

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

THE football players have lost a friend, the University lost a valued employee and Coach Callison has lost an indispensable aide. The gentleman referred to is John J. (Jack) O'Brien who resigned as assistant varsity coach early this week because of ill health.

O'Brien, who has served with the A. S. U. O. for the past three years, was regarded by athlete experts as one of the finest scouts in the country. He came west with Doc Spears and served as end coach and scout. When Doc left here he retained the same position under Callison.

Undoubtedly Callison made every effort possible to retain O'Brien, but doctor's orders cannot be disregarded. Jack received injuries during the world war and while playing football, under Spears and Bill Spaulding at Minnesota and professionally after graduation. According to friends, O'Brien was continually bothered by these old injuries. Finally, on the advice of his physicians, he decided to retire from the coaching game for a while.

"Come here a minute and look at what they've named this fool thing," remarked Colonel Bill Hayward Wednesday afternoon. "This fool thing" was the new water cart, and it was being dusted off before being packed to take to Los Angeles.

Pointing to the front, Bill grinned.

"Look at what those fool kids have done."

On the front of the cart was printed in yellow letters "Hayward Junior." Members of the team and managerial staff were responsible for the christening.

Bill tried to look disgusted, but he couldn't hide it very well.

Incidentally, the water which will spray forth from the nozzles of "Hayward Junior" will be some of the Eugene water board's finest. Hayward refused to take a chance on the Los Angeles water. Nothing can harm a finely-trained athlete, according to Bill, than strange water.

Along with the Eugene water was a box of Oregon apples. Evidently the Webfoot coaching staff is copying Babe Hollingbery of Washington State, who claims that the apples carried by the Cougars on all their trips have brought them good luck. The Cougar eleven took a box of apples with them when they went to Berkeley to play California, to Corvallis to play Oregon State and plan on taking one to Seattle when they meet the Huskies Sunday.

Coast Teams Meet In Four Football Tilts

U. O.-Southern California Game Is Headliner

Huskies Vie With Cougars for State Grid Crown of Washington

By DUD LINDNER

Four games are scheduled for the Pacific Coast conference this Saturday with the Oregon-U. S. C. and the Washington-Washington State tilts as headliners.

Southern California, with its hard game with the Golden Bears only a week old, will find the Webfoots no easy mark. With one of the strongest lines to represent the northern school in many years, Prink Callison hopes to outcharge the Trojan forward wall and beat them at their own game.

Howard Jones' new find, Bob Getz, will not be at the fullback post when the game is called. He received an injured hip in the California game last week and is still in the hospital.

Huskies Face Cougars

Washington did the unexpected last week when it turned the tables on Pop Warner's Stanford Indians and in doing so warned Cougar followers that it was out for the State scalp when the two teams come together in Seattle Saturday in what is always considered one of the big games on the coast.

Washington State has dropped one conference game this year and is in second place in the race for the championship. It has victories over California, Oregon State, Idaho and Montana, losing to Southern California, while Washington won over Stanford and Montana, lost to California, and tied Oregon.

Beavers in Cellar

The winner of the Oregon State-Montana game will be the team that will step out of the cellar and give the other the doubtful honor of holding that place. The Beavers have a great team this year despite their failure to win a conference game and should not have too much trouble in winning from the Grizzlies.

At Berkeley, California plays host to Idaho and should have little trouble in turning back the invaders. The Vandals have an exceptionally light team this year but their fight and dash will probably hold the Bear down a bit.

against Stanford and California to match the drive of Oregon's bulky forwards, according to Gaus (Gus) Shaver, Troy's All-American quarterback of last year who scouted the Webfoot in their 12-6 victory over Oregon State last Saturday. The Trojan forwards who held Stanford on the five-yard line accomplished a much more Herculean feat against the Bears when the latter having only a yard to go for a score in three downs were driven back 16 yards in two plays and were forced into a pass that was intercepted on fourth down.

Jones Remains Silent

Although Coach Jones continues his customary silence on his offensive plans for the next game, the few privileged secret practice observers have noticed that subtle changes in Trojan plays continue to be made this week. Last Saturday when the Southern Californians came in possession of the ball in the first quarter on California's 31-yard line, a new series of dashes through the line soon took the oval to the four-yard mark where

One of the roughest games in this year's intramural basketball schedule was the feature of last night's hoop tilts between the Yeomen and Fiji quintets. The Fijis finally lost but not before they had the satisfaction of slugging a few Yeomen who in their estimation were a little too enterprising. The score was 22 to 14. In the other two court battles Chi Psi walked on International house 16 to 10 and Kappa Sig defeated Phi Kappa Alpha 20 to 7.

Hubert Allen, International house center, performed some clever dribbling yet couldn't pull his team out of the fire and consequently lost 16 to 10 to Chi Psi. In the Kappa Sig-Pi Kappa Alpha contest the Kappa Sig boys left no question as to who was the better by winning 20 to 7.

Wednesday's results. (All "B" league games):
Phi Sigma Kappa 9, Fiji 5.
S. A. E. 23, Omega hall 7.
Phi Deltas 13, Theta Chi 5.
Yeomen 15, S. P. E. 9.

a new Jones outback with Homer Griffith carrying the ball caught the bears by surprise and brought a touchdown.

Another new play worked up since the Stanford game was the Clark to Griffith pass that scored S. C.'s second touchdown from midfield. The success of these plays indicates that while Troy's "head man" is without the stars of last year's national champs, he is still coming out with the weapons to give his team "class" and make it a dangerous championship contender.

Except for Getz, the Southern Californians came through the Cal game in good shape. Ray Sparling, Trojan end who received a head injury, is expected to be ready to play again Saturday, and if the Southern Californians can get up steam again after the fatigue caused mostly by chasing up and down the field in long runs, they should be able to give the Oregonians a good welcome.

Stevens Is Back In Webfoot Fold; Small Squad Out

A small but determined squad of Reinhart's basketekers, strengthened by the return of Kermit Stevens to the fold, worked out yesterday afternoon as they participated in their second week of daily practice.

Hard work and plenty of it has held a foremost position in Bill Reinhart's schedule so far, and he intends to keep it up until the Christmas holidays. Drills in dribbling and individual offensive play topped off with several fast and rough games of "hunch" is the curriculum intended by Reinhart to toughen up the boys and team them how to "take it." To the uninformed, "hunch" is a game played with either two, three, or four players on a side, with both teams playing for the same basket. The ball is put into play by shooting fouls instead of the usual tip-off. Playing in such a restricted area, with four on a side, the game can be one of the roughest and hardest work-outs that ever confronts a basketball player.

A barnstorming trip into northern California is being planned for the Christmas holidays, and four games are on the tentative schedule which will probably include six engagements. Santa Clara, St. Mary's United Athletic club, and the Young Men's institute in San Francisco, will be four of the Webfoot's vacation opponents. Nothing is known here of the strength of these teams but they will undoubtedly be tougher than the usual run of pre-season games. Two other practice tilts will be played later on with Southern Oregon normal.

Evans To Give Special Armistice Day Concert

In honor of Armistice day, John Stark Evans has included in this Sunday's organ concert the "Hymn of Glory," which is dedicated by the composer, Pietro Yon, to the American Legion.

"Lamentations" by Guilman will also be played as a request number. "Pensive Mood" by Burnham with violin echo by Frances Brockman and "Adagio Lamentoso" from the Sixth "Pathétique" symphony, descriptive of life on the Russian steppes, by Tchaikowski, completes the group.

Physicians Report Mrs. Straub Better

Several professors of physics from the University of Oregon will attend the meeting of the Willamette Valley Physicists at Reed college, Portland, tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Dr. Will V. Norris, associate professor of physics at Eugene, will read a 40-minute paper before the meeting, and Dr. H. J. Unger, also a member of the staff, will give a 20-minute paper.

In the afternoon, after a social luncheon at the Reed college commons, five other papers will be given by physics professors from other schools.

Dr. Henry D. Sheldon To Conduct on Sunday

Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, chairman of social science, will continue his series of discussions on "Comparative World Religions" at the meeting of the University class at the First Methodist church Sunday morning at 9:45. His topic for the meeting, which is sponsored by the Wesley foundation, is to be "Buddhism."

In the evening the Wesley club will meet with the other student groups in a cooperative meeting sponsored by the Student Christian council.

Capt. McEwan Out As Coach Of Holy Cross

Former Webfoot Mentor Is Suspended

Row With Trainer Given as Cause Of Action; No Mention Of Contract

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 10.—(Special)—Captain John J. McEwan, head coach at Holy Cross for the past three years, has been suspended as head mentor for an indefinite period following an argument with a trainer last Saturday.

McEwan, former Army coach at West Point and later at the University of Oregon, will have no more coaching to do for the rest of the season. Arthur A. "Bunny" Corcoran, end coach and graduate manager, will take over McEwan's duties. He was head coach before McEwan came East.

Rev. T. J. Phelan, faculty moderator of athletics, announced McEwan's suspension Tuesday night. The discharge was the aftermath of a row between McEwan and Trainer Bart Sullivan during the Brown university game, the first defeat of the season for Holy Cross.

The notice of suspension explained that McEwan was "being suspended until further notice" because he had attempted to discharge one of the school's athletic staff without authorization. No notice was made of McEwan's contract, supposedly for four years.

McEwan came to Oregon in 1926, after finishing the four-year coaching period at West Point. He was discharged at the completion of the 1929 playing season before the expiration of his contract. He was succeeded by Dr. C. W. Spears.

Oregon Yeomen To Be Hosts at Free Smoker

THE BLACK PANTHER
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the great animal painter, Paul Bransom . . . inspired by the natural ferocity of "Bagheera," the black panther in the famous "Jungle Book." "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.
