

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

HOW do the Trojans do it? What's the secret of the continual success of Howard Jones' elevens?

Ask Captain Bill Morgan, Mike Mikulak or any of the Oregon players who faced the Trojans last Saturday. The very fundamental element of blocking is the biggest reason, they will tell you.

"Why, every darn time they carried the ball through tackle," moaned Morgan yesterday, "I'd find myself about ten yards back of the line of scrimmage with three or four U. S. C. players piled on me. They would open a hole in the line wide enough for the whole backfield to march through abreast.

"One time after I managed to stop Griffith on the five-yard line, Tay Brown, their captain, grinned at me and said, 'Look out, Cap, we're coming through you.' They did. I was blocked out and ended up back of the end zone."

On an end run, Bill added, five or six men start out as interference for the ball-carrier. By the time they get to the secondary, at least three are left.

It's unfortunate that Oregon is forced to schedule games with Southern California so late in the year. The temperature was 82 in Los Angeles Saturday. Coupled with the great disadvantage of playing in such heat, it is about this time of the year that the Trojans really get under way. This combination of heat and late-season condition makes it hard for any team to face the Trojans on anything like an equal basis.

Next year Oregon faces Southern California even later than this year. Saturday, November 18, is the date given the Webfoots for the 1938 schedule. This leaves Oregon only a few days in which to prepare for another tough game, with St. Mary's on Thanksgiving day.

Here's something that may interest fans who have never seen the Trojans in action. There is just a chance that Oregon may play them in Portland in 1935. Of course Oregon State meets them next year in the Multnomah stadium, but Oregon plays a game on the same day.

Hugh Rosson, graduate manager, explained to this writer last night that Oregon's first chance to meet Jones' crew on northern soil will come, if ever, in three years. This year they play Washington at Seattle. Next year Oregon State. Then Washington again. But in 1935, if Oregon can guarantee enough, they will come to Portland for the benefit of Webfoot fans.

Such a game depends entirely upon the wishes of Trojan managers. They are in a position to play any team at the time and place they want. Washington is in the "Big Four" of the coast conference and are supposed to have a home-and-home contract. Washington State was lucky to lure the Trojans to Pullman two years ago and trounced them 7 to 6. Washington stands a good chance to duplicate that victory if there is enough mud and rain. How Oregon State will stop them next year is the problem of Paul Schissler.

Gates Of Troy No Place For Oregon Team

State battled through four bloody quarters in the Husky stadium at Seattle in the annual state championship battle only to end with a goose-egg apiece. The Cougars had an edge throughout the game and several times penetrated within the Husky five-yard mark, only to be repulsed by a determined Washington line.

Oregon State broke into the win column for the first time this season by defeating their former cellar-mates, Montana, 35 to 6 at Missoula. A Beaver passing attack was the medium of victory. California had a tough time downing a lighter Idaho eleven. The Bears used only straight football in rolling up three touchdowns to win 21 to 6.

Kenny Under Way
Stanford took matters easy over the week-end defeating the California Aggies 50 to 0 in a non-conference encounter. Kenny Aflerbaugh featured for the Red-men.

Pop Warner's Indians and the Golden Bears will furnish the feature game of the coast next Saturday when the two elevens meet in the traditional "big game" at Berkeley. U. C. L. A. and Montana will meet in the only other conference game at Los Angeles. The Grizzlies should give the fighting Bruins little opposition.

Southern California remains idle while preparing for its last conference hurdle, the University of Washington. The Huskies remain as the Trojans hardest opposition, as the charges of Howard Jones will travel north to Seattle for the game. A wet field might easily mean disaster for the league-leaders.

Oregon State faces the Fordham Ram in New York City in the first of two inter-sectional contests for the Beavers. Oregon and Washington State will rest, prior to hard games the following week. The Webfoots face St. Mary's in San Francisco on Thanksgiving day, while the Cougars meet U. C. L. A. Saturday, November 26, in Los Angeles.

The Battleground That Was Oregon's Waterloo

Here is an airplane view of Olympic stadium, where the Oregon Webfoots were smothered Saturday by the University of Southern California, 33 to 0. In the foreground can be seen the swimming tank in which the Olympic games championships were contested in the summer. The valiant defenders of Troy completely outclassed Oregon, holding the invaders to only one first down.

Clausen and Sanford Show Class as Three 'A' Teams Win

Outstanding among yesterday's donut hoop encounter was the contest between S. P. E. and Alpha Upsilon. The two quintets battled through four thrilling quarters with the Alpha Upsilon winning, 16 to 11. In the other games the Phi Deltas beat Phi Psi 20 to 8 and the Betas trounced Sigma Nu 20 to 4.

Alpha Upsilon came close to losing yesterday's contest with the S. P. E. but somehow came out on top. Harcrome and Anderson, rival centers, were the individual scoring stars of the game. The S. P. E. team staged a last minute rally but were held in check.

Wes Clausen, former Jefferson high star, nearly stole the second game away from the Phi Psi team by himself with his sharp shooting. Time after time Clausen would score almost impossible baskets to keep him team out in front. The Phi Psi team led throughout the first quarter, but the Phi Deltas took the lead in the second and kept it after that.

Another former high school star helped his team win a victory by his uncanny shooting ability in the Beta-Sigma Nu game which the Betas won, 20 to 4. He was Glenn Sanford, former all-state forward from Salem high. Sanford performed like a finished varsity player and was by far the most outstanding player on the floor.

Micky Vail and the Sigma Chi boys were the hit of Friday's games with Sigma Chi beating Sigma Pi Tau, 10 to 4. In the other games Delta Tau Delta shut out Chi Psi, 18 to 0. A. T. O. beat Friendly hall, 9 to 3, and Sigma Nu walked on Alpha Upsilon, 13 to 5. Friday's encounters were all "B" league games.

Doc's Lads Win Holy Cross Downed Louisiana Trounced

MADISON, Wis. — Doc Spears upset the dope in the Big Ten Saturday when Wisconsin turned back the Minnesota machine 20 to 13, in the 42nd renewal of their rivalry, the oldest in the Middle West.

The victory represented the achievement of this year's ambition for Doc. As coach at Minnesota for five years, he saw his charges play the Badgers for four wins and one tie, but this year he led his Badgers to the annual classic and came out on top.

Wisconsin was outplayed in every department of the game except passing with the score tied late in the fourth period. The Badgers took the ball on Minnesota's 43-yard line. A pass to Schneller from Linfor netted 22 yards. Another to Linfor by McGuire placed the ball on the 10-yard stripe. McGuire made a beautiful catch of Linfor's toss over the goal line to give Doc's team the winning touchdown. Linfor kicked the extra point as the final gun sounded.

BATON ROUGE, La.—Louisiana State, Oregon's opponent in an inter-sectional game on December 17, faltered Saturday and lost to little Centenary, 6 to 0.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—San Francisco university closed their football schedule of the year by holding the Santa Clara Broncs to 7 to 0 score here Saturday.

Though the Dons failed to threaten the Saints' goal, they kept the play between the 30-yard lines for the greater part of the game.

The Broncs' only score came in the third quarter when they gained possession of the ball on the Dons' 37-yard line. A pass from Denser to Slavich placed the ball on the 14-yard line and another pass Judnich to Slavich was good for

Ten Football Teams Lead In Contest

Five Standard Bearers Have No Defeat
Strong Contenders Seek Title Now Held by Southern Cal's Men of Troy

Ten football teams loom as the nation's best today as the national grid race goes into the final stretch. The aggregations who lead the parade are Brown, Colgate, and Pittsburgh in the east; Auburn, Tennessee, and Vanderbilt in the south; Michigan and Purdue in the mid-west; Texas Christian in the southwest; and Southern California on the Pacific coast.

Of the above team Auburn, Colgate, Brown, Michigan, and Southern California boast perfect records without a defeat or a tie. None of the ten have tasted defeat.

Brown proved its right to a place among the leaders last Saturday with a 7-to-6 victory over the hitherto undefeated Columbia eleven. Colgate, the only major team of the country to keep its goal line uncrossed to date, won from Syracuse 16 to 0. The other standard bearer in the east, Pittsburgh, was held to a scoreless tie, the second of the season, by the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Vanderbilt and Tennessee fought to a scoreless tie to maintain their positions beside Auburn at the top of the Southern conference standings. Auburn swept over Florida 21 to 6 for her seventh win of the year.

Michigan and Purdue continued at the top in the Big Ten, the former dumping Chicago 12 to 0, while the Boiler-makers rolled up an 18-to-0 score against Iowa.

Texas Drops One
In the southwest Texas Christian spilled Texas university 14 to 0 to sound her cry for national recognition. The Texas Christian outfit has chalked up eight victories this season. The one blot on their record is a 3-to-3 tie with

Bear-Brave Game Draws Big Crowd Next Saturday

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 14.—Nearly 80,000 spectators—one of the largest football crowds in the nation this year—will witness the California-Stanford "Big Game", blue-ribbon classic of Pacific coast football, next Saturday at California Memorial stadium.

While a few hundred tickets to the contest are still available to the general public in the first public sale since 1923, University of California athletic authorities are confident that at game time next Saturday the huge bowl in Strawberry canyon will be filled to capacity.

California Memorial stadium has a capacity just short of 80,000 persons, including the rooting sections and extra bleacher seats. Stanford's stadium seats approximately 7,500 more spectators than the Berkeley bowl, so that attendance figures vary from year to year, according to where the game is played.

Louisiana State, Oregon's inter-sectional rival December 17.

Howard Jones' Trojans strengthened their claim to the mythical grid championship of the country when they turned back Oregon's Webfoots 33 to 0, for their seventh consecutive victory.

The ten leaders, games won and tied, and points scored for and against are:

Team	Games won	Tied	Pts. Opp.
Colgate	8	0	243
So. California	7	0	144
Michigan	7	0	120
Brown	7	0	81
Auburn	7	0	179
Tex. Christian	8	1	259
Tennessee	7	1	180
Purdue	6	1	139
Vanderbilt	6	2	128

Phi Gamma Delta Goes 100 Per Cent In Yearbook Sale

Oregana Salesmen To Meet At 7:30 To Make Plans For Final Drive

Phi Gamma Delta last night reported 100 per cent subscription to the Oregana, University yearbook, and thus became the first men's organization to have sold an annual to every member of the house. The announcement was made by Gordon Day and Helen Stinger, sales promotion managers. Delta Zeta was the first woman's group to announce a 100 percent sale.

Oregana salesmen will meet tonight at Phi Kappa Psi at 7:30 to lay plans for the final drive in selling the University yearbook. Representatives are urged to bring records showing number of sales made.

Day calls attention to the new low bargain price that is in effect this year. The annual will sell for $4.50 and payments will be distributed over a period of months. The money will not be collected at time of registration by the University offices, but will be handled through the various living organizations.

Mueller To Speak Tonight

The World Student Christian Council has secured the services of Dr. John H. Mueller for their weekly meeting tonight. Dr. Mueller's topic will be "The Home in the World Tomorrow." The meeting will take place in the league room on the third floor of Gerlinger hall at 7 p. m. Wallace J. Campbell will be the presiding chairman.

A review of Ernest Hatch Wilkins' "The College and Society" has been written by Karl Onthank, dean of personnel administration, and published in the November issue of the Junior College Journal. Mr. Wilkins was a visitor on the campus just before the opening of school here, and spoke in Guild hall on the California survey of higher education.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE SEA WOLF
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the noted artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the infamous Captain Kidd's fierce raids on the gold-laden Spanish galleons (1696), which made him the scourge of the Spanish Main. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.
