

Students Will Vote At Special Election Friday

Important Amendments On Ballot

VICE-PRES. IN CHAIR

Place of Voting To Be Announced; Moving of Polling Dates Is Included in Proposals

Amendments to the A. S. U. O. constitution will be voted on by the students at a regular student body election Friday, it was announced yesterday by Bob Hall, president.

One of the principal amendments provides for advancing the date of nominations from the last Thursday in April to the second Thursday in April, with election of officers to follow three weeks later. Hall said that moving up elections would "provide courses in which the newly elected officers would receive better training in their respective duties."

Fresh Poll Move Up

Another important amendment provides for freshman elections to be moved closer to the beginning of school in order to minimize drawn out political campaigns. Class identity for activities and voting purposes will be rated according to the records in the registrar's office.

Bill Bowerman, student body vice-president, will be in charge of the elections, Hall stated, and the place of voting will be announced later in the week.

Following are the proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws of the Associated Students:

A. S. U. O. Nominations and Elections

To amend article II, section 1, to read:

There shall be two regular meetings of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon each year. The first meeting will be held the second Thursday in April of each year, in which nominations will be made as herein provided. The second meeting shall be held three weeks after the first one. At this meeting the newly elected officers shall assume their respective offices, after appropriate installation. The secretary of the Associated Students shall cause a notice of each of the above meetings to be printed in the Oregon Emerald for three consecutive days immediately preceding each.

YMCA Candidates for Offices Are Nominated

The nominating committee of the campus Y.M.C.A. met Sunday and selected the following men for candidates for officers to serve during the year.

President, Leslie Dunton and Howard Ohmart; vice-president, Bill Gearhart and Bill McNutt; secretary, Tel Pursley and Verne Adams; treasurer, Jay Wilson and Clark Irwin.

Those who made a financial pledge are considered members and have the privilege of voting for the incoming officers.

Miner Brothers Perpetuate Name By Recent Action

They're in the seventies but they call themselves the Miner boys, these donors of the building bearing their name as an endowment for business research.

W. E. and H. T. Miner are direct descendants of Mayflower pilgrims. The family had found its way west as far as Wisconsin; in 1923 the Miner brothers made the last lap to the West when they came to Eugene.

Neither of the brothers had relatives to whom to leave the large office building. They wanted to do something to create a monument to the Miner name, they wanted to do something worth while, and they wanted to be freed from the responsibility of the management of the building. The University received the endowment.

The Miner building was the product of boom times. The Miner brothers were the owners of extensive timber lands and operated their own saw milling establishment back in Wisconsin. Upon their arrival in Eugene they began a large contracting business, building a number of beautiful homes.

They noticed that there was no modern office building in Eugene. At the same time, the telephone company was conducting an industrial survey and finding bases for hope of a greater Eugene. The estimate was that by 1940 Eugene would be a city of 40,000.

The Miner brothers constructed the largest office building in Eugene, with great confidence in the future, and called it the Miner building. Saturday it was accepted by the state board of education as a gift for business research.

John R. Mez Lectures Before Church Group

Dr. John R. Mez, former professor of political science at the University, who recently registered a letter of protest in the Oregonian against the "Buy at Home" movement in America and in foreign countries, and against the high protective tariffs in effect in this country spoke before the adult class of the Congregational church Sunday morning.

He emphasized the fact that high tariffs defeat their purpose and destroy foreign trade, which is an essential factor in the economic life of any nation.

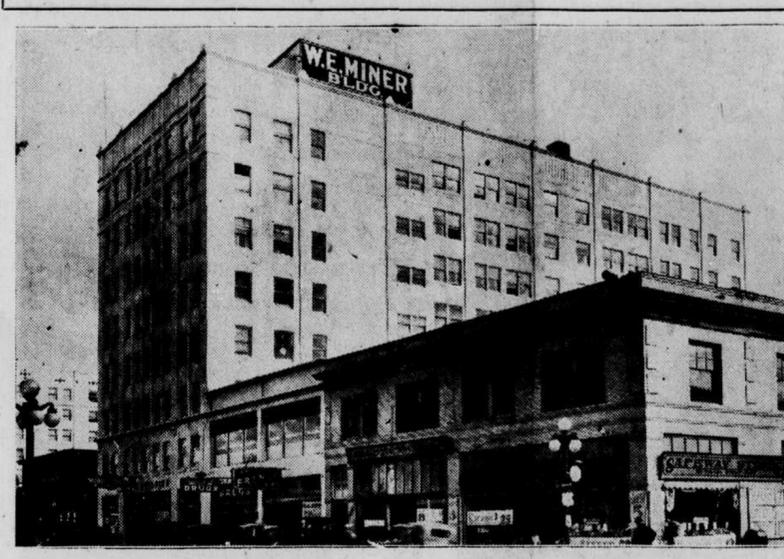

John Spittle To Give First Recital of Term

Tonight John Spittle, sophomore tenor, will give his first recital of this year. Kenneth Roduner, who has been presented in recital this term also, will accompany him.

Mr. Spittle offers an impressive program. Beginning with "Caro mio ben," Giordani, he continues with "All' Acquite di gloria," Scarlatti; "Sente nel core," Scarlatti; "Was ist Sylva," Schubert; "Nur wie die Sehnsucht kennt," Schubert; "Wanderer's Nachtlied," Schubert; "Still wie die Nacht," Bohm.

As a third group Mr. Spittle sings Siegmund's "Liebeslied," from Wagner's "Die Walkure." His last group consists of "The Cloths of Heaven," Dunhill; "Blue Ae Her Eyes," Watts; "Go, Lovely Rose," Carpenter; and "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby," Clay.

Donated to University

The W. E. Miner building, given as an endowment to the University of Oregon by W. E. and H. T. Miner. Announcement of the gift was made Saturday. The building, an eight-story structure, is the largest and most modern office building in Eugene. The income derived from rental will be used to provide a chair of business research in real estate and insurance, which will be occupied by C. L. Kelly, professor in business administration.

Lindstrom Says Discriminatory Charge Is False

Domas Dismissal Held Economy Move; Not Against Any Action of His

That I. Domas was discharged from the University multigraphing department because of affiliation with the cooperative farm north-east of Eugene, as Domas is reported to have implied, was denied yesterday by Orville Lindstrom of the University business office, and a complaint that the monthly bulletin of the farm was being printed with University equipment was described as "much overstated," by Alton Bristol, manager of the department, who is also a member of the farm.

Domas had been filling in for the past several months at the department for Bristol, who was on leave of absence, and who has also been discharged. Bristol has been employed by the department since 1929.

"Domas was released here in the interests of economy and efficiency, just as many others have been," Lindstrom declared. "His connection with the cooperative farm enterprise had no bearing on the matter. Our attention has been frequently called of late to the tardiness with which the multigraph department has turned out jobs, and to the high rates charged to the departments. We believed a change was required and made it with no thought as to the political or social affiliations of the person involved."

In regard to the complaint that University material was being used for purposes of the farm, Bristol said, "Last year when the farm bulletin was started, we arranged with Mr. Paul Ager, then comptroller of the University, to do our work in the University mimeographing room."

"We furnished our own paper, ink and materials. In return for the use of the University's equipment," Lindstrom said.

Tonqueds To Hold Election Tonight

The annual election of officers of the Tonqueds, organization of Eugene women attending the University, will be held this evening at the monthly meeting of the group at the Westminster house, 7:30 o'clock.

The candidates nominated by the nominating committee are as follows: president, Helen Garrison, Catherine Coleman, and Bernice Ingalls; vice-president, Peggy Nebergall and Lois Margaret Hunt; secretary, Roberta Moody and Mary Jane Jenkins; treasurer, Jean Lewis and Mae Schnellbacher. The presidential candidates have all been active on the Tonqueds council during the past year, as has been Miss Hunt. The other candidates have been willing workers on various committees, according to Katherine Liston, president of the group.

Nominations may also be made from the floor at the meeting this evening, it has been announced. The nominating committee, appointed by the president, included May Masterton, Margaret Bean, and Genevieve Dunlop.

Installation ceremonies will be held for the new and old officers before the end of the term.

Theatre, Dance Tickets Offered In Shine Contest

GAMMA ALPHA CHI, women's national advertising honorary, will give a free ticket to the Fashion dance to the woman selling the most Junior Shine tickets; and Glen Godfrey of the Colonial theatre has offered a week's pass to the man selling the most tickets, Hubert Totton, general chairman, announced last night.

Jane Cook and Glen Heiber, co-chairmen in charge of tickets, stated that tickets will go on sale in full force today. One thousand tickets were distributed among 60 sellers last week, said Totton.

A list of those who will shine shoes will appear in tomorrow's issue of the Emerald, which will give the time and place where they will work.

Helen Burns, in charge of women's publicity, is preparing to have women sellers appear in riding habits, which was also in vogue last year. If official sanction can be procured, women will announce the sale of tickets in all living organizations at lunch time today and Wednesday.

In case of rain, Totton said, the shine will be postponed until the following Wednesday. Each living organization will be notified early Wednesday morning if the shine is called off.

Dance To Be Discussed At Soph Meet Tonight

The sophomore class will hold its last meeting of the term this evening in Villard hall at 7:30, it was announced yesterday by Bill Davis, class president.

A chairman for the Whiskerino Shuffle, to be held next term, will be announced, Davis stated. A financial report will also be made, and a vigilance committee to keep the sophomore men from shaving will also be selected.

Nancy Archbold, who has been selected as the new class secretary, will be introduced. Miss Archbold is replacing Blanche O'Neill, who left school last term.

Miner Building Given To U of O As Endowment

Office Structure Placed In Trust

ANNUAL NET $15,000

Business Administration School To Receive Benefits of Gift; Kerr Gives Approval

The W. E. Miner building of Eugene, an eight-story structure located in the heart of the business district on Broadway between Oak and Pearl streets, was today placed in trust as an endowment for the school of business administration of the University of Oregon by its owners, W. E. and H. T. Miner. The building is one of the largest in this city and occupies a lot 60 by 100 feet. An adjoining annex of two stories was made a part of this gift.

The building, which cost approximately $300,000 when it was erected in 1924, will be continued as an office and business building. The University will not immediately realize any revenue from the structure, but after a couple of years will have coming sufficient funds to begin the work under the endowment, which provides for a chair of real estate and insurance and for research work. A portion of the income at present will go to the Miner brothers and heirs and to amortize the incumbrances now against the property.

$15,000 To Be Income

Eventually the entire income, estimated at $15,000 annually, will all be available for the school of business, to be used in teaching and research in real estate, insurance and municipal problems.

The chair of real estate and insurance will be held by C. L. Kelly, professor of business administration, who with the owners worked out the details of the transaction. Mr. Kelly will also manage the building for the Security Savings and Trust company of Portland, which is trustee for the endowment.

Announcement of the endowment was made late last night by Mr. Kelly, who yesterday went to Portland to obtain final approval from the board of higher education. The project had already been approved by Chancellor W. J. Kerr.

The Miner brothers came to Eugene.

Prof. Erb Selects Economic Topic

"Some Proposals for Economic Recovery," is the title of the lecture to be given by Donald Erb, professor of economics, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in Villard hall, as the fourth of a series of faculty lectures, given under the auspices of the committee on free intellectual activities.

These lectures, the first of which was given February 8, and one of which has been given every Wednesday since, are intended to increase interest in the University of Oregon faculty and the subjects in which they are most interested.

Everyone is free to attend, advanced students and members of the faculty are especially invited.

The lectures which have preceded tomorrow's are as follows: "The New Mechanics," by Dr. A. 7. Caswell; "Recent Developments in the Understanding of Personality Structure," by Dr. H. H. Dixon; "Formative Period of the Development of American Universities," by Dr. H. R. Sheldon. The series will be concluded with Dr. L. S. Cressman speaking on "Some Anthropological Problems of the Pre-history of the Pacific Northwest."

Freshmen Plan Meet At 7:30 This Evening

A meeting for all freshmen and anyone wishing to attend is being sponsored by the Men's Frosh commission this evening at 7:30 in room 105, Commerce hall. It is especially for frosh, but any one may attend.

Westminster guild will have an open meeting tonight from 9 to 10. W. G. Beattie will review the book, "Rethinking Missions," as a part of the program.

Alpha Kappa Delta will meet tonight at the Pi Beta Phi house at 8:00.

Frosh commission meet at 4 today with Mary Ella Hornung.

'Quite Practical'

That's what Harrison Val Hoyt, dean of the school of business administration, said yesterday about the Emerald's plan for reduced living costs. He remarked that the proposal was financially feasible and quite practical.

Ten Students on Ballot for YWCA Yearly Elections

Tomorrow Will See Polling for Offices; Binford, Hickson Run for President

Ten names are now ready to go on the ballots for the campus Y. W. C. A. yearly elections tomorrow. The list of nominees was made known yesterday by Margaret Norton, executive secretary, after it had been completed by a senior nominating group which handled all interviews for the jobs.

For president, Helen Binford and Geraldine Hickson have been nominated; vice-president, Gwen Elsemore; secretary, Elizabeth Bendstrup and Marjolde Hardison; and treasurer, Mary Snyder. The alternate candidate for the general presidency becomes head of the Upperclass commission next.

Rael Will Speak At Spanish Club Meet Tomorrow

La Corrida de Todos, campus Spanish club, will hold its term meeting tomorrow evening from 7:45 p. m. to 8:45 p. m. at the Westminster house, it was announced yesterday by Laura Goldsmith, president of the organization.

Juan B. Rael, instructor in Spanish, will give a talk on "Mexican Folk Tales," a subject on which he has spent considerable time in research in Mexico.

Marie Saccomano, soprano, will favor the group with several vocal selections. The remaining time will be given over to singing of Spanish songs.

The club, stated Miss Goldsmith, serves as a nucleus for sponsoring and maintaining an interest in the culture, language, and customs of Hispanic life. The faculty and students meet to informally chat and sing in Spanish.

Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

Emerald Cooperative Living Plan Approved by Students

Students interviewed yesterday were heartily in favor of the Emerald's plan for living at reduced costs. In fact, one ingenious student said: "Well, Hoover washed dishes at Stanford, why shouldn't I?"

Louise Webber, president of the A. W. S., stated: "I am in favor of the cooperative plan. The A. W. S. has been considering putting it into effect in a modified form for women and expect to do so within the next year."

Bill Russell stated: "I believe the proposed plan to be an excellent one because it would give a large number of students an opportunity to continue school who would probably have to discontinue their higher education. I happen to know two persons who would be able to resume their work spring term if such a plan as this were adopted."

Betty Ann Macduff: "I approve of this proposal, particularly if it leads eventually to the establishment of a permanent cooperative house for students of limited means. Candidates for

Emerald Plan Is Sound, Remarks Dean

OTHERS IN FAVOR

Hollis, Casteel, Crumbaker, and Dahlberg Express Approval Of Low-Cost Proposal

By ELINOR HENRY
"The Emerald plan is financially feasible," Dean H. V. Hoyt of the school of business administration said yesterday afternoon. "There is no doubt in my mind that the plan could be worked out. Plenty of families are getting along on less. Students are doing it in small groups all over the campus, and the biggest problems of the larger group would be social, not economic."

The facilities of the home economics department of the University could be used to aid the group in management, Dean Hoyt believes. Heat, light, water, and other incidental expenses would be very low.

From Asst. Prof. W. A. Dahlberg of the English department came enthusiastic endorsement of the principle as outlined by the Emerald. "There is no more opportune time," he said, "for young men and women to work for a university degree than during this period of economic prostration. There are no jobs."

"Action Should Be Taken
"Consequently, if some provision can be made to keep the less fortunate students in school, that course of action should be taken. Such a program as the one proposed is entirely commendable," he concluded, "and should receive the support of everybody concerned."

A plea for permitting students to undertake low cost living plans was voiced by Dr. Crumbaker of the economics department. "If students are willing to make the necessary sacrifices involved in a project of this nature," he declared, "arrangements should be made to provide the necessary facilities. From my own experience and contacts I assume there is a definite need, although of course I have made no investigation."

Dr. Crumbaker recalled his own school days at Washington State college, where dormitories offered room and board from $10 to $12 a month. He observed that the low cost project at Pullman provided educational opportunities for students with limited budgets who would otherwise have been compelled to forego the privilege.

Educational Advantages Seen

The educational advantages of a low cost living plan were stressed by John L. Casteel, head of the speech division. "If any plan for reducing living costs for hard pressed students can be worked out, by all means let's have it. It would seem to me that it would make higher education available to many students who at the present time must either stay away from school or face the necessity of dropping out in the near future."
