Nation Names F.D. Roosevelt For President

New Leader Brings Zest Of Youth to Post

ONLY 51 YEARS OLD

Democratic Cousin of "T. R." To Succeed Hoover as Chief Executive of Nation

Even Republican campaign leaders conceded the presidential election to Franklin D. Roosevelt late last night when the Democratic nominee held a commanding lead over Herbert Hoover. Late dispatches gave Roosevelt approximately 5,500,000 popular votes to only 3,750,000 for Hoover. G. O. P. newspapers admitted that Hoover was defeated by a decisive margin.

By KIRKE SIMPSON WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt will bring to the White House, as thirty-second president of the United States, something of the atmosphere and outlook of youth. It is to be discerned in his voice and his buoyant temperament, his smiling approach to most of the problems of life, his eagerness to have a part in the active, stirring current of life and of public service—an eagerness that overrode even the handicap of infantile paralysis when it fell upon him in mid-career.

Mr. Roosevelt will not be the youngest man to be entrusted with the presidency. That honor goes to his distinguished fifth cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, who was 42 when he was inducted into office at the death of President McKinley.

F. D. Only 51 Franklin Roosevelt will be little more than entered on his fifty-first year when he is inaugurated. Eleven of the thirty men who have preceded him in that high office—Tyler, Polk, Fillmore, Pierce, Grant, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Taft and Coolidge—were as young or younger when they took office.

Yet this democratic Roosevelt, despite his physical handicaps, has youthful qualities that will stand him in good stead in the task he faces. Through his two administrations as governor of New York, no word has ever come from the executive mansion of the arduous labors he has endured. On the contrary, he reached out eagerly to deal personally with every phase of state activity.

His Like Teddy Like his cousin, Franklin Roosevelt will bring to the White House also an atmosphere of family life it has not known since the days of that other Roosevelt.

His own children are grown men and women, rearing families of their own except for the two youngest lads, who are well in their teens. (Continued on Page Three)

Dime Crawl Calls Popular Oregon Men For Shuffle

Dime Crawl, tomorrow night from 6:30 to 7:30, will offer another opportunity for Oregon men to hike and dance. Popular men will have many calls to make during the hour and the most popular houses will be judged by the number of dimes collected.

Nancy Suomela, who is in charge of this A. W. S. function, states that if the men do not turn out well, the women will invade the men's houses next term, an arrangement which was not greatly popular with the stronger sex last year.

Each dime a man pays for dancing with ladies of his choice goes to support a worthy cause—the A. W. S. loan fund for both men and women students.

Reymers Named To Replace Short On Emerald Staff

Mary Lou Patrick Picked By Schenk To Fill Vacant Post

Mahr Reymers, senior in journalism, was yesterday appointed advertising manager of the Oregon Daily Emerald, succeeding Hal Short of Astoria, whose resignation was accepted the same day. Harry Schenk, business manager, declared that Short's resignation was necessitated by the fact that he is withdrawing temporarily from school in order to take care of his printing business in Astoria.

Reymers, whose home is in Klamath Falls, has been occupying the position of promotional manager this year. He is vice-president of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising professional fraternity, head of the senior traditions committee, and has had three years of experience on the business staff of the Emerald. News of the change came abruptly yesterday. Short left immediately for Astoria, and he is not expected to return this term, although he may return for the opening of the winter quarter. Short was president of Alpha Delta Sigma, vice-president of the Interfraternity council, and last year was winner of the $150 junior advertising scholarship.

Pan Xenia Announces New Pledges for Term

Pan Xenia, national foreign trade honorary fraternity, met in the Commerce building Monday noon and took in the following pledges: John Herbert King, Percy Riddell, John Wade, Roger Comstock, Stanley Haberlach, Robert Schriber, John Ericson, and Sherrill Gregory.

Grab Bill Loses; Free 'Brawl' at 8; No Classes Today

Because of the defeat administered to Mr. Zorn, Macpherson & Company at the polls yesterday, there will be no classes today. This announcement was made late yesterday, when University officials said the holiday was entirely contingent upon the outcome of the voting on the bill.

In celebration of the defeat of the merger measure and also of the football victory over Oregon State college, there will be a special dance at McArthur court tonight. It starts at 8 o'clock, and admission is free to every member of the student body.

Retreat Group Headed By Katherine Kneeland

Miss Katherine Kneeland, University alumni and now employment secretary for the University, will head a McKenzie retreat of a group of alumni of the University Y. W. C. A. Margaret Edmunson Norton, Y. W. C. A. secretary, will be among those attending the conference.

A number of alumni not now on the campus have been invited to accompany the group, and participate in a discussion of present day problems.

Oregon Students Above Average In Statistics Test

Dr. Kelly Devises Exam; Clifford L. Constance Scores Highest

Students in education and psychology at the University of Oregon scored higher than national average in a test on statistics and on background of statistics devised by Dr. T. L. Kelly of Harvard, and one Oregon student, Clifford L. Constance scored 180 in the statistics test, when 149 is the average in the norms was 163, it was announced today by Dr. Howard R. Taylor, professor of psychology.

The test on background of statistics had previously been standardized on students of University of Illinois and graduate students of Columbia university, while the statistics test was standardized on graduate students of Columbia and Harvard.

The Oregon students scored above the average in the background test, while in the statistics test only 40 per cent of those taking it in the East made as high an average as that made by the Oregon group.

The tests here were given to members of the psychology class taught by Dr. Taylor and the class in statistics taught by Dr. C. L. Huffaker, professor of education. They were sent on to Dr. Kelly who scored and rated them.

rehearsals will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Details will be posted on bulletin board.

Tau Delta Delta meeting Thursday night at 7 o'clock at music building. Very important that all members be there and on time.

John J. O'Brien Quits Post As Coaching Aide

Ill Health Given Reason For Resignation

WORK COMMENDED

Assistant Mentor Was To Have Had Charge of Fresh Baseball And Basketball Squads

John J. (Jack) O'Brien resigned last night as assistant football coach at the University of Oregon. As reasons for his action he gave ill health and the subsequent fact that his doctors had ordered him to withdraw from active coaching for a considerable length of time.

The resignation takes effect immediately, and O'Brien will work with the Oregon eleven no more this season. Until he voluntarily withdrew from the coaching personnel, he had acted as chief scout and end instructor all season. His work was considered unusually outstanding, and Doc Spears, ex-coach here, gave O'Brien the high recommendation of being one of the best scouts in football. Jack also was a close friend of the late Knute Rockne, wizard of Notre Dame.

O'Brien also was to have coached freshman baseball and basketball here. His resignation was regretted deeply by William J. Reinhart, head coach in those sports.

It is expected that no successor to O'Brien will be named until after the current football season is ended. Oregon yet has games to play with University of Southern California, St. Mary's and Louisiana State university. Gene Shields, line coach, replaced O'Brien as scout and viewed the proceedings Saturday as the Trojans drubbed California, 20 to 7. When O'Brien presented his resignation last night, it was accepted unanimously by the executive council, which said it regretted to see O'Brien leave here, and commended his work at the University.

Prominent Alumni Pay Visit to U. O. Campus

Dr. Dorothy Reed, well-known lecturer on international relations, and Edna Ellen Bell, prominent in Junior League activities, visited the campus the past weekend. Dr. Reed attended the University of Oregon for two years, received her B.A. at Mills college, and her Master's and Doctor of Philosophy at Columbia university. She has recently completed research work which took her into nine foreign countries. Her last investigations took her to London for several months.

Miss Edna-Ellen Bell, recently elected to the Portland Junior League, is president of the young Republican club of Oregon. She and Dr. Reed stopped here after touring the western part of these states in behalf of Hoover and the Republican party.

Infirmiry Awaits Mob After Election Returns

The number of students in the infirmiry remains very near an average of four, in spite of Homecoming during the week-end. The nurses expect more after the election returns are in and the celebration is over.

Patients under treatment yesterday were George Hail, Hobron Smith, Jean Lickel, and Alma Flaig.

Women Will Have Late Hour Privileges Tonight

All girls will be allowed to stay out until 12:15 tonight, it was announced yesterday by the dean of women's office. This extension of time has been made because of the election, but women are expected to be in their living quarters by that time.

Consolidation Bill Defeat Celebrated By U. O. Students

Dances, Football Rallies Will Feature Holiday Fun Frolic

With all classes dismissed today, Oregon students will celebrate the defeat of the Zorn-Macpherson school consolidation bill. A rally dance, a football rally and an all-day celebration are planned. The free dance in the afternoon, a no-date, roughneck affair, will be held in the men's gym, starting at 2 o'clock. Campus clothes are in order, with neckties and golf knickers barred. A band will furnish music for the dance, which is intended to be extremely informal. Cecil Espy is in charge of the affair.

At 3:30, when the dance will break up, the students will serpentine en masse to Hayward field and hold a rally and farewell sendoff to the team. Since the team entrains at midnight, the usual train sendoff has been eliminated in favor of this means. Cheering and band music are scheduled for the team at this time, during the last practice before leaving for Los Angeles, where they tackle the U. S. C. Trojans Saturday.

In the evening, an all-Eugene dance and celebration is planned to take place in McArthur court. Students, alumni, and townspeople are invited to join in the festivities. There will be no admission charge for this dance, and refreshments will be served. The University club is sponsoring the dance, with Dr. I. R. Fox in charge. It will begin at 8 o'clock.

A "Victory Dance" was held last night for Oregon students at the Campa Shoppe, and local theatres kept running accounts of the election results in progress throughout the evening. Several sororities staged informal election parties.

Journalists Win Theatre Passes

Barney Clark, freshman in journalism, won the Colonial theatre pass last week with 21 Emerald stories. Ed Stanley, who won three consecutive times, placed second with 17 stories. Don Caswell was third with nine.

Harold Brower again won the weekly ticket for the most heads written with a total of 15 points, using the new system of scoring adopted by the Emerald.

Twylla Stockton, Frances Rothwell and Helen Parker tied for second place with totals of 11 points.

Many Students Mark Ballots For National, State Election

By JULIAN PRESCOTT Students turned out in big numbers to mark their ballots for everybody from president of the United States to constable, on the Zorn-Macpherson bill and the 12 other measures. Polls on and near the campus were busy all day with townspeople and students.

It was estimated by chairmen of the election boards for precincts near the campus that the vote would be exceptionally high, with nearly 100 per cent of the students eligible marking ballots. At all of the places where students gather between classes on such rainy days, there was considerable talk as to the prospects of each of the presidential candidates and a great deal as to the outcome of the consolidation measure.

Juggling Bill Smothered By Big Majority

Oregon Voters Express Grab Disapproval

POLL RUNS HEAVY

Benton County Alone Supports Shuffling State Higher Education System

Take a Rest

There will be no classes today. This became assured last night when the crushing defeat of the Zorn-Macpherson school-moving measure appeared certain. Faculty officials previously had declared there would be a holiday if Mr. Macpherson's bill was killed.

By DAVE EYRE Voters of the state Tuesday expressed their disapproval of the Zorn-Macpherson school-moving bill by casting a most decisive vote against the measure. Reports received by the Emerald at 12:30 this morning gave 49,457 against and 9,101 for the bill in 596 incomplete precincts. The vote was running five to one against the school grab and it was predicted that final count would run as high as ten to one.

Benton county, in which Corvallis located, was the only one reported to be supporting the bill with seven precincts reporting No. 962; Yes, 1255. No landslide in that county was apparent in spite of the fact that the passing of the bill would have meant much to the neighboring district.

Lane County Votes Solid The home of the University, Lane county, voted almost unanimously against the bill. Figures given at an early hour this morning showed 7,190 against and 164 for. The majority of precincts were incomplete.

Twenty-six precincts in Marion county, which would have received the law school in Salem had the bill passed, gave 2,105 nays and 382 yeas. The bill was sponsored by the Marion County Tax Equalization league in conjunction with Henry Zorn and Hector Macpherson.

Union, Jackson, and Polk counties, all affected by the proposed merger, voted practically solid against the bill.

Eugene will celebrate along with University students today. Mayor Elisha Large is expected to declare a half-holiday and all Eugene will join in celebrating the overwhelming defeat of the Zorn-Macpherson bill.

The fate of the University of Oregon has been decided.

Fight Is Ended Oregon students, alumni, and taxpayers organized into one great body during the past five months and their united efforts went far in defeating the Zorn-Macpherson grab bill. Students (Continued on Page Four)

Zorn-Macpherson Fighters Make Statements on Election

Here's what leaders in the fight against the Zorn-Macpherson school moving bill had to say last night as election returns came in over the wire and ether.

JUDGE LAWRENCE T. HARRIS, chairman of the executive committee of the Eugene chamber of commerce: "The primary purpose of the campaign waged against the measure was to convey to all the people full and complete information concerning the establishment of the University and normal schools, and the work previously accomplished and then being done by them. The people were fully informed and with that information the people justified the faith expressed by us at the meeting in the army; for the people of Oregon have, by a decisive vote, condemned and rejected the school moving bill.

"Let us hope that no person or group of persons will be able to resurrect the vicious measure which is now stamped with the disapproval of the voters of the state.

"Let us not forget the responsibilities which rest upon us. Let us all continue to give to the University our best efforts so that we, the present students and former students and alumni of the University, may in truth say that we too have kept faith and are continuing to keep faith with the great commonwealth of Oregon."
