

Nobody's Business

By BRUCE HAMBY
 ANYONE who believes that football players are the most abused athletes from a standpoint of time spent in practice might change their views after considering the time spent in practice by the Oregon basketball squad. Not quite two months after the finish of a long hoop season the Webfoot court stars are once more learning the fine points under the direction of Bill Reinhart.

Spring practice started last week and will continue with three workouts a week the remainder of the semester. Next fall similar workouts will be held. More than 25 reported during the first week and more are expected to turn out during the term. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights have been set by Reinhart, and regular attendance is not compulsory. Studies come ahead of practice this term.

Captain Gib Olinger will aid Reinhart in directing the activities of the candidates this spring. Reinhart plans to build his 1934 club around the seven returning lettermen—Olinger, Spook Robertson, Bob Miller, Jim Watts, Red Rotenberg, Ralph Terjeson and Bill Berg. In addition there will be Roland Rourke and Ed Kunkle from last season's reserves and Glen Sanford from the yearling five.

Reinhart claims to have a new "find" in Ron Gemmill, a transfer from LaGrande normal school. Gemmill is a star performer in both baseball and basketball. This spring he is taking his turn with the regular Webfoot pitching prospects. According to word from the playing field he has plenty on the ball and may land a regular assignment on the varsity. As a basketball player Reinhart believes he will provide plenty of competition for a permanent forward position. "He is fast and has a good shooting eye."

For the benefit of Oregon sporting fans, who, according to a certain nearby college paper, are the "poorest sports" it has ever seen, we reprint the following article from the Purdue university paper, anent boozing:

"For expressing disapproval, the 'boo' is mightier than the 'hiss,' according to Dr. J. O. Perrine, associate editor of the Bell System Technical Journal, who has compared the two noises on an oscillograph, a new instrument for testing the strength of sounds. "The strongest sound of the human voice, he said, is the good old college 'rah' and the weakest sound is the 'th' in 'thin.'"

Back at Northwestern university Dick Hanley, former Washington State college star and now football coach, has concocted what he calls a "jigsaw shift" for next fall's Maroon eleven. It is designed to baffle opposing linesmen and works this way:

When the players leave their huddle, they whirl about and line up momentarily in very unorthodox positions, with backs replacing guards, tackles at the end posts, and so on. Then at the quarterback's signal, the boys shift to positions from which play actually starts. The only fault with such a shift

Donin's Nine Trims Charles' In Torrid Tilt

Inter-Squad Practice Game Opens Fourth Week

Sophomores Show Class Both At Bat and Afield In Contest Ending 5 to 0

By BOB RIDDLE
 AN inter-squad scrimmage ushered in the fourth week of training for Coach Bill Reinhart and his Duck baseball squad yesterday, when Ike Donin's Brewers defeated the Stone Dries, led by Ed Charles, in a peppery five inning struggle, 5 to 0.

The Brewers, with Ike Donin holding down the pitching assignment, were composed of inexperienced players, most of them out for their first year. With Donin's slants proving quite bewildering to the losers, the Brewers landed on Charles in the third inning and went straight through the batting order, amassing a total of five runs.

Ivan Elliot, at shortstop, started off the inning with a nice two-bagger to deep center field. Whitaker hit to short, and on a fielder's choice both runners were safe, with Elliot stopping at third. Donin walked, and Clausen beat out a hit to short, scoring Elliot. "Tuffy" McCully then hit to third and Whitaker and Donin scored on a bad throw home. Richardson then singled through second tallying Clausen and McCully for the final runs of the inning, for Charles bore down and forced Beard, Vail, and Wishard to ground out in order.

Ducks Okay in Field
 Although a bit wild with their throws at times, the Webfoots looked fine on fielding the ball. Louis Garbarino, at third for the Dries, made a sensational one-handed stop of a hot grounder down the base line, ticketed for a sure hit, and recovered it in time for a force-out at second. Elliot, playing shortstop in place of the veteran Chatterton, besides starring at bat, worked faultlessly afield. All are sophomores.

Nearly half the total aspirants for the 1933 Webfoot edition were found to be ineligible. This proved a severe blow to both the Webfoots' chances this season, and also to their coach. Probably the loss that will be felt the most will be that of Don "Lefty" Weed, star pitcher. With a year's experience last year Weed was counted upon to win many games this season.

Reinhart Changes Lineup
 Yesterday's lineups were as follows: Brewers—Donin, pitcher; Whitaker, catcher; Wishard, 1b; Vail, 2b; Elliot, ss; Richardson, 3b; Beard, lf; Clausen, cf; and McCully, rf.

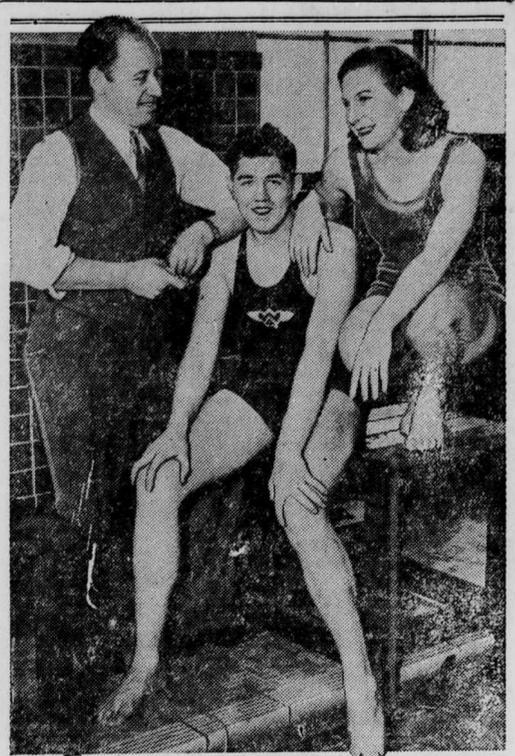

For the Stone Dries: Charles, pitcher; Shaneman, catcher; Chester, 1b; Hoag, 2b; Sears, ss; Garbarino, 3b; Hill, lf; Green, cf; and McKeligen, rf.

During the last two innings Reinhart changed the Brewer's lineup a bit, sending Hartley Kneeland, a left-hander, in to replace Donin. He pitched in fine form, allowing but one hit, a three-bagger by Garbarino. He died on third, however. Other replacements in the lineup were: Parker, 1b; Lucas, 2b; Reinhart, lf; Van Dyne, cf; and Morse, rf.

Practice tilts such as these are on tap every day possible until the first game the 28th, against the Columbia university nine.

would be the danger of baffling the Northwestern team as well as the opponents. It seems to me it would be very easy for a player to become confused with tackles, halfbacks and ends wandering about at random.

Varsity Gridders Start Scrimmage With New Plays

Callison Contemplates Making Of Changes In Lineup For 1933 Campaign

Midway through the fourth week of spring practice, Frank Callison's husky football aspirants have at last mastered the intricate plays that they have been working on and are having some great scrimmage sessions every afternoon.

Two teams have been turning out regularly and Callison has uncovered some new material to strengthen his line-up when the fall season begins. Most of the "finds" are in the line. Dwight Nielson, husky tackle on last fall's frosh team, looks like an able understudy, or running mate, for "Biff" Nilsson, veteran of two seasons. Bill Lundin will be giving the guards a run for their money, as will Hugh McCredie, a maverock fullback. In the backfield Whit Arey seems to be the shining light. He plays left half.

Regular practice will continue for the rest of this week and all of next, and will be followed by several weeks of pass practice—offense and defense. Callison plans on having several sets of ends, centers, and backs out, and they will do nothing but receive and knock down the spirals thrown by dead-eye passers.

 will apply also to Friday night following the "Farewell Folly." In the past it has been customary to have all-night permission, but if any attempt is made to do so this year senior privileges will be taken away for the remainder of the term.

Sport clothes will be in vogue for the week's entertainment with the exception of the Farewell Folly. Every member of the senior class is urged to attend the affairs of the week.

Starr Looms As Head Man In Northwest

Oregon Track Captain To Defend Sprint Title

Schomp, Jamison, Parke Complete Varsity Dash Material; Frosh Look Good

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of seven articles on Oregon's chances on the track and field this spring.)

By MALCOLM BAUER
 Webfoot sprint prospects do not look any too promising right now, but Colonel Bill Hayward can be pretty sure of at least one point-winner in each of the two dash events. He speedster upon whose shoulders will fill the responsibility of adding to the Duck point total in the 100 and 220 yard dashes is Paul Starr, two-year captain of Oregon's track squad, and the ranking sprinter of the Pacific Northwest.

Last year Starr finished the season undefeated, and climaxed a successful year with double victory in the 100 and 200 meter events in the Northwest qualifying rounds for the United States Olympic team. He doesn't seem to have lost any of his speed this spring, and in the handicap events two weeks ago overcame big disadvantages in both the 75 and 150 yard dashes to break the tape in both events.

Schomp Looks Good
 Ralph Schomp, who last spring transferred from Willamette University, will probably run next to Starr on the varsity sprint squad. Schomp was the speedster who turned in two first places in the novice meet early this spring. Hayward is busy developing his running form, and he may count for some much needed points in the short events.

A sophomore, Wayne Jamison, has shown vast improvement over his last year's marks in both sprint events. He is an exceptionally fast starter, and his best times are made in the shorter race. In the handicap meet, however, he clung to an 8-yard advantage in the 150 yard preliminaries to win his heat in 15.6, ast time for an early season performance.

Parke Has Drive
 Bob Parke, stocky California sprinter, about completes the list of promising dash men. He has plenty of drive, and is especially good at the 100 yard distance.

Things are much brighter in the frosh sprint lineup. Walter Hopson, sensational speedster developed in the south, heads a quartet of first class Duckling dash artists that are capable of holding their own in varsity competition. Hopson has done the century below the 10 second mark.

Howard Patterson, ex-Grant high flash, Dick Mears, and Charles Rickabaugh make up the group that promises to stack up points for the Oregon yearlings in both short events.

swinging ball should have been evident—but rather, it seemed to be going the opposite way. "Someone touched the wire!" asserted those students who had been guarding the table under the iron ball in the basement. "You kicked the table out of place!" responded those whose responsibility it was to prevent anyone from touching the wire.

There really wasn't any answer. The ball was just being contrary. "The earth's going the wrong way. It's rotating backwards," said one in disgust. "We're not wrong—it's the earth."
 All in all, it was a very difficult experiment. Maybe Professor Norris's class will have to take the rotation of the earth on faith after all.

Who's Who in Webfoot Athletics

By JACK MILLER

Mrs. Shaneman's little boy Le Roy, or more commonly known as "Duke", who will captain and catch for Bill Reinhart's Webfoot baseball team this year was born in Reading, Pa., on March 28, 1907.

Later on the Shaneman clan moved on to Coatsville, Pa., where "Duke" went to high school. In prep school Shaneman participated in football three years, playing guard and end; in baseball for four years, playing catcher, and was an All-Eastern Pennsylvania forward in basketball, in which he participated four years.

After graduating from high school in 1927, "Duke" followed Horace Greeley's advice and came west to live with his brother in Tacoma. Here the Webfoot diamond captain made a name for himself playing sandlot ball, and caught the eye of Bill Reinhart, who induced him to come to Oregon.

Shaneman entered the Webfoot institution in the fall of 1929 and participated in frosh basketball and baseball. In his sophomore year the "Duke" led the league with a .387 batting average. Duke hit the label on the horse hide for a .315 last spring. The native Pennsylvanian looks forward to a prosperous season for the Oregon nine.

Shaneman is a business administration major and hopes to get connected in the paper mill business with his brother in Tacoma, after he receives his sheepskin in June.

Four Are Pledged By Dramatics Honorary

Four students were pledged by the National Collegiate Players, dramatics honorary, at a meeting held yesterday at Johnson hall, it was announced by Dorothy Clifford, president.

The new pledges are Betty Burfington, Edwin Cruikshank, Charleen Purcell, and Michael Hogan. The date for initiation has not been set, but is expected to take place some time this spring.

Former O.S.C. Champ Will Play Johnson Today

KURT BERNDT, former Oregon state tennis champion and present professional at the Multnomah club in Portland, will play Bob Johnson, University star, in an exhibition match this afternoon on the courts behind the old library. The match will start at 3 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock an exhibition doubles match will be held on the same courts, with Berndt and campus experts participating.

House Plan Gains Praise In Article By J. R. Ferguson

Sheldon Brumbaugh, Former Art Student Here, Commended For Work

Sheldon Brumbaugh, a former student in the Art school here, has an article in the January issue of "The Architect and Engineer" by James R. Ferguson concerning his work in planning the Graf residence in Corvallis. There is a drawing showing the house plan, landscape, design of the house, and several pages of interior and exterior views of the house. Mr. Ferguson commended the plan very highly.

Mr. Brumbaugh, after studying at Oregon, has studied in Fontainebleu School of Fine Arts, Fontainebleu, France, and has traveled elsewhere in Europe. His father is in the psychology department at Oregon State College.

The landscaping was done by Fred A. Cuthbert, assistant professor of landscape at Oregon State. He comes to this campus every two weeks to assist with a class, and will have his headquarters here next year.

Eight Students Leave To See Hampden Act

Eight students interested in dramatics left this morning for Portland, to attend Walter Hampden's presentation of "Hamlet," and "Caponasacchi," which is showing at the Auditorium theatre there today.

The students making the trip are Cynthia Liljequist, Chuck Shoemaker, William Anderson, Louise Howard, Hagan Moore, Albert Culverwell, Ruth Hatfner, and Cieta McKennon. They are being accompanied by Mrs. Ottilie Seybold, director of the drama department, and George Andreine, assistant director.

Final Play-Off Drawings To Be Held Today

Yeoman Defeat Kappa Sigs In Other Ball Game; Betas Win In Golf

By BOB AVISON
 Phi Gamma Delta won the championship of their division in the soft ball tourney with a 9-to-3 victory over the Phi Kappa Psi nine yesterday afternoon. Bob Johnson of tennis fame was on the mound for the winners and pitched a fine game, fanning eight men during the contest. Jake Stahl picked on one of Red Copp's groove balls and drove it far over the center fielder's head for a circuit blow. Alex Eagle, Bob Riddle, and Drew Copp were the outstanding players for Phi Psi.

The Yeomen handed the Kappa Sigma aggregation an 8-to-3 defeat in the last game on the soft ball schedule. The independents scored four runs in the first inning to assure them of the victory. Sol Schneider played a remarkable game for the losers, while P. Favier shone for Kappa Sigma. Schneider struck out 15 men and connected for a home run in the fourth canto.

The drawings for the championship soft ball games will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the men's gym. It is requested that a representative from Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Gamma Delta, and Omega hall be present.

Beta Theta Pi conquered the Phi Gamma Delta fairway artists 8-1-2 to 3-1-2 in the only golf match played yesterday afternoon. The Beta team was composed of Dick Neer, Louis Fox, and Willie Johnson. Gillespie, White, and Luhrs formed the Fiji combination.

The tie between Sigma Nu and Sigma Pi Tau was played off yesterday and resulted in a victory for Sigma Nu. Johnnie Boyd, number one man for Sigma Nu, defeated Stan Smith of Sigma Pi Tau to gain the victory.

contest will be held in the Salem high school auditorium.

The following clubs are entered at the present time: Chorus or glee club, Aumsville, Liberty and Turner; community orchestra, Silverton Hills, Turner, West Station; public speaking, Labish Center, Liberty, Silverton Hills, and Turner.

This contest will be followed by a final community competition meeting at which time 17 communities are competing.

The First Step

The first consideration in caring for your eyes is to be sure your vision is normal.

The second step is to protect your eyes from glare. If your vision is normal you should select one of the many tints of sun goggles and if you need glasses have them ground in Soft Lite—the glare-protecting lens.
