

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY
THE PREP school edition of the tough Dr. Spears will be Oregon's guest today. This hard-boiled gent is Wade W. (Tubby) Williams, whose Lincoln high school baseball lads meet Johnny Londahl's frosh here at 3 o'clock. Mr. Williams is not only so tough that he's supposed to Wade Williams pack a paddle on the practice field, but it is rumored that he once went so far as to become engaged in a ferocious argument with the boisterous doctor.

Now Mr. Williams rates in high school circles as Buck Bailey rates in college athletics. He isn't quite as funny or capable of clowning as the Washington State coach, but he's quite a character. He shouts and yells at his young athletes in much the same manner as Editor Dick Neuberger's departed friend, the good doctor.

Lincoln boasts of having one of the outstanding baseball nines in the Portland interscholastic league. Most of the players are veterans, not only of high school competition, but American Legion baseball. Last year the Lincoln nine, coached by Williams, got as far as the Northwest finals.

But for once Oregon has a freshman nine that might give places. Johnny Londahl doesn't have hopes of establishing any such record as California's first-year nine, which has won 17 straight games. But Londahl does have one of the best looking outfits that Oregon has produced in years—at least on paper. The infield is composed of former prep and American Legion stars; the pitching staff is fairly strong and the outfield as good as could be desired. Today's game is the first test for the baby Webfoots.

Up around McArthur court the boys are preparing for the annual state interscholastic track and field meet, which will be held at Eugene for the first time next week-end, April 21 and 22. More than 30 prep schools have sent in entrance blanks and several hundred of the state's outstanding athletes will strut their stuff in Hayward field Friday and Saturday afternoon. Colonel Bill Hayward will be in charge of the meet, assisted by as many of his varsity trackmen as can be mustered.

Several of the state records are ones that college athletes would find hard to break. Take, for instance, the half-mile mark, set way back in 1912 by Vere Windnagle, competing for Washington high school of Portland, where he is now track coach. Windnagle circled the Hayward field track twice in 1:56.8. The mark has stood assault for 21 years. Another old time mark is the 220-yard dash record, set in 1913 by a fellow named Gorecky, a Columbia prep school runner. The mark, of 22.4, still stands.

Two of the present records are held by University of Oregon trackmen. Warren DeMaris, Oregon's hope for javelin honors, tossed the spear 201 feet 5.4 inches three years ago at Corvallis, for a mark that should stand for some time. Fred Nowland, another sophomore hope, holds the 120-yard high hurdle mark with a record time of 15.9. This was set in 1931, at Corvallis.

Frosh To Vie With Lincoln On Diamond

Thuneman Is Expected To Start in Box

Stroble May Be Shifted to First And Goff Will Start as Catcher

Last night arrangements were made with Wade Williams, coach of the Lincoln high team, by Johnny Londahl, coach of the yearling nine, to change today's game to a double header.

By JACK CHINNOCK
 This afternoon at 2 o'clock the frosh will cross bats with Lincoln high from Portland. Johnny Londahl's charges will have a chance to show what they have learned in the early season workouts.

Lineup Changes Planned
 Several changes in lineup have been contemplated for today's game, the first scheduled for the season. Marvin Stroble will probably be shifted back to first from the backstopping job, which he took over recently. Goff will probably step into the position left open by Stroble. The remainder of the infield will remain intact.

The outfield will be the same as that which was in the game against Eugene high the other day. Lueallyn in left, Hanley in center, and Bill Johnson in right.

Whittaker in Reserve
 The pitcher's box will be adorned by Thuneman, who has shown up well so far. He hasn't very much on the ball, but he more than makes up for it with his almost uncanny control. Verne Whittaker will probably be kept in reserve in case Thuneman gets into trouble.

Probable lineups:

Frosh	Lincoln
DeLaunay, 1	Linde, ss
Lueallyn, 1	Brewer 1
Gordon, ss	DesBouillions, lf
Copp, 3	Eastman, c
Thuneman, p	Strode, m
Johnson, rf	Anderson, cf
Stroble, 1	Pierce, 3
Hanley, m	Morris, 2
Goff, c	Jubitz, p

Geology Students Plan Coast Outing

A field trip to the coast is in prospect for the geology department some time during this term, according to W. E. McKittrick, graduate assistant in that department.

The jaunt will be made to the Coos bay region to study marine life, the geology of that land, and the new oil well. Coast land is interesting geologically since it is the oldest, and the Coos bay region is thought to be the oldest part of Oregon.

A study will be made of the marine life there in order to compare it with numerous fossils which have been found near Eugene. McKittrick says that much of this life will be found to be exactly the same, while others will be changed somewhat from the geologically old fossil remains found locally.

Two Frosh Earn Right To Join Sigma Delta Psi

All Interested See Mr. Cutler at Gym; Sixteen Now Working For Award

Tom Aughinbaugh and Dewey Carpenter recently qualified for admittance to Sigma Delta Psi, national honorary athletic fraternity. Both young men are freshmen in the University of Oregon.

Sixteen other athletes are working diligently to make the requirements necessary to become a member of Sigma Delta Psi. Any student who is not enrolled in this class and who is interested in this type of work may get in touch with Mr. Cutler at the men's gym.

Another track meet for old members and non-members will be held in the near future. The purpose of this meet is to improve the old marks and give non-members a chance to pass their tests.

Preliminary Tests Given
 Alice Hesler and Eleroy Stromberg, graduate assistants of the psychology department took their preliminary examinations for the master of arts degree, yesterday afternoon. Hazel Lewis and Raymond Adams, also department assistants, will be given their preliminary for the same degree next Friday.

Seven in Infirmary
 The infirmary is starting the Easter week-end with seven patients in bed. They are Phyllis Dent, Jack Kneeland, Ralph Vincent Mutton, Harry McCullum, Walt Caldwell, Frank Wilke, and Dorothy McLean.

Grad Teaching at Brown
 Word has been received that Lester F. Beck, former graduate assistant in the psychology department, has accepted a position as instructor in the psychology department at Brown university, Providence, Rhode Island. Beck has for the past two years been attending Brown on the Sharpe fellowship, and recently received his Ph.D. degree there.

Hopson Wins Two Dashes in Fast Time

P. Starr Takes Century in Varsity Run

Mason Upsets Nowland in High Hurdles; Jamison Makes Best Broad Jump

Despite cool weather which tended to leave joints stiff, varsity and freshman track candidates turned in better than average early season times in yesterday's trials. Only seven events were held, all but one of these being on the track.

Bob Hunter, varsity miler, turned in the best performance of the day when he showed his heels to a big field in the mile event to win in 4:32.5.

In the 100-yard dash Capt. Paul Starr easily outclassed a strong field in the varsity trials, while Walter Hopson scored a win in the yearling dash. Time 10.2.

Mason McCoy, letterman won by more than a yard from Fred Nowland in the 90-yard high hurdles. McCoy's time was 11.4 seconds.

Hopson Scores Second Victory
 Hopson scored his second victory of the day when he nosed out Art Holman in the 220-yard dash. The yearling speedster's time was 23 seconds flat.

The half mile event offered the closest finish on the program, when Chuck Dolloff failed to hold his lead and lost to Bob Ryan and George Scharf, who finished almost abreast. Scharf was awarded the victory. His time was 2:05.

Greenough Wins Quarter
 Tallant Greenough won the 440-yard dash in 53 seconds flat.

In the old field event of the day, the broad jump, Wayne Jamison leaped 21 feet, 11 1-2 inches to edge out Arne Lindgren, by half an inch.

Next week Bill Hayward plans to bear down on his spikebusters in preparation for the first meet of the season, the Oregon State relays, May 4.

Webfoot Nine Coming Into Form Quickly

Reinhart Concentrates on Pitchers, Outfielders

Best Infield Looks Like Chester, Hoag, Chatterton and Garbarino

By BOB RIDDLE
 With the first game of the 1933 season but two weeks off, the Webfoot nine, under Coach Bill Reinhart, is fastly rounding into shape. The present warm weather is helping a great deal in bringing the boys into condition.

Reinhart is drilling his men hard for the initial series with Columbia here, April 28 and 29. With the pitching and outfield departments taking most of the coach's time, there is also quite a battle on for the infield positions.

Clausen and Vail Promising
 The first base job has a two-year veteran, in Lee Chester, to take care of that post, and so far Chester has had little competition.

At second the story is much different, however. Chuck Hoag, a letterman from way back in 1930 has returned to the fold, set on taking the second base job. However, Wes Clausen, fresh from last year's frosh nine, and an ex-Jefferson high school all-star, is well in the money. Mickey Vail, another ex-Jeffersonian, who is turning out for the first time, shows lots of promise.

Chatterton Slated for Short
 "Jip" Chatterton, a veteran from the 1932 campaign, is head and shoulders above the rest of the short-stop contestants. Chatterton covered second last year, but has been moved to the new post because of his fine fielding ability.

Third base has brought forth another sophomore of great ability, Ernie Garbarino, who can both field and bat like a veteran.

Capt. "Duke" Shaneman will carry most of the catching burden this season. "Duke" is a steady receiver of no mean ability, and waves a heavy bat.
