

Nobody's Business

Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

IS OREGON going to snap out of it and win some basketball games this year? Hard to tell, but Bill Reinhart thinks so and he should know. His reasoning is logical—this week will be Oregon's first rest since the Christmas holidays. It will give the numerous battered and bruised players on the squad a chance to get in shape without the worry of a game next week-end.

Reinhart didn't try to alibi for the four defeats sustained on last week's road trip. But he did mention a few things which certainly didn't help the team any. In the first place, according to Bill, Cap Roberts was in shape to play only one first class ball game and that was the last of the trip, against Washington State. Cap was sick all week, but as the Webfoots are minus any man tall enough to jump against the pivot men of the conference, he had to play through every game.

Despite his sickness, however, Cap and Gib Olinger played the best ball shown on the trip. Olinger turned in a fine performance in every game, according to the returning players. Kermit Stevens played brilliantly in two or three of the games. His best night was the first game against the Cougars, when he sank seven long ones in the second half.

Here's one answer to what's wrong with the Webfoots this year. As it comes from Bill Reinhart it should be authentic. Last year, says Bill, Oregon had both Windy Calkins and Hank Levoff to bring the ball down the floor on offensive plays. That left Roberts and the other forwards with time to get under the basket. This year only Cap and Stevens have had the experience to set up plays. As Stevens has not been playing regularly, this has left most of the work to Cap. All of which makes him both a center and guard. If players were on hand to start the plays and Cap could get in under the basket it would give the Webfoots a much smoother and better working scoring outfit.

L. H. Gregory comments in yesterday's Oregonian: "Evidently they're chemically pure enough at Eugene to satisfy even Jonathan Butler and how do you like it? Better forget abstract ethics and go proselytizing for some players before the state board of higher education is petitioned to abolish basketball at Oregon as a superfluous sport."

Gregory is right when he says that Oregon's basketball team is pure. Not one member of the team is on a scholarship. True, some of them have jobs, but according to Mr. Butler, that is all right. Why the players haven't scholarships is easily accounted for. There aren't enough to go around after the football players are taken care of. So if Mr. Gregory can suggest some manner to raise a few choice basketball scholarships, I'm sure Bill Reinhart would be glad to do the work of looking up the players.

Oregon Sinks Lower Due To Bad Week-End

Huskies Hold Commanding Lead in North

Washington State in Second Place Following Double Win; Trojans Lead Southern Loop

It Looks Bad

	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington	5	1	.833
Washington State	6	3	.667
Oregon State	5	3	.625
Idaho	3	4	.429
Oregon	0	8	.000

With Oregon's basketball squad back home after losing all four games of its first northern invasion this season, things look pretty dark in the Webfoot camp. The defeats, two from Idaho and two at the hands of the W. S. C. Cougars, raise the Ducks' string of losses to eight straight, and leave them in undisputed possession of the bottom rung in the northern division ladder.

It looks like another Washington year in the Northwest, and the Huskies are already well on their way to their sixth straight pennant. Hec Edmundson's cagers have won five games and have dropped only one, that to Slat's Gill's Oregon State five. The Seattlites will get a real test this week-end when the Beavers travel north to engage them in a two-game series.

Washington State is at present holding down the runner-up position in the standings, slipping ahead of Oregon State by virtue of her two wins over the Webfoots last week-end. Oregon State is just 4.2 percentage points behind the Cougars, having won five and lost three.

Idaho's Vandals are firmly entrenched in the fourth position, three and a half games ahead of the lowly Ducks.

In the southern division, Southern California holds a decided advantage with five straight victories. The Trojans have scored decisive wins over Stanford, U. C. L. A., and California, and are in good stride, which should send them on through their remaining seven games to clinch the title.

The nearest competitors to the leaders in the south are the California Bears with three victories to two defeats. U. C. L. A. and Stanford trail the pack, each with but one victory as compared with four losses.

U. W. TO FORM NEW SETUP FOR EXTRA ACTIVITY

 mittee for several years. Though this system has proved comparatively successful, the placing of all sports under the management of a director of athletics is contemplated.

The new regents will also be faced with the problem of negotiating a $50,000 loan to carry on student activities for the rest of the year. It is the necessity for this loan and the insistence of Seattle bankers that the control of student activities be put under a more permanent organization that have led to the movement for reformation of the student government.

Rupp on Board
 The recently appointed regents are Werner A. Rupp, Aberdeen editor; Winlock Miller, capitalist; Lewis B. Schwelmbach, who opposed Clarence D. Martin for gubernatorial nomination; Alfred Shernanski, Seattle merchant; Philip McBride, Seattle lawyer; Robert Montgomery, Puyallup editor; and Edward P. Ryan, Spokane realtor.

Rupp and Miller were regents of the Washington institution several years ago when the fracas between ex-Governor Hartley and ex-President Suzzallo resulted in the ousting of the latter as head of the university. Rupp was forced out of office and Miller was not reappointed.

A basketball game scheduled between Oklahoma U. and Oklahoma A. & M. had to be called off because the court, in Oklahoma City, was not controlled by either school, a Big Six requirement.

The Outstanding Athlete of 1932

James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch, Olympic decathlon winner and chosen by the Sullivan Memorial committee as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1932. While at the University of Kansas he was a fullback on the varsity grid team, and took part in the shot, discus, javelin and hurdles in track.

My Greatest Thrill in Athletics

By R. JOSEPH (Butch) MORSE
 (As told to Ned Simpson)
 I've had some trouble deciding which was my greatest thrill in athletics—my invitation to the coming Theta formal or the last game I played for dear old Benson Tech in the fall of 1930. Haven't you heard how we beat Grant High, 7 to 6—scoring all of our points during the last four minutes of play? Here, look through these for a while and you will see what a battle we put up.

(At this point Butch paused to pass over a three or four hundred page book of clippings that was opened at a page where bold headlines shouted that "Techmen triumph over Generals.")

The thrill in this game came not only from one specific play, but from the whole accomplishment. During the entire first three quarters we had been run ragged by Grant and had been scored on during the second quarter. The game seemed lost when we recovered a Grant fumble on their 46-yard line, and in a series of line bucks I managed to shove it over for the tying score. I also made the extra point by smashing through tackle. The timer's gun was in the air when I went over the line for the touchdown and that was the most thrilling play.

Another big thrill that I got was when I found out that I was going to room with Dick Neuberger this year, and would have a chance to put crackers in his bed. He was the only Portland sports writer to vote against me in the selections for the Zell trophy. Here are a few more clippings—no those aren't the ones—those are the ones about that game we played with Medford for the state championship.

R. Joseph (Butch) Morse II, honorary vice-president of the famed Minnesota Rotary club down on Patterson street, started off his high school football career at Benson Tech. There he made his numeral in frosh football and then took the step up to varsity ranks. For the next three years he was a bulwark of the Techmen's offense and defense, and played several positions during his scholastic career. He was selected on almost every all-star high school team during those three years, and was awarded the Zell trophy—for the most outstanding player—in 1930. Butch came to Oregon winter term, 1931, and that fall played end on the championship frosh team. Last fall, as a member of the Webfoot varsity, he played stellar ball under the guidance of Prink Callison. Butch returns next season and will be one of the mainstays in the line.

Hopkins' Concert On February 13 Will Be Different

George Hopkins will present something entirely different in the way of piano concerts, February 13; namely, a recital of dance music. Composers of the classical, romantic, and modern schools will be represented. Mr. Hopkins will present this same concert in Portland at the Neighbors of Woodcraft hall, February 25.

Included in his program are Bach's "French Suite in G-major," Gluck-Brahms' "Gavotte," Debussy's "Delphic Dancers" and "Golliwog's 'Cake Walk,'" Hanson's "Clog Dance," Simons-Gallico's "The Peanut Vendor," and Wright's "An 'Authentic' Jazz Arrangement."

Critics of musical magazines such as Musical America, Musical Digest, and Musical West, and music critics of various newspapers of Oregon and Washington papers have spoken very highly of Mr. Hopkins skill as a pianist and a composer.

One of America's young composers, the Musical Digest speaks of him in referring to his composition, "Valse-Burlesque" which Michael Levizki presented in one of his recent New York concerts. Another of his own compositions which has won him notice is his "Scottish Gavotte."

Newman To Turn Down Pro Offers

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The University of Michigan's all-America quarterback, Harry Newman, may turn professional later in the year, but at present he wants to retain his amateur rating.

Newman stopped off here en route to his home after playing in the East-West charity game at San Francisco. He turned down an offer to play with former University of Southern California football stars in a professional game. The Wolverine star indicated, however, he might turn professional later in the year.

"Michigan is expecting another Big Ten championship team next year," said Newman. "There are only two of us graduating this year."

 SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Wives of the American tennis players, Vines, Allison and Van Ryn, watched the Englishmen and Australians at play in their national game, cricket, and were bored. "Baseball has real thrills but cricket none," said Mrs. Vines.

Intramural sport managers meet today in the men's gym at 4 o'clock. Purpose is to discuss tentative plans for coming wrestling matches and indoor track meet.

By BEN BACK

Thrill after thrill marked the play of the Theta Chi-Beta volleyball encounter last night which, without a doubt, was the most sensational contest seen in the intramurals this year. After losing the first game, Theta Chi came back to triumph in the next two games.

Ralph Brown was the main cog of the Theta Chi machine and it was his hard passes which eventually began to tell on the Beta outfit. He had some able help from Rusty Woodward and Spec Murray. For the Betas, Bowerman, Gunther, and Near tried hard to stop the Theta Chi threat.

La Casa Filipina, in another game which had unusual thrills, beat Phi Psi, 2 to 1, after coming close to losing the third game. The La Casa boys took the first game by a wide margin. However, the Phi Psi came back in the second game and took it very easily. The third game went to the Oriental team.

Sigma Chi had a hard struggle on their hands with Sigma hall, who offered a very stubborn resistance although they lost both games. Yeomen and Fiji also fought on very even terms until the end of the two games which were played. The Yeomen took both encounters by having a little more snap and pep at the end of each encounter.

The Alpha-Gamma hall failed to materialize when one of the Gamma players failed to show up at game time and therefore Alpha won the contest by default.

Phi Delta Theta's hard-smashing sextet scored their fourth straight win of the tourney by topping the friendly hall outfit, 2 to 1.

W. S. C. To Lower Fees For Old Students Only

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, Jan. 30.—(Special)—Drastic changes in registration fees and room and board charges have been announced at Washington State college. The changes will become effective at the beginning of next semester.

Registration will be $32 for men and $32.75 for women. The reduced registration fee, applicable to old students only, came through the withholding of the $5 damage deposit, which will be refunded at the close of the second semester.

Room rentals in men's and women's dormitories have been reduced to $30 a semester. From January 23 to the next board month, February 19, the board will be $20.25 per month. After Sunday morning, February 19, the board will be reduced to $19 a month.

Dormitories as Homes For Couples at W.S.C.

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, Jan. 30.—As an economy measure, married couples attending the 1933 summer session at Washington State college may be permitted to secure living quarters in one of the dormitories, according to Dr. A. A. Cleveland, director of the session.

By living in the dormitories, married students would lessen the cost of attending the session, administrative officials believe. Every effort is being made to lower the cost of the eight and one-half weeks' school. Arrangements are being completed for instructors and courses for an interesting session, reports Dr. Cleveland.

Detroit Goalie Prizes 'Biscuit'

The New York Rangers sold Goalie John Ross Roach down the river to Detroit at the close of last season, but they had reason to regret it when he broke their great scoring streak that had reached 77 games. Roach still has the battered puck—the "one that wouldn't go in the net."

Big Ten Scoring Shows Increase Under New Rules

Anti-Stalling Regulation Appears Responsible; 1933 Team Average Higher

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Whether the new anti-stalling rules are responsible, coaches are reluctant to say, but cold figures indicate that scoring has definitely increased in Big Ten basketball this season.

Figuring on results of the first 18 league games of the current season, compared with the first 18 games of 1932, brings out these data:

Average winning team's score of 1933 has been 34.83, whereas a year ago it was 30.50. The average score of losing teams this year has been 25.33, compared to 23.50 last season.

This gives an average total score of 60.16 for the present campaign against 54 for 1932; and an average victory margin this year of 9.50 against an average margin of 7 points last year.

This latter finding may be significant in view of the fact that the current race is a closer one, with more even distribution of power, than that of 1932, yet the games are being won by wider margins.

Most of the conference coaches agree the "10-second rule has speeded up the action of the game, although several hold that stalling still can be done even in the "forward half" of the court.

Women's Sports

By ROBERTA MOODY

SUSAN Campbell nosed out the Kappa Delta basketball team 15 to 12 in an interhouse game Monday afternoon at Gerlinger hall.

At the end of the half Kappa Delta led 7 to 3. Susan Campbell coming through with some neat baskets, ended the game as winner. Dorothy McLean, Kappa Delta, was high point woman with 12 points.

Kappa Kappa Gamma will play Alpha Delta Pi today at five at Gerlinger hall.

Alpha Omicron Pi swimming team turned in a 34 to 19 victory over the Kappa Delta team in an interhouse meet at the women's pool Friday afternoon.

Marion Vinson, Alpha Omicron Pi, won the 40-yard free style, and the diving contests. Helen Taylor, Kappa Delta, took the 20-yard breast stroke; Edith Clement, Alpha Omicron Pi, the 20-yard racing backstroke, and Eleonor Coombe, Alpha Omicron Pi, the 40-yard single overarm and the plunge.

Captains are asked to cut the swimming schedule from the Emerald, or they will find one posted on the W. A. A. bulletin board in Gerlinger hall.

Scheduled games may be changed only by trading dates with another scheduled meet upon the mutual agreement of the captains of all teams concerned. Notification of this change must be sent into the women's physical education office or to Agnes Morgan at least one day before the meet. If this is not done, the team not appearing will lose by default.

The swimming tournament is composed of leagues, which include four teams. Winners of each league swim each other for house championships.

Miss Bloomer is offering an hour of dancing on Monday and Thursday afternoons at 5.

Both men and women are urged to come. At the last meeting of the group 18 were present.

Frosh Suffer Loss Of Two Court Stars

Sanford and Stroble Out As Rook Tilt Nears

Rogers Working Hard To Fill Gaps Left by Injuries and Sickness

Oregon frosh basketball stock dropped a couple of points yesterday with the loss of two regulars, Glenn Sanford and Marvin "Flash" Stroble. It is not known whether either of them will be able to play against the rooks this week-end.

Sanford, all state guard from Salem, is suffering with an infected foot. He is under a doctor's care, and though unable to wear a shoe, is able to hobble around in a slipper. It is very doubtful as to whether he will be sufficiently well to play Friday or not.

Stroble was taken ill last Friday in practice and was forced to leave the court. Yesterday he was reported to be confined to bed with a touch of the flu. Even if he is well enough to play against the rooks, his weakened condition will be a big handicap to him.

Coach Rogers is worried about his chances, for although he has some excellent men to fill the breaches, he is lacking in substitutes. He is working Norm Hampton into Stroble's position at forward, and Clayton James into Sanford's place at guard. Both men have shown well all season. Several other players show promise, but they lack smoothness and polish.

The frosh open their season against the rooks next Friday, and until now had an outside chance to upset the highly-touted yearlings from O.S.C.

Frosh 'Get Acquainted' Hop Slated for Friday

Friday evening at 9:00 will see the freshman dance of the year, sponsored by the frosh commission as a "get acquainted" dance.

It will be held in the Campa Shoppe, with a tax of 50 cents per couple. The Mad Hatters will play. Tickets will be sold in each living organization by a representative. Independent men may secure their tickets at a general meeting of the freshman class to be held tomorrow to promote the affair. The time of the meeting will be announced in tomorrow's Emerald.

Everybody is invited to the dance, which, though primarily for freshmen, includes the whole of the student body.

Lion Hunter Home To Shoot Ducks

COLUSA, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—A big game hunter quit shooting lions in Africa to rush home before the end of the duck season.

He is Leslie Simson of Berkeley, who came home in 13 days to get in some duck hunting at the Colusa Gun club, near here.

It took him seven days to fly from Africa to London, five days to cross the Atlantic and 30 hours to fly from New York to Oakland.
