

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

CRYSTAL W. BALL—Come home at once. All is forgiven. Shed a tear for poor Willard Jarvis, Paul Schissler's high-stepping halfback, who is undergoing agonies in the Corvallis Municipal hospital. Covered with ice-water packs, he lies there, under the tender care of anxious physicians who fear an attack of appendicitis.

Crystal W. Ball Oregon State publicity men are ripping off reams of articles on poor Willard and the awful blow his loss will mean to the Beavers Saturday afternoon.

But this is not all! Poor little Willard is through all this for the second time. According to the memory of Dick Neuberger, who was covering high school sports for the Oregonian, Jarvis was in the hospital in 1930 to have his diseased appendix removed.

Washington high school, Willard's alma mater, was playing Commerce, already champions of the Portland interscholastic league, in the last game of the season. Jarvis, who was team captain, had been removed to the hospital a week before and a lad by the name of Virgil Marquardt was chosen leader of the Colonials. If memory serves right, the score in the game was 0 to 0.

They say the third time is a charm. Maybe they'll really come out next year when Poor Paul (or will it be Paul?) needs him most. Oh, the irony of life.

Following is a probable conversation between John Paul Schissler and Prince Gary Callison. It takes place before the big game:

Schiss: Hello, Prink! I'm glad you're here.

Prink: (Taking off his gaiters) Hello, Paul! Glad to be here. What a jolly place this is. Looks just like our old abandoned locker-room at McArthur court (Vote 317 X No).

Paul: Does it, Prink? I'm glad. (Vote 316 X Yes).

Prink: How's Jarvis, Paul?

Paul: Fine, fine—Oh! I mean the poor boy. Poor, poor lad. All night his temperature was normal—Oh! I mean subnormal, abnormal. You know, Prink, how it is. Just like Bernie Hughes before the Santa Clara game. He was pretty sick, too, I bet. Huh?

Prink: Was he sick? Paul, you don't know what I went through with that boy. Why, he pretty near had to be taken out in the last quarter. Say, isn't that Jarvis out there returning punts?

Paul: Oh! Dear me! It is! What shall I do? They must have sent him away from the hospital. Oh! Dear! Those people fooling, saying he wouldn't be able to play. Prink, you don't know what I go through here.

Prink: Nice field, Paul.

Paul: Isn't it, Prink? It was so firm last night we had to turn the fire-hoses on it.

Prink: Fire-hoses?

Paul: And how's Mikulak today? I'm glad to see he's going to play.

Prink: Why, he's just fine. And how's Hal Moe?

Paul: Who? Hal Moe? Why, let's see. Is he in the hospital? No, I see him there. Guess he's all right.

Prink: I always like to see him play. I like his face.

Bobby Morris: Come, come, boys. It's time to start the game.

Paul: I do hope you win today, Prink.

Prink: Yeah, good luck, Paul. Sound of Field Announcer from distance: Starting lineup for Oregon State college (at Corvallis): Jarvis, McIntosh, Ward, Franklin . . . cheers from crowd drown out loud-speaker.

Quick, Neuberger, get extradition papers! Look at what we just received! Little Crystal has been found!

Ducklings Set for Second Clash with OSC Rooks Tonight

Yearlings Out To Break Tie Of First Tilt

Schulz Announces Starting Frosh Lineup

Stage Set for Opening Scene of Oregon-Oregon State Homecoming

By ART DERBYSHIRE

The University of Oregon duckling football team is in excellent shape for its annual clash with the Oregon State Rooks on Hayward field at 8:00 o'clock tonight in the game which will decide the state freshman football crown. This game promises to be the greatest natural of the season and will officially open Homecoming grid festivities between the two schools.

The two yearling elevens battled to a scoreless tie two weeks ago. According to comparative dope, both teams are on equal footing, but previous scores and past games carry very little weight, when the two well oiled grid-machines meet in their second "little-big civil war" game.

Line Is Chosen

The men who will start in the Oregon freshman forward wall have been chosen, but the backfield berths are still open.

In the line, Willie Torrence, the colored boy from LaGrande, is almost a certain starter at left end. Gordon Wright will start at the right wing. He is an exceptionally fast defensive end.

Dwight Nielson will start at left tackle, with Wilfred Byrne at right tackle. Byrne has a decided edge because of his weight and driving power.

Hahn Is Light

John Lundin will start at the left guard post. He has speed and is aggressive. Shorty Hahn will start at right guard. Although he weighs only 155 he is tough to get by. Hahn is one of the lightest linemen ever to play for the Oregon freshmen. Jim Reed, ex-Salem high star, will be at the pivot post.

Whitten Arey will start at quarterback. Whitt is a proficient blocker and the hardest tackler on the squad.

Milligan Outstanding

Either Joe Gordon, who played on Jefferson's state championship team, or Frank Michek will start at the left half berth.

Stew Milligan, outstanding freshman back, will start at right half. Milligan is an excellent punter and passer.

"Tuffy" Leeman, the million dollar baby, will start at the full-back post.

Starting Lineups:

Oregon Frosh	Oregon State
Torrence LE	Jessup
Nielson LT	Rushing
Lundin LG	Rufness
Reed C	Myall
Hahn RG	McClurg
Byrne RT	Demming
Wright RE	Shultz
Arey Q	Jowdy
Gordon LH	Joslin
Milligan RH	Makela
Leeman F	Tihila

Yes, indeed, it's Paul John Schissler, Beaver mentor, who will wear the colors of Orange and Black when Oregon State meets Oregon in the annual "big game," at Corvallis tomorrow afternoon. Last year P. J. held the Webfoots to a scoreless tie, and he's out after blood on Bell field tomorrow.

Eugene Gridders Defeat Corvallis High Eleven, 19-6

Fritz Kramer's Prepper Get Little Opposition From Rivals

By DUD LINDNER

Eugene high school ran wild over Mush Torson's Corvallis high eleven last night on Hayward field to win, 19 to 6, and give Eugene an edge in the inter-city rivalry scheduled for the week-end.

Knight, Eugene left end, scored soon after the opening kickoff after Dick Bishop, fullback, had bucked the ball to the 15-yard stripe. Knight scored after catching a pass from Brown, right half. Brown converted.

Bishop Eugene Star

Eugene added another touchdown in the second quarter when Bishop smashed through the Corvallis line from the 5-yard line. Brown failed in his goal attempt.

Corvallis made its only score early in the fourth period when Robertson, substitute halfback, recovered a fumble on the Eugene 42-yard line. Talent, another sub-half, put the ball over in seven straight plays. Kramer's lads added another six points just before the final gun when Turner caught a long pass on the 15-yard line. Elton Owen, quarter, made the score.

The Eugene eleven kept under wraps throughout the game, for tomorrow afternoon they meet the undefeated Medford high squad.

University High To Meet Roseburg

University high school's grid squad travels to Roseburg tomorrow afternoon where they will meet the strong Roseburg high eleven.

Choppie Parke, mentor of the campus crew, has been drilling his proteges hard for the game with the southern prep team, and looks for a win despite the fact that injuries have cut deep into his starting lineup. Pud Graham, half, and Dick Hill, guard, both will be on the sidelines tomorrow, the former not yet recovered from a tonsillitis operation, while the latter sustained a sprained ankle in the Albany clash.

Six students from W. S. C. have been selected to represent the college of agriculture at state fair.

Chrysanthemum Sale To Continue for Today

The A. W. S. mum sale will continue today at the Co-op from 10 to 4, it was announced yesterday. Prices are 50 cents, 75 cents, and $1. The proceeds from the sale will support the loan fund sponsored by the A. W. S. for both men and women students. Edith Peterson is in charge of the sale.

Sigma Pi Tau Noses Out Chi Psis in Thriller

Delts and Sherry Ross Teams Are Outplayed in One-Sided Contests

Today's Schedule

Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Phi Kappa Psi, 4 p. m. (A).

Sigma hall vs. Beta Theta Pi, 4:40 p. m. (A).

Gamma hall vs. Alpha Tau Omega, 5:20 p. m. (A).

By BEN BLACK

Sigma Pi Tau and Chi Psi battled through four hectic, exciting quarters in last night's first intramural basketball contest with the S. P. T. boys coming out on the long end of a 19-16 score. In the other games the Fiji outfit beat Delta Tau Delta 18 to 4 and Alpha Upsilon won over Sherry Ross hall by an 18-5 score.

What was probably the closest game in donut basketball this year was the one between the S. P. T. and Chi Psi fives. S. P. T. won with the help of Ballard, forward, who collected nine points. Wells and Travis, Chi Psi guards, were shining lights on defense. Both of these boys smeared plenty of S. P. T. high-powered scoring plays. Schenk, of Sigma Pi Tau, also played a good consistent game.

The Fiji game with Delta Tau Delta was all Fiji. The winners showed a much better brand of passing and floor work and clearly outclassed the D. T. D. boys. The Delts were game, however, and scored all their points in the latter part of the game. The final score of this contest was 18 to 4.

The last game of the night, between Sherry Ross hall and Alpha Upsilon, resulted in an 18 to 5 rout with the fraternity team winning. Both teams played good basketball, although Alpha Upsilon scored almost at will.

"Two More Hurt" Wail Orangemen As Big Tilt Nears

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 3.—Oregon State college football team will probably enter the homecoming game against Oregon here Saturday at 1:30 o'clock without the services of Edward McIntosh and Willard Jarvis, sophomore backfield sensations. McIntosh is on the sidelines with a stiff knee, while Jarvis is in the hospital with a slight attack of appendicitis.

These two men were being counted on to do a great deal of ball carrying against the Webfoots, and should they be unable to play the Oregon State offensive will be greatly weakened.

Johnny Bianco and Hal Joslin, veteran backfield men, are being counted on to carry the brunt of the Beaver offense in the absence of McIntosh and Jarvis. Bianco is a shifty runner and is hard to tackle, while Joslin is fast and a fine line plunger.

Despite rain the Orangemen have been putting the finishing touches on their field maneuvers for the coming battle. Passing, offense and defense have been given the most attention.

Willamette Park Dance Increases Radio Fund

A total of $85 has been received toward the radio fund to fight the Zorn-Macpherson "school-grabbing" bill, as a result of the dance held Wednesday night at Willamette park.

The dance, which was sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce, was attended by about 350 students.

West Virginia gets the prize for the most useful player in the way of a triple threat man this year. Bill Perriot, backfield ace, can pass a ball with either hand and kick it with either foot. Besides these accomplishments he is a track star in the sprints. You read about them but seldom hear of one.

Here's another one for your all-American scrap book on football. St. Mary's college, Michigan, has a coach by the name of Krzyzosiak. Just sneeze and you have another of the famed fighting Irish.
