

Working Day Of Professors Is Calculated

Average Week Includes Saturday and Sunday

Plans of Survey Is Conducted by Taylor, Constance, and Leighton

University professors, at least 9 out of 10, spend more than the standard 44-hour week at their business of preparing the modern youth for a life work. More than half of the professors devote better than eight hours per day for seven days of the week, while actually some 20 per cent, or one out of five, averages more than 12 hours per day for the six-day week.

These were facts determined in an accurate survey conducted recently at the University of Oregon by a committee working under the direction of Institution-Research committee. The committee sent out survey questionnaires to faculty members here which asked those questioned to record whatever they did for every half hour of two typical weeks. In this way the actual time spent

FOR YEARS and years Shredded Wheat has attended all the best colleges and never flunked a single exam. It's Nature's own energy food—100% whole wheat. It's just the thing before that "eight o'clock" . . . just the thing after an evening hitting the books.

Eat Shredded Wheat for wide-awake days. Eat it for sounder-asleep nights. Best of all eat it because it's one "sensible" food that knows how to taste good, too.

Begin the good habit today! Keep it up for a week, and see if it doesn't make you snappier and happier!

When you see Niagara Falls on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

instructing classes, correcting examination papers, holding conferences with students, doing research work and doing administrative work was determined.

58 Hours Weekly
The typical week of the average professor showed a total of 58 hours spent in activities definitely in the service of the University. These instructors report that their work requires an average of nine and one-half hours a day from Monday to Friday, six hours on Saturday and four and one-half hours on Sunday.

The survey showed that actual time spent in classroom teaching and in such activities as conducting quiz sections averaged 13.9 hours per week, which is almost exactly the 14 hour standard set by the board of higher education. On work of purely administrative nature the average is 10.9 hours per week, thus making a total of 24.8 hours per week in these two fields. If the professors held to the standard 44 hour week prevalent in ordinary occupations, they would have but 20 hours a week left for preparation of teaching, for student conferences, for grading papers and numerous other duties of modern educators.

Classroom Hours Long
Actual time spent in classroom plus time spent in offices and committee rooms totals 42.7 per cent of the total, while 20.5 per cent goes to preparation for class, quiz and laboratory work. This involves specific reading, study and planning of courses. Of the rest of the time, 8.6 per cent is required for reading papers, conferences with students take 9.3 per cent, thus leaving by 19 per cent for other activities. Keeping abreast of the rapidly expanding fields of knowledge and research activities claim 12.2 per cent of the total, thus leaving less than 7 per cent of the total for miscellaneous activities.

The plan of the survey was worked out by a committee composed of Dr. R. H. Taylor, head of the personnel research bureau; Clifford Constance, assistant registrar; Dr. Ralph W. Leighton, executive secretary of the research council; Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science, and Earl W. Pallett, executive secretary of the University.

Social swim, held regularly Friday evenings from 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the women's pool, had its first really big turnout last week, the first week-end without a competing dance or other activity. Between 35 and 40 students, both men and women, enjoyed the recreational period.

Plans have been made to continue the social swim during the closed week-ends when other activities and recreation are no longer open to students. The time, however, will be changed to 4 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoons during the regular recreational swimming hour for women.

Water balls are provided for swimmers and suits and towels will be provided without charge. All must bring their own caps, however.

McDONALD—"Kongo."
By BOB GUILD

McDonald
Voodoo, drums, shuffling feet, a crippled menace—the "Kongo"—with Walter Huston as the crip who outmaneuvers the menacers of all the old romances you've ever seen. Lupe Velez as the so and so in abbreviated costume to add a different kind of menace; and Mrs. John Virginia Bruce Gilbert—all for the sake of Kongo, as she is.

Faculty Golfers Fail To Put in Appearance
Dr. Robert H. Seashore of the psychology department reveals that the faculty golf tournament has failed thus far to attract any considerable number of applicants. Signers to date are scarcer than dog fleas on a tadpole, and Dr. Seashore is of the opinion that the Thanksgiving goose may have induced a plethoric condition of lethargic ennui!
Those wishing to enter the tournament may leave their names at Laurelwood, and Dr. Seashore urges faculty members to adopt the battle cry "To the Club with your clubs!"

Meeting Scheduled
There will be a meeting of all those who are to do practice teaching next term, December 8, at 4 p. m. in room three of the Education building, Dr. N. L. Bos-

You don't want too much Turkish but you do want Enough that's why Chesterfields Taste Better!

IT'S like this. Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what spices are to food . . . the "seasoning" that points up the flavor of all the other ingredients.

In your cigarette . . . as in anything good . . . you want enough spice. Not too much. In Chesterfield you get just enough of the right kinds of the spicy aromatic Turkish leaf.

It's this "just-right" blending of tobaccos, both Turkish and Domestic, that gives to Chesterfields their better taste and rich aroma.
