oregon representative.

This council is a western branch of the American Social Science Research council, whose purpose is to make investigations in the field of social science. The other branch of this research council is the Eastern Regional council.

At the Pacific Regional council conference held in San Francisco, June 17, 18, and 19, the University was represented by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, Dean Morse, Dr. Seashore, and David Faville, then dean of the school of business administration.

Previous to last June Dr. Hall was president of the Pacific Coast Regional council, and is now succeeded by Dr. William B. Munro, of the University of California.

Law Students To Have Entertainment Tonight

At 7:30 this evening the law school will make merry at their smoker, to be held at the Craftsmen club. Three skits by the law classes and short talks by members of the faculty will provide for the entertainment. Refreshments will follow the program.

Invitations to attend have been extended to all downtown lawyers and judges.

Adams Has Position

Rev. John Maxwell Adams, ex-University pastor and director of the Westminster house at Eugene, is now pastor of the Northminister Presbyterian church of Columbus, Ohio. Rev. Mr. Adams left Eugene at the close of last year's spring term after spending four years here.

Nineteen Selected At Tryouts To Be On Debate Squad

Three Last Year Members Remain To Represent University

Oregon's bid for the Northwest debate championship has started. Nineteen men were selected for the varsity squad at tryouts held in Friendly hall last night under the supervision of Assistant Professor W. A. Dahlberg, director of men's debate.

Three veterans of last year's team remain to mount the rostrum for the University in the extended debating tournament that will begin next term. George Bennett, Stephen Kahn, and Thomas Tongue were the trio who will again represent the school at home and abroad. Several more members of the 1932 team are expected to join the squad.

Other aspirants who were selected for membership on the varsity debate squad are: W. H. Atkinson, M. F. Delauney, Warren Gill, Willard Hall, Thomas Hartfiel, George L. Hibbard, D. C. Holladay, Merl B. Nash, F. L. Levings, Howard Ohmart, Theodore Pursley, Herbert O. Skalet, Wil-

'Y' Representatives To Attend Conference

Three representatives of the campus will attend the regional conference of the northwest field council of student Y. M. C. A. to be held in Portland next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Those who will attend are: Professor Nelson L. Bossing, chairman of the executive committee of the Pacific northwest field conference of the student Y. M. C. A.; Rolla Reedy, chairman of the student field council and president of the student Y. M. C. A. on the campus; and Jack Bellinger, northwest field editor of the "Intercollegian."

Charity Plan Gets Approval Of Committee

Executive Council Says Benefit Idea O. K.

NOW UP TO O. S. C.

Neuberger States That Emerald Will Step Aside, Now That It Has Made Suggestion

The University executive council, previously on record as favoring the moving of the Oregon-Oregon State game to Portland, yesterday said it was in favor of setting aside a portion of the proceeds for charity, provided the contest is held in the state metropolis.

The body, acting upon the suggestion made by the Emerald Tuesday, did not reiterate its previous stand in regards to the location of the game, but merely added that it was willing to give a portion of the receipts to charity if Portland is chosen as the locale.

Now Up to Corvallis

The council took the attitude that it is up to Oregon State Agricultural college to make any forward step in changing the site of the game, as that school is the host this season.

The action of the executive council was the most important development yesterday in the move to send the game to Portland on a benefit basis. Dick Neuberger, editor of the Emerald, and originator of the suggestion, said he felt the Emerald had done its part in making the suggestion and that henceforth it was up to the governing bodies of the two colleges.

Neuberger Makes Statement

"I am glad the Emerald had the opportunity to suggest the charity game," Neuberger said. "I feel that the paper has done its part, and that from now on the decision is up to those in authority."

Newspapers of the state commented widely upon the matter yesterday. The Eugene Register-Guard, this city's larger newspaper, commended the move, while

Boardman Announces Atwater Kent Audition

The Atwater Kent local audition for Eugene and Lane county is to be held at the school of music auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to Arthur Boardman, local chairman for the 1932 National Radio audition. The public is invited to hear this audition which will be in the nature of a recital.

Eight men and six women have entered this contest, among them the leading singers of the University. The man and the woman judged winners here will represent Eugene at the state contest to be held at Portland over station KGW, October 22 and 23.

Sophomore Manager Tryouts Will Be Today

All men wishing to try out for positions as sophomore manager of football are asked to meet Ted Robb, senior manager, at the property roo min the basement of McArthur court this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Robb urges that houses send men who wish to gain experience from working with athletes.

One of the Bruins Going for a Stroll

And what a stroll! This lad is Bob Decker, UCLA halfback, and when he goes, he goes in a large way. He's going to try his best against the Webfoots this next Saturday in Portland.

Nominations For Soph Treasurer To Be Held Today

Sophomore class nominations for the purpose of electing a new treasurer will be held at 7:15 this evening in Villard assembly.

Merle Sleeper, elected to the office of treasurer last spring, failed to return to the campus, which necessitates the second year class to elect some one in his place. Part of the meeting will be devoted to discussing plans for the sophomore informal dance.

Nella Best Makes Picture of Fossil 10,000 Years Old

Amongst the fossils is today's little episode, played by Miss Nella Best of the sculpture department, and a whale's head, 10,000 years old, a previous resident of Newport, Oregon, district, in fact a very previous resident.

Miss Best was thoroughly enjoying the contours of the skull and was reproducing them in light and shade—mostly shade for it's hard to get the light on a 10,000 year old beastie.

The drawings will be used in the magazine to be published by Dr. Packard, dean of the science school.

A feeling of deep reverence overcame me when I realized the whale was useful after all these years, and would far outlast the usefulness of any mortal beings.

Marjorie Shane Now Teacher in Montana U.

Word has been received that Marjorie Shane, an Oregon graduate of last spring, is now at the University of Montana at Missoula, where she holds the position of assistant instructor in English. While there Miss Shane will study for her master's degree, which she expects to receive by next August.

While on the campus Miss Shane was active in literary work, holding the position of president of Pot and Quill, local women's writing honorary, for two successive years. She had her major work in English and was graduated with honors.

Mrs. Hall Will Depart For Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Arnold Bennett Hall has announced that she plans to leave Portland for Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

In a very brief statement Mrs. Hall revealed her sentiments with regard to leaving the University.

"I regret very much leaving this campus," she said, "but my days spent here will always be held in my affection."

All-Campus Rally Dance To Be Held At Igloo Saturday

Portland Tilt To Be Given On Gridgraph; All Invited

McArthur court will doll up in its best rally clothes Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 p. m. when an all-campus rally dance will be given to arouse enthusiasm for the Oregon-U. C. L. A. game in Portland. The rally, admission to which is 10 cents, will give students who remain on the campus an opportunity to hear and see the results of the Portland game, while at the same time they may dance to the music of Abbie Green and his orchestra.

The dance is sponsored by members of Skull and Dagger and Kwama, sophomore service honoraries. Walt Gray, president of the men's organization, is in charge of arrangements.

The $2,000 "Gridgraph," an electric scoreboard owned by the student body which shows the game play by play through the facilities of electric lights will be put into operation along with radio to bring the complete picture of the game to the students. The loudspeaker equipment will be used to make the radio audible to all. Refreshments will be obtainable and other rally material furnished.

Bob Zurcher, in charge of the ticket sale, states that the cardboards will go on sale tomorrow at 10 cents each. Each living organization will be canvassed by the ticket venders so that any who wish may purchase their ticket in advance.

The dance will be an all-campus, no-date affair, and campus clothes will be in vogue.

Alpha Kappa Psi, national honerty room in the basement of Mchold a meeting today at 4 o'clock, in room 106 in the Commerce building.

There will be a general discussion of eligible men for pledging into the honorary fraternity. Charles Gillespie is president of the local organization.

Speedy Half Lost For Go With Uclans

He Suffers Dislocated Shoulder Bone

ART COUNTED UPON

Big End From Benson Tech Is Put in Backfield To Help Bobbitt

By BRUCE HAMBY
(Emerald Sports Editor)

With wrinkles in Prink Callison's youthful brow still very apparent since Mike Mikulak's confinement in the University infirmary, the Oregon coach got a new case of forehead furrows last night when Art Clarkson, speedy sophomore halfback, dislocated his shoulder and was also removed to the campus hospital.

Clarkson's injury occurred during the final minutes of last night's long workout. He was hit by two tacklers while carrying the ball and his shoulder dislocated where the collarbone and shoulderblade join.

Doc Gives Verdict

According to Dr. Sante Caniparoli, Clarkson will be out for at least a month. This means he will not be able to play until the games with U. S. C. and St. Mary's.

Callison had counted upon Clarkson heavily for the U. C. L. A. game next Saturday at Portland. The former Seattle star was the fastest back on the squad. His ability to throw passes with either hand made him doubly dangerous.

Scotty Smith, reserve tackle, was another on the injury list as a result of last night's practice. A severe cut over his eye made three stiches necessary.

Butch Morse Moved

Meanwhile Callison moved Butch Morse, reserve end, into a fullback position in an effort to find someone who could aid Howard Bobbitt in backing the line. Morse weighs 190 pounds and may break into the line-backing berth permanently. Bobbitt will start in Mikulak's place Saturday, Callison announced last night.

A two-hour workout in the afternoon and a long skull-practice and dummy scrimmage at 7:30 last night ended the week's strenuous practice for the Bruin game. A lighter workout today will end preparations. The team leaves Friday morning at 11:46 for Portland.

33 To Travel

Thirty-three players will make the trip to Portland. The list will not be made up until tonight, but it is believed that it will be almost the same as the Washington traveling squad. The team will stay at Waverley Country club.

Rhodes Tryouts Slated for Sunday

Tryouts for Rhodes scholarships will be held Sunday afternoon in the graduate office at 107 Johnson hall, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Clara Fitch, secretary of the graduate school.

Every person who is interested in taking the examination is requested to visit Mrs. Fitch some time during the day to complete arrangements.

Exact time of the examination will be given out tomorrow. The reason given for holding it on Sunday is that no other time could be found not already occupied by classes, seminars, or other scheduled events.

White Elephant Club to Meet Saturday For Godly Revelry

Legend has it that on very special nights the gods of old Olympus descend from their celestial heights to frolic and disport themselves. Tales are told of nectar, ambrosia, high jinks, godly revelry. We hate to draw a parallel, but we might tell a tale of high jinks among our own godly—white elephants!

Saturday night the faculty goes jazz age at the club. Says Editor Pat Morrissette of the Faculty Flute:

"There will be dancing, games, stunts, gossip (bring your own) and amusement both dignified, hilarious, and comely."

Have you a mental picture of Stephenson Smith in a bit of comely and hilarious amusement? Says Editor Morrissette further: "Wear sun glasses, eye shades, red handkerchiefs, Chinese whiskers, ear rings, toupees, wigs, turbans, picture hats, sun bonnets, frosh lids, monocles. You can be original, but do not come in your bare face."

This really isn't bad. We're told that it's white elephants be-

Engagement of Bob Hall and Marian Chapman Announced

News of the engagement of Miss Marian Chapman, president of Phi Theta Upsilon and member of Mortar Board, to Robert Hall, student body president, was broken simultaneously last night at a bridge supper in Miss Chapman's home and at the dinner table of Sigma Pi Tau fraternity.

No date has been set for the wedding, the couple reported.

Sixteen friends were present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chapman, Miss Chapman's parents, when the announcement was told by bridge tallies at each place.

At the Sigma Pi Tau house the betrothal was made known by Harry Schenk, president. Later in the evening Hall's fraternity brothers serenaded Miss Chapman's home.

Both students have occupied leading positions in the activities of the Associated Students throughout their University careers. Both are now seniors.

Hall is the son of Professor and Mrs. Robert C. Hall, his father occupying the position of instructor in journalism and superintendent of the University press.
