

Lawmakers to Study Needs Of Education

Special Committee Named To Investigate

Regular Session Convenes; Ready To Give Schools' Problems Thoughtful Action

To friends of higher education in Oregon who have seen drastic reductions in all departments and activities during the last biennium and the production of a budget for 1933-34 which makes a 31 per cent curtailment in all expenditures...

About the legislative lobby were mumbblings and rumblings of threats directed at the two mill levy for higher education. A direct slash of the $308,000 continuing appropriation for agricultural extension work was proposed leaving the burden of carrying this activity to the educational institutions...

Regular Session Heartens But with the opening of the regular session January 9, with the sacrifice of faculty members in accepting a 30 per cent cut in salaries fresh in their minds, legislators were ready to give more studied recognition to the needs of higher education.

It was with this feeling that the ways and means committee appointed a sub-committee to study the problems of higher education and arranged for a public hearing, at which friends of the University and college and the other institutions might state their case.

Study Planned Thus higher education came through the special session unscathed, and is now ready to present its case to a group more ready to give studied deliberation to its problems.

Ex-Student Gets Critics' Praise For Tap Dancing

Ed Cheney, ex-'30, who is now a featured tap dancer in Ed Wynn's "Laugh Parade," has been attracting favorable attention from critics in Chicago, where the show is playing, repeating the popular reception of the show during its long New York engagement.

Carol Frink writes of Cheney in the Chicago Herald and Examiner: "A youth named Eddie Cheney maneuvers the steel clickers on his shoes as a Spanish dancer uses her castanets."

Gail Borden in the course of a review in the Daily Times remarked: "Eddie Cheney heads the ballet bill with some stepping as neat as you could wish, both as to grace and novelty."

Cheney was married to Miss Libby Driscoll, a Chicago designer, on December 27, according to word received here recently.

Far East Lures Edison Marshall

Edison Marshall, ex-'17, writer, novelist, traveller, spent a few days in Oregon before sailing for Laos, one of the little known sections of Asia.

"I'm going to get all the local color I can in the far east, for my first oriental story, 'The Light of the Jungle,' is going over fine," he says. He will visit Manchuria, Japan and Hongkong before setting out for the little-known region of Laos.

Mr. Marshall will be gone about four months before proceeding to France where he will meet Mrs. Marshall before returning to his home in Augusta, Georgia.

ROBINSON WRITES INTERESTING BOOK ON STRAW VOTES

Former A. S. U. O. Prexy Gains Distinction for Work on New Publication

A book of much recent interest is "Straw Votes—A Study of Political Prediction," by Claude E. Robinson, '24, issued during the past year by the Columbia University Press.

The books will be of much interest to politicians, political scientists, statisticians, sociologists and others to whom the ever-increasing trend toward political prediction by straw votes is of interest.

It is a careful and authoritative study, the first of its kind, on the subject of sampling public opinion on political and social issues in the United States. It describes the various methods of executing straw votes, and demonstrates from actual experience the accuracy of past predictions based on this form of research. The weak points and the strong points of each procedure is carefully analyzed and criticized.

Robinson was president of the A. S. U. O. in 1924. The work is based on research work done during the past two years at Columbia.

"Am enclosing check to cover dues—and am wishing 'Oregon' the very best for 1933. "Enjoy 'News of the Classes'—hope to read lots of class of 1922 news—always glad to hear about or see anyone from Oregon. "Have been employed at the Dairy Cooperative association in Portland for the past year and a half."—Dessell M. Johnson, ex-'22, 2905 N. E. Joutet St., Portland. "I am enclosing the blank filled and am very proud and glad to be enlisted among the alumni of the University of Oregon. It is so nice to receive now and then the direct news from the campus. It is through the Emerald only that I know that the Zorn-Macpherson bill was not accepted from the voters, and it has been with a real relief I heard it because I had been holding my breath about the fate of our alma mater. "I have been very busy working at my thesis which, finally, I discussed the 5th of December, getting the doctor of jurisprudence degree, which makes me feel rather important. I should like to say to the whole campus that I have spent in Eugene a wonderful year and that I am greatly thankful to everyone who has been good to me."—Nella Roster, '32, Via Pietro Tacca 2, Firenze 2R, Italy. Miss Roster attended the University last year as a beneficiary of the A. W. S. foreign scholarship fund.

Arthur Rudd Visits Arthur Rudd, '24, who travels over the entire country as a special representative of the Publishers' Syndicate of Chicago was a visitor in the alumni office the past week. He displayed a keen interest in alumni and University affairs. To others who are contemplating a visit to the University city, the office extends a cordial invitation to drop in at the new offices of the association in the southeast corner of Friendly hall.

People know it..

"Chesterfields taste Better"

WE HAVE been telling the public for a good many years that Chesterfields taste better. They satisfy!

That wouldn't mean a thing if smokers found out that it wasn't so. Nobody can fool the people very long. But a great many smokers have smoked Chesterfields for a long time, and they know that they taste right. And so they say to their friends, "If you want a cigarette that really tastes better, try Chesterfields!"

Chesterfields taste better because they are made of mild tobaccos that have been aged for two years. And there is just enough Turkish in them... but not too much.

We are sure that you, too, will enjoy their Mildness and Better Taste.
