Campus Nuptials in Spotlight of Society

The spring term of every University year is always welcomed by the society editor of the Emerald, for it is the season of pin-planting, which leads into engagement and marriage announcements. Although this is not yet spring term, the atmosphere is prevalent, and two University marriages have been recently announced.

McFarland-Ellison To Wed

Of interest to a large group of University acquaintances is the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Ellison to George McFarland, which will take place in Portland on February 25. Miss Ellison, who has been employed at the Pacific Christian hospital, was a member of Pi Beta Phi at the University, and Mr. McFarland was affiliated with Sigma Pi Tau.

Wilhelm-East Wedding

Miss Louise Wilhelm became the bride of William East last Tuesday morning in a pretty church ceremony in Eugene. The young couple were both graduates of the University of Oregon, the bride being affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta and the groom with Delta Tau Delta. They will reside in Eugene.

Kappa Sigs To Hold Formal

The essence of formality will be lent the Kappa Sigma house dance this Saturday by graceful green palms and colored flood lights. Charles White is handling arrangements for the dance.

Chi Psi Will Entertain

Upperclass members of Chi Psi will entertain with a dinner at the chapter house Saturday night, followed by an evening of dancing at Lee Duke cafe. Stanley Haberlach will be in charge of the dinner.

Yeomen Plan Dance

Ye Olde Tavern, with huge fireplaces, small rustic tables, and all the other characteristics found in an English inn, will decorate the Craftsman's club on Saturday night when the Oregon Yeomen entertain with their winter dance.

Chi Omega Winter Formal

Silver scorpions, crabs, and other astrological symbols and zodiacal signs will decorate large side panels at the Chi Omega house Saturday evening, when the formal winter dance will be given.

Phi Sigma Kappa Affair

Phi Sigma Kappa will entertain with a formal dance at the chapter house on Saturday night. Hubert Totton and John McConnell are in charge of the dance.

health, diet, and instruction of the children. The nurseries are equipped with fine playgrounds, gyms, and airy sleeping porches.

Alpha Gamma Delta's philanthropic service is invested in two summer camps for undernourished children. They are located in Jackson, Michigan, and on the shores of Lake Erie in Canada. The Jackson camp was first established through the cooperation of local civic charities. Alpha Gams from all over the United States go each summer to Jackson and Ontario to work without pay at the summer camps. Thus the members of the fraternity give their own time as well as their chapters' financial support to this project.

Exchange Dinners Decline in Number

Exchange dinners are decreasing in number as the end of the term approaches and the more serious side of college comes to the fore. On Tuesday night Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained for faculty guests; on Wednesday night Sigma Kappa entertained with a dinner dance for personal guests, and Theta Chi underclass also entertained for personal guests.

Thursday evening Kappa Alpha Theta entertained for personal women guests, Phi Kappa Psi for Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Chi Omega for Phi Sigma Kappa, Alpha Phi for members of the faculty, Delta Delta Delta for Chi Psi, Gamma Phi Beta for Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Zeta for personal guests, and Sigma Pi Tau for Alpha Gamma Delta.

Phi Theta Honored Members of Phi Theta Upsilon, women's upperclass service honorary, and of Philomelete, hobby groups, and patronesses of the two organizations were entertained at supper Sunday night by Mrs. C. L. Schwering and Mrs. Alice Macduff. The supper was held in the dance room of Gerlinger hall, for about one hundred and fifty girls.

YWCA to Sell Holiday Buns During Week

City as Well as Campus To Be Canvassed by Corps Of Saleswomen

In keeping with the Lenten season, the Y.W.C.A. is instigating a sale of hot cross buns for 20 cents per dozen on the campus and in town during the coming week. Louise Barclay is in general charge and Mary Snyder in charge of finances.

On Saturday the buns will be sold at a booth in the McMorran and Washburne store, and during the week a sale in the campus living organizations as well as a complete canvassing of the entire town will be conducted to secure orders. Catherine Coleman is in charge of the city drive, Marigolde Hardison of the campus, and Virginia Hartje of the booth in McMorran's. Virginia Howard and Pat McKenna are in charge of soliciting employees of the store.

Women's Halls Give Two Social Affairs

On Tuesday evening Susan Campbell hall entertained with a dinner dance celebrating Washington's birthday. The tables were decorated with red, white, and blue candies symbolizing the occasion. Patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. Sinar, Miss Swenson, and Miss Stattsburgh.

Thursday evening Hendricks hall also entertained with a dinner dance, the decorations carrying out the spring idea, with pastel shades of green and silver. Mr. Karl Onthank was honored guest.

team leaves today for Seattle where the members will debate the question of "Socializing Medicine" with the University of Washington co-ed team.

Members of the Oregon team are: Geraldine Hickson, Jean Leonard, and Lois Smith. Last Friday two other members of the team, Pauline George and Frances Mayes debated the same question at the Yoncalla community church.

New Spring Styles Surveyed in Chat By Fashion Editor

For the last two weeks I've sung my hymn of hate, a song about how I hated the new trousers for women. A thousand apologies. Yesterday I went into Barnhart's, and there I saw my first pair of slacks. Not that I've changed my song to one of love, but I like them.

Barnhart's are also showing some particularly good-looking mannish suits. A double-breasted one with a dark jacket, a light skirt, and big courageous buttons quite took my heart.

But before I get any more involved, I must tell you about the tailored suits at McMorran's. They have all kinds of them, but most particularly the kind you'll need for school, for street, for traveling . . . eminently practical.

There's a joker in the pack! You can't wear most of these suits without a blouse, so I dashed up to Densmore and Leonard's to see what I could see in the way of blouses. I saw plenty! They have a whole new shipment of blouses, ranging from $1.95 to $2.95, the most youthful, the most enchanting, the most dainty young blouses you ever saw in your life.

But enough! After having looked into these matters, we went up to Margaret Coldron's shop in the Miner building, (formerly the French shop, you know). It was like going into a salon . . . pale, apple green walls, deep carpets, modernistic mirrors, a decided touch of individuality, which is characteristic of Miss Coldron, who not only sells individual clothes but makes them to suit your own particular type.

Philomelete to Hold Initiation On Sunday

Philomelete, a branch of Phi Theta Upsilon, service honorary, will hold initiation Sunday at 4:30 in Gerlinger hall, it was announced yesterday by Edith Peterson, president.

The purpose of the organization is to promote a closer spirit of friendship among the University women on the campus.

This group has been organized for about five years, but last year was practically inactive. Any women wishing to become a member should attend the initiation Sunday, Miss Peterson stated.

Mrs. Smith Guest Mrs. Linton Smith, national vice-president of Zeta Tau Alpha, was a guest of the local chapter this week. Mrs. Smith, who, returning from a trip in the East, is visiting chapters en route to her home in Los Angeles, California. On Thursday evening, Zeta Tau Alpha entertained in her honor with a formal dinner.

Dr. Rosalind Wulzen Likes Pets as Well as Research

(This is the second of a series of interviews with Oregon women who have earned the degree of Ph.D.)

By ELINOR HENRY

On the top floor of old Deady hall, in a tiny office at the end of a long corridor lined with biological specimens in glass cases, the reporter found Dr. Rosalind Wulzen, dark-haired little scientist and assistant professor of zoology. "I'd much rather talk about someone else," she remarked, smiling.

The teacher whose influence decided her career was Jacques Loeb, one of the most famous biologists of his time, under whom Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Moore also studied. "I learned to appreciate what research is from him," Dr. Wulzen stated. "The main value of the Ph.D. is the training one gets in research. You are a pioneer in your subject."

Miss Wulzen's hobbies are caring for animals and taking long trips to her automobile. Her pets are two dogs, Poochontas and Lorna Doone. In the little building back of the white research "shack" on Onyx street, Dr. Wulzen keeps her guinea pigs, rats, and chickens, which are used in her research work on nutrition.

She was born in Oakland, California, on October 6, 1882. She attended public school in Oakland and graduated from the University of California in 1904. After teaching two years in high school, she went back to the university, intending to study medicine. It was then that she studied under Dr. Jacques Loeb, who advised her to specialize in zoology. She received her M. S. degree from California in 1910, and her Ph.D. in 1914. From 1909 to 1913 she was head of the department of biology at Mills college. She was on the University of California faculty from 1914 to 1928, when she came to the University of Oregon.
