

State Schools Face Big Slash In Expenditures

Officers of Educational System Meet Here

$335,000 CUT DUE

Eliminating Duplication, Cutting Costs Necessary for Next Two Years, Says Kerr

Administrative officers and deans of Oregon's entire higher educational system met in Johnson hall yesterday afternoon at the call of Dr. W. J. Kerr, chancellor, and considered policies and administrative problems of all institutions. The meeting brought together for the first time the officials from the University, state college and normal schools.

A reduction of approximately $335,000 per year in expenditures during the biennium must be faced, Dr. Kerr told the officers and deans, in order to balance the budget. This reduction, it was pointed out, must be met largely from unrestricted funds available to the board of higher education, a large part of which comes from the millage tax and student fees.

Realizing the economic conditions of the state, the board of higher education has determined on a policy of asking for no appropriations to supplement the millage tax and present continuing appropriations, Dr. Kerr said.

Reduction Already Large

"During the two fiscal years 1931-32 and 1932-33 the institutions of higher learning have operated at an average reduction of income of over $1,000,000 per year as compared with the average for each year of the biennium 1929-30," the chancellor said. "Decreases in millage income due to lowered property valuations, decreased income from student body fees because of lessened enrollment and other factors in income and expenditures during the coming biennium make further economies imperative in order to balance the budget. This is an emergency we all must cooperate in meeting and it can be met only through unity of effort."

Cost Cutting Slated

To achieve the necessary economies, careful studies would be made to eliminate unnecessary duplications, to cut administrative costs and to insure a full carrying load for every individual, Dr. Kerr stated.

In order to lighten the burden of these drastic reductions during the coming biennium, the chancellor requested that every possible saving be made during the present year in the budgets already allotted. He suggested every possible reduction in laboratory supplies in line with reduced enrollment and a careful study of every item of expense.

Dr. Miller Returns

Dr. Fred Miller, of the University health service, returned to duty yesterday, although he is still suffering from a wrenched back. Dr. Miller injured his back last week while playing volleyball in the men's gym, and was unable to leave his home for several days.

Scouting of Bill Reinhart Helps Rams Win Big Games

By BRUCE HAMBY

Sports Editor Oregon Emerald
Here's the inside information on two of the year's most important intersectional football games: Fordham's victories over St. Mary's 14 to 0 and Oregon State college, 8 to 6.

Scene: Office of Major Frank Cavanaugh, head coach of the Fordham Football team, just before the opening of the season:

Cavanaugh: (To his assistants) Who'll I get to scout St. Mary's and Oregon State? That's too far to send one of you fellows. We must have someone dependable. I've got it, I'll call Doc Spears. He was out there at Oregon. He might know. (Reaching for phone.) Operator, get me C. W. Spears, Camp Randall, Wisconsin.

The phone rings.
Cavanaugh: Hello, Hello, is this Doc? This is Major Cavanaugh in New York. How are you? That's fine. Say, Doc, who can I get to scout St. Mary's and Oregon State? I'm up a creek. Tell me a good man on the coast.
Doc Spears: Say, I know just

Matsuoka, U of O Alum, Makes Key Speech at Geneva

A University of Oregon graduate who has been prominent in world affairs for some time, Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese delegate to the League of Nations, gave the Manchurian question a serious turn yesterday when he outlined his country's stand on refusing to relinquish her hold in that state. The Japanese attitude, regarded as critical to the league, was opposed by T. Wellington Koo, Chinese, who expressed his country's inclination to extend her boycott on Japanese goods if that nation took this stand in Manchuria. Matsuoka in his speech yesterday cited the American, French, and British interpretation of the Kellogg pact that a nation has a right to extend self protection beyond her own borders. He stated that his government can accept no proposals for a substitute for the present government in Manchuria.

Matsuoka is known as one of the most popular and ablest spokesmen for Japan at the league. He received an ovation on his departure for Geneva. Count Uchida, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, gave Matsuoka a free hand in his dealings with the league.

He left the University with the class of 1900.

Fate of Oregana For '33 in Hands Of Campaigners

Students Must Subscribe Large Enough List To Insure Success

Oregon students have only two days to decide whether or not there is to be a 1933 Oregana. Wednesday night the drive for subscriptions to the student year book will cease, and unless 1,400 persons have signed for the book at that time, it will not go to press, according to Roger Bailey, business manager.

Last night, before a meeting of campus subscription solicitors, Bob Hall, student body president, stated that "unless 600 more subscriptions are obtained before the deadline Wednesday, the executive council is not likely to sanction the publication of the Oregana this year. The year book must pay for itself, and unless this number is attained, financial conditions will prevent its publication."

In the initial drive, which came to an end last Friday, 800 subscribers signed for copies of the book. The Oregana, as originally planned, will sell for the bargain price of $4.50, although maintaining the former standard of quality. Payments are spaced over a period of months.

Gordon Day and Helen Stinger, in charge of sales, announce that, although the drive was carried over from last week, Wednesday evening will definitely terminate the campaign.

"The fate of the year book is now entirely in the hands of the students," said Day last night. "If they want an annual, they will subscribe prior to Wednesday. If they do not do this, it is doubtful if there will be an Oregana this year."

Subscriptions may be obtained from the respective house representatives, the A. S. U. O. business office in McArthur court, or the score of independent solicitors.

the man for you. He's Bill Reinhart, basketball and baseball coach at the University of Oregon. He's as good as any scout on the coast. Sure, you know Bill. You met him in New York at the coaches' convention? Yeh, I remember the time. OK, Major, I'll phone him right away.

Later that day.
Phone rings in Bill Reinhart's office at McArthur court, Eugene.
Bill: Hello. Yes, this is Bill. Oh hello! Doc! What's doing in Wisconsin?

Spears: Say, you remember Frank Cavanaugh? Yeh, well the Major just called me and asked for a scout to get some dope on St. Mary's and Oregon State. Will you do it? O. K. K. That's fine. I'll wire New York immediately. And good luck out there, Bill!

This is how we imagined the events might have been. Of course, the conversation is not verbatim, nor is the sequence of phone calls and telegrams certain. But, at any rate, that is how Reinhart (Continued on Page Four)

Speakers at Today's Assembly

One of the four faces in this picture is well-known to students and faculty of this University. He is the gentleman in the circle, Roger Alton Pfaff, graduate of last year's class, who is accompanying the members of the Japan Good-Will Team as their advisor on a tour of the United States. The members of the team, left to right, are T. R. Makiyama of Chuo university, Tad Yamada of Meiji university, and K. Sumomogi of Doshisha university. All four will be speakers at the 11 o'clock assembly in Gerlinger hall today.

Do You Want An Oregana?

(Editorial)

WHETHER or not Oregon continues its yearbook is now up to the student-body. The finance committee has put forth its ultimatum. It has declared that no Oregana will be printed this year unless at least 1,500 subscriptions are obtained. There were 800 on hand as this editorial was written, shortly before midnight of Monday. The managers of Oregana have said that the subscription campaign will close tomorrow night. They have approximately 36 hours in which to obtain 700 more pledges to purchase the book. That is an average of about 19 each hour, a fast pace, but a possible one if the entire student-body cooperates to the fullest extent.

On previous occasions this paper has emphasized the importance of Oregana to the activities of the University. There is no need of repeating those remarks at this time. The Emerald, in conclusion, urges that the students of Oregon exert every effort to put this drive over the top. Its success would be an attribute to Oregon. Its failure would be both a hindrance and a black mark.

Nine Juniors Are Chosen for NSFA; McKelligon Head

A. S. U. O. Constitution To Be Rived by Special Committee

Nine prominent juniors were named yesterday as members of the Oregon committee of the National Student Federation of America. Al McKelligon, president of last year's sophomore class, was appointed chairman by Bob Hall, student body president.

McKelligon has named the following third-year students to place on the committee: Neal Bush, Ed Schweiker, Geraldine Hickson, Virginia Hartje, John Kendall, George Hibbard, Nancy Suomela, and Jim Ferguson. Sterling Green, managing editor of the Emerald, was asked to serve, but declined the appointment because he was already carrying a full schedule of extra-curricular activities.

The committee, introduced last year to study student problems on the Oregon campus, will devote the major part of its effort during this and the following term to the task of revising the A. S. U. O. constitution.

Sophomore Class Meet Will Be Held in Villard

A sophomore class meeting will be held in Villard assembly at 7:30 this evening.

This is the last meeting of the term, and the final financial reports will be given, including the results of the class dance. Nominations for class secretary will be in order to fill the vacancy left by Blance O'Neill, who has left school on account of illness. Election for this office will be held next Tuesday. Plans for the Whiskerino Shuffle will also be discussed. Bill Davis, sophomore class president, urges every soph to be present.

Four in Infirmary
The number of students in the infirmary fell off greatly over the week-end. Eleanor Clark and Alma Flaig are still there from last week. The more recent arrivals are Betty Jean Catlow and Lester Hollenbeck.

Plans For Big 'Jam' Rapidly Assume Form

Group Heads Selected By General Chairman

DATE IS DECEMBER 3

Sigma Delta Chi, Theta Sigma Phi Promise Many Novelties, Scandal Sheet

Plans for the "Journalism Jam-boree," annual all-campus dance to be given December 3 under joint sponsorship of Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, journalistic societies, were set in motion yesterday with the appointment of the major committee chairmen by David Eyre, general chairman of the affair.

The following committee chairmen were named by Eyre: Oscar Munger, advertising and publicity; Jesse Steele, decorations; Eloise Dornier, orchestra; Virginia Wentz, tickets; Jack Bellinger, checking; Vincent Mutton, floor; Clifford Gregor, clean-up; Genevieve Dunlop, patrons; and Thornton Gale, scandal sheet.

Scandal Sheet Promised
Tentative plans as set forth by Eyre would make the Jam this year one of the most imposing of all times. The scandal sheet, a new feature, promises to be a novelty with few peers. It will consist of a miniature Emerald containing all the hottest campus scandal on the cover, and the program on the inner pages.

A new low price of 75 cents per couple will be charged instead of the customary dollar. The Jam will be a strictly informal date affair.

Use Newspaper Motif
A newspaper motif will be carried out in every detail of decorating, and every effort will be made to lend the atmosphere of a newspaper office. Walls will be appropriately embellished with newspapers, stereotype mats, stereotypicals, and everything that goes to make a newspaper.

The floor has not as yet been selected but no effort will be spared by the directorate to obtain the best that can be had, according to Eyre. The Campa Shoppe and McArthur court are two places being considered at the present time, and it is expected that a definite place will be named soon.

"Elegie" by Massenet, "Chanson de Florian" by Godard, "Charmante Oiseau," by David, will be played by Miss Hill.

"The Lonesome Whistler" by Guion, "The Surf" by Van Dyke, and "The Music Box" by Lidow are Miss Evanson's songs for the recital. Sally Reed will present Chopin's "Nocturne in C-sharp minor" and Schumann's "Novellette in F-major."

The No. 1 Gael

Here is Edward P. (Stip) Madigan, far-famed coach of the St. Mary's Gaels, who oppose the University of Oregon football team at Kezar stadium in San Francisco Thanksgiving day. Madigan expects a very close game, and says Oregon has an excellent chance to defeat his team.

Date for Matrix Table Scheduled As December 1

Amos Burg, Explorer, To Address Journalistic Women's Affair

Amos Burg, former Oregon student and well-known explorer, has agreed to be the guest speaker at the annual formal Matrix Table banquet, it was announced last night. He will speak on "Dances Around the World." Simultaneous with the announcement that the banquet would be held December 1 at the Eugene hotel. Attendance is by invitation only.

Burg has a two-reel film showing dances among primitive people around the world which he has taken on various scientific trips. Two hundred fifty invitations are being sent out to the formal dinner given by Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honor.

Tonight between 10:30 and 11 o'clock members of Theta Sigma Phi will distribute invitations to two upperclass women in each living organization, as well as bids to the outstanding freshman and sophomore women majoring in journalism. Names of these students will be released in Wednesday's Emerald.

Invitation to the Matrix Table is considered a great honor, as evidenced by the fact that a section of the Oregana will be devoted to the guests at this year's event.

Amos Burg is one of the world's youngest explorers, but has attained for himself an enviable reputation. Starting his career as an expert canoeist on the Yukon and Mackenzie rivers in Alaska and Canada, respectively, he has since travelled with William Beebe, naturalist, and with Fleischmann. At present he is working on an article on Oregon for the National Geographic magazine.

Reservations for the banquet may be made by calling Virginia Wentz at 225.

Doctor's Thesis Accepted

Dr. Hilber J. Unger has just received word that his doctor's thesis has been accepted for publication in the "Physical Review." The subject of the thesis was "Infra-Red Absorption Bands of Ammonia."

Japan Trio Will Be Heard At Assembly Today

Only Two Papers This Week, Edict Of Graduate Head

There will be only two Emeralds this week, this issue and that of tomorrow. This edict came forth from the graduate manager's office several days ago. Last spring the schedule for this term was made up by the editor and business manager in the belief that the customary Thanksgiving vacation would be granted. Then the state board took away the holidays and thereby jumbled the publishing schedule slightly.

Last week Dick Neuberger, editor of the Emerald, requested that at least three, and possibly four, issues be permitted this week, but was informed by the graduate manager and business offices that pre-arranged advertising schedules on a two-day basis would make this unadvisable. He also was told by the finance committee that the Emerald might be reduced to a four-times-a-week schedule next term, a move which Neuberger promised to oppose vigorously.

Pep Rally Set for Closing Minutes Of Meeting Today

Send-Off for Grid Squad To Follow Immediately After Assembly

The last ten minutes of this morning's 11 o'clock assembly will be devoted to a pep rally and send-off for the football squad, which leaves from Villard station at 12:10 p. m. for its Thanksgiving day clash with the St. Mary's Gaels, it was announced last night by Rally Chairman Espy.

The abrupt shift in attention from international relations to football enthusiasm will be made as soon as the visiting Japanese speakers have finished their part of the program. The yell leaders will take the stage for a short session, and then the whole crowd will fall in behind the band to serpentine over to Villard hall, where a spirited send-off will be given to the departing grid warriors.

All living organizations will postpone lunch till 12:20 in order to allow their members to attend the rally without sacrifice of calories, according to Espy.

Amphibian Club To Hold Tryouts

Final tryouts for membership in Amphibian club will be held this evening at 4 o'clock in the women's pool. There will be no further tryouts until spring term.

Seven girls tried out last week and will finish their tests tonight. Anyone desiring to do so who was unable to try out last time is invited to come this evening but new entrants must complete all tests tonight. Entrants are reminded to bring heart O. K. slips, obtained from Dr. Marion Hayes at the dispensary, unless they had an A. A. rating in the physical examination this fall.

Football, Golf and Politics Interest Visiting Japanese

Yankee football, golf and politics will be three centers of interest for the three members of the Japan good will tour who arrived in Eugene last night on their trip through the United States. Of course, they are going to study economics and such things, give numerous talks and lectures, and in general build up a better feeling between citizens of the two nations, but that is only during business hours.

The members of the party are T. R. Makiyama, golfer and economist; Kazuyuki Sumomogi, rugby and rowing artist; and Tadayoshi Yamada, politician and orator. Makiyama is 25 years old and the other two are 23.

Sumomogi expressed the first wish of the group, even before they had established themselves in the hotel room—that was to see an American football team in action. He wasn't particular whether it was in practice or a game, but he wants to see these power drives and end runs.

Makiyama, when asked what his sport was, said that he "plays at golf" in that tone which means he is not the kind of a player to be taken on for a breather match. He didn't bring his clubs along but expects to try out numerous American courses. Yamada had the only regrets of the group. They were due to the presidential election being held too soon.

After the visitors had hung up their suits to get the wrinkles of traveling out, they expressed a desire to see student life as it is outside of classrooms and libraries. They were driven up to one of the restaurants near the campus where they could see students getting a few minutes of relaxation after the grind of the day.

Travelers To Make Five Months Tour of U. S.

PPAFF WITH TEAM

Nipponese-United States Relations Will Be Discussed By Group

By DAVE WILSON

Three young men from Japan and one long-absent young man of Eugene retired to their rooms in the Eugene hotel at an early hour last night to get rested up before a 13-hour working day.

After being greeted at the train by civic and University officials, the members of the Japan Good Will team, now on a five-months' tour of the United States, were told that the town was theirs but that they would have to work for it, with seven engagements down for their one-day stay.

Outstanding on their program is the 11 o'clock assembly at Gerlinger hall, for which all classes will be dismissed. The general assembly, which will be open to townspeople as well as to students and faculty, is expected to attract a capacity crowd. The three members of the Good Will team will speak on various phases and problems of 1932 Japan and its relations with the United States, as will Roger Alton Pfaff, University of Oregon graduate who is traveling with the Japanese students as their American adviser.

Morris Assembly Chairman To Follow Immediately After Assembly

K. Sumomogi will speak on "New Japan." T. R. Makiyama on "Economics of the Pacific" and Tad Yamada on "Japanese-American Relations and the 1932 Situation." Pfaff will conclude the talks with one on "Manchukuo, the New West."

At 8 o'clock this morning members of the team will meet with Victor Morris' class in international trade in Condon hall, and at 9 o'clock a round table session will be held with Dean Allen's editing class in the Journalism building. Interested students are welcome to attend these class meetings.

Students May Consult Rotary Club during the noon-hour, the guests from the Far East will return to the Gerlinger hall lounge, where the International Relations club, the Cosmopolitan club, and the World Fellowship group of the Y. W. C. A. are sponsoring an informal reception for them between 3 and 5 o'clock.

The team members will attend a formal dinner to be given for them at the International house in the evening.

Early tomorrow morning they will return to Portland for another speaking engagement, leaving that night for Boise, the next stop on their tour of 60 cities.

Skull and Dagger Will Meet Today

Skull and Dagger will meet at Gerlinger hall at 11 this morning to plan for the rally at noon, it was announced today. It is very important that all members be present as the proceedings following the assembly must be carried out well on such short notice.

The rally proper will begin at 12:10 when the team leaves for St. Marys.
