Lewis At Top Of All Coast Hoop Scorers

Orange Center Out To Get New Point Record

Piper, Bruin Sharpshooter, Leads Race in Southern Division; Lewis Far Ahead

Ed "Turkey" Lewis, bean-pole center of the league-leading Oregon State Beavers, continued far in the lead of individual scorers in the northern division, it was revealed by figures announced yesterday.

Lewis' total of 157 points scored in 14 games also puts him in a favored spot to set a new high scoring record in the northern division. The present mark, held jointly by Harold Stowell of Idaho and Huntly Gordon of Washington State, is 171 points.

Skeet O'Connell, another Orangeman, has chalked up 98 points to stay in second place ahead of "Cap" Roberts of Oregon, who has amassed 93 counters in 12 games.

Employment of labor does not depend on a given amount of jobs which are distributed among a fixed number of workers.

"On February 16 the Oregon senate passed a bill prohibiting the sale of prison-manufactured goods in the open market. This step is intended to protect workers against the competition of prison labor, but the motive behind the measure, the belief that any man working thereby deprives another man of a job, is a monstrous fallacy which completely ignores the fact that one man's labor may also create demand for the other man's services or products.

Dozen Yearlings Given Numerals For Season Play

Twelve freshmen broke into the lineup in the rook series to earn their numerals. Seven of them made their numerals in the first game and the others got in the later fracas.

Glenn Sanford and Stew Milligan played the most time for the frosh, each working 155 minutes of the 160. Another iron-man was Big Bill Harcombe in the center position.

Pete Buck led the frosh in scoring, ringing up a total of 32 points, four ahead of his nearest competitor, Milligan.

Milligan was the tough boy for the frosh, committing 11 personal fouls. Big Bill Harcombe took second for the doubtful honor with eight, just one ahead of Sanford.

Coach Rogers' outfit proved their shooting eyes when they made 19 out of 40 free throws against the farmers.

Those who made their numerals are Pete Buck, Clayton James, Bill Harcombe, Glenn Sanford, Stew Milligan, Flash Stroble, Norm Hampton, Fletch Johnson, Hugh McCrede, Bunny Butler, Bud Johns, and Frank Levings.

NEW SERVICES TO BE OFFERED STATE EDITORS

Several limitations will govern the service. Dean Allen said they were necessary because of the youth of the experiment and other entangling facts.

The new project is offered as an experiment with the cooperation of the school of social sciences, and it is not desired to publicize it widely nor expand it greatly until it has proved its practicability and worth.

Restrictions Listed 1. Rush jobs will not be accepted. The work is in part for the students' educational benefit, and time must be allowed for him to test his procedures.

2. Researches are for the present restricted to questions that are public in their nature and either new in a controversial stage or in the editor's opinion likely soon to become controversial, and investigations will be undertaken only where, in the judgment of the faculty, there is sufficient material available in Oregon libraries to justify the student's expenditure of time and effort.

3. Reports furnished to the editor will consist of a definition of the problem, a list of the best available books, pamphlets, documents, and magazine and newspaper articles bearing on this problem, with data as to where they may be obtained.

4. In Minnesota the state penitentiary has a well-organized prison industry, contributing $3,000,000 annually toward its own support and the state treasury, thus relieving the taxpayers by that amount.

5. Some day, when saner economic concepts prevail, the public will insist that prisoners support themselves, instead of paying a huge dole in order to keep them idle.

6. The prison factory of Sing Sing produced nearly $300,000 in 1932. In Oregon it is the taxpayer who feeds and maintains the prisoners at an annual cost of $400,000.

7. However, there was some relief on the other side of the scale, for in the same exam one student received 11 points and several had 33.

Bronx Cheer in Basketball Must Go, Says Kansas Coach

(Editor's note: Here are printed the sentiments of one of the country's outstanding basketball coaches on the subject of rowdiness in the stands at hoop contests. The remedies herein suggested might well be applied to the booping problem at Oregon.)

LAWRENCE, Kansas, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Baiting of officials by college basketball crowds will be discussed at the spring meeting of the National Basketball Coaches' association and the joint rules committee.

Against Booping

Dr. F. C. Allen, veteran athletic director and coach of the University of Kansas, who was a leader in the major change in the basketball rules last year—adoption of the 10-second regulation—has come out in opposition to blatant rowdiness expressed in the form of booping, hissing, and the well known Bronx cheer.

"While stalling had its drawbacks," Doctor Allen says, "I think that booping and rowdiness in basketball crowds are getting so bad that unless definite steps are made to curtail them, they will kill the game.

"It seems all wrong to me that we permit the public, because it pays some money, to deride, cajole and abuse the officials."

The Kansas coach, who is district chairman of the N. C. A. A. rules body, has a remedy: "Serve notice to the public that booping will not be tolerated," he says; "that it is considered un-sportsmanlike, that anyone found booping will be escorted to the box office, and after his money is refunded he will be asked to leave the building.

"I expect to bring this up at the meeting of our national association in New York in April and I also expect to bring it up at the joint rules committee meeting.

"In my opinion, this is the next big drive to put on."

Penn University Student Missing Since January 6

Henry H. Gibbs Disappears After Making Threats of Suicide; Memory Lapse Feared

A letter received by the Emerald editor this week from H. C. Gibbs, 1821 Newton street, N. W., Washington, D. C., requests that all students be on the lookout for his son, Henry Huntington Gibbs, a 20-year-old sophomore at the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania, who disappeared from that institution about 4 p. m., January 6, 1933.

Young Gibbs vanished after sending letters to his father and to W. Chattin Wetherill, director of student welfare at the university, threatening suicide and stating that his body would never be found.

It is feared that he has suffered a lapse of memory from a nervous breakdown due to overstudy and financial worry.

Gibbs is a tall, blond boy, six feet, three or four inches tall, and weighs from 135 to 145 pounds. He has light golden-brown hair and grey-blue eyes. His left arm is slightly crooked from a break one inch above the elbow.

At the time of his disappearance, he probably wore a dark blue suit with a double-breasted coat, a dark overcoat, and either black or tan shoes.

Any information leading to knowledge of the whereabouts of the missing student will be appreciated by his father and by Mr. Wetherill.

Pinkstaff Startles Physics Staff With 100% Quiz Paper

A miracle has happened, and every member of the physics staff is tottling on the verge of utter bewilderment.

For the first time in the memory of professors, a student has written a perfect paper in physical science!

The lucky (or should a feat of such brilliance be termed "lucky"?) student is Gay Pinkstaff, freshman, social science major. In an hour exam in the survey of physical science, out of 136 possible points, Pinkstaff made a total of 136.

Eight members of the physics staff corrected the papers—and even eight critical, unbelieving pairs of eyes could find no mistake. A perfect paper in physical science!—there was never such astonishment among graders.

However, there was some relief on the other side of the scale, for in the same exam one student received 11 points and several had 33.
