U of O Medical Unit Cares For 14,638 In Year

Annual Report Released By Dr. Dillehunt

CLINIC WORK GAINS

Many Applicants for Admittance To School Forced To Wait; Grant Is Received

Showing in a graphic way how service has been increased to meet the needs of thousands of people who come to its clinics and hospitals for attention, and depicting the progress made in teaching and research, the annual report for the University of Oregon Medical school prepared by Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt, dean, has just been published by the University press here. It covers all activities under the direction of the medical school for the fiscal year 1931-32.

Outstanding in interest to the public are figures showing the service rendered by the staff for care of the sick. The clinical faculty during the year provided free medical and surgical care for 14,638 individuals, of whom 1615 were in the Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children, 4542 in Multnomah hospital, and 8481 in the outpatient clinic. In the clinic there were 82,138 visits during the year, approximately twice that of 1929, when there were 164 daily compared to 350 at present.

Applicants Turned Down
The high standard of the medical school as a place of preparation for doctors is shown by the fact that many more applications for admission were received than could be accepted. During the past year 357 prospective students (Continued on Page Four)

Halbert Will Give Violin Recital on Monday Evening

Event To Begin at 8 p. m. at Music Auditorium With Cora Moore As Accompanist

One of the very fine recitals of the year, in the opinion of Rex Underwood, University professor of violin, is that of Howard Halbert Monday night at 8 o'clock in the school of music auditorium. As accompanist, Cora Moore will assist in the program.

Halbert's recent appearance with the Eugene Gleemen and his solo last term with the University orchestra both received high approval from the attending audiences. His style, interpretation, and skill make his performance "top-notch."

The program which he will offer consists of "Sonata D-major," first movement, by Corelli; "Gavotte and Preludium" from "6th Solo Sonata" by Bach; "Out of the East," Kroll; "Hora Staccato" by Dinion-Heifets; "Homage Andaluza," Sarasate; "Pettuo Mobile," Ries; "Caprice Viennois," Kreisler; "Schon Rosmarin," Kreisler, and Wieniawski's "Aires Russo."

Rows of Pins Keep Records Of Books in High Hat Library

By HENRIETTE HORAK
"Pins, pins—millions of pins!" Green pins, yellow pins, red pins! High pins, low pins, in-the-middle pins.

This is not a song of a tailor, or a notions vendor, but a novel system of bookkeeping used by Nancy Roberts at the Co-op High Hat book balcony.

Off in one corner, under the watchful eye of Miss Roberts and out of reach of college students, hangs a wide strip of beaver board colored in stripes of green, yellow, and red; green for safety, yellow for "time up," and red for danger. Over its entire surface are line up, in soldier-like fashion, miniature hat pins.

On one side of this beaver board of many colors are inscribed the names of those who by paying $1, either in cash, check or money order, have become for a year the Hayward, and Hugh Rosson. Other guests were Johnny Kitzmiller, Art Morris, Dick Neuberger, Gene Shields and Tom Stoddard.

Bailey also announced that the lettermen would meet tonight to form into a rooting section for the Oregon-O. S. C. basketball combat. He urged all athletes to wear their sweaters.

Oregon State Students Guests at Affair of Wesley Club; Jewell and Casteel Speakers

More than 125 friends of Lewis Carroll and Alice of Wonderland attended the "Mad Hatter's" banquet given by the Wesley foundation at the First Methodist church yesterday evening at 6:30.

Mildred Bartholomew, director of the Wesley foundation at Oregon State college, and a group of students who are members of that organization were guests at the affair.

Dr. Robert C. Clark, head of the history department, has recently written a biography of William Paine Lord, former jurist and governor of Oregon, for the Dictionary of American Biography, published in Washington, D. C.

Among them are Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, prominent suffragist; Joseph N. Dolp, U. S. senator during the period around 1800; George L. Curry, territorial governor, 1885; John H. Mitchell, U. S. senator from Oregon; William Ladd, pioneer Portland merchant and banker; and Matthew P. Deady, federal judge and University regent.

Conklin Will Give Final Lecture on Love, Marriage

Psychological Marriage Aspects To Be Discussed in Villard Monday at 8:15 P. M.

Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the University psychology department, will conclude this year's series of love and marriage lectures Monday evening, February 20, with a discussion on the psychological aspects of marriage. The meeting will be held in the Villard assembly hall at 8:15.

Dr. Conklin spoke on the psychology of courtship two weeks ago, and this lecture will be a continuation of that idea, dealing, however, with the post-marital aspects.

This speech will tie up the series of four. It has been the effort of the personnel division to make these blend into one another to form one group. The social, biological, and psychological sides of the question have been considered.

Article by Unger, Norris To Appear

Word has just been received from the American Institute of Physics that an article, "Infra-Red Absorption Bands of Methane," by Will V. Norris and Dr. Hilbert J. Unger, members of the University physics staff, is scheduled to appear in the March 15 issue of the Physical Review.

This article is one of a series dealing with infra-red absorption bands. Dr. Unger and Professor Norris have been doing extensive research in that line for the last year, using special research material and apparatus which was formerly bought by the University research council. The last published article of the series appeared in the January 15 issue of the magazine, and was entitled "Infra-Red Absorption Bands of Ammonia."

Dean Schwering To Speak
Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, will speak at Corvallis high school Monday at 2 p. m. She will address the Girls' League of that school on the subject of "Vocation."

Harvard Law School Dean To Talk Sunday

The second of the series of Sunday afternoon lectures sponsored by the American Bar association will be given tomorrow at 3 p. m. over a nationwide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Tomorrow's address will be on the subject of "Training for the Bar." It will be delivered by Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard law school and a leader in his field. He has been called the father of the school of sociological jurisprudence, and because of his knowledge of this field of endeavor, the talk of this jurist should be enlightening.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Berkeley, Feb. 17.—(Special)—California's Golden Bears, defending basketball champions of the Pacific Coast conference, failed by one point tonight to halt the march of Southern California's dashing Trojans.

In a dramatic finish that saw a tense game go into an overtime period, the invaders from the south claimed a 28-to-27 victory just before the timer's gun. Led by Lee Guttero and dashing Jerry Nemer, the Trojans retained their undefeated record and loomed as prospective titlists in the southern division. They seem slated to replace the Bears as pennant winners. A victory tomorrow night for the Trojans will give them the title.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17.—(Special)—While their neighbors, the Trojans, were closing in on the championship up north, U. C. L. A. suffered a 40-to-38 defeat to Stanford tonight and tumbled into the southern division cellar. The game was close throughout, but the Indians forged ahead in the closing minutes. It was Stanford's second conquest of the season.

Douglass Is Mum About Advancing Library Deadline

Definite Statement Will Be Made Monday; No Fundamental Change Is Likely

No definite statement concerning the possible change of library hours will be made until an official decree is announced Monday by the library administration, M. H. Douglass, University librarian, said yesterday.

In all probability, no fundamental change in the 8 o'clock deadline will be made because the reserve librarians grant special favors to students keeping books out later than the deadline if there (Continued on Page Four)

By BRUCE HAMBY (Emerald Sports Editor)

Now that Washington State has kindly lent the Oregon Aggies a helping hand by defeating Washington 34 to 26 last night, the Corvallis lads will invade McArthur court tonight and attempt to strengthen their first place position at the expense of Bill Reinhart's Oregon Webfoots.

Despite the fact that the contest is between the league-leaders and the cellar-tenants of the northern division, few odds have been given in favor of the Aggies. Too many upsets of championship bound teams by Oregon in the past has caused the dopesters to hesitate before giving out odds of any sort.

See the Freshmen!
Oregon State is one up on the Webfoots by virtue of a 31-to-21 decision at Corvallis last week. Oregon outscored the Beavers in field goals, but lost out when the Aggies made 17 personal fouls good for 15 foul conversions. The final two games will be played March 3 and 4.

Tonight's game will be preceded by a preliminary contest with Red Rogers' Oregon frosh meeting the Oregon State Rooks in the fourth game of the annual little "civil war." This encounter will start at 6:30, and the varsity battle will be started around 7:45.

Roberts vs. Turkey
Two of the northern division's outstanding centers and scorers, Cap Roberts of Oregon and Ed (Turkey) Lewis of Oregon State, are expected to provide the major portion of tonight's thrills. Both men are playing their last year of conference competition; both are centers and both captains of their quintets. In the first game Roberts held the high-scoring Beaver leader to one field goal, that being scored on a toss from the center of the court with only three minutes left to play.

But Roberts and Lewis will not steal the spotlight if Skeet O'Connell of Oregon State and Kermit Stevens of Oregon have anything to say. These two have been material aides in the performance of (Continued on Page Four)

Exclusive Study To Be Made Of Russian Economic System

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 17.—(Special)—A new and unprejudiced study of the government and economic system of Russia will be made this summer by a group of Americans under the leadership of a number of business men, educators, and journalists. The group, which is now being organized and is to be known as the "Russian Seminar," will give a month's study to conditions in the Soviet republic without benefit or hindrance of propaganda.

Among the members of the advisory committee for the analysis are Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States chamber of commerce; Stuart Chase; Prof. Bruce C. Hopper, Harvard university; Whiting Williams; Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade and vice president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; Prof. Samuel N. Harper,

Chicago university; Prof. G. T. Robinson, Columbia university; and Prof. D. C. Poole of Princeton. The group is to be recruited within a few weeks by the Bureau of University Travel, Newton, Mass., on a non-profit basis.

The seminar investigation will include both city and rural life, and will extend from Leningrad in the north to the Black sea and the Russian rivers in the south. The newly developed industrial cities along the Don and Volga rivers will be visited as well as the farm projects of the Ukraine. Following the Russian study, the group will go to the near east and the Balkans, observing conditions in Rumania, Albania, and later in Italy, as well as visiting Constantinople and Athens. The party expects to be gone from the United States during July and August.
