

EMERALD TO REMAIN ON FIVE-DAY SCHEDULE

Conference On Religion Slated This Afternoon

Dr. Parsons To Present Survey Findings

TWO MEETS SLATED

Representative Students Invited To Sessions at 4:30 and 7:30; Movement Is Nation-Wide

Gerlinger hall this afternoon and evening will be the scene of a program of conferences and discussions for a group of students, townspeople, and teachers interested in a program to promote work carried on by the committee on religious and spiritual activities.

The afternoon meeting will be held at 4 o'clock in the Alumni hall, with Dr. Philip A. Parsons in charge. The evening gathering will take place in the same hall at 7:30.

Dr. Parsons, president of the western division of the American Board of Religion and Higher Education, recently made a tour of colleges and universities west of the Rocky mountains in which he made investigations and laid plans for the securing of 10,000 students' and leaders' opinions on religious problems and their solution. He spent a day on the campus of each college and university, in the course of which he has met with student and faculty groups separately and in joint meetings. His extensive work gave him a good insight on religious problems of students and methods of solution. It is planned that he will lead in a series of meetings to be held on our own campus.

The meeting today will be the foundation of a program for work in the religious field in the University. The committee, which has been somewhat inactive, due to unsettled conditions of our schools will revive the work started at a previous time. The committee is non-sectarian, as is shown by the personnel of the national commission, which is composed of ten Catholic priests, ten Protestant ministers, ten Jewish leaders and ten outstanding college presidents. Representatives of fraternities, sororities and campus organizations have been asked to attend and help spread the work suggested by Dr. Parsons and the committee. In addition leaders of community activities and club organizations in the city of Eugene have been invited.

The movement on foot will attempt to bring the student and his problems closer to the advisers and leaders of the University. Such a need was felt in many other colleges of the country and similar programs are being instigated. Among the schools of higher education on the coast with such programs are Oregon State college, Stanford, Southern California, Washington, University of California and others.

Dr. Nelson Bossing of the school of education has been in charge of the work on the campus for the last several years and will have general charge of this meeting.

Dancing Hours Changed

Miss Ruth Bloomer's open hour for dancing will be held Monday and Thursday afternoons at 5 in the dance studio of Gerlinger hall instead of at 1 o'clock, as previously announced.

Muscle Shoals To Be Surveyed This Week

President-elect Roosevelt has invited Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, right, to join an inspection party which will inspect Muscle Shoals this week as a preliminary move to action as to what will be done with vast wartime enterprise. The Wilson dam and a portion of the hydro-electric plant are pictured above. Roosevelt is shown on the left.

INITIATION HELD FOR 'SENIOR SIX' IN GERLINGER HALL

Robert W. Sawyer, Editor of Bend Bulletin, Welcomes New Members

Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary, initiated the Senior Six at 5:30 yesterday in Alumni hall. A dinner at 6:30 followed the initiation.

The Senior Six were elected fall term, as those seniors most outstanding in scholarship. Another group of students will be chosen for Phi Beta later in the year. Those initiated last night were Arthur Cannon Jr., Lewis Fendrich, Janet Lynn Fitch, Elma Doris Havemann, Helen Johanna Raitanen, and David Wilson.

Dr. George Rebec, president of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, presided at the initiation, and welcomed the initiates. David Wilson gave the response in behalf of the Senior Six.

At the dinner which followed the initiation Judge Robert W. Sawyer, editor of the Bend Bulletin, gave the address of the evening. About 60 people attended the dinner, which was not open to the general public as it has been formerly. All members and initiates with their husbands and wives, were invited to attend.

Does Technocracy Oppose Orthodox Economic Theory?

By CALVIN CRUMBAKER As told to Jack Bellinger Has technocracy, the research organization at Columbia university, been violating the rules of comity of the sciences in invading the jurisdiction of the economist, laying waste to his domain, de-throning his cherished idols, and sacrificing his "sacred cow"? It would seem that certain spokesmen for technocracy have not only attempted to set up a program essentially economic in nature, but they have attempted to tweak the noses of the economist in the bargain, if literal interpretation is given to statements attributed to them. For example, a writer in the New Outlook says that technocracy challenges "the orthodox economist, the political scientist, and other 'ists' of the so-called social sciences." Associated Press dispatches of January 14 credit Howard Scott, head of the cult, with the statement that, "Economists hasn't much to recommend it. It's as good as bridge, I guess..." What the handful of persons calling themselves technocrats think of economics, or of the con-

Senior Traditions Council Will Meet Thursday at Noon

IMPORTANT developments were promised by Bill Bowerman, vice-president of the student body, when he announced to the Emerald last night that the traditions council and the senior traditions committee of 15 will meet for an important session at the men's gymnasium Thursday at 12:30.

Bowerman would give out no information as to the nature of the meeting, but issued a decree that every member of the traditions enforcement bodies must be present.

Seniors Named For Upperclass Ball Directorate

Eighteen fourth-year students will compose the directorate delegated to formulate plans for the senior ball under the general chairmanship of Chuck Stryker. The affair will be held in Gerlinger hall on Saturday, February 4, and will be preceded by a formal reception in alumni hall in honor of the seniors.

Announcement regarding distribution of tickets will be made in tomorrow's Emerald, at which time house representatives will be named. (Continued on Page Four)

WARREN D. SMITH BRANDS PHILIPPINE BILL BIG MISTAKE

Sentiment, Altruistic Motives Not Responsible for Passage Of Measure

Branding the passage of the bill granting freedom to the Philippines as a blunder of the first magnitude, Dr. Warren D. Smith of the geology department, in an interview in the Register-Guard yesterday went on to declare that "everyone knows that the bill was not passed from sentiment or altruistic motives, but is actuated by selfish interests. Those interests include sugar, butter, and hemp."

Dr. Smith said that "the third item mentioned, hemp, is a substance out of which they make rope for hanging people; and independence at this time and under those circumstances may furnish the rope that will hang the Philippines economically and ourselves." Dr. Smith declared that he was going to further state his arguments on this matter over the Emerald of the Air program in a few days. He lived in the Philippines for 12 years, and is the author of a book, "Geology and Mineral resources of the Philippines."

New Translation Of Books at Libe

The League of Nations collection room at the old library now has the second volume of Index Translationum, a bibliography of all translations appearing in France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Spain and the United States. The International Institute of Intellectual Cooperation, a subsidiary of the League of Nations, compiles these quarterly publications exclusively from translations listed in the various national bibliographies.

The subject matter of this systematic classification includes the names of authors and works on philosophy, religion, social science, applied sciences, literature, art, history and geography. A complete list of the translations from such a number of languages has never before been attempted and the league plans to add more countries to its list as the work advances.

These books, which are a practical instrument for research in tracing the translations of any author, are in room 32 on the third floor of the old library.

Tonqueds Have Social At Westminster House

Tonqued, organization of University women who live in Eugene, held a social meeting from 7:15 to 8:15 last night at the Westminster house. All Eugene women who are on the campus were invited to attend. The social hour was spent in dancing and talking. Coffee and cake were served. (Continued on Page Four)

Reporters Find Students Want Five-Day Paper

Opinions Indicate Heavy Majority for Daily

SURVEY IMPARTIAL

Survey Made Before Final Edict Shows Campus Sentiment in Favor of Big Issues

Campus opinion, as gleaned from a sampling taken at random yesterday by Emerald reporters, indicated by a heavy majority that students in general were heartily in favor of a five-day Emerald, such as was assured late yesterday afternoon by action of the publications committee.

The opinions were given before the committee took action—consequently they represent impartially the students' judgment on the question during the time the Emerald's status was under dispute.

All Want Five Issues Only three of the students interviewed were entirely acquiescent to the decree of the executive council that the Emerald be cut. Practically all felt that a five-day paper was imperative, even if it involved issuing a smaller edition.

Replies taken at random follow: James Dutton, sophomore in business administration: "I am in favor of a five-day paper." Juanita Young, graduate student in physical education: "The Emerald is important enough to warrant its publication five days a week."

Bob Patterson, journalism: "We should have a paper with seven columns, five times a week. I think that the news of the Emerald could be put into a seven-column paper without leaving anything of importance out." Rolla Reedy, senior in education: (Continued on Page Four)

HOMER D. DODGE, OKLAHOMA DEAN, TO VISIT CAMPUS

To Survey Teaching Improvement For Carnegie Foundation; Visits 45 Schools

Dean Homer E. Dodge, of the University of Oklahoma, field representative for the committee on improvement of teaching for the American Association of University Professors, will be on the campus of the University of Oregon Thursday, January 19, it was announced yesterday by Dr. H. G. Townsend, president of the Oregon chapter.

Dean Dodge is now on a tour of colleges and universities and is making a survey of work being done in the field of improvement of teaching. The project, which is being carried on by a committee of the association, is financed by the Carnegie Foundation for the Improvement of Teaching. Dean Dodge has already visited 45 institutions and has devoted nine months to the survey.

While at the University Dean Dodge will survey projects under way here, some of which have already been widely recognized. He will meet with faculty members here at dinner Thursday night and will enter a discussion of the work his committee is doing at a meeting to follow this.

Store Buyer To Speak To All Women Students

Mrs. Frances McClung, buyer for Lipman Wolfe & Co., will speak to the A. W. S. at the third vocational conference in Gerlinger on Thursday at 4 o'clock. Mrs. McClung will speak on the subject of "Training for and Opportunities in the Field of a Department Store Buyer." The meeting will be held in the vocational room on the third floor.

Mrs. McClung has had a wide experience in department store buying and management. She will include in her talk a discussion of new spring styles and trends in jewelry and accessories. The meeting promises to be of general interest and all women are invited to attend.

Student Paper Will Continue On Daily Basis, Council Rules; Final Decision Is Announced

Helps Cause

Eric W. Allen, dean of the Journalism school, in which is included the University press, who worked with Robert Hall, press superintendent, in making the reductions that helped the Emerald to be able to announce its policy of continuing on its daily basis.

Special Bus for Kreisler Concert May Be Arranged

In order that those who wish to hear Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist, when he gives his concert in Portland Monday, January 29, and return the same day, bus arrangements have been made.

The bus will leave for Portland in time for the concert and will return in the evening.

Bus rates depend on the number of people who take advantage of the offer. If 18 people agree to go, the round trip will be $3.54. If 35, the round trip will be $2.28 apiece.

Anyone interested should make arrangements with Vivian Malone as soon as possible. Miss Malone's telephone number is 2257-M.

Young Democrats Talk on Sales Tax

Plans for taking 25 University high school civics students to Salem Thursday to see the Oregon state legislature in action were formulated at a meeting of the Young Democratic league of Lane county, held last night at the home of the president, Nathan Berkham.

The disadvantage of the sales tax, particularly the retail sales levy considered at the short session of the legislature, was the subject of a talk by S. Eugene Allen, treasurer of the organization.

A lively discussion followed, in which the relative merits and demerits of property tax, single tax, income tax, and strict economy of government were considered. Bridge and checkers were played during the social hour after the meeting.

McGill Daily Editors Resign Upon Suspension of Editor

MONTREAL, Can., Jan. 17—(Special)—The entire managing board and all associate editors of the McGill Daily, student publication of McGill university here, have resigned as a result of the suspension of a news editor by the students' executive council. Ernest Crown, the news editor, assumed responsibility for a story entitled "Beer Infuses Students With Carefree Jollity," an account of a trip made to a local brewery by a McGill club.

Although the story, after publication, was termed "tactless" by the Daily, and news editors were instructed to pass no others similar to it in the future, its accuracy and truth were unquestioned. In spite of this, the student council

Classes To Switch Rooms Saturday For Press Meet

DUE to the Oregon Press conference Friday and Saturday, all classes meeting in the Journalism building will be either dismissed or moved to other buildings.

Professor Jameson's 8 o'clock class in elements of sociology will meet in 6 Friendly.

Professor Horn's class in Shakespeare at 9 o'clock Friday will meet in 108 Villard.

Dean Sheldon's class in background of social science at 9 o'clock Saturday will meet in 105 Oregon.

REX UNDERWOOD TO LEAD CONCERT OF CHOIR SUNDAY

Frances Brockman To Solo in First Polyphonic Event of Winter Term

The University symphony orchestra, under the leadership of Rex Underwood, will present its first concert of this term, Sunday at 3 o'clock in McArthur court.

The soloist for this concert is Frances Brockman, who with orchestral accompaniment will play "Concerto in G-minor" by Bruch. The program also includes Beethoven's "Leonore Overture No. 3," "The Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert, and two numbers, "Kleine Nacht Musik" by Mozart and "Overture on Jewish Themes" by Prokofieff for string orchestra and clarinet. The second of the numbers for strings and clarinet is very modern in contrast to the first which is true classic style.

International Relations Club To Meet Thursday

The Russian five-year plan from a new angle—that of the business man instead of the college professor—will be considered at a meeting of the campus International Relations club at 7:45 Thursday night at International house.

Frank L. Chambers, one of Eugene's leading citizens, will talk on his trip to Russia last summer. Any student or faculty member who is interested is invited to attend the meeting of the club, which is sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation for World Peace.

Journalism Graduate Visits Here Yesterday

Art Rudd, University graduate in journalism, 1924, and editor of the Emerald during his senior year, was a visitor on the campus yesterday.

Since leaving the University he has been a representative for the Publishers' Newspaper Syndicate of Chicago. Yesterday morning Mr. Rudd spoke to Dean Allen's editing class at 9 o'clock on newspaper syndicates.

Robert C. Hall Makes Cut In Press Expense

Cost Is Slightly Larger Than Appropriation

WEEK IS ACTIVE ONE

Neuberger Appreciates Assistance In Maintaining Organ on Present Basis

By JULIAN PRESCOTT The Emerald remains a daily paper!

Through the timely action of Robert C. Hall, superintendent of the University press, in reducing the charges for publication of the Emerald, it was possible for the publications committee of the executive council to vote yesterday to continue the paper on a five-issue-a-week basis.

Paring down of the various items in the cost of printing and distributing the Emerald was effected by Mr. Hall and it was thus that he could offer the A. S. U. O. a lower figure. While the cost of five issues under the new figure will not be quite as low as that of four under the old, it will be only slightly greater and will come approximately within the appropriation allowed by the executive council.

Decision Follows Activity

The decision of the committee came after a week of activity in which the editor and managing editor of the Emerald conferred frequently with Hugh Rosson, graduate manager, and members of the publications committee and of the executive council. The committee had met Monday afternoon and after long discussion could come to no decision.

His years of close contact with the Emerald as superintendent of the press was given by Mr. Hall as the incentive to taking the initiative in offering the reduced charges. Mr. Hall has been working with Emerald staffs since 1918.

Tiny Edition Helps

A great impetus was given to student interest in the publication schedule of the Emerald when the diminutive 5-column, two-page paper came out last Saturday. It was this that really called to the attention of the students that they might not have a regular edition on Saturdays.

Events in the past two weeks connected with the Emerald situation are:

Announcement that only four issues would be published each week, the Saturday paper being eliminated because of insufficient funds.

Handing down of an opinion by the judiciary committee, at the request of the editor, to the effect that the word "daily" in the by-laws of the A. S. U. O. should be (Continued on Page Four)

The Weather

Mercury hit a new low yesterday, along with the stock market, dropping to eight points in its descent to 19 above. It rallied slightly at the close, but the weatherman's prediction of warmer weather to come was on the long end of four to one odds, with no takers.

Sunshine and blue skies were present, but so were blue fingers, and ice-men still found deliveries slow.

Daily forecast: Cloudy with rain or snow; not quite so cold; moderate southerly winds offshore.

Local statistics: Minimum temperature Tuesday, 19 degrees. Maximum Monday, 38. Willamette river, 1.9 feet. Wind from east.
