

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

WHILE all-coast, all-conference, and all-American football selections fill the daily sport pages and summaries of almost completed seasons are hashed over, little thought has been given to the prospects for next year. No matter how poorly a team finishes the present there is always the chance that next year it will be among the title contenders. "Next year" is a great topic and one which furnishes optimism without end.

Only one more conference game and the Pacific coast conference will close shop until early in September, 1933. Of course, there are still numerous intersectional games to be played, notably, the St. Mary's-Alabama contest tomorrow at San Francisco, the Southern California-Notre Dame encounter at Los Angeles on December 10 and the Rose Bowl game January 2.

The University of Washington and U. C. L. A. wind up the coast circuit tomorrow at Los Angeles in a contest that will have no bearing on the pennant. Southern California cinched the title by edging out the Huskies, 9 to 6, Thanksgiving day at Seattle. A victory for the Bruins, however, would advance them to a tie for second place with Washington State, while a Husky conquest would assure the Cougars of sole possession of second place honors.

But to return to "next year's" prospects. Just what kind of a team will Oregon have in 1933? From a standpoint of veteran players the Webfoots should do better than they did the past season.

Only three members of the first string eleven will be absent next fall when Prink Callison opens practice. Capt. Bill Morgan, three-year veteran tackle and for two years an all-coast choice, will not be on hand. Orville (Red) Bailey, playing his third year at end, although edged out during the latter part of the year by Butch Morse, will not be back. Bill Bowerman, blocking quarterback, will finish his college grid career against Louisiana also.

To fill the shoes of Morgan the Oregon coaching staff will have their choice of Alex Eagle, giant sophomore, who has seen most of this year's games from the bench, and Dwight Neilson, another tiny lad of around 220 pounds, who starred on Irv Schulz's freshman team this fall. Eagle was understudy for Morgan this year but saw prolonged action only against Santa Clara.

Butch Morse will be back to fill the left-end position for which he and Bailey fought all year. Willie Torrence of the yearling team will be around to aid in case either Morse or Chuck Wishard find the going too strenuous.

With so many backfield prospects sitting on the bench, Callison should not have much trouble in finding a successor to Bowerman. Ralph Terjeson gained some experience this year and Bob Parke, while mainly a halfback, could easily fill the position. Toughy Leemans, leader of the freshman offensive this year, will be looking for some backfield berth and might be fitted into this vacancy.

A probable starting lineup for the Webfoots when they open next fall might be as follows:

 Center—Bernie Hughes, all-conference center.
 Right guard—Gardner Frye, all-coast honorable mention.
 Right tackle—Bill Nilsson, two year veteran.
 Right end—Chuck Wishard, with two year of experience.
 Quarterback—Ralph Terjeson, one year's work as understudy.
 Left halfback—Mark Temple, two years of experience and all-coast second team choice.
 Right halfback—Stan Kostka, one year back of him.
 Fullback—Mike Mikulak, all-conference fullback.

Webfoot Hoop Outlook Good In Workouts

Newcomers Show Speed as Season Nears

Roberts, Stevens, Olinger, Watts, And Kunkle To Carry Most Of Burden On Court

By BILL EBERHART
 Well satisfied with the progress made by his basketball squad in its first six weeks of practice, Bill Reinhart is advancing his men from fundamentals to the more intricate elements of his offensive system.

Since the season started several of the not too outstanding candidates have blossomed out and launched themselves into basketball's foreground. The biggest furrows on the brows of several hoop lettermen is caused by the rapid strides of progress of Bill Berg, and Ed Kunkle.

Berg, known for his defense, is whipping his offense into shape and should see plenty of action this year. Kunkle is finding the hoop consistently, and with his height, defensive tactics should be easy for him.

Roberts Sure of Job
 Although Cap Roberts needs no publicity to get him across with Oregon fans, his work is head and shoulders above the other center candidates and, barring injuries, will have a big year. He's working on a peach of an overhead shot that is next to impossible to knock down and yet is extremely accurate.

Reinhart is concentrating on his younger players in scrimmage play, in the belief that Stevens, Rotenberg, Olinger, and Watts, all old hands at the game, should know basketball now if they ever will. Robertson, Houghton, Rourke, Berg, Clay, Miller, Walsh, Simons, and Stahl, are bearing the brunt of the scrimmage work.

Houghton is bigger and stronger than ever and breaks fast. The lettermen are constantly reminded that "Houghton will get 'em if they don't watch out." Stahl knows Reinhart's system by heart and is a dangerous man under the basket.

Barnstorming Sched Out
 Rourke, Clay, Miller, Walsh, and Simons still have some rough spots but Reinhart is a master at smoothing out such things and they'll be real ball players in another month.

The southern barnstorming trip set for Christmas is rapidly taking shape and a definite schedule will be announced soon. Five games have officially been booked and Reinhart is angling for three or four more, making about nine games in eleven days.

The first game will be December 19 with Howard Johnson's Ashland normal team, and the rest in and around San Francisco. The United Athletic club, which Reinhart says is the best team on the coast, will be met, along with the Young Men's Institute, San Jose Teachers college, and Chico Teachers college.

Infirmiry Has Four
 The wet weather has been taking its toll if the number of students in the infirmiry is any indication. Jane Carter, William Cooper, Paulen Kaseberg, and Sterling Green are now inmates.

Grid Tactics Feature Tilts In 'B' League

S. P. E. Victory Is Melee Of Fisticuffs

Evans Wins for Phi Sigs in Last Minute Rally; Phi Delt's rounce Hall Five

Today's "A" League Schedule
 Sherry Ross hall vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon, 4 p. m.
 Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Phi Delta Theta, 4:40 p. m.
 Sigma hall vs. Sigma Nu, 5:20 p. m.

By BEN BACK
 A good tumbling exhibition was given in the second of last night's donut games in which the S. P. E. and Sigma Nu teams played through four hectic quarters of a combination of basketball and football with S. P. E. winning 7 to 1. In the other games, on the schedule the Phi Delt's beat Friendly hall 12 to 8 and Phi Sigma Kappa edged out Delta Tau Delta by a 10 to 9 score. Sigma Chi won by forfeit over Omega hall.

The S. P. E.-Sigma game was by far the roughest game in this year's schedule. More fouls were committed in this contest than in any of the others this season. During the second half of this contest some weird plays occurred with both sides trying hard to score through their opponents.

Phi Sigs Win 10-9
 An overtime game between Phi Sigma Kappa and Delta Tau Delta resulted in a win for the Phi Sig when Evans sunk a foul shot in the final second of the overtime period. Evans made eight of the ten counters for the Phi Sig boys. Reymers was the outstanding player for the Deltis.

The Phi Delta Theta-Friendly hall game was well played with both sides showing some stellar basketball. Bauer, Phi Delt guard, was the best player of both games with his clever guarding ability. Kahn and Benson, of Friendly hall, were the star players for their team.

Nine Grid Teams Still Have Clean Slate For Season

Nine major grid teams remained undefeated in inter-collegiate football circles after the dust had cleared away from the nation's gridirons last week-end. Four of these teams have a perfectly clear slate, while the remainder have been held to deadlocks.

Colgate in the East, Southern California in the West, and Michigan in the Mid-West possess the most impressive records. The list of undefeated major teams follows:

U. S. C.	8	0	153	13

Rifle Matches To End Today

Because no organization has a complete score, the time for the ending of the intramural rifle matches has been extended; so all teams must finish between 2 and 5 o'clock today or forfeit, it was announced by Sergeant Harvey Blythe.

Although nothing definite is yet available it is the opinion of observers that the Oregon Yeomen are leading with several other houses closely contesting second place.

Harold Price of Friendly hall has made the highest score so far shooting 372 out of a possible 400.

McKean Issues Call For Second Year Managers

Any stray sophomores who can't find anything to do in their spare moments will be more than welcome as sophomore basketball managers, according to Keck McKean, senior manager of Bill Reinhart's hoopsters.

As an incentive for the aspiring second-year men, McKean points out the great chance to become personally acquainted with the Webfoot maple-court heroes. Of course there may be some slight duties, such as scrubbing the McArthur court floor or washing the basketballs, but then the lucky sophomore who gets the position of senior manager two years hence gets to travel with the varsity squad.

All prospects are asked to report to McKean today at 3:30 at McArthur court.

Swimming May Be Minor Sport At Washington

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, Dec. 1.—(Special)—Swimming at the University of Washington may return to the status of a minor sport if the board of control acts upon the recommendation of the constitution committee. The proposal is considered likely to pass, considering the unanimous vote it received by the sub-committee.

Meanwhile Coach Jack Torney has started to investigate plans regarding arrangement of a schedule of meets with other Northwest schools. Prospects of an outstanding team was indicated by the intramural tourney results here last week. Every record in the books, with the exception of the 100-yard free style mark, were decisively broken.

Ducks Ready To Leave For Land Of Dixie

Varsity Prepared for Tilt With Louisiana

Team To Leave for South Week From Tomorrow; Large Number To Go

By E. H. SIMPSON
 Yesterday the Oregon football eleven prepared to leave Eugene for the land of Dixie, where de cotton grows, and everyone takes his hat off when you mention Robert E. Lee and Jeff Davis. Callison's boys romped all over the prairie and looked as if the showing made against St. Mary's had pipped them up considerably.

Starting off the afternoon with spirited foot races—with the idea of limbering up stiff muscles—the Webfoots finished up the afternoon with a game of touch football. The result of this contest is still in doubt, for arguments as to the winning side assumed gigantic proportions. In between times, the cavorting youth of the gridiron spent the evening running signals.

Coach Callison plans on taking a large squad down to the land of lime rickies and dusky belles, and competition waxes keen between rival members of the squad who hope to make the trip. Several men showed especial promise. They were Bob Parke, Raymond "Butch" Morse, and Bud Pozzo. Parke was hitting the line with more than usual vim and vigor, while Morse and Pozzo caught every pass that came their way. The team leaves Eugene for the South a week from Saturday, stopping over in Los Angeles a short time for a practice session.

A LESSON IN CHIC BY MISS Humming Bird

Cheap, coarse silk hosiery is as offensive to the eye and taste as an outmoded, conspicuous hat.

Smart women know these are the rules of well-bred, fashion-right hosiery:

FINE SILK—woven to a cobwebby clearness—the secret of smart ankles.
 FASHIONABLE SHADES—soft and subtle to blend with the "most difficult" costume colors.
 SERVICEABILITY—the very foundation of good hose and the ultimate test of value.

Humming Bird ANSWERS "CORRECT"
 FULL FASHIONED HOSIERY on every point—

And their moderate prices are a valuable lesson in smart economy.
