Scabbard and Blade Initiates New Event

Amid the numerous house dances which have been scheduled for this week-end on the social calendar, one finds a formal event which is new to the Oregon campus, the Scabbard and Blade dinner dance. Hitherto the military honorary has entertained with the military ball, and the dinner dance is a distinct innovation. It will be held at the Lee Duke cafe, Friday evening, starting at 8:30.

Widening Horizons

J. L. S.

North Dakota has for the first time in its history a woman speaker of the house of representatives. She is Mrs. Minnie D. Craig from Bismark.

Miss E. B. Reed of Portland has been recently elected to the position of general manager of the Pacific Co-operative Poultry Producers. So far as known by Miss Reed or her associates, she is the only woman in the United States who holds an office of this kind.

Bronx cheers and bombardments of hoots and hisses are out of place in Portland city council meetings, the Federation of Women's Organizations of that city believes. They adopted a resolution this week which set forth that "scenes of insubordination and disorder" had characterized recent meetings of the city council, particularly the sessions devoted to consideration of the repeal of the prohibition ordinance.

The appeal was directed to the mayor and the city commissioners "for maintenance of law and order, upholding their (the club women's) efforts for proper and dignified conduct of the city's business."

Thomas-Cathy Wed of interest to University students, is the marriage of Miss Florence Thomas to George Cathy in Albany a few weeks ago. Mrs. Cathy was a student at both the University and Oregon State college. Mr. Cathy was a student at the University. The couple will reside in the Laurelhurst apartments in Portland.

SELECTED COSTUME DRAWINGS ON DISPLAY

The first prize costume in a recent national silk exposition is a one-piece afternoon frock reflecting the colonial mode with its blue jacket and brass buttons. "Tea Leaves," the name of the old colonial quilt pattern, was the inspiration for one of the modern silk print designs in the present exhibition. This design has been purchased and is now being manufactured by C. K. Eagle & Co.

According to Ethel Traphagen: "Paris is today busy cabling about stripes that are utilized from tip to toe in the latest thing for spring and summer, 1932. The exhibition will be open for an indefinite period."

Mrs. Scholz Will Address Mass Meeting

Reed College Dean to Discuss Position of Women in Education

The Associated Women Students will hold their winter term mass meeting for all University women tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Alumni hall of Gerlinger building. Cynthia Liljeqvist, chairman of vocational conferences of the A. W. S., has procured as speaker for the occasion Mrs. Cheryl M. Scholz, dean of women at Reed college, who will speak on "Women in Education."

Mrs. Scholz is particularly well fitted to discuss the subject of women in education because of her present position and because she has been continuously active in educational circles since her graduation from the University of California. The late Dr. Scholz held the position of president of Reed college.

Mrs. Scholz recently made a two years' visit in Vienna, where she was in close contact with the educational system, studying it as one of her major interests. Many women students will recall her talk at the Theta Sigma Phi Matrix Table banquet last spring, in which she foresaw the increasing importance of women in all walks of life. Her fascinating personality and wide knowledge of her subject should make the discussion tomorrow afternoon profitable and interesting to every University co-ed.

Campus Betrothals Announced Recently

Two engagements which will prove of interest were announced recently upon the campus. On February 11, Miss Virginia Keeney announced her engagement to W. Gordon Smith, of Boston, Massachusetts, at a tea at her home given for members of Alpha Xi Delta, with which group she is affiliated.

The engagement of Miss Martha Patterson to Clarence Veal was made known to intimate friends of Miss Patterson at a Valentine dinner party given Tuesday evening at the Anchorage. Miss Patterson is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Veal attended the University and was graduated with the class of 1930.

Hurlburt Surveys Fashions From Eugene Dress Shops

By CAROL HURLBURT
"Here you go a-chattering and a-chattering about Paris styles, London styles, and styles out of Hollywood," said my guilty conscience to me the other day. "You know that you can't trot down to London town every time you want new shoes or fly to Paris for your gowns. Why don't you do something about it?"

For once I listened. I put on my best shade of lip-stick, and scouted the shops of Eugene. If you want to be a nice, well-dressed young person and if you find yourself in need of a pair of shoes, dash into Burch's Shoe store and look at their new shoes of black pigskin, with a smart French vamp. Sport dresses of rabbit's hair and the new lacy weaves you can find at Beard's.

But if you want your young man to feel protective toward you, would advise that you purchase one of the new spring prints at Densmore's. They come in chartrreuse, in grey, in beige.

If the person you are interested in making an impression upon happens, however, to be the dean of women, you'll find just the outfit you want at Gordon's. It is a suit made with a jaunty cape, a vest, and two skirts. Comes in navy, in grey, or in beige. Entering the sacred portals of McMorran's, I found the most appealing, swaggerish little leather jacket of the decade. Made in pastel shades of grey, beige, pink, blue, or dark green suede. Cost? Now don't get your hopes too high! It's marked at $7.50, $9.50, and $12.50.

Said I to my conscience, "Now I've done right by my public."

"And so to bed!"

Colonial Passes Given To Emerald Workers

Last week for the third time Ed Stanley won the Colonial theatre pass offered to the Emerald reporter submitting the highest number of stories for one week.

Stanley topped the list with 14 stories to his credit. His nearest opponent was Henriette Horak. The honor of being the best night editor went to Bob Butler, and Evelyn Schmidt was named the best assistant night editor.

Mary Jane Jenkins headed the list for the copyreaders.

WHAT'S WHAT

These brisk, young, amusing prints come first. Some of the smartest frocks of the season. The new paprika, chartrreuse, and brown, grey, red—1890 sleeves with demure necklines. And the price to you is only—
