Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY
LOOKS like the college athletes are going to have a fine long rest next spring. School after school has announced curtailment of spring baseball and track, and now Cornell tops them all with the announcement that it will cancel its entire winter and spring intercollegiate sports program with the exception of basketball.

This is the most drastic step taken yet by near bankrupt institutions. At the Ithaca school it not only means the abandonment of baseball and track, but of wrestling, ice hockey, fencing, indoor track, lacrosse and, most important, crew.

To take care of the athletic program the school announced an extensive schedule of intramural sports. This will give the members of the spring and winter coaching staffs a chance to keep their jobs.

The curtailment of track and baseball here does not mean that the Webfoots will drop them entirely. Baseball will be carried on with a greatly reduced schedule. Only Oregon State college and independent nines in the state will be met. The track team will meet Oregon State in both the dual relay and track and field meets, and perhaps Washington. Along with several other members of the Northern division, the Webfoots will not enter the Northwest meet.

While on the subject of curtailment, it is interesting to note that the slash in the freshman basketball schedule is in accordance with one of Jonathan Butler's suggestions to the Pacific Coast conference. Butler recommended that some restriction be placed on first-year athletics due to the over-emphasis now practiced which tends to ruin, scholastically, the first year for the yearlings.

Bill Reinhart, Oregon's basketball and baseball mentor, is greatly in favor of the idea of cutting down on yearling athletic activities. Says Bill: "The idea of cutting down both the training and actual playing schedules of freshman sports is a good idea. The way the sports are run now, the new student doesn't get a chance to become adjusted to his new life properly, so busy is he with practice."

"Most students are away from home for the first time when they enter college. Their minds are occupied with fraternities the first year. Their studies are entirely different from high school. Couple this with football practice in the fall and most of them don't get a chance to see the inside of a book until Thanksgiving. Why not cut down and give them a chance to become adjusted and then let them participate the last three years. By that time they should have learned how to study and know their way about."

Stenog Plays on London Grid Team

LONDON (AP)—Miss Lillian Mitchell, a 21-year old stenographer, is a "forward" young woman.

She asked — and received — a place as center-forward on a man's football team.

"I play football because I love it," she said, "and I wanted the position because it has been my ambition to score a goal in a match against men."

"I was warned that I would get knocked about, but that is nothing to be afraid of after riding a motorcycle across country."

Webfoots End Grid Season With 12-0 Win

Moleskins Thrown Aside After Good Season

Callison Loses Four Men From 1932 Team; Few Fresh Prospects Seen

By NED SIMPSON
The king is dead! Long live the king! Football grows old—basketball has reached the peak of its strength. Therefore, before the total demise of the autumnal sport, here is a resume of Oregon's 1932 season.

Clouds of a rosy hue greeted the returning students last fall, for it had been freely predicted that this was to be the Webfoots' greatest season in years. Under the direction of a new coach, who, although starting his first season in "big time," nevertheless had an impressive record of successful teams behind him, and under the leadership of a fine captain it seemed for a time that these predictions would come true. The squad rounded into shape with few injuries and took Pacific into camp by a 20 to 6 score in the opener.

Ducks Down Broncos

The following week the Ducks met the Broncos from Santa Clara university, who had just downed the California Bears by a score of 12 to 0. The Webfoots were given small chance to win over this powerful aggregation, but in a terrific battle, the boys came through to win, 7 to 0. On the heels of this victory came that dread spectre—or rather two dread spectres—one of them injuries and the other over-confidence.

Two days before the conference opener with Washington, Stan Kostka, back, broke his shoulder, and Oregon's strongest backfield combination was broken up—for the time at least. Came the trip to Portland. There the high-flying Ducks ran into a snarling pack of Huskies that bit off several pinfeathers. The result was a 0-to-0 tie.

Following this setback, Callison ran his team hard in preparation for the Uncles game the next weekend. The final score, however, was 12 to 7 in favor of the Southerners as they pulled a long pass out of the bag in the last 30 seconds of play to score the winning touchdown.

Gonzaga Downed 13-6

The following Saturday found the Ducks invading the lair of the Idaho Vandals, where they avenged the loss to U. C. L. A. by trouncing the Idahoans 32 to 0. Returning home, the Webfoots entertained the Gonzaga Bulldogs on October 29. After a hardfought tussle, the Ducks emerged victorious, 13 to 6.

The homecoming game with Oregon State next occupied the minds of the team, and as is usual in these traditional struggles, the outcome was in doubt until the final gun sounded. The game was played in a sea of mud and with intermittent showers falling all through the game. The Orangemen scored first during the second canto, but the Ducks—living up to their name—retaliated early in the third quarter with 6 points. Mark Temple broke away for a 65-yard run in the last period to give the Webfoots a 12-to-6 win.

What a Beating!

Following this great victory, the Oregonians entrained for the sunny south, where they ran into Howard Jones' Trojans on one of the hottest days of the fall. The Ducks wilted in the second period and the score quickly ran up to 33 to 0.

The final game of the regular season, played with St. Mary's, turned out to be the most exciting of the year. The Webfoots outplayed the Gaels the entire first three quarters only to lose 7 to 0. Three weeks later, in a post-season game 'way down south in Dixie, the Ducks took Louisiana State into camp very thoroughly in a hard fought game played on a freezing field. The score was 12 to 0. Mikulak scored both tallies.

Twenty-three Make Letters

Twenty-three men made their letters. They are: ends, Morse, Wishard, Bailey, Pozzo; tackles, Bishop, Pope, Morgan, Eagle, Nilsson; guards, Cupoletti, Frye, Geissecke, Clarke, Gagnon; center, Hughes; quarterbacks, Bowerman, Parke; halves, Pepelnjak, Gee, Terjeson, Kostka, Temple; fullbacks, Mikulak, Bobbitt.

Coach Callison loses only four men due to graduation, but of these four three are regulars. They are Bill Bowerman, Orville Bailey, Capt. Bill Morgan, and Oliver Pope. From the freshman squad he will have some good new material. Prominent among the yearlings are Dwight Neilson, husky tackle; "Stew" Milligan, versatile quarter; Jim Reed, center; and Willy Torrence, dusky wingman.

Hobbie's Boys

Clifford (Chief) McLean (right), ex-Benson star, who is the mainstay of Coach Howard Hobson's "Sons," and Willard Jones, ex-Washington high star, who fills in at guard for the Southern Oregon Normal quintet. They inaugurated a promising season by taking the University of Oregon varsity for three games out of four in a recent series. Howard Hobson, coach at Ashland, is a former University of Oregon player.

FROSH ROUNDING INTO SHAPE WITH WORK SPEEDED UP

Rogers' Quintet Looks Better and Better as Playing Season Draws Near

With the fundamentals well learned, the yearlings are beginning to polish up on offensive and defensive play. Red Rogers, mentor, is stressing the defensive play especially.

On the defense the frosh will play a man to man defense back of the center line. The guards are showing a great improvement at taking the ball off the backboard, and the forwards and center are keeping their opponents well back.

The freshmen are slowly being developed into a fast-breaking offensive, breaking into their opponents territory as soon as the ball is recovered. Their improved floor work will make this type of play dangerous to any team that they meet, for it does not allow the opposing quintet to get set.

The players are fighting hard for places on the team, and this competition has a lot to do with their rapid improvement. A smooth-running quintet will probably be the result, and the frosh will undoubtedly make a real scrap when the highly-touted rooks invade Eugene in February.

GOVERNMENT AT U. OF CALIFORNIA DESCRIBED

eral manager of the association is an ex-officio member.

Supervision of women's activities has been placed under a women's executive committee. Members of this group are the vice-president of the A. S. U. C., four seniors, and two juniors.

Officers of the association are a president of the A. S. U. C., presidents of Pan Hellenic, the dormitory association, and heads of the various women's activities.

Powers of student discipline and the honor system are vested in the student affairs committees. They are judicial bodies, one for the men and one for the co-eds. They are composed of the president or vice-president of the A. S. U. C., four seniors, and two juniors.

Activities and affairs of the association are supervised directly by six councils, each responsible to the executive committee for proper and efficient management of the affairs, policies, and property entrusted to them. The councils are known as welfare, men's athletics, publications, women's athletics, dramatics, and forensics.

Business administration is under a general manager. His duties are practically identical with those of the graduate manager at Oregon.

All accounts of the association and its various activities are kept in a central accounting department. A complete annual report by a public accountant is required by the constitution at the end of each school year and must be presented to the executive committee

Phi Sig, Sigma Chi Win Opening Tilts In Donut Handball

Today's Handball Schedule

4:00 p. m.—Chi Psi vs. La Casa Filipina.
5:00 p. m.—Delta Tau Delta vs. Yeomen.

In the opening round of the handball division of the donut league, Phi Sigma Kappa decisively defeated Sigma hall, while Sigma Chi came out with a one-sided victory over Sigma Pi Tau aggregation.

The Phi Sigs won two straight in the first singles, two out of three in the second singles, and two straight in the doubles. In the other half of the double bill, Sigma Chi won the first singles by the forfeit route, the second singles with two straight wins, and the doubles by winning two out of three.

during the first month of each academic year. The committee must publish this report if it is approved.

A quite radical departure is found in the election rules of the A. S. U. C. It is provided that "the circulation of political literature in the student body pertaining to student elections is hereby prohibited." Non-observance of the rule is considered sufficient grounds for disqualification of a candidate. The communication from Berkeley did not say whether it had been necessary to scratch off any candidate's name or if literature was ever circulated in favor of a candidate by his opponents.

The student paper, the Daily Californian, is published five times a week. In order to work on the staffs putting out the paper, students must sign up in the first week of their freshman year.

Other publications include the Blue and Gold, the annual; the Pelican, a humor magazine published monthly; the Occident, a literary magazine; and the California Engineer, organ of the students in the college of engineering.

The student body fee at California is $10 for the year. This covers all items and gives admission to all student activities.

Ducks Ready For Cougars Friday Night

Washington State To Open League Season Here

Stevens, Kunkle Out for Week-End; Reinhart Wards Off Flu Attack

With Bill Reinhart back at the helm after a threatened attack of influenza the Webfoot basketball squad went through a light drill yesterday afternoon in anticipation of conference opener here Friday and Saturday nights against the 1933 edition of Jack Friel's Cougars. Another light workout today will end three months of drill for the league games.

Two Webfoot regulars, Ed Kunkle and Kermit Stevens will be on the bench Friday night. Kunkle injured his knee before the California barnstorming invasion and Stevens also banged his knee in the first game with Ashland Normal last week. Both are expected to be back in form next week.

Oregon Won Last Year

Last year Reinhart's team took the Cougars for three out of four games, including two on the McArthur court floor. Then they were leading the Northern division; this year they are trailing Oregon State after splitting a two-game series with the Beavers last week at Pullman.

In the absence of Stevens the starting Oregon lineup will most likely include Jim Watts and Bob Miller, forwards; Cap Roberts, center; and Spook Robertson and Gib Olinger, guards. Ralph Terjeson, forward, and Bob Rourke, guard, both sophomores, may play during the series.

Leading the invading Cougars is six foot five inch Huntly Gordon, all-court center. While outplayed at Pullman last week by lanky Ed Lewis, Gordon still rates as one of the best tip-off men on the coast. Cap Roberts had the Indian sign on him last year, however, and may repeat.

Johnson Is Cougar Ace

A newcomer on the Washington State squad is Roland Johnson, who is proving a sensation with his canny shooting eye. Johnson is a big fellow, six feet two inches tall, and is playing his first year under Friel.

The other forward position is taken care of by Bobby Cross and Lee Sonedecker, both lettermen. Rex Scott, Pete Graham, and Ken Wills are the guards. With the exception of Wills and Sonedecker,

The men had the infirmary completely to themselves yesterday, with eight undergoing treatment. Those confined were John Peterson, Robert Gantenbein, William Schlath, Don Thompson, Douglas Felton, Ejner Nielsen, Joseph Deming, and Duncan York.

Donut Tournaments Near; Managers To Get Schedules

Athletic managers of living organizations entered in this year's intramural handball events are requested to call at the men's gymnasium for schedules which have just been printed. Another matter which the managers should keep in mind is to enter all athletes competing in either volleyball or ping pong tournaments which start January 16.

Royal Skating Club Is Minus the Ice

LONDON (AP)—King George has given a London skating club permission to call themselves the Royal skating club.

Which makes everything nice, except for the fact that the last three seasons have afforded only a day and a half's skating and there have been 27 winters since it was founded with none at all!

carrying bones, they portrayed "Nature in the Raw."

The senior cops, led by Lucille Kraus, who was also the announcer for the evening, gave a song and skit number featured by Louise Marvin and Marjorie Haas. Peggy Sweeney presented a violin solo, followed by a trio consisting of Gail McCredie, Louise Rick, and Peggy Aillers.

The judges, dressed as English magistrates in wigs and gowns, were Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Mrs. Burt Brown Barker, Dean Hazel Prutsman Scherwing, Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, Mrs. Alice Macduff, Mrs. Murray Warner, Mrs. W. F. Jewett, Miss Rena Haegen, Miss Florence Alden, Miss Maude Kerns, and Miss Eula Duke.

There was dancing between parts of the program throughout the evening, and refreshments were served. The grand march and the awards concluded the affair.

Layman Senator's Secretary

George Layman, senior in the law school, is working in the capacity of secretary to Senator W. E. Burke of Yamhill county during the present legislature. Layman entered the law school from Reed college and is working for a doctor of jurisprudence degree. Last term he made a straight "A" average.

CRYSTAL GAZERS HAVE MANY NAMES FOR COLLEGE JOB

Pecarovich, Kerr, Wolfe, Stiner, And Hanley Among Those Said To Be After P. J.'s Place

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 11.—Announcement of the resignation of Paul J. Schisler, head football coach at Oregon State college for the past nine years, has aroused much speculation among students and sports followers as to his successor.

Several men have been suggested as possible future gridiron mentors for Oregon State, among whom are Mike Pecarovich, Gonzaga; Andy Kerr, Colgate; Larry Wolfe, Monmouth Normal; Lon Stiner, assistant at Oregon State; Dick Hanley, Northwestern; Spec Keene, Willamette and Percy Lacey, Denver.

Probably a new coach will be named in the near future as the regular spring practice starts early next month.

Financial considerations will have much to do with the choice of a new coach as the Associated Students' treasury is in a rather low position just at present.

Lane Is Praised For Printed Book

Warm commendation of the typographical work of Robert F. Lane, graduate student in printing, appeared in a recent issue of the Saturday Review of Literature. Carl Purington Rollins of the Yale University press praised the craftsmanship exhibited in a printed specimen of "The Book of Ruth," published at the University of Oregon Fine Arts Press.

Specimens now on display at the circulation library have required extensive research into the history of printing. Lane took his suggestion for the printing of the charter of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, from an early Greek manuscript.

A page from Milton's "Areopagitica," the Latin version of the "Lord's Prayer," and the "Oratio de Dignitate Homis," with a translation by Mrs. Edna Landros, associate professor of Greek and Latin, have attracted interest and comment since being placed on display.

'Road to Life'
(First Russian Talkie—with explanatory English Titles)
"The art of Russia has always concerned itself with reality. 'Road to Life' is an almost perfect illustration of what I mean. In it you have the natural drama of the Russian temperament in action. The misery of these children and their social recovery is accurate; just as they are pictured here, so I myself saw them in Russia."—THEODORE DREISER.
