Daily Articles By Faculty Will Be New Feature

Contributors at Liberty To Choose Subjects

DR. KERR HEADS LIST

Six Deans Will Write Editorials; Allen To Be First of Contributors

Despite the cut recently imposed upon it by the executive council, the Emerald will inaugurate this term an editorial feature unique to the University of Oregon.

The faculty contributors are at liberty to write upon any subject which they please, according to Dick Neuberger, editor of the Emerald.

Dr. Kerr To Write
Heading the list of writers is Dr. W. J. Kerr, chancellor of higher education in this state.

Six deans are included. They are Dr. Richard Dillehunt of the school of medicine, whose office is in Portland; Wayne L. Morse, law; Eric W. Allen, journalism; John Bovard, physical education; Harrison Val Hoyt, business administration, and John Landsbury, music.

List Is Announced
This will be the first time that many of the contributing members have written for Oregon students, and the Emerald's new series is regarded as an outstanding opportunity for students to follow the opinions and ideas of 21 noted educators.

The complete list of contributors:
W. J. Kerr, chancellor of higher education.

International Plans Outlined By Dr. I. Nitobe

Welfare Is in Harmony With Higher Ideals

TALKS TO ASSEMBLY

Existence of League of Nations Desired To Rest in Hands of Younger Generation

A new method of arriving at true internationalism, by being such an ardent nationalist that the aim will be to make the citizen's nation a worthy one among all the nations of the world, was outlined to approximately 1,000 students and others gathered at an assembly today on the campus of the University of Oregon by Dr. Inazo Nitobe, chairman of the Japanese national council of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

"As we grow in the knowledge of other peoples and of the law of universal progress, we shall realize more and more that all the higher interests of a nation are in harmony with the welfare of the whole human race," Dr. Nitobe said, "and that they are served best by cooperation among the nations of the earth."

League's Plans Told
Dr. Nitobe described the work and growth of the League of Nations, and declared that its existence is now in the hands of the coming generations. "The grown-ups are too skeptical, the old are cynical," he said.

A plea for fair-mindedness in such matters as tariff, foreign exchange and other international affairs was made by Dr. Nitobe. "What is the use of facilitating foreign trade, of improving foreign exchange, of uniting laborers

Schissler Called On Carpet Before Chancellor Kerr

A United Press report to the Morning News last night declared that Paul J. Schissler, head coach of football at Oregon State college, had been placed "on the carpet" before Chancellor W. J. Kerr yesterday for more than an hour. The football coaching situation apparently remains in the same muddled condition as before, for the conference, Schissler said, will be resumed tomorrow. Schissler emerged from the conference grimly silent, and said that he and Dr. Kerr had been discussing "serious matters."

DUCATS FOR CO-ED CAPERS ON SALE AT CO-OP COUNTER

Women To Frolic at Annual Fest in Gerlinger, Classes To Present Stunts

Tickets for Co-ed Capers, annual costume party sponsored by the Associated Women Students, are now on sale at the Co-op ticket window as well as in all living organizations. Admission is 15 cents, and the doors to Gerlinger gym will open at 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

The program is scheduled to start early so that all women students will be able to be home by 10:30. Emma Bell Stadden is in charge. Women's living organizations have agreed to have 5:30 dinners and to dispense with desserts to-morrow night to promote the sale of Eskimo pies and popcorn balls. Many groups have planned to have costume dinners at home and contests within the house.

Emerald Down For Four-Day Week By Slash

ASUO Balances Budget By Drastic Cut

CONCERTS OMITTED

Diamond, Cinder Sports Suffer From Rigid Economy Made Necessary

There will be only four issues of the Oregon Daily Emerald published this week and every week thereafter until, and if, the executive council rescinds the ruling it passed at its last meeting. As a move to reduce expenditures and balance a badly-battered budget, the council voted not only to re-trench the Emerald, but also to eliminate concerts and sharply restrict intercollegiate competition in baseball and track.

Editor's Objection Overruled
The Emerald was reduced to four issues a week over the vigorous protest of Dick Neuberger, editor, who told members of the council that the paper had returned a profit of about $389 last term, and that it should be permitted to publish on a five-day basis until that surplus was consumed. Neuberger also pointed out the value of the Emerald as an activity, citing figures to show that 159 students work on its staff and that it is read by virtually everyone on the campus.

No More Concerts
The concert program was knocked off the budget completely, being abandoned temporarily. The baseball and track teams will participate in no regular conference schedules either. The diamonders will meet Oregon State college, Willamette, Pacific, Eugene Townies, and various teams in this vicinity. They also may play University of Washington, but will take no trip east of the mountains to oppose Washington State and Idaho. Track competition will be conducted on approximately the same basis. Colonel Bill Hayward and Bill Reinhart will continue as coach of track and baseball, respectively.

Oregon Press Conference Will Meet Here Jan. 19, 20, 21

What newspaper readers and advertisers may expect from the coming year, and what the newspapers themselves may expect will be outstanding topics for the 15th annual Oregon Press conference to be held at the school of journalism here on January 19, 20, and 21. Newspapersmen from every part of the state have indicated they will attend.

New Manager

Thomas Tongue of Hillsboro, was appointed by the publications committee to succeed Roger Bailey, resigned, as business manager of Oregon.

CONTRACT TO PRINT OREGONA AWARDED VALLEY COMPANY

Tom Tongue Takes Over Business Managership; Alumni Page Under Fire at Meet

At a publications committee meeting held yesterday afternoon in the graduate manager's office it was definitely decided that the Valley Printing company of Eugene will receive the contract to print the 1933 Oregon.

Tom Tongue, Hillsboro, junior in economics, has been appointed Oregon business manager, succeeding Roger Bailey, who failed to return to the campus for the winter quarter. Tongue was chosen for the position over Ed Cross and Gordon Day, who were also candidates for the position.

Robert Allen, alumni secretary, requested that the alumni association be granted time in which to lay definite plans for either the continuation or discontinuance of the special alumni edition. The elimination of the Saturday edition by the executive council, thereby bringing about more concentration of campus news, brought the subject of the alumni edition to the fore at the request of the editor of the Emerald.

Wulzen Offers Course On Growth of Infancy

Dr. Rosalind Wulzen is giving a new course in the zoology department winter and spring terms, "Growth in Infancy." It is a two hour course given at 8 Tuesday and Thursday, and credit may be obtained by taking either one or two terms of it.

The course takes up the study of the general development of the infant from the ovum to the end of the first year. It should be taken by those students who have had some experience in biology, although this is not a pre-requisite.

Faculty Faces Further Cuts In Pay Checks

Appropriations Reduced By $265,000

FEE INCOME DROPS

University To Operate Biennium On $328,000; Oregon State Given $1,600,000

Employees of Oregon's five institutions of higher learning face further salary reductions of from 9 to 27 per cent for the next two years as the result of the action of the state board of higher education Sunday when it made an additional cut of $265,000 from the already reduced budget for the coming biennium of 1933 and 1934, all of which is to come out of the salaries of employees.

This action was taken to bring the budget for the coming biennium into balance, and brings the total operating and salary expenses to $830,000 less than was appropriated in the two years of 1930 and 1931. The sweeping cut of $670,000 made last November brought about salary cuts at that time of from 5 to 15 per cent, and the new reduction will come out of the already curtailed salaries.

Cuts On Sliding Scale
Salary cuts are to be made on a sliding scale according to the amount of salary received annually. The first $1,000 is to be cut 9 per cent; the second thousand will be cut 14 per cent, the third, 20 per cent, the fourth 25 per cent, and each thousand above and including the fifth thousand will be cut 27 per cent.

More To Be Reduced
To meet the budget laid out by the state board of higher education, it is expected that appropriations for research work, except for home economics and agriculture, will be greatly reduced. It is intended that duplication and waste of employees on classes with few
