

Questionnaire Will Collect Statistics On Student-Faculty Relation

100 Leaders To Be Asked For Material

Dean Karl Onthank Heads Circulating Group

Survey Nation Wide in Scope; Conducted Successfully on Many Campuses

A questionnaire which probes the relations between faculty and students will be circulated today among 100 campus leaders and students prominent in activities in an effort to determine the actual feeling between the two groups and to aid in rectifying any prominent faults in their relationships.

The questionnaire, which is national in its scope, will be administered by Dean Karl W. Onthank, aided by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, and Skull and Daggers, sophomore men's honorary.

Other colleges have conducted questionnaires with very gratifying results in student and faculty relations. It is hoped that the survey here will aid in clarifying student needs in the matter of guidance and closer relationships among the faculty members.

The survey, containing as it does many queries into the student's present harmony or lack of harmony with their instructors and their interest and confidence in them, will bring many new phases of the matter before them. Any strong sentiment in one direction will be considered and steps taken to rectify the condition. Students are not required to sign their names to the questionnaire.

Other colleges have shown much interest in the questionnaire as developed here and have written Dean Onthank requesting copies and particulars of the test.

Work on Homecoming signs should be under way by now or at least definite plans for their construction formulated, Larry Fischer, chairman of signs, announced yesterday.

The Bristow trophy, awarded to the living organization having the best sign judged for originality, cleverness, and execution, will be on display in the Co-op window all this week.

Budgets must be turned in and signs complete by 6 o'clock Friday evening.

J. R. DUNBAR, RHODES HOPEFUL, TELLS OF LIFE

(Continued from Page One) short trips to Canada. He went to grammar school here, and to University high. He is now living with his family, at 1049 Ferry street.

Aside from scholastic pursuits, he enjoys dancing, tennis, and driving 80 miles an hour in his car with the top down. "Also I play some handball and golf for my own amusement—and that of the spectators."

When asked how he happened to take the Rhodes scholarship examination, Dunbar replied, "Oh, mostly out of curiosity." And then, grinning at the question of how hard it was, "It's still one of my amusements that I ever was chosen."

As for his future ambitions, he intends to be a professor in some college.

The student who wins the Rhodes scholarship will be entitled to three years at Oxford, or two years there, with a third year at some approved European university. The winning student will leave next September for England—and, probably, behind his constant grin, Jack Dunbar hopes that it will be he who takes that boat, although he shakes his head and insists that he can't be chosen.

Dr. Noble To Give Talk on Far East

Latest developments in the Far East will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Harold J. Noble, of the history department, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at International house.

The first meeting of the term of the International Relations club sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation for World Peace is the occasion for Dr. Noble's talk.

He spent two months this summer traveling in Japan, China, and Manchuria, and lived for 16 years in the Orient, so a talk on present conditions in that part of the world should prove interesting to every student and faculty member interested in foreign affairs, according to Jack Bellinger, in charge of the meeting.

KORE Announcer Now Heard Over California Station

He wore a green hat, a coon-skin coat, brown golf knickers, and well-oiled black shoes, with high tops; he rode a bicycle—and KORE has lost him!

Rush Hughes, one-time announcer at the local radio station, has gone south. Whether he rode his bicycle to San Francisco is not known, and the whereabouts of his now-just-ornamental coon-skin is likewise a matter for conjecture.

However, according to Dave Foster, KORE announcer, Mr. Hughes is now in the California city conducting a radio business, which he labels "Rush Hughes' Radio Features."

Mr. Hughes will be remembered as the man who conceived the plan of reviving historic football games, and thrilling fans with spectacular touchdowns, long since stowed away in the dusty archives of grid-iron history. Hughes is carrying on such a program over N. B. C. at the present time, as a side-line to his own business, according to Foster.

Hickson Head of Lodge Committee

Louise Webber, president of the Associated Women Students, yesterday announced the appointment of Geraldine Hickson as chairman of Peter's Lodge. Betty Jones, who was appointed to the position earlier this year was unable to remain in school because of her health.

MOVIE NOTES

COLONIAL—"Wet Parade." McDONALD—"Blonde Captive." REX—"Mara Hari." STATE—"Fireman, Save My Child."

Colonial What this country needs, I've heard it said, is a good five cent glass of beer, with free lunch thrown in—revivification of this ancient and noble practice is to be observed in the saga of prohibition at the Colonial tonight and tomorrow.

Upton Sinclair wrote the novel, and Walter Huston, Lewis Stone, Dorothy Jordan, and Neil Hamilton do their level best to prove something, although it has also been said that the "Wet Parade" argues no point.

It is guaranteed that in the 117 minutes of this picture there will be few dull moments. Adolph Menjou reappears tomorrow night at 10:30 in "Bachelor's Affairs," which is one wov of a comedy—there are actually more sparkling and laugh-productive lines per flash here than in the latest Noel Coward conceit—and if you didn't see it last night you shouldn't overlook this opportunity.

What is Cross Blending?

an Artist might explain it this way...

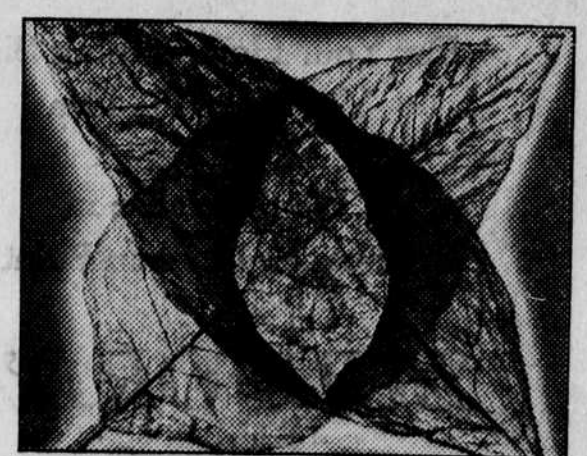

"Let's say you're painting clouds. You've got your primary colors here on the palette. But you haven't the clouds until you blend certain colors into the special tone you want.

"This is very much what happens in making a good cigarette. And I gather that what Chesterfield means by Cross-Blending is what an artist does with colors. Their Domestic and Turkish tobaccos—many varieties of each—are the primary colors.

They blend and cross-blend these tobaccos until they get the special tone they want—in other words, the Chesterfield flavor.

"And just as each color you use acts on the others to change and enrich them, so each Chesterfield tobacco partakes of the fine qualities of every other.

"You 'meld' different kinds to get a better kind. That's Cross-Blending!"

Wet-Dry Debate To Be Feature at Colonial Theatre

A good old-fashioned debate, with lots of oratory, and this time an unusual amount of clever, sophisticated humor, is to be staged at the Colonial theatre Wednesday and Thursday, when Robert Oliver of the University speech department and Orville Thompson, member of the freshman debate squad last year, meet to argue: "Resolved: That prohibition should continue in force."

The debate will be a feature with the talking picture, "Wet Parade," it is stated by Glen B. Godfrey, promotion manager. Oliver will uphold prohibition the first night, and Thompson will take the negative side. The second night the positions will be reversed.

"The Wet Parade," written by Upton Sinclair, presents both sides of the prohibition question, both before the era of national dryness, and following up to the present.

The debate will be staged each night between shows, at 8:50.
