

Senior Leap Week To Begin This Afternoon

Gamma Phi Data Is First Affair On Schedule

MATINEE IS TONIGHT

Delta Gamble Will Be Tomorrow Afternoon; Farewell Folly Slated for Evening

Senior Leap Week Calendar
Gamma Phi Data—3:30-5:30 p. m. Dancing and refreshments. Free. Senior women may or may not ask dates. Senior men may stag.
Colonial Midnight Matinee—11 p. m. Blonde Crazy—James Cagney and Joan Blondell. Two for price of one. All campus.

Senior Leap week, traditional campaign of senior women, will open this afternoon at 3:30 with the Gamma Phi Data. Josephine Potts and Irene Clemens, co-chairmen, are in charge and will be assisted by Marjorie Haas, and Dorothy Hall. All seniors are invited to attend the two-hour dance, date or no date.

Tonight at 11 o'clock at the Colonial theater will be presented "Blonde Crazy" with James Cagney and Joan Blondell. Two will be admitted for the price of one and it will be open to the entire campus, although seniors are particularly urged to attend.

Date or No Date
Several other events are listed for the remainder of the week and all of them are date or no date just as the seniors wish. The important thing is for all seniors to know they are welcome, and attend all affairs.

Everything is free with the exception of the midnight matinee. Friday afternoon the Delta Gamble will be presented at 3:30. Besides the two hours of dancing, refreshments will be served. The committee in charge consists of Frances Keene, chairman, assisted by Annabell Powell, Frances Drake and Anne Kistner.

School Days Idea
Friday evening Hendrick's hall will be the scene of the Farewell Folly. "School Days" is to be the motif for the decorations and women will come garbed in gingham dresses and their dates in cords. Adele Hitchman, chairman, will be aided by Helen Raitanen, Emmabell Stadden and Dorothy Foss.

Music will be furnished by Sherwood Burr's orchestra for each of the dances. Refreshments will be served at all the fun-fests.

Vaudeville Skits Supplement Leap Week Late Show

At the hour of 11 tonight, when most University women are home in bed, seniors will through the Colonial theater, with or without dates, two for the price of one, or 15 cents. The feature is "Blonde Crazy" with Jimmy Cagney and Joan Blondell, and as an added attraction four favorites are expected to appear in vaudeville skits around 11:30. They are Dale Brown, pianist, Chic Burrow and Wilbur Thibault, comedians, and Ivy Walkem, feature dancer.

Short subjects will round out the program, to which the entire campus is invited.

Forum on Pacific Problems Will Be Held Here Next Week

The University of Oregon will be the scene of a Forum on Pacific Problems to be held April 25, 26, and 27. The primary objectives of the Forum is to offer opportunities for round table discussions on problems of the Pacific basin, with special stress on the Sino-Japanese controversy.

The afternoons will be devoted to round table discussions, and the evenings to general program of lectures and entertainment. Complete arrangements have not been made. Victor P. Morris, professor of economics, says additional information will be released soon.

The feature of the Forum, however, will be the round table conferences. These are designed to permit the students, faculty mem-

Candidates For Yearbook Posts Make Statements

Zurcher, Hitchcock Declare Hats Still in Ring; Eligibility Question Scouted

Both Bob Zurcher and Parks Hitchcock, the two Oregonana candidates who were found unacceptable by the Executive Council yesterday, declared last night that they had no intention of abandoning their candidacy for the position. Said Robert Zurcher, choice of the Publications Committee:

"Before entering petition for this position I put my case before the chairman of the Judiciary Committee; and was given the decision that I was eligible for a student body or class office. With this in view, I will stand by my position until the Judiciary Committee says I can not do so."

Said Parks Hitchcock, the other candidate voted unacceptable by the Council:

"I believe myself perfectly within my rights in leaving my hat in the ring for the post of Oregonana editor. Unless the Judiciary Committee rules me out of the running, I will not back down one inch. As Grant said, 'I'll fight it out on this line if it takes all summer.'"

'Once In Miami' Gives Audience Hollywood View

A sight-seeing tour through Miami on a Hollywood lot was given the audience who gathered to watch and stayed to applaud the Amphibians as they exhibited how it was done "Once in Miami" in the women's pool last night. While the languorous heroine, Neva Saidaward, and her aunt, Mada De Pistarre, lounged in trailing gowns beneath huge striped umbrellas and palm trees at one end of the sparkling pool and the fussy little Director Du BeStille and his cameraman "shot" the scene from the opposite end, a rainbow of mermaids turned the pool into a riot of action and color.

Evening and a pool shot with red and lavender from concealed lights, and cut with changing patterns made by a troupe of skilled professional swimmers in white caps and long-sleeved black suits was the feature of the second scene. The climax was a spree of diving; single swan dives, double dives, and quintet dives, all in time to the beat of the director's drum.

Murray Warner Contest Entries Being Considered

Manchurian Question Is Popular With Essay Writers; Judges To Decide Soon

A great deal of interest in Far Eastern questions is manifested in the papers submitted for the Murray Warner essay contest which closed a few days ago. Eighteen papers were submitted and the committee of judges consisting of Dr. Harold G. Noble, chairman, Dr. Victor Morris and Dr. Samuel Haig Jameson are at work judging the scripts. The prizes which are given both in the American and foreign student divisions will be announced and given in May.

In the American division the Manchurian question was the most popular, although papers on population problems in Japan, industrial and social revolution in Japan, and problems affecting present nationalist government of China were written.

In the foreign division papers dealing with the Philippines and her forthcoming independence were the most popular. In both divisions the essays show signs of careful research, work, and thought.

Mrs. Murray Warner, donor of the prize, has already given the University a number of books and precious art works, which are to be on display at the opening of the Warner museum here. These works have attracted national attention and will no doubt attract much attention to our new museum.

Wide Variation Shown Between Prep and Psychology P. R. Rating

Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Alpha hall rated first in statistics on preparatory school records and psychological examinations in the survey made by Clifford L. Constance, assistant registrar. Alpha Delta Pi led the list in preparatory school records and Alpha hall headed the psychological examination tabulation. Copies of the survey were distributed to living organizations at a joint meeting of Panhellenic and the Interfraternity council yesterday.

Second place in the prep records was held by Sigma Kappa, followed by Delta Zeta, Gamma Phi Beta and Zeta Tau Alpha in the order named. Beta Phi Alpha, Alpha Delta Pi, Kappa Alpha Theta and Sherry Ross hall held second, third, fourth and fifth places respectively in the psychological exam ratings.

Ratings Vary
Alpha Delta Pi, rated first in the prep division, also held third place in the other list. Alpha hall, psych exam leaders, rated seventeenth in the prep records. Beta Phi Alpha, second in the psychological exam list, was twenty-eighth in the prep record column. Sigma Kappa, second place holder in prep records, was listed thirty-third in the other list. Gamma Phi Beta was the only one of the leaders, excepting Alpha Delta Pi, that had high ratings in both lists. In the prep record this sorority was fourth; in the psychological exam it was seventh.

The last five places in the exam ratings were held by Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, International house and (Continued on Page Three)

New College Novel Is Placed On Co-Op Shelf

"Not to Eat, Not for Love," a new college novel by George Weller, has been placed on the rent shelf on the Co-op book balcony. George Weller is a Harvard graduate of 1929 and for the past two years has been writing this book of modern college life at that school.

Other new books which have been put on the rent shelf are "Fascal's Mill" by Ben Ames Williams, and Keeler's "Washington Square Enigma," a mystery story.

Wide Variety of Articles Sold at A.W.S. Auction

Everything but lost wives was found and everything but engagement rings sold at the A. W. S. auction sale, held yesterday from 10 to 2 on the steps of Commerce.

"Everything and anything for sale" was the cry of the bidders as they auctioned off to the highest bidder all belongings which have been turned in to the lost and found department of the University depot during the past year.

Gloves, jewelry, slickers, coats, notebooks, pens—all were flourished by the auctioneer with his cry of "Going, going, gone!" Fountain pens went first—students apparently full of foresight for midterms. Personal property didn't sell so well—and at the end of the auction, managers of the sale went off with boxes full of left-over scarfs, shoes, gloves, and other unwanted goods.

The total amount made through the auction was about ten dollars, according to Louise Webber, president of the A. W. S. The money made will go into the A. W. S. emergency loan fund.

Bovard Explains Why Courts Are Not Open Sunday

Demand of Tennis Players Is Not Sufficient to Warrant Extra Cost

In answer to the annual spring query as to why the tennis courts are not open on Sunday morning, it was explained yesterday by Dean John F. Bovard of the school of physical education, that the demand is not large enough to warrant the expenditure necessary to provide a caretaker.

A considerable number of students have been wanting to know why they can't get onto the courts these sunny Sunday mornings such as prevailed before Easter. It seems that the same question is raised every spring.

Last year, Dean Bovard explained, the department hired a man to open the courts on Sunday mornings. He was to stay on duty until noon and as part of his work kept a tally of the number of students using the courts.

It was found that only a very small number of students took advantage of the opportunity to play on Sunday morning and that the expense was too high to be warranted. After a few weeks the service was discontinued.

Oregon Yeomen Smoker Friday

The Oregon Yeomen, organization of independent men, will throw a smoker Friday evening at 7:30 at the Y hut. The best of the campus boxing talent is being lined up for the affair under the direction of Tom Mountain, matchmaker, according to Norman Kernan, general chairman.

In the 158 pound class Bob Nunn, eastern Oregon flash, will tangle with Don Owens, former Eugene high football star and the best home town has to offer. Ben Swanton, runner up in the campus welterweight class, will exchange blows with Freddie Sears, wrestling champ at 148 pounds.

Other names appearing on the list of fighters include Tuffy Good-nough, formerly of Wallowa, Jerry Denslow, Howard Ohmart, and Lorin Carmichael. Several other good men are in prospect.

Free refreshments and smokes will be passed out and the whole affair will be over by 8:30.

Campus Calendar

Sigma Delta Chi members meet today in 104 Journalism at 4:30. Important.

There will be a baseball game between the Tri Deltis and Susan Campbell hall today at 4. There will be no game between the Independents and Graduate students.

Thespians meet at 7:15 tonight in the women's lounge of Gerlinger hall. Everyone must be there.

Beta Lambda will meet tonight at 7:30 in 105 Deady hall. Short but important, business meeting.

Christian Science organization holds its regular weekly meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow. Election of officers for the coming year will be held at 8:15.

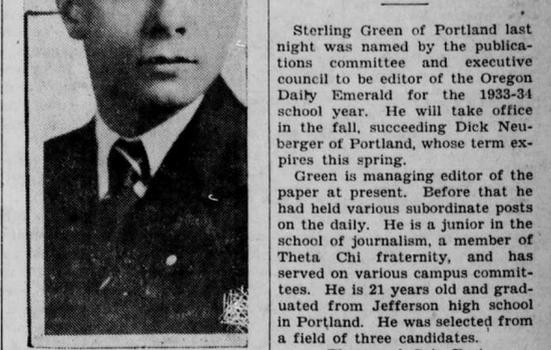

Phi Mu Alpha has a meeting tonight at 7:15 at the Music building.

Polls Open Today For Nominations Of Junior Queen

Ten Highest Will Be on Ballot for Election Wednesday; Virginia Hartje in Charge

By HENRIETTE HORAK
Nominations for Junior Week-end queen are in order with voting polls open from 9 to 3 in front of the old life today. Every student on the campus has a chance to express his opinion on feminine pulchritude and queenly attributes.

The ballots to express preference for Junior queen are provided in this issue of the Emerald; they are to be filled out and dropped in the ballot box in front of the old life.

Any junior woman on the campus may be nominated. The only qualifications—she must be "good to look upon," stately, and carry herself as truly a queen.

From the ranks of the fair juniors who win the greatest support in today's nominations, the names of the 10 who rank the highest will be placed upon a formal ballot, and the election of the queen will take place Wednesday, April 26.

The co-ed selected for queen will rule the campus during Junior Week-end, May 12, 13, 14, and reign at the campus luncheon, the mother's tea, the canoe feat, and the Junior prom.

Student body cards will be checked to avoid "stuffing" of the ballot box. The ballots will be counted by George Hibbard, chairman of the Junior Week-end; Virginia Hartje, chairman of the queen's reign; Kay Briggs, chairman of elections; Neil Bush, president of the junior class, and Don Caswell, in charge of publicity.

Free refreshments and smokes will be passed out and the whole affair will be over by 8:30.

There will be a baseball game between the Tri Deltis and Susan Campbell hall today at 4. There will be no game between the Independents and Graduate students.

'Smilin' Sam', Nee Smilodon Californicus, Escapes Notice

Smilin' Sam, in other words the Smilodon Californicus of the geology department, has been standing in the laboratory at Condon hall for some time entirely unnoticed by the general public.

Smilin' Sam was once a live tiger, a saber toothed tiger with great foretusks seven inches long with which he terrified smaller animals than himself. He stood three feet high when in his customary crouched position and was six feet in length. A wicked animal if there ever was one!

The story goes that once, while in his favorite haunts around the tar pits of La Brea, California, this denizen of the wilds espied a choice morsel of food on what he took to be a swamp. But when he started out to get it he discovered his mistake—it was asphalt—and poor Smilin' Sam couldn't get out.

And so it was that many years later geologists excavated those tar pits and found the remains of the tiger, along with those of many other beasts including ancient coyotes, wolves, etc.

Smilin' Sam was shipped to the University some years ago in pieces and students of paleontology proceeded to assemble him. He now stands, still smiling, in Condon. Mr. W. E. McKittrick, of the geology department, will show him to anyone interested in seeing what the old-time tigers looked like.

Howard Stafford, son of Dr. O. F. Stafford, professor of chemistry, contributed the history of this Smilodon Californicus.
