Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

AND WHAT do you think of one-referee basketball? Or do you still prefer two officials in your evening's entertainment? After reading sport columns of college papers received here it seems that each idea has its own cult. Prominent coaches and basketball experts are quoted on their preference for one whistle-tooter or two. And who cares?

L. H. Gregory of the Oregonian is the high priest of the one-official club. He declares emphatically that the use of a single referee this year has been the salvation of the game. He objects strenuously, and rightly too, to too much whistle blowing. In fact, he has refused to attend basketball games for several years and was only persuaded to witness the recent Oregon State-Washington contest after Slat's Gill told him there would be only one man calling fouls.

And now Jack Friel of Washington State comes forth with the idea that basketball is getting away from the officials this year. This remark was passed to Hugh Eldridge, sports editor of the Idaho Argonaut, after the Idaho-Oregon games at Moscow last week. Friel blames the coaches for permitting their own players to pull the rough stuff.

But according to comment in the California Daily, we northerners don't know what rough basketball is! Says Gordon Arter in his "Talking It Over" column: "This southern division practice of playing rough basketball is something that seems to grow on teams, like warts. It has now reached the stage where the referee is to be congratulated if he is only able to keep the game from developing into a free-for-all."

Arter describes the methods of the southern conference teams. Stanford, he says, plays "what might be termed an 'uncomfortable' game of basketball. . . . They are naturally awkward to play against. "The Bruins show more finesse in being rough. They are smaller men, on the average, than either California or Stanford. . . . Their very speed enables them to campaign with a 'hit-and-run' method of play.

"Authentic reports, quoted yesterday, said that the Trojan basketball team played a game more akin to football than anything. Featured in the attack were Jules Bescos, an end in football season, Bob Erskine, 215-pound guard on the gridiron and a center on the court, and Browning, whose first name we do not know."

"Coming close to home, there is no denying that California can be and often is a rough basketball team. . . . Impartially we would classify the Bears as 'bruisers.'"

Phi Delt Six Ekes Out Win To Take Title

Other Winners To Begin Playoff This Week

Sigma Nu, ATO, Pi Kappa Alpha, International House, and Beta Team Win Tilts

Today's Volleyball Games

4:00 p. m.—Phi Psi vs. Sigma Pi Tau (B); Friendly Hall vs. Pi Kappa Alpha (B).
 4:40 p. m.—Theta Chi vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon (B); Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Delta Tau Delta (B).
 5:20 p. m.—Kappa Sigma vs. Sigma Chi (starting title play-off).

By BEN BACK

The Phi Delt crew of volleyball aces had some real trouble to contend with in their encounter last night with the Sigma Chi sextet. It was all the Phi Delt team could do to take the deciding game of the match. The Phi Delt took the first game by a 15-1 margin, but the second game went to Sigma Chi after a torrid battle.

Johnnie Marrs and Malcolm Bauer were the leaders in the Phi Delt victory. The two Vall boys, Eddie and Micky, were the luminaries for the Sigma Chi outfit.

Sigma Nu Wins
 Sigma Nu and Phi Sigma Kappa fought on nearly even terms until the final minutes of play. Sigma Nu, however, passed just a little better and consequently won the three-game series.

A. T. O. took two games from Sigma Pi Tau but had to fight for both games.

Many teams, apparently out of the running for the title, forfeited their games last night. Pi Kappa Alpha won by a forfeit from Delta Tau Delta; International House from Chi Psi; and Beta Theta Pi from Gamma Hall.

Standings Are Released
 Section winners will begin the playoffs for the campus titles in both the "A" and "B" leagues this week. The Kappa Sig sextet meets Sigma Chi in the first quarter-final match for the "A" league crown today.

Standings in the various "A" league sections to date are as follows. "B" league standings will be given tomorrow.

"A" League Section I

Theta Chi	4	0
Beta Theta Pi	3	1
S. A. E.	2	2
International House	1	3
Chi Psi	0	4

Section II

Student Pulls Boner

The latest boner comes from the physics midterm exam, when some student stated that "Benjamin Franklin discovered lightning at the time of the Golden Age in Greece."

From Col. Hayward's Files

This snapshot, resurrected from Col. William L. Hayward's scrapbook, shows him with three sports notables he entertained at Eugene last summer. Left to right: Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the Georgia Peach himself, greatest baseball player of them all; Clarence Kolb, famous stage and screen comedian; Senator W. B. Hornblower of California, and Col. Hayward himself.

Ping-Pong Frays At 'Y' Hut Slow In First Round

First-round competition for the cup offered by McMorrin and Washburne for intramural ping-pong champions is slow in getting under way, according to Bill Shepherd, who is managing the tournament for the University Y. M. C. A.

All first-round matches must be played by the end of this week. Intramural sports' chairmen in the competing houses should arrange the time of their matches with the opposing teams.

Delta Tau Delta has advanced into the third bracket, winning by default from Sigma Alpha Mu and trouncing the Sigma Chi team, which had a bye in the first round, 9 games to 0.

The Phi Gamma Delta celluloid bouncers defeated the Kappa Sigma team, 7-2.

First-round matches yet to be played follow. Any competing house not mentioned drew a bye: Phi Kappa Psi vs. Phi Gamma Delta, Beta Theta Pi vs. Phi Sigma Kappa, Pi Kappa Alpha vs. Phi Delta Theta, Chi Psi vs. Sigma Nu, Sigma Pi Tau vs. Sherry Ross hall, International house vs. Gamma hall; Yeomen vs. Friendly hall; La Casa Filipina vs. Zeta hall.

Orangemen Must Topple Huskies This Week

O'Connell and Lewis Will Lead Invasion Against Leaders Friday and Saturday

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Feb. 1.—Half-way through its conference schedule, Oregon State basketball team will journey to Seattle this week-end where it will meet University of Washington, conference leaders, Friday and Saturday, in a two-game series which promises

Skeet O'Connell to be the deciding set-to of the season.

Now resting in third place on the conference ladder, with five wins and three losses, the Orangemen must at least split the two-game series with the Huskies to stay in the running for the crown and two wins are nearly necessary to substantiate any championship winning aspirations the Orangemen might have. In the two-game series between the team at Corvallis last week, Oregon State won the first decisively and dropped the second by a narrow margin.

Must Beat Huskies
 Washington Huskies now in first place with five wins and only one loss, look like they are heading for their sixth consecutive championship. Oregon State, generally rated as the most feared team in the conference, has been coming fast so far this season but must overpower the Huskies to establish itself as a strong championship contender.

Amory T. "Slat's" Gill, Orange coach, has spent the greater part of this week perfecting his offense. Gill is faced with a large offensive problem in that Captain Ed Lewis, lanky all-star Orange center and conference leading scorer, and Skeet O'Connell, flashy forward considered the fastest man in the conference, are carrying nearly the entire Orange offensive burden. These two men have scored more than a half of the points garnered by the entire Orange squad this season.

Books To Meet Frosh
 While the Orange varsity is battling for the conference lead in Seattle Oregon State freshman basketball team will meet University of Oregon frosh quintet in the first two games of their four-game traditional little "civil-war series," playing at Corvallis Friday night and at Eugene Saturday night.

Oregon State rooks have not been defeated this season having upset Corvallis high school twice, Willamette freshmen twice, and Lincoln and Commerce high schools of Portland once.

Roy Lamb, rook coach, has built his quintet around Lefty Palmborg and Bob Bergstrom, former all-state prep stars from Astoria. Both men show promise of being two of the flashiest ball players to be seen here in some time.

Hec Benches Hanover
 SEATTLE, Feb. 1.—(Special)—Hec Edmundson is getting tough with his Huskies in order to prepare them for their two-game series with the Orangemen of Oregon State college this week-end. The regular line-up is being shifted nightly, and the bespectacled mentor is making every man fight for a place on the first five.

The latest addition to the "benched" list is Jack Hanover, stellar forward, who has given way to Joe Weber. Johnny Fuller, who has been warming the bench for the past week, will probably get back into the game Friday night.

FELLOW SOCIETY TO BE FORMED AT HARVARD U.

 was announced recently at university hall, following a joint meeting of the Harvard corporation and the board of overseers.

No Academic Regulations
 It was stated in the announcement that the junior fellows shall devote "their whole time to productive scholarship, and preparation therefor, free from academic regulations for degrees," and they "shall receive no credit for courses and shall not be candidates for any degree."

These stipulations carry out an oft-expressed objection of Dr. Lowell to what he had termed "the strangle-hold of the Ph.D.," which he regards as a prime detriment to the advancement of original scholarship among men who ultimately take professorships in American universities.

"Carry Intellectual Contagion" Establishment of the society

Endowment of Million
 The society will have its headquarters in Elliot house, where a special suite of dining rooms, common and serving rooms have already been built. The new plan provides for weekly dinners of the society to furnish "frequent social co-mingling of men who are engaged at one goal by different paths."

Funds to make possible the plan are a special gift to the university, the source of which has not been divulged.

Inasmuch as the stipend to each of the 24 fellows will average nearly $1,500; that free board and room may be estimated to cost 600 more a man; that the chairman is to receive $1,000 a year, and that the other elected senior fellows are to receive $500, the annual cost of the plan may be set at more than $50,000 annually, or the income from an endowment of more than $1,000,000.

New Coach

Warren "Tex" Tilson, who succeeds Jimmie Dehart as head football coach at Washington and Lee university, graduated from the same school by which he is now employed. His appointment gives the Virginia school an unusual circumstance in the gridiron world.

Shooting Match Result Of Last Week Unknown

Results of last week's matches are now being awaited from the mails by the University of Oregon rifle team, which held its second match of the season last week against the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Washington, and the New York Stock Exchange teams.

Scores of the first week's matches have arrived, and the team's showing was fairly satisfactory, having defeated the Natrona high school team of Casper, Wyoming.

Steady improvement is being shown by all members of the squad, so that chances of winning the third match are excellent. Sergeant Blythe, coach, reports that continued good work is expected in order that a successful showing will be made in the Corps area and Hearst Trophy matches to be shot in the near future.

RULING ON JUNIOR CERTIFICATE AT ELECTION

 a group of faculty and students to work out the provisions which are to be worked into the A. S. U. O. constitution by E. M. Pallett, registrar, the N. S. F. A. and myself," Mr. Constance said.

Mr. Constance said the purpose of the report was to make the regulations specific and to adjust faculty and student interpretations of the rule.

In referring to the six-term rule in particular, Mr. Constance said that it was decided by the faculty and student committee that it would apply to all students who have been here six terms or more and who might be aspiring to major offices.

The other ruling, he said, regarding students on probation means that these students must withdraw from all activities sponsored by the A. S. U. O. and must petition the scholarship committee to get permission to continue such activities.

F. B. Morgan, assistant professor of physics, has returned to his duties at the University after a 10-day absence, due to influenza.
