

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

ODDS and ends: Stuart Clancy of Stapleton and Bill Owen of the New York Giants, professional footballers, have an eye to business. They're undertakers in the off-season. Charlie Phil Rosenberg, former bantam-weight champion, took off 37 pounds for his title bout with Eddie (Cannonball) Martin in 1925, making the well-known Venetian merchant look like a pikier.

Jack Dempsey making the well-known Venetian merchant look like a pikier.

After seeing what Mickey McGuire, the transplanted Hawaiian, did to Minnesota the other day, there is reason to believe the Wisconsin star is the sextet Joe Cook has been threatening to imitate these many years. "Hiker" Joy, long-time assistant coach at Fordham, is slated, they say, to succeed Major Frank Cavanaugh at the helm next season. War wounds have taken increasing toll of the popular major's strength.

Utah has captured another Rocky mountain grid title. When they fail to win one that will be news. The biggest difficulty southern elevens seem to be having with Auburn is in locating its breaks. They are satisfied of its power. It is estimated Jack Sharkey has passed up over $100,000 in "extras" he might have made out of the heavy title.

The height of something or other was touched by a Milwaukee high school eleven when it sprang a play that required six players to handle the ball, including all four backs.

Major General Paul B. Malone once commanded a junior officer, an expert golfer, to teach him to break 80 within two years, under penalty of having his efficiency rating impaired. Before the time expired he shot a 76 and took a load off Capt. Kendall Fielder's mind. Art Sterling, said to be the nation's biggest basketball player with a pro team at Springfield, Mo. He stands 6.10 and weighs 205.

The bloke who got the toughest break is the villain in a movie short, soon to be released, featuring Jack Dempsey. The old Manassa Mauler had to lay him out seven times before the director was satisfied, and each time Jack put more verve in his left hook. The soft, southern bloke, as developed at Tulane, apparently has it all over the Bronx variety, one of the last of the east's traditions to tumble.

Two members of the St. Mary's eleven have been promised contracts with the New York professional Giants next season if they have nothing better in mind. A southern gridster, upon being told he was to play in Yankee stadium, is supposed to have remarked: "You mean Darnyanke stadium, don't you?" Bill Walker has promised to win 18 games for the Cardinals next season.

"Red" Oliver, Texas Christian's backfield ace and leading scorer of the Southwest conference, was a sprinting champion before he made good on the gridiron. Reggie McNamara, six-day bike veteran, is the original doctor's delight. He has suffered 11 broken collar bones, three cracked ribs, a fractured skull, a broken jaw and a broken leg.

Bill Morgan On All-coast Grid Selection

Temple and Mikulak Also Named on All-Star

Hughes, Frye, Bowerman Other Ducks Honored by Sports Staff of Chronicle

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Bill Morgan, captain of the 1932 University of Oregon football team was placed on the All-Coast team announced yesterday by the San Francisco Chronicle. Both Morgan and Mike Mikulak, Duck fullback, won berths on the All-Coast conference eleven.

Another Webfoot star, Mark Temple, was named on both the All-Coast and All-Conference teams. Men on the Webfoot squad receiving honorable mention were Bernie Hughes, center, Gardner Frye, guard, and Bill Bowerman, quarterback.

Keith Davis, Oregon State end, was placed on the Chronicle's third team, while several of his teammates received honorable mention. They were E. Davis, end; Abe Schwammel, tackle; and Hal Moe, halfback.

Brovelli Best Full
Angelo Brovelli, the "dark angel" of the St. Mary's team, was selected over Mike Mikulak for the All-Coast team. However, Mikulak received the award for the All-Conference team.

The All-Pacific Coast selection, as made by the Chronicle, is as follows:

First team: ends Slavich, Santa Clara and Gaddy, U. S. F. tackles, Morgan, Oregon, and Smith, U. S. C.; guards, Rosenberg, U. S. C.; and Corbus, Stanford; center, Coates, U. C. L. A.; quarterback, Griffith, U. S. C.; halves, Schal-dach, California, and Sander, W. S. C.; fullback, Brovelli, St. Mary's.

Morgan's Work Praised
The All-Coast conference team is as follows: ends, N. Nisbet, Wash., and Doub, Stanford; tackles, Morgan, Oregon, and Smith, U. S. C.; guards, Rosenberg and Corbus; center, Coates; quarterback, Griffith; halves, Schaldach and Sander; fullback, Mikulak, Oregon.

Ed. Hughes, Chronicle sports writer, in commenting on the selections says: "Morgan played good ball this year despite the handicap of a broken hand in some of his games, and he was not only a powerhouse in the line, but also an inspirational leader."

Mikulak, Temple
Also concerning Mikulak he says: "Mikulak, the Oregon pile driver, is a demon on the defense and is usually good for a yard or two on a line buck." Hughes said that "Temple put up a wonderful game against St. Mary's and he was the outstanding backfield man on his team. Temple is a strong runner, a good passer, a fair kicker, and a deadly tackler."

Capt. Morgan has been mentioned on several other All-Coast selections as well as this one, and on early All-American teams. Bernie Hughes, Webfoot center, was selected as All-Coast pivot man on the team chosen by the United Press.

ferred 11 broken collar bones, three cracked ribs, a fractured skull, a broken jaw and a broken leg.

Word from the South says U. S. C. and U. C. L. A., Los Angeles two major institutions, may sever athletic relations. The Trojans cancelled this season's freshman grid game without warning. Syracuse set a record that probably will stand for the year by committing 17 fumbles in its game with Clarkson Tech.

Hobby Group Will Hold Informal Tea

Prose and Poetry hobby group will hold an informal tea this evening from 9 to 10 at the Kappa Delta house in place of its regular meeting for discussion.

Honor guests for the evening will be members of Phi Theta Upsilon, presidents of the Philomaclete groups, junior and senior sponsors, and women students who are interested in becoming members of the organization.

The program arranged by Ann Reed Burns and Eleanor Higgins will include a reading of John Massfield's poetry by Margaret Pollitt, a song by Marie Saccomanno, and piano selections. Velma McIntyre has charge of refreshments. Miss E. Lenore Casford will pour.

Among the guests invited for the tea are Mrs. Clara Smertenko, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moll, Mrs. Hazel Scherwing, Mrs. Alice P. Macduff, Miss Eula Duke, Miss Lenore Casford, Betty Anne Macduff, and Margaret Pollitt.

Unanimous for All-Coast

Capt. Bill Morgan, picked as an all-coast tackle on nearly every mythical eleven chosen to date. His latest honor came from the San Francisco Chronicle all-star choices.

Uclans To Lose Eight Gridsters

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 29.—Eight U. C. L. A. football players will end their conference playing careers Dec. 3 when the Bruins play host to University of Washington in the first game between the two institutions. The men are: Capt. Homer Oliver, center; Robert Decker, halfback; Houghton Norfleet, tackle; Kerns Hampton, tackle; Leonard Bergdahl, quarterback; Walter Stickle, end; Gordon Jones, guard; and Joe Berry, halfback, all of whom have won letters with the exception of Berry. The Bruins meet Florida at Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 17.

Kentucky Back Strong Kicker
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A unique style, developed his first year in high school, gives the Kentucky football team a big kick every time Ralph Kercheval punts.

Over six feet tall, weighing 190 solid pounds, Kercheval is one of the best backs ever to play at Kentucky, which has not forgotten "Shipwreck" Kelly, who ranked among the nation's best during three years of varsity play.

Meeting the best in the South, Kercheval has yet to find his master at kicking. He already has been described by conference coaches as a "second Jim Thorpe." His kicks usually go about 55 yards in the air, although he has clubbed out punts up to 75 yards. Strangely, Kercheval's greatest kick came while he was a senior in high school. Playing on a field where the goal posts were at the goal lines, he was sent back to punt from his own 20-yard mark. Putting all the power he had into the kick he sent the ball through the air to strike the cross bar of the goal at the far end of the field.

Hygiene May Be Made Up
For students who failed the fall term of freshman hygiene a make-up course in this subject will be conducted during the coming winter term on Tuesdays at 4 o'clock, it was announced yesterday. The course, which is for the winter term only, will be taught by P. R. Washke who will be assisted by V. E. Sparks.

Pan Xenia Initiates

Students Present Selections For Music Recital Tuesday

Five students were presented in the final recital for this season last night, namely, Virginia Hilen, soprano; Catherine Mishler, pianist; Gene Love, bass; Betty Evanson, pianist; and Corinne Combs, cellist. Mr. Love filled the place of Beulah Wynd Long, who was scheduled to appear on the program, but was unable to come.

Miss Mishler's numbers were "Barcarolle in F-minor" and "Minute" by Delahaye. The latter had a sparkling rhythm and many delicate modulations. "Confutatio" (from the "Marseillais Requiem") by F-major having a soft melody ornamented with many quick trills and "Polonaise in C-sharp minor," a brilliant number with unexpected pianissimo passages, made up Miss Evanson's group.

Miss Hilen sang "O Cessate di

Plagarini" and "Che Fiero Costume." Miss Combs, the first cellist to be presented this season, played Popper's "Fond Recollections," a slow and slightly mournful number, and Lee's "Gavotte," a quick, lively selection.

That plans for interesting student-recitals to begin the second Tuesday of winter term were being formed was announced by George P. Hopkins of the University music faculty. They will begin at 8:00 p. m. as this term.

COLONIAL—"False Faces."
By BOB GUILD

McDonald
"Kongo" piles horror on horror the while Scarface Huston out-Chaney's the late Mr. Chaney in the latest Hollywood thriller, straight from the jungle depths. Outside of the fact that there is probably a horror limit, and that there certainly is a patience limit, the show is pretty good. Huston plays his rather realistic role with his usual gusto—Conrad Nagel is a bit better than last time we saw him as the drug-filled ex-medic.

Lupe Velez lived up to expectations while we saw her, as the wanton child of nature, adopted of the jungle—and Virginia Bruce was pretty hopeless, as was intended. You might like it—there's plenty of voodoo and blood and

Orange Coach Recalls Days With 'Knut'

Schissler One of Rock's Closest Friends

Famous Grid Figure Lives Once More in Interview With Guild

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Football coaches, rivals of Knute Rockne in the days when none could match the teaching skill of the bald Scandinavian, delight in adding to the legends growing steadily around the memory of one of the greatest figures in the history of American sport.

Paul Schissler, Oregon State's head man, was one of Rock's closest friends in the profession. That relationship shows even in the Beaver's style of play. Schissler coaches the Rockne system, using a modified Notre Dame backfield and line shift behind a balanced line.

Bringing his warriors to New York to play Fordham, in town for the first time since walloping the then-mighty Violets of New York university 25 to 13 in one of the outstanding upsets of 1928, Schissler talked of Rockne, as most of the coaches do at one time or another when they gather.

He added something to the picture of the Rock's last few months before a falling airplane carried him to his death in a farmer's field in Kansas.

"Knut came to the coast a few months before he died, and on his way to Seattle, he stopped off a couple of days as usual to visit with me in Corvallis," Schissler said.

"He was very tired when he arrived, but not too tired to demand that my two youngsters be produced immediately for a romp."

"He had a good night's rest and the next day I wanted to take him around town a bit, to keep him interested if I could. He wouldn't go."

Rock and Jean Marie
"He got Jean Marie, my little girl, and climbed on a big couch in the living room. He laid down there and set her on his chest."

"Go ahead and do what you have to," he said. "I'm going to stay here and rest."

"The last good picture I have of Rock was him lying there, teaching nursery rhymes to Jean Marie as she sat on his chest, laughing and pulling his ears."

Had Premonition?
Schissler thinks that Rockne, although he used airplanes whenever he could, had an idea that some day he was going to have a flying accident.

"I asked him during that visit how he had travelled back to Chicago after a trip he had made previously to the coast. I wanted to know if he flew back."

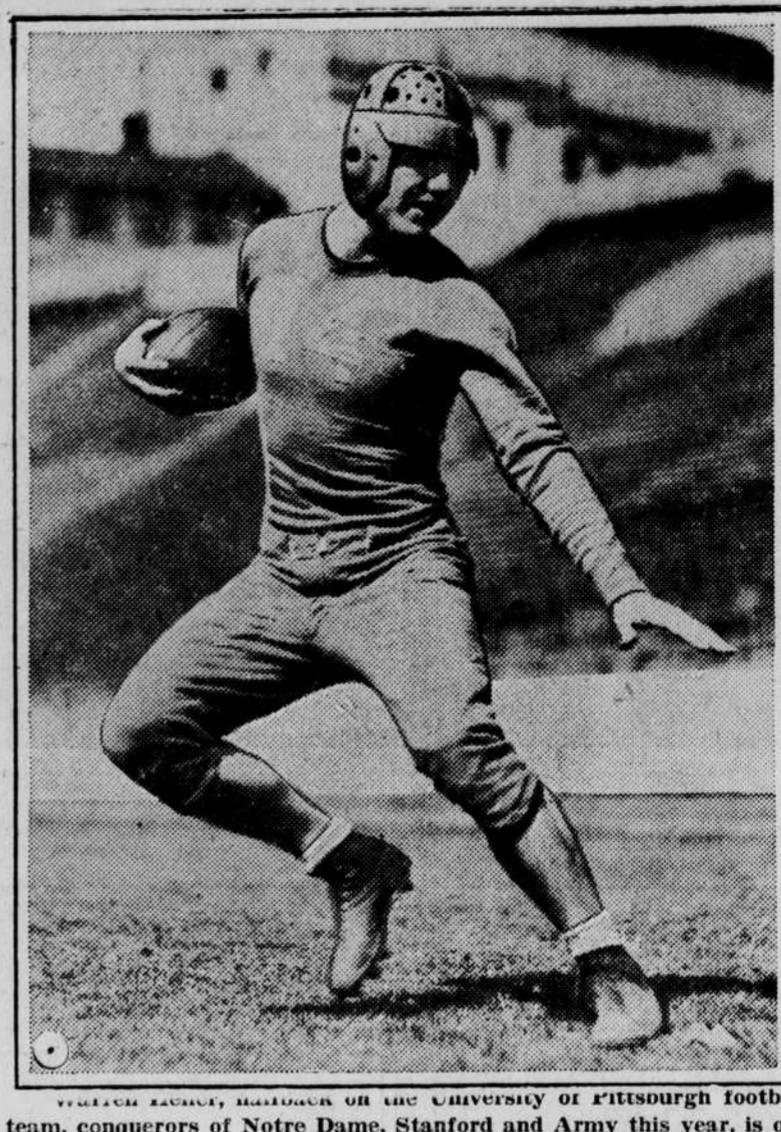

"Nope," Rock said. "Airplanes are safe enough. There's no danger flying any more. But I had Bonnie (his wife) with me, and I didn't want to risk it."

Dean Jewel Receives Committee Appointment

Announcement has been received of the appointment of Dean J. R. Jewel of the education school to a place on the legislative committee of the National Vocational Guidance Association of the United States.

Dean Jewel will represent the territory west of the Rocky mountains. His organization is interested in vocation welfare and social legislation.

Pitt's All-American Back

Fredie Halberg, star Theta Chi forward, with some clever shooting put the Alpha Upsilon team in a bad hole in the last game on last night's donut schedule and his team mates found it easy to win 30 to 12. Sigma Chi won a slow game from Fiji by a 12 to 5 score. Sigma Alpha Mu forfeited to Phi Kappa Psi.

Huskies To Play Post-Season Tilt With Club Team

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, Nov. 29.—(Special)—A post-season game between the Washington Huskies and the West Seattle Athletic club eleven has been scheduled for Saturday, December 10, Earl Campbell, A. S. U. W. graduate manager, announced here. Proceeds will be the annual Seattle Christmas charity fund.

The clubbers, known as the Yellow Jackets, have played in Christmas charity games for the past two years. Last year they defeated Gonzaga and two seasons ago downed the Olympic club.

Late Permission Report Is Error
Mahr Reymers, president of Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity for men, announced yesterday that the statement which appeared in Tuesday's Emerald regarding late permission being given for the "Big Broadcast" at the Fox McDonald December 6, was erroneous.

He added that, though the dean of women did not give her permission for late dates for underclasswomen, she did state that heads of houses would be allowed to excuse women for the show if they could show evidence that they were going to the benefit performance.

He further stated that only those tickets actually sold by Alpha Delta Sigma members and house representatives would count toward the benefit. He urges all to buy their tickets early and from campus representatives.

The proceeds from the benefit will be used to sponsor an advertising conclave for Pacific coast ad men, which will be held on the Oregon campus the early part of next year.

Dean Jewel Receives Committee Appointment
Announcement has been received of the appointment of Dean J. R. Jewel of the education school to a place on the legislative committee of the National Vocational Guidance Association of the United States.

Dean Jewel will represent the territory west of the Rocky mountains. His organization is interested in vocation welfare and social legislation.

The younger brother has played several years of prep ball for the St. Johns Military academy in the East.

Colonial
Suave Mr. Lowell Sherman opens tonight in his latest opus as the fake face doctor "who preys on his women"—This engaging heavy always directs his own pictures, always plays the de-bonaire, always surrounds himself with pulchritude, always brings laughs. The pulchritude this time is composed of Lila Lee, Peggy Shannon, Geneva Mitchell—three (3) leading women for the expert.

The story unwraps the racket of face (plastic) surgery as practiced by the quick—unwraps the package and throws the contents right smack in your face—Unethical, malpracticing, wise-cracking, She-man pursues his way with only minor vicissitudes strewn upon his path. "Roses all the way," quoth he—right up to the show-down. And show-down there is—dynamic.

Three "big" college games may be transplanted to Chicago for the Century of Progress exposition. They are Stanford-Northwestern, Southern California-Notre Dame, and the Chicago-Dartmouth games.

Dan Smith, Rutgers' athlete, followed in his father's footsteps in winning the freshman cross-country in New York recently. To be absolutely specific, he wore the same track shoes that his father wore when he won the same event over thirty years ago.

They were not in the best of shape, but they held together long enough to carry the son on to victory.

Virginia has not used the same starting backfield in nine games this season.

Theta Chi Team Upsets Ally-Ups In Donut Battle

Sigma Chi and Phi Kappa Psi Other Winners as Play Nears End

Today's "A" League Schedule

4:00 p. m.—Kappa Sigma vs. Beta Theta Pi.
4:40 p. m.—Chi Psi vs. A. T. O.
5:30 p. m.—Delta Tau Delta vs. Yeomen.

Fredie Halberg, star Theta Chi forward, with some clever shooting put the Alpha Upsilon team in a bad hole in the last game on last night's donut schedule and his team mates found it easy to win 30 to 12. Sigma Chi won a slow game from Fiji by a 12 to 5 score. Sigma Alpha Mu forfeited to Phi Kappa Psi.

In the first of last night's encounters Sigma Chi and Phi Gamma Delta played a slow first half, the score being only 2 to 1. During the second period the Sigma Chi boys started scoring points leisurely and soon had a commanding lead over their opponents. For Sigma Chi, K. Davis, J. Gordon, and R. Stenshoel were outstanding. The Fiji stars were L. Chester and B. Seufert.

In a startling upset which surprised the rail-birds themselves Theta Chi convincingly beat Alpha Upsilon by a 30 to 12 score. The Theta Chi outfit played a sterling brand of ball all evening. The only Theta Chi player who seemed to have an off-night was Uglov, stellar guard, who was banished from the game for too many fouls. Helberg, Theta Chi forward, was the outstanding man of the game with steady scoring. Wicks, also of Theta Chi, scored consistently.

Young Christy To Wed Philadelphia Woman

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 28.—(Special)—Lieutenant Christy Mathewson, son of baseball's immortal "Big Six" Mathewson, is engaged to wed Miss Margaret Philips of Philadelphia upon her arrival here next month. Mathewson is stationed with the United States army in China. Unlike his famous father, who ranks as the greatest baseball hero of all time, Lieut. Mathewson never harkened seriously to the call of the diamond.

Daly Organization To Buy Pedestal

The Bernard Daly Educational club has announced plans for the purchase of a sandstone pedestal for the bust of Dr. Bernard Daly.

The bust, which is the work of Rex Sorenson, a former Oregon student, was purchased last year by the Oregon and Oregon State clubs in honor of the man whose bequest has enabled deserving high school graduates of Lakeview to attend the University, expenses paid.

Newly bronzed, the bust has been to Lakeview, where it will be presented to the board of directors at an unveiling in the court-houses during the Christmas holidays.

Plans for a celebration dance to be given at that time are well under way, it is also reported.
