Orient Has Not Maintained Pace, Says Speaker

Students Hear YMCA Authority On Some Problems of Far East

Where You May Hear Dr. Brockman

Wednesday—
8:00 a. m.—101 Condon hall. International trades class.
7:00 p. m.—City Y. M. C. A.
9:00 p. m.—Y. W. C. A. bungalow, continuation of the Tuesday discussion.

Thursday—
9:00 a. m.—102 Journalism building. Editing class.
8:45 p. m.—Y. W. C. A. bungalow. Conclusion of series of evening meetings.

"There would have been no need for this depression," Dr. Fletcher Brockman said last night when he addressed a meeting of students in Gerlinger hall, "if China had been allowed to develop, on friendly terms with other nations, as swiftly as did Japan until ten years ago." Such development, he said, would have meant that every surplus of manufactured and agricultural product in this country would have found market in China.

Dr. Brockman, who is visiting the campus at the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A., lived for 30 years in China, and is thoroughly familiar with conditions and trends there. In his three-day visit he wishes to bring to students more than a consciousness of the Orient, but a grasp of the problem of our future relations with the Far East.

He spent most of the hour Tuesday night opening the subject which will be under discussion in the succeeding meetings. The social, economic, and political backgrounds of Japan and China were presented, and a definition of the issues in the Pacific basin given as embracing the whole nature of civilization there; is it to become communistic or militaristic politically, and what will dominate its relations with other nations.

Those who would desire to have personal interviews with Dr. Brockman may make appointments by calling Mrs. Margaret Norton at the Y. W. C. A. or Mr. Eugene Stromberg at the Y. M. C. A. The meetings announced in his program above are open to everyone.

NATION NAMES F. D. ROOSEVELT PRESIDENT

The White House itself is an old story both to the new president and to Mrs. Roosevelt. They knew it long ago, when she, herself a Roosevelt, was favored among nieces of the late President Roosevelt, and later when they came to Washington to live for nearly eight years during the Wilson administration.

Was Assistant Secretary Franklin Roosevelt's office as assistant naval secretary was then just across the narrow strip of West Executive avenue, in the old War, State, Navy building, perhaps 200 yards from the room where he is now to sit as president.

It can hardly be doubted that Mr. Roosevelt in those days was observingly conscious that he was himself a humble factor in a careful process of integration of conflicting party interests and personalities with which President Wilson began his term.

For Mr. Wilson built into his cabinet and "Little Cabinet" slate not only a reflection of the broad outlines of his own political philosophy and economic conceptions; but an inter-relationship of factions and groups within the Democratic majorities in house

A.A.U.W. Tea Honors Women At Gerlinger

Women graduates and wives of graduate students will be honored at the November meeting for the Eugene branch of the American Association of University Women at a tea from 3 until 5 o'clock next Saturday, November 12, in alumni hall of Gerlinger building.

In the receiving line will be Mrs. Wallace Potter, president; Mrs. William Jasper Kerr, and Mrs. C. L. Schwering. Mrs. Frank L. Chambers and Mrs. Louis H. Johnson are to pour.

Mrs. Walter Banks is general social chairman. Miss Melvina Black is chairman for the tea, and Mrs. Norval Armes is chairman for decorations. Mrs. Virgil D. Earl, newly elected president of the Oregon division of the A. A. U. W. is to give a talk on the fellowship which the organization gives.

Phi Mu entertained with a radio dance Tuesday evening at the chapter house. The guests listened to the election returns, played bridge, and danced. Cider and doughnuts were served during the evening. Miss Sue Badollet, the sorority chaperon acted as patroness for the dance.

Kwama and Skull and Dagger are holding a dinner Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the Delta Gamma house. All members of both honoraries will be present, and Mrs. Lettie Mowry, the Delta Gamma house mother will also be a guest.

Plans for the two organizations in the coming year will be discussed at the dinner. A floral centerpiece and tapers will decorate the table.

and senate designed to facilitate a party legislative program.

His Efforts Succeed
The success of his effort was attested by the legislative product of those first Wilson years, before the world war intervened to divert the course of peace time developments.

Young Roosevelt saw all that. As state legislator and member of the "little cabinet," he was an apt student of practical politics. His own primary and election campaigns this year won him a reputation for political adroitness and understanding among political observers. And as president-elect and president he will be called upon to exercise those qualities to the highest degree.

The first test will come in selection of his cabinet. To aid him as he sifts the personal and political qualifications of those to whom he may offer portfolios, Franklin Roosevelt will have intimate memories of his first official years in Washington, just 20 years ago.

Women Entertain At Crawl Thursday

Campus men will again be entertained at all the women's living organizations Thursday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 for the Dime Crawl which is held once each term. The affair is sponsored by the Associated Women students to raise money for the A. W. S. loan fund.

Nancy Suomela is in charge of the affair. Each sorority will charge ten cents for admission, and the guests may dance as long as they like.

Mrs. Lillian V. Eldridge, house mother to the Delta Zeta sorority, is to be honored at a tea Sunday, November 13, by the local chapter of Delta Zeta.

In the receiving line will be Miss Elaine Anderson, house president, Mrs. Eldridge, Miss Betty Lewis, Mrs. C. L. Schwering, Mrs. William Jasper Kerr, Mrs. C. A. Burden, and Madame Rose McGrew. Mrs. R. W. Leighton, Mrs. Charles G. Howard, Mrs. Percy W. Brown, and Mrs. A. F. Sether will pour.

There have been many guest and exchange dinners this week considering all the campus entertaining that has been taking place this last week-end, as well as dime crawl and the numerous house dances this week-end.

On Tuesday Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained with dessert and dancing for Sigma Nu. Wednesday Phi Gamma Delta entertained at dinner for Pi Beta Phi, Gamma Phi Beta for Pi Kappa Alpha, and Alpha Upsilon for personal guests. Thursday Alpha Chi Omega and Alpha Omicron Pi had personal guest dinners. Zeta Tau Alpha entertained for Kappa Sigma, Alpha Xi Delta for Sigma Kappa, and Sigma Nu for Gamma Phi Beta.

Council To Elect Research Fellow

The American Council of Learned Societies is offering research fellowships in the humanities to provide opportunities for further training and experience in humanistic research to scholars who have a doctor's degree and are under 36 years of age.

Fellowships are available in all fields of the humanities except the social science. Research fellows are selected by the committee on fellowships and grants from among eligible scholars, either men or women, who may apply for appointments.

Applications must be presented on or before December 15, and applicants must be citizens of the United States or Canada or permanently domiciled or employed therein. Anyone interested may get information from the graduate school.

Faculty Club Will Hold Tea At Alumni Hall

The Women's Faculty club of the University of Oregon will entertain with a tea Wednesday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock in Alumni hall of the Gerlinger building.

Mrs. H. V. Hoyt, Mrs. J. R. Jewell, Mme. Rose McGrew, and Mrs. Warren D. Smith are to pour.

Assisting in serving will be Mrs. Earl M. Pallett, Mrs. P. G. Callison, Mrs. Guy S. Claire, Mrs. L. S. Cressman, Mrs. H. R. Crosland, Mrs. Ernest G. Moll, Mrs. Wayne L. Morse, Mrs. George Turnbull, Mrs. George Williamson, Mrs. Harry B. Yocom, and Mrs. N. B. Zane. Mrs. Edwin T. Hodge is chairman for the afternoon.

News of the marriage of Miss Frances Carruthers, ex-'34 and Frederick L. Staver, ex-'23, has recently been announced to friends. The couple were married secretly last February in Portland, where they are now making their home.

Mrs. Staver was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega and Mr. Staver is a member of Kappa Sigma.

La Casa Filipina, living organization for Filipino students, entertained Saturday evening with a dinner and musical entertainment. Filipino dishes and music were featured.

Guests of honor were: Mr. and Mrs. Juan B. Rael, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zahn, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heiser. Vicente Espiritu was in charge of the affair.

Seven sororities recently entertained with informal dinners for members of the faculty. They were Kappa Alpha Theta on Monday evening, and Alpha Delta Pi on Tuesday evening.

Skull and Dagger sponsored an all campus dance at the Campus Shoppe Tuesday evening to celebrate the victory of the University over Oregon State in football last Saturday, and to listen to the returns of the state and national election. Bob Zurcher was in charge of the dance.

Books of Braille Are Transcribed For Use of Blind

Library Receives Volumes As Gift From Portland Library Association

Seven Eugene women are voluntarily transcribing into braille, books for the general use of blind students of the University. Proof-reading of the transcriptions is being done by Don Smith.

The following women are doing the work: Mrs. Fred E. Smith, Porterfield's Best German Short Stories; Mrs. C. P. Tillman, "Introduction to Edda and Nibelungenlied"; Mrs. Frances D. Taylor, "Shoemaker's Holiday," by Dekker; Mrs. E. A. Lewis, "Tom Jones"; Mrs. Fielding; Mrs. Bertha E. DeVaney, Ibsen's "Ghosts"; Mrs. Fred Stickels, "Pater's Works."

The main library has received as a gift three volumes in braille of "Our Wonder World of Bureau-cracy" from the Portland Library association. These particular books are for the purpose of aiding blind students of the University in their studies.

Concentrated reading material for various courses is available in the braille transcription of the Reader's Digest magazine.

state have again voiced their confidence in higher education. In behalf of the University of Oregon Alumni association, I wish to thank the public and the press for their support. The University of Oregon, I am sure, will continue to carry on and we hope that in the years to come it will be as important a factor in the state's development as it has in the past."

ARTHUR S. POTWIN, alumni director of student campaign: "The battle is over and you have won. Every one of you, loyally and willingly true to your Alma Mater, has cooperated with the alumni and friends of the University in defeating the foes of higher education, and their vicious school-moving bill. Never before in Oregon's history of higher education has our University been faced with such critical and trying circum-
