Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

OREGON'S 1933 football players are going to run into some active young men in their pursuit of the Pacific coast conference championship. Probably the most active of these is Monsieur Homer Griffith, with whom the Webfoots struck up a slight acquaintance last season. Having Tiny Thornhill been introduced to Homer, it is likely that they will get along splendidly on their second meeting.

Griffith isn't the only Trojan veteran with whom the Webfoots will meet next year. In fact it will be just one big happy reunion, for all but three of the 1932 U. S. C. regulars will be back for another season of pigskin profiteering for dear old Troy. The two tackles, Ernie Smith and Capt. Tay Brown, have finished. So has Ray Sparling, the pass-grabbing end.

It really is a pity when you think of poor Howard Jones trying to win a coast title with such material as Griffith, "Cotton" Warburton, Cal Clemens, Bob Getz, Gordon Clark and Johnny Morrison in the backfield, and Ford (Flivver) Palmer, Stevens, Youel, Bescos, and Rosenberg in the line, not to mention a new tackle, 225-pound George Harper, to replace Smith.

Yes, and Southern California is not the only place where the Oregon invasion is going to resemble old home week. At Seattle the biggest loss is most likely to be Irish Jimmy Phelan. According to rumor, Hec Edmundson, Husky basketball coach, stated that Phelan had written that he would sign at the University of Chicago within a month. Other missing members of the 1933 Purple eleven are Dave Nisbet, all-American end; Capt. Bill O'Brien, tackle; Johnny Cherberg, brainy quarterback, and Colin Howard, center.

But look at the powerhouse in the backfield where four young gentlemen by the names of Art Ahonen, Byrl Buffkin, Matt Muczynski and Paul Sulkoski will hold forth. All were sophomores this past season. In the line Fat Isaacson, Joe Wiatrak, Neg Englund and Ray Finn, center, and back. Oregon meets the Huskies in its first conference game. Well, there's nothing like getting over a tough hurdle without delay.

California takes quite a loss this year. Gone are Hank Schaldach, Gus Castro and Dick Tozer. The leading backfield prospect is Arleigh Williams, speedy halfback. Bill Ingram is going to have to work hard to build a team that will turn in a record as good as the 1932 outfit did, which did none too well, at that.

Stanford, under a new coach next year in the person of Tiny Thornhill, will at least have more than enough backfield material. Leading the parade of ball-carriers is Bob Sims, regular halfback during the past season. Bill Baker is also back from the 1932 squad. And from the undefeated freshman team come Bobby Grayson, Frankie Alustuzia, and Tommy Hamilton, all sure of places on the 1933 Indian eleven.

Washington State loses some good players, but never think Hollingbery won't have a strong eleven. He always has. George Sander, the all-American triple-threat back is gone, along with Johnny Eubanks, the goal-kicking specialist, and Walter Camp, a tackle. Olie Arbelbide, the sensational halfback, and George Theodoratus, who plays either fullback or tackle, will top the list of 1933 performers.

Whoever takes over the coaching reins at Oregon State is going to have plenty of alumni pictures at which to gaze and sigh. Hal Moe, the great blocking back; Keith Davis, punting end; E. Davis, the other wingman; Curly Miller, tackle; Ade Schwamm, tackle, and Willis Danforth, center, are gone from the Corvallis football paradise.

All the excitement anyone would care to have in the short space of less than a half-hour was furnished in a volleyball contest between the Phi Deltas and Sigma Phi Epsilon in last night's donut frays. These two teams played through three of the hardest tilts seen in the intramurals this year. The Phi Deltas took the deciding game but not until they had earned it. Sigma Phi Epsilon put up a courageous stand during the concluding minutes of play.

Gamma hall and Kappa Sigma put up an exciting contest until the final minutes of this contest when the Gamma boys somehow got their signals crossed and continually kept running into each other. Kappa Sig worked their "killer" play to a perfection against the hall boys. However, the Gamma six also scored a considerable number of points and would have won one game at least had not their defense cracked at the crucial point. Hakanson and Bobbitt starred for the Kappa Sigs while Lees and Kolkowski were the best Gamma hall sharpshooters.

Filipinos Win
La Casa Filipina entered the win column yesterday by virtue of their victory over the "smart" boys from Sigma hall. Sigma hall could not get started and the smaller, dusky-skinned stars found very little to hinder them from taking both games of the series. La Casa has a very smooth working combination which should prove to be a real threat in future games.

The Fiji-Sigma Pi Tau encounter was also fought on even terms until the closing minutes of play. In this game Morehouse, Fiji, bewildered the S.P.T. boys with some fancy shots. Dawsett, of Sigma Pi Tau, was the biggest threat of his team.

Yeomen Advance
The strong Yeoman outfit found very little trouble in defeating Phi Sigma Kappa, who tried hard but succumbed to superior passing and all-around floor work.

Theta Chi took a forfeit from Chi Psi who did not have enough players to start the contest. Two other teams of handball players won their places in the semi-final fracket. These two teams, Kappa Sigma and A. T. O., meet today. The Phi Deltas and the Yeomen are also scheduled to meet each other today.

SPANISH OFFICIALS DRAW PRAISE FROM PROFESSOR

"Although Alfonso had sympathy and tact, and was quite a liberal during his reign, he will never come back to rule in this day and age."

On April 14, 1931, the republic was in triumphant and peaceful possession of office, and several ity, has been divided among the farmers.

All church property belongs to the state, but religious freedom is still permitted, while no property is allowed to be carried out of the country. In order to insure democracy in Spain, no letter is delivered if it is addressed with a title of nobility.

"Is freedom of speech and press permitted?"

"Yes, the republic restricts no one from saying or writing what he likes, while in the days of the monarchy, all papers were censored or banned and during some political stir groups of people were not allowed to talk on the street."

Miss Thompson spent a number of years in Spain, and traveled a good deal about the country. While there she taught at the International Institute in Madrid.

Another Year for Him

Homer Griffith, 187-pound triple-threat quarterback of Southern California's national football champions, who returns this year to lead the warriors of Troy for another season on the gridiron. Leading scorer of the Pacific Coast conference, Griffith is rated with Russ Saunders, Marshal Duffield, Morton Kaer and other great heroes of the Trojan wars. He was a thorn in Oregon's side this year. He smashed nine yards through tackle for U. S. C.'s first touchdown four minutes after the start of the game. Against Pittsburgh, he was even more formidable. After the 35-to-0 massacre, Coach Sutherland of Pitt said he thought Griffith was the best back on the field.

Eddie Tolan Never To Run Sprints Again

Olympic Star Turns Spikes In To Hold Job

Career of Earning a Living Much More Important to Negro Star Than Cinder Fame

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—(Special)—No longer will the stumpy, little legs of Eddie Tolan, colored sensation of the 1932 Olympic games, carry him to victory on the cinder paths. Falling in line with Ralph Hill, his Olympic teammate, and others who have recently turned in their spikes for more serious occupations, the bespectacled sprint champion announced recently that he would never race again.

Two weeks ago Eddie, after months of searching following his double victories in the 100 and 200 meter events at Los Angeles, found a job. He is a filing clerk in a county office here.

Just before his astounding victories in the games, which sent his name around the world Tolan wrote to his mother: "I want so much to see our name head the list when the result is announced, for I know that if I can win the two dash events our worries will be lessened and some brightness will return to our lives."

He won the two big events, but he didn't get a job. He had an entire room full of medals, governors had issued proclamations, and orators had extolled his name for his sportsmanship and prowess, but still no job. Michigan even went so far as to have an official "Eddie Tolan Day" by official proclamation.

Now that he has the job, he means to keep it.

"I haven't any complaints," said Tolan, "I just don't think I'll ever run again. I'm sticking to my job."

Today Is Deadline For Handball Tilts

All-campus handball and ping-pong tournaments will get under way this week. An unusually large number of candidates have signed up for the tournaments this year and some fast competition in the various events is expected.

First round matches must be completed by today, or the flip of the coin will decide the winner. It is urged that every participant cooperate with Mr. Boushey and complete the scheduled matches on time.

Dr. Mueller Will Speak Before Socialist Club

John H. Mueller, professor of sociology, will speak to the Student Socialist club tonight at 7:15 p. m. at the "Y" hut. His topic will be, "Is America Socialized?" Dr. Mueller spent the summer of 1931 in Russia so is highly qualified to draw comparisons between the American situation and conditions in Soviet Russia. He is able to answer satisfactorily some of the questions as to the extent of socialization in this country. Attendance is not restricted to members of the club.

Frosh Have Stiff Practice Session To Shake Slump

Rogers Gives Everybody Chance To Show Speed in Workout As Rook Tilt Nears

The frosh basketball squad went through a hard practice session last night, scrimmaging against the super-varsity. Red Rogers is bearing down in an attempt to get the team in shape for the first rook game, which is only a little over a week away.

The ducklings started off in practice by putting on the poorest exhibition of the year, but after a short warm-up, they smoothed out a little. They still look ragged, but they should be able to settle down before the "little civil war" starts. Most of the trouble seemed to be in the defense. Failure to watch the ball caused considerable confusion, allowing the offensive team time to get set.

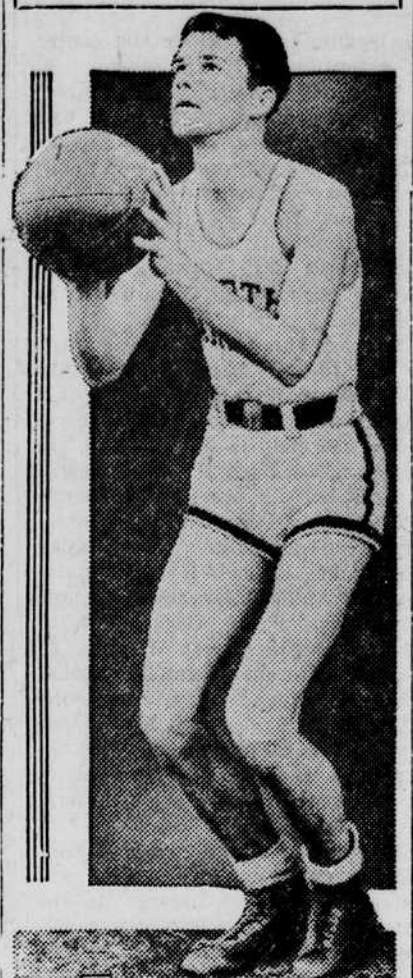

Coach Rogers gave everyone a chance in the scrimmage, sizing them all up, but as yet he has not picked a starting combination from the squad. The whole group was erratic throughout the scrimmage, flashing real ball at times, and at other times, looking like a bunch of grammar school fans.

No games have been scheduled yet for this week-end, and Rogers is planning several hard practice sessions to get the team out of its slump. A practice game may be scheduled for sometime next week to give Rogers a chance to see how they act under fire, and to give him a chance to pick a lineup to start against the rooks.

Women's Sports

By ROBERTA MOODY

A meeting of the Amphibians is to be held at 7:30 tonight at the women's pool in Gerlinger hall.

The group will spend the time in practicing different types of diving and swimming. Preparations are being made for a demonstration and pageant to be given in the middle of April.

The hour for faculty swims has been changed to 7:30, continuing until 8:30 on Monday nights, in the women's pool at Gerlinger hall.

This arrangement has been made in hopes of increasing the attendance, as it is believed that this hour is more convenient for the members of the class.

At an intramural swim today at 4 in the women's pool at Gerlinger hall, the Chi Omegas will meet the Pi Beta Phis.

The Alpha Omicron Pi will compete against Kappa Delta in an interhouse swimming contest at 4 o'clock in the women's pool Friday afternoon.

All girls interested in tumbling are asked to come out in suits at 4 this afternoon at the women's gym in Gerlinger hall. Louise Beers is in charge and urges the girls to sign up.

The Pi Beta Phis took the Kappa Kappa Gammas, 15 to 7, in an interhouse basketball game Wednesday afternoon. Greta Kilpatrick is captain for the Pi Phis and Ann Franks is dictator of the Kappa hoopsters. Susan Campbell hall will play Alpha Omicron Pi today at 5.

In your OLD home you can add NEW comfort . . . save fuel

If your house was built before modern insulation was available, it can be easily made to give new comfort and save considerable fuel.

It is through the roof that most heat is lost. By applying a thick warm blanket of Balsam-Wool to the attic floor or between the roof rafters needless heat loss is prevented.

You will find a surprising saving in fuel; the house will be easier to heat in the coldest weather; the upstairs rooms will be more comfortable during hot summer days and nights.

See us about it today.
