

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY

Here's our idea of the best athletic setups we've heard of this year—or for several years in fact. It came out in the papers a week or so ago, but if memory serves right, was given little attention. The idea is the University of California "double varsity" system of inter-collegiate football, to be put into operation next fall.

The new system is simply this: California will have two separate football elevens, each playing different schedules. The varsity squad will play the regular coast conference schedules, while the new team will play small schools and junior colleges within easy traveling distance of Berkeley.

The chief advantage of the new scheme is that it will provide competition for varsity players who, either through lack of ability or size, see little action in major games. Players on the traveling squad who show marked ability will be moved up to Bill Ingram's varsity, and vice versa.

The new team, to be called the "Ramblers," will compete under Pacific coast conference rules. Men playing with the Ramblers will be charged with a year's varsity competition. No extra coaches or trainers will be required for the new eleven, which will be entirely self-supporting.

Gordon Quarnstrom, new sports editor of the Washington Daily, pens the following: The Webfoot once were big and strong. The grade they'd gaily make it. But this year something has gone wrong. And all they do is take it.

ODDS AND ENDS: Mel Hein, all-American center of the championship 1930 W. S. C. football team, was named by Red Grange as the greatest center he ever encountered. . . . M. Hein played with Grange last week against the Green Bay Packers. . . . Malcolm (Ike) Franklin, former all-American at St. Mary's, is being considered for the College of Pacific coaching position. . . . it is doubted

Frosh-Rook Hoop Feud to Start at Corvallis Tonight

Orange Five Favorites In Yearling Tilt

Rogers To Take Thirteen Men To Corvallis

Beaver Babes Have Impressive Early Season Record; Palmberg Is Star

By JACK CHINNOCK
 Red Rogers' frosh hoopsters travel to Corvallis tonight to meet the rooks in the first battle of the 1933 "little civil war." Comparing pre-season records, the frosh are decidedly the under-dogs. The rooks have carried through with a perfect record, defeating such teams as Lincoln high of Portland and the Willamette frosh. The ducklings' record has been sealed by four defeats and only lists three victories.

The Orange babes have three outstanding threats. Palmberg, a forward, is left-handed, and extremely hard to stop. Bergstrom, guard, and Blacker, center, are the other two stars in the rook lineup. These three men scored 33 points last Friday when the rooks dropped the Willamette freshmen by a 45-30 score.

Rogers is putting the strongest lineup possible on the maple court to combat the galaxy of rook stars. Although it is doubtful as to whether Marvin Strobbe will be able to start, it is possible that he may crash the lineup sometime during the game. Clayton James will probably open in Strobbe's berth. The other forward position will be taken care of by Pete Buck.

Glenn Sanford and Stew Milligan, two all-around players, will be at the guard positions. The center berth will fall to Bill Harcombe, the lanky University high boy.

Rogers is taking a squad of 13 men to Corvallis tonight. Those who will make the trip are: forwards—James, Buck, Strobbe, Hampton, Butler, and Johnson; center—Harcombe; guards—Sanford, Milligan, Klouk, Humphries, McCredie, and Johns.

that Amos Alonzo Stagg will accept the berth. . . . George Sander, all-American half at W. S. C. last fall, has been elected president of the senior class at Pullman. . . . Baseball practice at U. C. L. A. opened this week.

Oregon State expects to win the northern division hoop crown. . . . so does Washington. . . . and also Washington State. . . . that is one thing we don't have to worry about. . . . Eugene has a novelty in the basketball line. . . . a team composed of seven brothers. . . . their names are Gustafson.

W. C. Hawley Presents Libe With Documents

The library has recently received from Congressman Willis C. Hawley a number of mail sacks of federal documents, some of which are not needed for the library files because they are duplicates. These are available for free distribution. Anyone interested is invited to see M. H. Douglass, head librarian. The shipment includes copies of the yearbook of agriculture, statistical abstracts, congressional records and directories, and memorial addresses on William Jennings Bryan and other men in public life who have recently died.

Article on John Straub Is Written by Onthank

Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, is the author of an article entitled "John Straub: Friend of 54 Years of Freshmen," which appears in the current issue of the "Alpha Tau Omega Palm," national fraternity magazine. In his story, Mr. Onthank tells of Dean Straub's inspiration to the University of Oregon.

Another shorter article about Dean Straub will appear soon in "Banta's Greek Exchange," an interfraternity journal.

Three 'Club' Steaks, Please

The three determined looking gentlemen pictured above need no introduction to Webfoot hoop fans. Bill looks pretty pleased even though his charges are deep in the cellar of the northern division. On his right is Kermit Stevens, two-year veteran, and on his left is "Cap" Roberts, leader of this year's team. The trio are off for Portland where they tackle the strong Multnomah club team in a non-conference struggle tonight.

Cougars To Take Court Vacation To Make Grades

Jack Friel Gives Players Four-Day Layoff To Do Stuff in Classroom

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, February 2.—A four-day moratorium on basketball practice has been granted by Coach Jack Friel while the players attack final examinations of the semester. The Cougar hoopmen will resume practice Friday afternoon and in the meantime they will endeavor to score a goal in the classroom instead of on the maple court.

The next games on the Washington State schedule are four contests with their powerful University of Washington Huskies. The first half of the series comes Friday and Saturday of next week at Seattle followed by a pair of games at Pullman February 17 and 18. At present Washington State rests in second place in the northern division standings, just a fraction above Oregon State.

Faculty Makes Decision
 The faculty at a meeting held Wednesday decided to include the medical school in the list of minor faculties whose representatives make up the academic council. The medical school will be represented by three members as are the schools on the campus.

Women's Sports

By ROBERTA MOODY

The Gamma Phi basketball crew set up 36 points to Hendricks hall's 8 in a scheduled game Thursday afternoon.

Miriam Stafford, playing a fast game, dropped in 18 points for the Gamma Phi.

The Pi Phi's barged through to a 15-to-7 victory over the Alpha Delta Phi in a basketball game Thursday at 5, in Gerlinger hall.

Chi Omegas forfeited the swim scheduled for Thursday to Sigma Kappa.

There will be a social swim tonight.

Co-op Has New Books

The Co-op book balcony has received a consignment of new, recently off the press books. Among the most outstanding books, the ones "which everyone is talking about," according to Miss Roberts, manager of the book shop, are: "Ann Vickers" by Sinclair Lewis; two new plays, "Cavalcade" and "Design for Living," by Neel Coward; "Imitation of Life" by Fannie Hurst; "Mulliner Nights" by P. G. Wodehouse; and "Dinner at Eight" by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufmann.

Ducks Invade Rose City For Practice Tiffs

Commodore Bill Will Use New Attack

Two-Game Trip To Give Reinhart Line on Chances Against Beavers February 7

Commodore Bill Reinhart sends his Oregon hoopsters against the Multnomah club quintet in Portland tonight in a determined effort to show court fans that the Webfoots can win a basketball game. Tomorrow night the Oregon five tackles the tough Union Oil team in the Rose City.

The Multnomah club outfit has twice this season fallen an easy prey to the sharpshooting Beavers of Oregon State, and the Webfoots' chances with the boys from Corvallis may be gauged from the outcome of tonight's tiff.

System Changed

Reinhart plans to use an entirely different kind of attack against the independents tonight, and has shaken his starting line-up around a bit to make the new style of play more effective. Bill Berg has been looking great in practice the last few nights, and will probably get the call over "Spook" Robertson at guard.

Kermit Stevens has completely recovered from his knee injury, and should be in at his old position in place of Bob Miller, who has been filling his shoes. The rest of the regular line-up remains intact with Jim Watts and Gib Olinger sure to be among the starters along with "Cap" Roberts, who will lead the Webfoot invasion.

Beaver Tilts Eyed

Other members of the squad who will make the trip are Bob Miller, Red Rotenberg, Roland Rourke, Jack Robertson, and Hank Simons.

The week-end games will give Reinhart a line on his material available for the "civil war" with Oregon State, the first game of which is scheduled for next Wednesday night. Victories at Portland should give the Ducks confidence, the lack of which has played no small part in their poor conference showing to date.

Anna C. Newell Will Be Guest of Campus YW

Anna G. Newell, dean of St. Margaret's house in Berkeley, California, will be in Eugene February 13 and 14, and will be an especial guest of the campus Y. W. C. A. and of the students who are members of the Episcopal church. Dean Newell will be featured in Y. Programs and will have personal conferences with any girl interested in church vocational work, worship, or the technique of worship. Dean Newell is well informed upon this line, since St. Margaret's house, of which she is head, trains girls for vocational work in the Episcopal church.

Makes Good

"Chappie" King's wide smile is probably due to the fact that his Franklin high Quakers are now riding the crest of the wave in the Portland interscholastic basketball league. This is "Chappie's" first big coaching job since he finished his work at the University, and he is making good with a bang.

'Chappie' Puts Franklin at Top In Hoop League

Ex-Oregon Athlete Does Well in First Year of Coaching in Portland

Charles "Chappie" King, ex-University of Oregon athlete, is making a name for himself in his first year of coaching in the Portland interscholastic basketball league. Chappie, who finished his college career last year, has led the Franklin high quintet through three straight victories to date, and promises to offer a real threat for the city championship.

At present his Quakers are tied for the lead in the prep hoop league with three wins and no defeats. The Lincoln Rallsplitters are the others in the top bracket. Going to the Portland school last fall, King became the junior mentor of the circuit, but soon proved his right to a place in the sun. His crew of Quakers have been showing steady improvement all season, and their present standing is a credit to the tutorage of the ex-Webfoot.

Orangemen Meet Huskies Tonight In Important Tilt

Only two teams will see action in the northern division hoop race this week-end while other contenders engage in practice tilts in preparation for the last-half dash for the league title.

Oregon State college opens her final campaign in the north tonight when "Slats" Gill sends his third-place Beavers on the floor against the league-leading Huskies at Seattle. Although below the Washington State Cougars in the percentage column, the Orangemen are picked as the team to stop the Seattleites if they are to be kept from their sixth straight pennant.

The Beaver mentor pins the the greatest share of his hopes on lanky Ed Lewis, versatile center, and Skeet O'Connell, speedy forward. Lewis, leading scorer in the northern division and named on all sides as all-coast material at the pivot position, is the real backbone of the States' attack, while O'Connell is said to be the fastest man in the league.

To counterbalance the threat presented by the Lewis-O'Connell combination, Hec Edmundson will probably use Johnny Fuller, flashy Husky leader, and Harold Lee, two sharpshooters who are dangerous from any place on the floor.

The probable starting lineups:
Oregon State Washington
 O'Connell.....F.....Weber
 Hubbard.....F.....Fuller
 Lewis.....C.....Antoncich
 Davis.....G.....Heaman
 Lenchitsky.....G.....Lee
