

DUCKS SET TO BATTLE BRUINS IN SHRINE GAME

Oregon Freshman Gridsters Scalp Indian Tribe Oregon, UCLA Grid Squads Will Tangle This Afternoon At 2

Ducklings Beat Chemawa Grid Squad, 33 to 0

Frosh Backs, Linemen Display Good Ball

LOSERS OUTPLAYED

McCredie, Milligan, Michek, Arey Break Into Scoring Column Against Braves

By NED SIMPSON Rolling up a score of 19 points in the first half and 14 in the second, the 1932 Duckling grid-machine overwhelmed the Redskins from Chemawa, 33 to 0.

The Indians put up a stubborn defense, especially when their goal-line was threatened.

The Indians kicked off to start the game. The frosh returned it for 20 yards. Then, on a series of end runs and reverses, featured by the running of Milligan and McCredie, the frosh forged down the field for their first touchdown, made by McCredie. He missed the kick for point.

Second Quarter The second-quarter began with the Redskins backed up on their own 5-yard line. They kicked to their 35-yard line. The Ducklings once again started on a ground-gaining rampage, but the Indians held for downs on their 3-yard line. The Braves kicked to their 33, and it was first down for the frosh. Michek went through tackle for seven. Mountain, on a reverse, made it another first down on the Indians' 16-yard line.

The frosh kicked off to begin the second half, and Dumont, Indian lineman, was hurt. He was replaced by Andrews. Chemawa kicked, and Milligan, McCredie, and Michek ambled down the field for another tally—Milligan making the score and conversion.

On the next play, a pass, Wilder, star halfback on the Chemawa team, who has only one arm, intercepted the toss and streaked 40 yards down the field before he was caught by Milligan. The Indians were forced to kick, and the frosh started another march into the Redskins' territory. The quarter ended with the ball on the Indian 10-yard line.

The beginning of the third quarter found the yearling first string, with Leemans in the lineup for the

(Continued on Page Four)

Here's the Chap That Leads the Bruins

Bill Spaulding, the resolute coach of the University of California at Los Angeles, who hopes to upset the Webfoots' straight record of victories over the California team. And as dope goes, Bill stands quite a good chance, too.

Get-Wise Fete Is To Be Sponsored For Frosh Girls

Skits, Dancing, Food Will Furnish Diversion For Guests

Free fun and food will be enjoyed by all freshman women at the get-wise party sponsored for them as a last get-together with their counsellors. The affair will be held Wednesday evening, October 19, at 7:30 p. m., in the women's gym in Gerlinger hall.

Campus clothes will be the rule, and a completely informal good time is promised, with skits, dancing, and refreshments to furnish diversion. The A. W. S. council, Y. W. C. A. cabinet, and W. A. A. council will be hostesses.

(Continued on Page Four)

20,000 To Attend Game At Portland, Reports Robnett

A crowd of from 15 to 20 thousand people will attend the U. C. L. A.-Oregon game in Portland today, it is estimated by R. H. Robnett, assistant graduate manager.

At the last report of the ticket sale at the Co-op, between 300 and 500 students had purchased their pasteboards, compared with the thousand or more sold last week for the Washington game.

Plans for Jamboree Will Be Made Monday

Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, and Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism honorary, will have a joint luncheon meeting Monday noon, at the Anchorage, to discuss plans for the Journalism Jamboree, annual dance sponsored by the two organizations.

The dance is to be given Homecoming week-end. Alumni members of the honoraries are invited to attend the meeting Monday.

Colegium Augustale To Hold First Meeting

Colegium Augustale, Latin club, will hold its first meeting of the year, Monday evening, 8 o'clock, at the Phi Mu sorority. Election of a new president will take place at this time. Laura Goldsmith, retiring president, will preside over the meeting.

Miss Goldsmith invites all students in the Latin department to attend.

Essays for Frosh Reading Contest Due Next Monday

Everything from Zane Grey to Nietzsche may feature in the essays for the freshman reading contest, which will be due this week-end, the Co-op announces. The contest is an annual feature sponsored by the Co-op and the University library.

Thirty dollars worth of books from the Co-op is awarded as the first prize, with other prizes in a lesser quantity. Students who signed up last year for the contest will compete, using the books that they have read during the year as the subject for the theme. No definite type of book must be reviewed, but the awards will be made chiefly on the value of the essay in treating with the books covered.

An attempt should be made to show the effect of the works read upon the reader's philosophy and to show what he got out of the books. Last year's winner was James Brooke, at present a junior in pre-medics.

All work should be handed in at the Co-op by Monday at the latest, Miss Roberts stated.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

Theta Nu Epsilon will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the College Side inn.

Joint Y. W. C. A. cabinet and advisory board meeting Monday, 8 p. m., at the bungalow. Cabinet members are asked to call board soon.

The Latin club will meet Monday evening at 8 at the Phi Mu sorority. Latin students invited.

Bill Advocates Renew Activity On School Move

Proponents of Measure Ignore Figures

NORMALS ATTACKED

Buildings and Classroom Space At Oregon Claimed To Be Inadequate

By ALEXANDER G. BROWN Renewed activity on the part of the proponents of the Zorn-Macpherson bill and their continued insistence in making claims that do not hold water in the light of the bill itself, brings to the fore certain facts that should be kept in mind by Oregon alumni in their work against this measure which seeks to rob them of their alma mater and wreck higher education for Oregon at a greatly increased burden to the taxpayer.

Chief among the claims of the would be school movers is the statement that the buildings on the University of Oregon campus are ramshackle, old, and about ready to fall to the ground. Any alumnus knows this to be untrue and the obvious falsity of the claim only serves further to create distrust of the proponents of the bill. In fact there are 30 serviceable buildings on the University campus, more than half of them of new and excellent construction. The bill's advocates have consistently ignored official figures, crediting the University with only 89,819 square feet of classroom and office space while generously crediting the state college with 251,800 square feet.

The official figures from the state board of higher education are 130,649 for the University and 205,456 for the college. The large amount of laboratory space at the college requires more floor space, and the federal survey states that there is 20 per cent greater use of the plant at Corvallis than at the University, implying that there is greater room for expansion at Eugene than Corvallis.

Sufficient Acreage Here

In the catechism of arguments for the bill is also found the argument that the acreage at Eugene is not sufficient to allow for expansion. The fact of the matter is: The University now owns approximately 100 acres on the campus proper, which exceeds Corvallis by 5 acres. The University of Minnesota has 14,000 students as compared to about 2,500 to 3,000 at the University of Oregon, and yet is able to accommodate these students on a campus of 105 acres; California has 19,235 students on 152 acres; Yale 5,290 on 70 acres. Modern efficiency demands concentration, not vast parklands.

The bill's backers cry: "This bill will save 20 million dollars—in 20 years." Even if the statement were true; the last part carries considerable significance, and is the joker in the pack. This year and next year and probably the next decade and a half there would be no savings, but large capital outlays for new buildings and the huge expense of getting an entirely new set-up for higher education functioning smoothly. By the time the promised heaven of 20 years hence arrives, taxpayers will be so bleated and beaten that should the promised saving materialize—of which there is no proof that it will—many taxable properties will have been confiscated. The proponents have been asked in this connection, "What allowance have

(Continued on Page Three)

Pigskin Scamper To Make Campus Grid-Conscious

Rally! Rally! Oregon's campus will go football-minded today from 2 to 5 p. m. when Abbie Green and his band will play for the "Pigskin Scamper" at McArthur court. The electric grid-graph will be used in connection with the radio to bring the Oregon-U. C. L. A. grid tilt to the students from Multnomah stadium in Portland.

Tickets for the dance are only 10 cents and may be obtained from any member of Skull and Dagger, Kwama, and Thespian.

The dance is a no-date affair with campus clothes in order.

Dunkers To Wield Doughnuts, Drink Cider Thursday

Begin Sales With Splash; 1000 Dozen Sinkers Y.W.C.A. Goal

Annual campus dunk season starts with a splash Wednesday, October 19, sponsored by the Y. W. C. A., and introduced to the University that day when the A. W. S. serves doughnuts and cider at the "get-wise" party. Thursday will open campus sales.

The goal this year is 1000 dozen doughnuts. The Dunkers' union has pledge buttons ready, and the first to be pinned will go to Bob Tall, A. S. U. O. president; Louise Webber, A. W. S. head; Almee Ten, Y. W. president; and Dick Neuberger, editor of the Emerald. Louise Barclay will head the directorate.

Oregon donut day was originated two years ago by the Y. W. C. A. commission, when 622 dozen doughnuts were sold. The following year the plan was taken over by the organization as a yearly project and is continuing this year under that plan.

Hoskins' Petition Granted for Car

The petition for reinstatement of Omar Hoskins, whose registration was cancelled Monday for violation of the University ban on student autos, was presented to the faculty enforcement board yesterday and granted.

The action took place at a short meeting held for the express purpose of considering Hoskins' case. A permit was also granted to him which will allow him to drive a car to and from the University. The announcement was turned over to the registrar's office, where, upon the payment of the $2 re-registration fee, Hoskins will be permitted to restore his previous scholastic standing.

Women Debaters Hold Preliminary Meeting

A meeting preliminary to women's debate tryouts was held Thursday evening at speech headquarters, according to J. L. Casteel of the speech division. Those present were Geraldine Hickson, Helen Harriman, Frances Mayes, Pauline George, Ruth Smith, Jean Leonard, Louise Smith, and Margaret Van Cleve.

The first squad meeting is to be Monday afternoon at 3:30. It is still possible, Mr. Casteel stated, for any women students interested to turn out.

Oregon, UCLA Grid Squads Will Tangle This Afternoon At 2

Finance Plan for Cities Offered by Astoria Manager

Sale of Municipal Bonds Advanced as Way Out Of Straits

A plan whereby cities threatened with insolvency due to constantly increasing delinquent taxes and heavy bonded indebtedness could be saved from this predicament, and the delinquent taxpayers aided at the same time was proposed by J. L. Hope, city attorney, and George Garrett, city manager, of Astoria, at the meeting of the League of Oregon Cities here yesterday. The plan will be referred to the legislative committee of the league and if recommended the organization will seek to have legislation passed at the next session putting the plan into operation.

Under Mr. Hope's plan taxpayers would be allowed to buy up municipal bonds, which in some cases at present are selling as low as 20 cents on the dollar, and apply them at par value for taxes.

In this way the delinquent property would be paid up, with the possibility of again collecting taxes in full on it, the taxpayer would be enabled to clear himself of the heavy indebtedness, and the city could be saved from bankruptcy forced by the bonded indebtedness load.

A committee to draft legislation on city problems was appointed at the close of the session by William H. Briggs, city attorney of Ashland, president, who will serve with the group. Other members are J. L. Hope, city attorney of Astoria; F. P. Farrell, city attorney of Medford; C. Schuebel, city attorney for Oregon City; Williametta McElroy, Portland; E. C. Smith, city attorney of Hood River; Celia L. Gavin, city attorney for The Dalles; J. W. McInturff, city attorney for Marshfield.

Infirmary Rivals Spas With Nine Rest Patients

The infirmary continues to rival the German spas as far as rest cures are concerned. Nine students are confined at the present time. Those listed as being in attendance are Harriet Smith, Ida Markuson, Betty Williams, Dorothy McMillan, Janet Osborne, Arthur Riehl, Chester Pritchard, Harlan Thompson, and Arthur Clarkson.

U. O. Extension Center Offering 96 Courses

The Portland extension center is now a part of the state board of higher education, and opened in Portland on September 26, with 96 courses as part of the extension program of the University, state college and normal schools. In addition to the resident faculty, a number of instructors from Eugene and Corvallis are teaching extension center courses.

Knowledge Of 'Buttonholing' Denied By Frosh President

By JULIAN PRESCOTT Comes now the recently elected president of the freshman class and expresses regret that rumors of questionable tactics in the recent freshmen election are being circulated to the point of a communication being addressed to the editor of the Emerald.

Allen Wall, president of the yearlings, yesterday, at the solicitation of the Emerald, made the following statement: "If buttonholing went on at the polls during this freshman election I did not know a thing about it. I would hate to think I won my office by this practice and feel justified in saying that if this method was used it was absolutely unknown to me.

"If an excuse is needed, which I

Contest To Be Played in Portland Stadium EXPECT FAST FIGHT

Webfoots Face Third Successive Hard Battle; Bobbitt Will Replace Mikulak

By BRUCE HAMBY PORTLAND, Oct. 14—(Special)

—Once more Portland assumed a holiday air as it made ready to watch Oregon and the University of California at Los Angeles battle tomorrow afternoon in a Shrine benefit football game. The annual charity event starts at 2 o'clock at the Multnomah stadium.

Festive airs were not so apparent tonight. Only a small proportion of the huge crowd of Oregon rooters present last Saturday were in Portland for tomorrow's game. The lack of Washington rooters was more than made up for by colorful Shrine bands and high school students who are backing the game.

Game to be Colorful Tomorrow's game will have all the color of a three-ring circus. Massed band concerts and drills by uniformed Shrine bands and drill teams will precede the game. Between halves special entertainment has been planned.

The Westwood Bruins are staking all on a victory. Since their entrance into the Pacific coast conference four years ago, they have considered Oregon one of their chief opponents. Every one of the four contests between the two schools has been close and bitterly fought.

Oregon Faces Hart Tilt Oregon is facing its third successive tough game. U. C. L. A. has been pointing for this game since its victory over Idaho three weeks ago. The entire Bruin student body is more enthusiastic over this game than any of the year, according to rooters accompanying the team.

Last year the Webfoots won, 13 to 6, in Los Angeles. Mike Mikulak, crashing fullback, and his aide, Howard Bobbitt, were the big guns of Oregon's offense. Bobbitt will have another crack at the Bruins tomorrow as he backs the line in Mike's place.

Bruin Hopes High Bruin hopes soared high tonight as fair weather and a fast field loomed. The Uclans plan to employ an aerial attack to score, and a dry field will be necessary for its success.

The stand of Oregon's forward wall against Washington last Saturday impressed Bruin scouts with its stone-wall power. So Coach Spaulding is banking upon his speedy backs and a passing attack to score a victory.

Bobbitt will be the only replacement in the Oregon backfield. Bowerman will be in the quarterback position and Temple and Gee at the halfback berths. Stan Kostka, 210-pound right half, will very likely play, but only for a short while. The injured shoulder that kept him out of the Husky game is not entirely mended.

Oregon Lineup Named Oregon line will be the same as in last Saturday's game; Bailey

(Continued on Page Four)

Origin Of Pigger Lowly One; 'Girl' And 'Pig' Feature Root

"Pigger," "Pigger's guide," and "piggering," have grown to a prominent place in the argot of Oregon students. It is a phrase peculiar to Oregon alone, and as far as is known, is not found at any other college in the United States.

For the benefit of those recluses who do not know the exact meaning of the term, it is well to define it. "Piggering" is the verb used to denote attentions to the fair sex. The "pigger's guide," then, is the accepted student phrase coined to dispense with the more harshly formal one of "student directory."

The history of the word, meaningless as it may sound, actually is sound and logical. The popular and generally accepted theory of its origin, according to Dean James H. Gilbert, is as follows:

Along somewhere in the gay nineties, a young man who resided in Friendly hall made a practice of absenting himself regularly during the evenings. His destination on these nocturnal missions became a subject of considerable discussion and speculation. When questioned as to his habits, he replied that he was visiting a farmer in the College Crest district and studying some exceptionally fine blooded pigs in the possession of the farmer.

This explanation far from satisfied his suspicious fellows, and they undertook to ferret out the real motive, reasoning that his visits were far too frequent and extended for any student to make in

(Continued on Page Four)