On the SIDELINES

By EDWARD J. NEIL

THE subject today is the forgotten man of football, Mr. "Hiker" Aloysius Joy, place of future business absolutely unknown.

"Hiker," in his day, was as fine a quarterback as you'd care to see at Holy Cross. He came eventually to Fordham, as assistant to Major Frank Cavanaugh.

The fortunes of the game, and the steadily growing effects of shrapnel slugs, shell splinters that ripped the Iron Major's head and body in the Argonne and all but blinded him, have forced Frank Cavanaugh to the sidelines. With him goes his assistant. A new regime is coming into Fordham, headed by Jimmy Crowley.

For a time it looked as though "Hiker" would get the title, as well as the actual work of head coach he practically had taken over in the past two years. As the major's eyesight failed, and his war hurts became more grievous, the quiet, self-effacing "Hiker" stepped into the breach.

He need not apologize for Fordham's record over that period. A surprise walloping by Michigan State stopped the Rams last fall but they came back to trounce St. Mary's and Oregon State. Almost without exception the squad returns intact next fall. But "Hiker" will be coaching somewhere else, if he's fortunate.

Considered the greatest football scout in the East by other coaches, hailed as a master tactician, "Hiker" was one of the pro football pioneers.

He played quarterback for Jim Thorpe on the great Indian's Canton Bulldogs. He could do everything but guess what Jim would do next.

They were playing in Canton in one of the final games of the Sioux's career and the entire town turned out to hail Thorpe. Unfortunately the big Indian had started the celebration a day early.

He dragged himself wearily into the locker room before the game.

"Hiker," he said, "it looks like you've got to do all the work today. The old Indian don't feel so good."

Joy was frantic. The crowd had come to see Thorpe. It was the day of days in Canton. But Jim was obdurate. He managed to climb into football clothes, but he got only as far as the bench.

The ball game went on for three quarters, without Thorpe, and the demand for the Indian became terrific. There seemed to be a feeling in the stands that someone was bliking the boys. Finally, near the start of the fourth quarter, Thorpe trotted wearily out onto the field.

The ovation Jim received was magnificent but it merely brought new plans to Thorpe's aching head. "Hiker" called Thorpe's signal. Jim merely shook his head.

"Not today, Hiker," he said. "The crowd wanted Thorpe, wanted to see him run, dazzle the foe. They were calling for him from the stands. They were getting more insistent each play. They were angry. And the score was 0 to 0."

"Hiker" finally had to take time out. The ball was on the enemy 40-yard line and there was but a minute to play.

"Jim," he pleaded, "Take it just once, or they'll tear us apart when this is over."

"All right," Jim conceded, "just this once."

"Hiker" called for the best play they had, a wide end sweep, with Thorpe carrying the ball. Jim listened to the signals moodily.

The ball sailed back to him. His running mates formed perfect interference and raced around end. But there was no Thorpe tearing up the turf behind them.

He retreated wearily to midfield and droppicked a field goal from 50 yards. That was the ball game.

"Sorry," he told "Hiker," "I just couldn't make it."

Lowly Ducks Go To Cougar Camp Tonight

Reinhart's Squad Out for Revenge on W.S.C.

Washington State Cagers Picked To Win Third Straight From Webfoots

Let's Climb Out

Washington	5	1	.833
Oregon State	5	3	.625
Washington State	4	3	.571
Idaho	3	4	.429
Oregon	0	6	.000

By MALCOLM BAUER
Yet to win their first game of the current basketball season, the Oregon basketball squad will travel the three miles from the University of Idaho to Pullman today, where tonight they will seek revenge from the Cougars of W. S. S.

The Webfoots, just humiliated by two decisive defeats handed them by the Vandals, will go into the Cougar camp more determined than ever to retaliate for the two wins chalked up by the northerners early in the season at Eugene.

As the teams stand in the northern loop now, it looks as if Bill's cagers will have to do some tall playing to keep out of the cellar this season. The Cougars, with four won and three lost, are by no means near the top, but they will be top-heavy favorites to dump the Ducks for the third time tonight.

Cap Roberts seems to have found his eye at Moscow; and if he can hit the stride that carried him to all-star mention last year, he should give big Huntly Gordon an interesting evening.

No more injuries have been reported on the squad, and except for a few knees which are still bandaged, the Emerald and Yellow will be at top strength tonight.

The probable lineups are:

Oregon	Washington State
Watts	F..... Cross
Stevens	F..... Johnson
Roberts (C)	C..... Gordon (C)
Olinger	G..... Willits
Robertson	G..... Scott

PURDUE USES DIFFERENT PLAN OF ACCOUNTING

The budget form provides space under each item for the actual figure in the previous year, the budget figure this year and the actual figure this year. The items under receipts include dues, fees and assessments; entertainments, subscriptions, advertising, donations and other income (principal items detailed).

Expenditures Listed
Expenditure items include salaries and wages, printing and publications, travel, office supplies and expenses, other supplies and expenses (principal items detailed), equipment—repairs and equipment—new.

The budget form is filled out in triplicate and is submitted to the finance office. After approval by the finance office, two copies are returned to the organization.

W. A. Bodden, auditor of student organizations, indicates in his letter to the Emerald that the system has been successful and that the majority of student officials have been willing to cooperate with his office.

Council Is Representative
The student governing body at Purdue is the student council, a representative group from the student body as a whole. However, it has little to do with the majority of student activities, according to Mr. Bodden. Its functions have primarily to do with supervising elections and passing on matters of policy or procedure, such as the adoption or discontinuance of class insignia, the continuance or abolition of class officers.

Purdue being a member of the "Big Ten" athletics are handled by a faculty committee. The conference regulations require this. The organization of the athletic directorate is similar to that on practically all large campuses. There is a committee to determine policies and draft budgets and a general manager to conduct the business matters and carry out the dictates of the committee.

First Student Recital To Be Given Tuesday

In the first student recital of the season, Elaine Moore, pianist; Martha Moore, violinist; and Katherine Mishler, pianist, will be presented next Tuesday night. The recital will be in the music building at 8 o'clock.

Miss Mishler recently won the Mu Phi Epsilon music scholarship for this year.

"Little Napoleon's" Birthplace Hotbed Of Baseball

When John McGraw, late manager of the New York Giants and one of the greatest baseball players of all time, first played the game at Truxton, N. Y., it was a precarious pastime. A church was down one foul line while a school house was situated at a dangerous spot on the other side of the field, and shining glass surrounded the players on all sides. Here is a picture of the "Little Napoleon" with the field he first played ball upon in the background. The late Albert Kenny, the man "who found McGraw," is shown in the upper right.

My Greatest Thrill in Athletics

By IRV SCHULZ
(As told to Ned Simpson)

THE GREATEST thrill that I've ever experienced in athletics came last fall in the second rooftop game played over here in Eugene. It was during the second half of the game, and occurred just when a couple of Oregon cheer leaders were having a slight misunderstanding with some Beaver managers.

The rooks had recovered a frosch fumble deep down in our territory, and had shoved the ball down to the six-yard line before they lost it on downs. Two unsuccessful tries at the center of the rook line convinced the freshman quarter, "Stew" Milligan, that now was the time to get off a good punt. Just at this moment the fistic engagement on the sidelines started and not many of the fans in the stands saw the play that gave me my thrill.

It was the punt that Milligan got off from behind his own goal line. He was standing about five yards back of the zero-marker, and the kick, traveling high in the air, came down near the rooks' 40-yard line, and then rolled about given by Lewis Fox, Beta, and Sterling Green, Theta Chi, who talked with them, indicate that there were at least three in the group. All were dressed in dark suits, dark coats, and light hats. Two were described as being about 5 feet 11 inches tall and slender and the third as being somewhat shorter and fairly heavy set. Several students said yesterday that they had noticed a trio answering this description around the day before.

THIEVES ENTER TEN MEN'S HOUSES IN RAIDS

As Fox came down stairs at the Beta house at 6 o'clock to start up the fires, he heard someone run out the front door. Chasing after them, he managed to overtake one of the men at the sidewalk, and demanded to know what they wanted. The man answered:

"Is this the A. T. O. house?" Fox replied that it wasn't, as could be told easily by the plat on the front door, and demanded again as to what they wanted in the house. After a little more talk, the man turned and went hurriedly toward 11th avenue. Fox, not knowing at that time of the robberies, did not call the police.

Green and John Holloper, managing editor and night editor, respectively, of the Emerald, were returning to the Theta Chi house at 3 o'clock and found the prowlers apparently asleep on davenport in the living room. Both men were well dressed, wearing dark suits and dark overcoats. Suspicious, but uncertain as to whether the slumbering strangers were belated guests of some other member of the fraternity, Green went up stairs, and learned that no guests had arrived at the house during the day.

As he returned to the lower

Ping-Pong Artists To Begin Tourney On "Y" Hut Tables

Celluloid balls and plywood paddles will be arms supreme in the Y. M. C. A. ping-pong tournament, with 24 campus organizations entered for the competition. A new cup will be awarded the winning organization in the elimination. The cup has been provided by McMorrin and Washburne company.

Pairings have been made, and the tournament will begin at once, according to Bill Shepherd, chairman of the event. Teams of the organizations should be made up of three men. Each man from one team will meet each man of the opposing team. Thus each match will consist of nine games, the organization winning five or more eliminating the other. All directions are posted at the Y. M. C. A. hut. All games must be played on the tables in the hut. The tables will be available until 10 p. m.

PLANS FOR A.W.S. CAMPUS CARNIVAL UNDER WAY

pointed her committee as follows: Marigold H. Davidson, assistant chairman; Ebba Wicks, secretary; Helen Burns, raffles; Patricia McKenna, tickets; Beverly Price, clean up; Pearl Base, features; Ann-Reed Burns, publicity; Virginia Hartje, booths; Marie Saccamanno, dancing; Adele Sheehy, decorations; and Kay Briggs, finance.

The carnival, which will be held at the Igloo, is the biggest project of the A. W. S. during the year. No dances or other student affairs will be scheduled for that night, and not only all students, but townspeople also are urged to attend. Proceeds from the affair go towards the A. W. S. emergency loan fund.

Emerald Of the Air

Bruce Hamby, Emerald sports editor and I. N. S. correspondent for Eugene, has another of his exhaustive talks lined up on the Emerald-of-the-Air agenda for 12:15 today.

Basketball is the center of attraction now, and if you haven't the time, or are too lazy, to read the sport sheet—or if you want to listen to an interesting and complete review of current doings on the maple court—get on the air, folks, get on the air! It's all true, and it's all there!

Frosh Show Fight Against DeNeffe Five

Rogers' Team Looks Better But Loses 57-43

Game Comes As Surprise for Yearlings, But New Men Show Class

By JACK CHINNOCK
A fighting frosh team threw a scare into the strong DeNeffe's independent team yesterday afternoon, losing only 57 to 43. The independents started out as if they were going to slaughter the yearlings, scoring six points in the first couple of minutes. Not to be outdone, the frosh rallied to tie the score at six all at the end of the first five minutes.

DeNeffe's, led by Calkins and Morgan, went into the lead and held it till almost half time, when baskets by Milligan and Harcombe put the frosh into the lead, 15 to 14. The independent outfit took the lead again, holding the margin at 20 to 17 at the half.

Second Half Wild
The second half generated into a wild scoring spree, with the yearlings always three or four points behind. Calkins, Eberhardt, Bellison, and Morgan went on a scoring rampage that the freshmen could not quite match, although they tried hard enough.

Coach Rogers sprang the game on his charges as a surprise test, and the result was a surprise. The frosh, who were thought to be hopelessly outclassed, played real ball, and until the last few minutes were right in the ball game. Rogers used almost his entire squad, and everyone was in there fighting every minute of the way.

Windy Stars
Calkins led the way in scoring, ringing up a total of 21 points on nine baskets and three foul shots. Bill Harcombe was high point man for the frosh, sinking six baskets and a free throw, for a total of 13 points. He was closely followed by Stew Milligan, who dropped in four long ones and a free toss for nine points.

Line-ups:

Stanford To Have Good Golf Squad

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 26.—In spite of heavy losses by graduation and failure to return to the university for other reasons, Stanford will be represented by another strong golf team this year, in the opinion of Coach Eddie Twigg.

Charles Seaver, number one; Herm Heilman, number three; Stew Hawley, number four; Dick Hoag, number five; and Tom Edwards, number seven are all missing as Twigg prepares his charges for the opening of the intercollegiate season.

Harry Eichelberger, who was second last year, is now holding forth in the first position, followed by Lawson Little, number one man on the frosh team of two years ago. Gene Brown, number six last season, is in third position; and Tom Dwyer, who twice qualified for the national amateur and has recently transferred from Sacramento Junior college is fourth. Dick Giddings, former Modesto Junior college champion is pressing Dwyer, with Jim Rea, Jack Geer, and Stew Pett not far behind. Rea and Pett were on the squad last season and Geer is a transfer from Modesto Junior college.

30 Years!

It was the ambition of Old Jim Ten Eyck, grand old man of rowing at Syracuse, to finish his 30th year of coaching oarsmen at the New York university this season. The school's budget was cut, abandoning rowing as a sport, but the members of the crew are going to "see to it" that Jim gets his wish by paying all expenses for the coming season. Eyck is over 80.

Women's Sports

By ROBERTA MOODY

Due to the accurate shooting of Twyla Stockton, who scored 12 points, Susan Campbell hall outscored the Alpha Omicron Pi basketball team 15 to 10 in the second game of the interhouse basketball tournament scheduled Thursday afternoon.

Susan Campbell hall will play Kappa Delta Monday afternoon at five.

The Pi Beta Phi mermaids splashed out a 28 to 24 victory over the Chi Omega team in an interhouse swimming meet Thursday afternoon in the women's pool at Gerlinger hall.

Patsy Lee won first place in the 40-yard free style, Eleanor Norblad, Pi Phi, won the single over-arm, Greta Kirkpatrick, Pi Phi, the breast stroke; Patsy Lee, Chi Omega, the 20 yard racing backstroke; Helen Wright, Pi Phi, the plunge, and Nancy Weston, the diving contest.

Heien Wright, Eleanor Norblad, Greta Kirkpatrick, and Nancy Weston entered for the Pi Phi, and Patsy Lee, Eleanor Elide, and Harriet Kayser completed the Chi Omega team.

Intramural swimming meets have been scheduled for winter term. The contests are to be held in the women's pool at Gerlinger hall in the afternoons.

The schedule for the A league is as follows:
Thursday, February 2, Sigma Kappa vs. Chi Omega; Monday, February 6, Hendricks hall vs. Pi Beta Phi; Friday, February 10, Sigma Kappa vs. Pi Beta Phi; Thursday, February 16, Hendricks hall vs. Chi Omega. The B league 27, Alpha Omicron Pi vs. Kappa schedule follows: Friday, January Delta; Tuesday, January 31, Susan Campbell vs. Delta Gamma; Friday, February 3, Alpha Omicron Pi vs. Delta Gamma; Tuesday, February 7, Susan Campbell hall vs. Kappa Delta; Thursday, February 9, Susan Campbell hall vs. Alpha Omicron Pi; and Tuesday,

Although the doubles team of the Phi Delt handball aggregation won their series from the Yeoman outfit the independent boys took both singles events and therefore won the right to enter the finals against the Kappa Sigs. This doubles team of the Phi Delt organization was one of the classiest combinations to perform in the intramurals so far this season and it was simply too bad that they could not enter the finals. The doubles teams played through two hectic tilts which kept a fair gallery in mild frenzy until the very end of the last contest.

The two singles men of the Yeomen, S. Schneider and A. Schneider, had a hard time in conquering their Phi Delt opponents.

Kappa Sig also entered the finals by virtue of conquering the A. T. O. aggregation by a 2-1 score. This defeat of A. T. O. was a stunning upset.

The excitement in volleyball yesterday was furnished by the Beta and Fiji outfits with the Betas coming out on the long end of the score. In this contest Dutch Clark suddenly lost his temper on one occasion and nearly won a game by himself. His expert passing, in other words, kept the Betas in the hole many times.

Another interesting game was the one in which the A. T. O. and Sigma Chi tried to cut each other's throat. This game was marked by some sensational playing on both sides.

Friendly hall had a little trouble last night in the form of a Delta Tau Delta aggregation which proved a tough stumbling block to get over. The Friendly boys finally won two games.

Other winners in last night's volleyball encounters were Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, who won from Chi Psi, Sigma Pi Tau, and Sigma hall.

February 14, Kappa Delta vs. Delta Gamma.

Tumbling will be the feature for the recreational hour from 4 to 5 today in the women's gym at Gerlinger hall. Tea will be served after the swimming meet. The meeting is sponsored by the Women's Athletic association.

Social swim is to be held tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 in the women's pool in Gerlinger hall. Both boys and girls are invited. Towels and suits are furnished.
