

Old Fairy Tales Will Come True At Canoe Fete

Dave Eyre, Chairman, Promises Unity

LETTER GIVES RULES

Floater Must Picture Some Event From Familiar Story; Juniors Chosen

In the fairy tales the wanderer falls asleep in an ordinary wood beside an ordinary stream and wakes up in a fantastic wonderland beautiful beyond compare.

In past years, the name has been broadly encompassing and the floats startling in their variety.

The unity of the motif will be further carried out in the setting, with glamorous lighting effects and floating draperies making the mill race a veritable fairyland.

The directorate, as announced last night by Eyre, consists of the following juniors: assistant chairman, Ed Martindale; secretary, Phoebe Greenman; transportation and traffic, Bob Downey; decorations, Dorothy Cunningham; construction, Hubert Totton; business manager, Bob Dodge.

"Organizations are urged to appoint committees to begin work on their entries at once," Eyre said.

Honorary Elects 3 New Members

Local Gamma chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, announces the election of Laura Goldsmith, sophomore in Romance languages, to active membership; Robert Wilson, '32, and Ray Olson, senior in foreign trade, to special membership; in addition to the six elected last term.

The initiation has been announced for May 6, at 5 p. m. at the home of Dr. Leavitt O. Wright, faculty sponsor and national president of the honorary.

Juan B. Rael, of the Spanish department, is president of the local Gamma chapter.

Sterling Green, New Editor, Voices Some of His Policies

Looking cool and composed in his white flannels, dark coat and white shoes, and more like the model of the 1933 well dressed man than the proverbial "unpressed" and "unshorn" editor, Sterling Green, the newly elected editor of the Emerald, expressed some of his views, and praise for the Emerald and its staff, in an interview yesterday.

"The Emerald has," stated Green, "been in the process of 'growing up' for the last four years; it has been assuming a little bit more of a mature outlook, covering a broader scope and in general becoming an adult newspaper. I hope to carry on the work that the last few editors have begun."

"I feel that a college paper is more than a mere calendar of campus events and a mouthpiece for campus politicians. At the risk of seeming hopelessly idealistic, I'll confess that I think a college paper has an educational function—that it should bring to the campus interpretations of events of world-wide or nation-wide interest, interpreted correctly and thoroughly by qualified authorities."

"I'm glad that the editorship has been entrusted to me. It's

Sings With Band!

Grace Burnett, popular soprano, who will appear as soloist at the free concert to be given by the University concert band, first division, at McArthur court Sunday at 3 o'clock. Gifford Nash, baritone, will also be a soloist.

Varied Program Announced for Concert Sunday

Grace Burnett and Gifford Nash Will Be Featured at McArthur Court

As the second concert in the spring series, the first division of the University band presents an interesting and varied program tomorrow at 3 o'clock in McArthur court. Under the direction of John Stehn, the band will open the program with a classic march, Saint-Saens' "French Military March" from the Algerian suite.

Vocal solos by Grace Burnett and Gifford Nash lend added variety to tomorrow's band concert. Both Miss Burnett and Mr. Nash were soloists in the Christmas presentation of the "Messiah," and the latter recently appeared in recital. Accompanied by the band, Miss Burnett, soprano, will sing "Villanelle," by Dell'Acqua, while Mr. Nash, bass-baritone, will offer Flegier's "The Horn."

The program in the order in which the selections will be played follows: "French Military March" from the Algerian suite, Saint-Saens; "Pique Dame Overture," Suppe; "Home, Sweet Home the World Over," Lampe; and "Phedre Overture," Massenet.

The first division of the band consists of 38 picked musicians, drawn from the 75-piece concert band. Last term the first division won laurels in concerts given alone and with the second division.

Tomorrow's program is a part of the regular A. S. U. O. series, and will be free to students and the public.

Smith Goes to Medford

Dr. Warren D. Smith of the geology department drove to Medford to attend the Southern Oregon Mining congress Saturday, spending Friday night in Ashland. He planned to give a talk at the congress on geological formations of an ore-bearing nature.

Graduate Visits Campus

Mrs. L. Edward Scriven (Esther Davis, '26, was a campus visitor yesterday. For a time after her graduation she was secretary in the journalism department, later doing research and publicity work. At present she is living in Battle Creek, Michigan.

Announcement

NEITHER the opinions nor policies expressed herein are necessarily those of the regular administration of the Emerald. This is essentially an edition published by the women members of the staff and represents them rather than the official Emerald editorial board.

The executives of this issue have not been asked to plagiarize the ideas and opinions of myself and my staff, nor have they been requested to adopt new policies.

They have been given a free hand in the matter of both editorial and news discrimination and decision. For that reason the regular staff does not consider itself responsible for what appears herein nor obligated to continue policies expressed in this issue. We will assume the same attitude regarding the two other special editions to be issued exclusively by the freshmen and men in the near future.

My major staff appointments will be announced in about two weeks," said Green; "in the meantime, tryouts will be held every day."

Plan Formed For Lowering Of House Bills

Cost Is Reduced in 16 Houses

CHURCH IS SPONSOR

Each Student Pays $10 Per Month; Scheme Put in as Emergency Measure

A finance plan whereby eight fraternities and sororities of the campus of the University of Oregon are able to reduce their monthly house charge to approximately $27.50 per student has been announced by Virgil D. Earl, dean of men. House bills in the past have in some cases been $35 or more.

The plan was worked out through the cooperation of Campbell Church of Eugene, who holds long term mortgages on the houses of the organizations. These mortgages called for monthly payments on principal and interest, and taxes and insurance were an additional charge upon the organization. Under the new plan each student in each house pays $10 per month, and Mr. Campbell from this fund pays all taxes and insurance, and credits the group with any balance remaining each month.

Costs for food and its preparation average in most houses about $15 per month per student. An additional $2.50 will take care of dues and social affairs, making the total, with the $10 house charge, approximately $27.50, or about the same as that now charged by the dormitories, which is $25 per month.

The plan has been put into effect as an emergency measure, and the house groups are expected to resume full payments when economic conditions are better. Reduced memberships and necessity for economy on the part of many students sharply reduced the income of many of the fraternities and sororities, and payments on homes erected during times of expensive construction a few years ago have been an acute problem for many organizations.

Some of the remaining living organizations have paid for their houses, or have made adjustments on houses they rent, Dean Earl also stated.

H. C. Seymour To Give Series of Talks on 4-H

Three talks in which he will describe the work of 4-H clubs will be given by H. C. Seymour, state leader of the organization. Since these discussions deal with work done by young people, they are of especial value to men and women interested in boys' and girls' groups.

Those interested will meet with Mr. Seymour Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, April 24, 26, and 28, at 3 o'clock in room 3 of the Education building.

World Is Setting Of Newest Books

"Red Virtue" by Ella Winters, wife of Lincoln Steffens, prominent journalist, who was on the campus last week, has been put on the rent shelf at the book balcony recently. This book deals with the human relations in New Russia. The author has left out all allusion to political and religious conditions and has dealt only with the personal and sentimental side.

Amos Burg, Noted Explorer, Returns to Oregon Campus

By HENRIETTE HORAK In 1928 a young man left the University to make a voyage to the Yukon to photograph caribou migration for International News Reel. Today his name is known all over the world as one of the leading explorers; Amos Burg, who is visiting his alma mater.

For the last few days he has been on the campus gathering research background material for a Cape Horn voyage in the near future; a seven months' trip by whale boat through the straits of Magellan and along the Patagonian channels of Chile. The main purpose of the expedition, said Mr. Burg, in an interview, is to sail down the western coast of Tierra Del Fuego, proceed inland, and live with the remaining members of the Onas tribe for several months, taking motion pictures of their life.

In 1929, accompanied by Dr. George Rebec, he descended the northern MacKenzie river through Canada. In 1931-32 he visited 21 countries on the Yacht Camargo as staff representative for the Geographic.

He is personally acquainted with America's leading explorers and charmingly describes them.

"At the Explorers' club last winter the explorers of the nation assembled for their annual dinner. Of course, not all of them are actively engaged in exploration, but are with the museums and relive in a visionary sort of way the adventures of those who take the field.

"Next to the fact that the dinner cost five dollars a plate, I remember that Richard Halliburton sat next to me on my right, Carl Lomen, the reindeer king, a few seats over, and on my left, Frank Buck, of 'Bring 'em Back Alive' fame. Halliburton does not belong to the Explorers' club and it was the first time I had ever met him.

Psych Assistant Tests Steadiness Among Students

Irving Adams, research assistant in the psychology department, has been administering motor tests of steadiness in different departments of the University. The problem to be answered by test results is whether or not the most steady people become best in those skills which demand a fine co-ordination of stability.

In past tests Adams has discovered that marksmen are superior to military students as a whole. The best draftsmen and the best masculine pianist are now being tested to measure their steadiness against the unselected group in their particular fields.

In connection with this, laboratory students are conducting a research to see if steadiness is acquired or is inherited. Results of these tests will be given out in two weeks.

April Meeting of Education Board Set for Monday

G. B. McLeod and C. A. Brand, New Members, Invited To Attend

The April meeting of the State Board of Higher Education will be held here Monday as scheduled, in spite of the fact that the appointments of George B. McLeod of Portland and C. A. Brand as members have not yet been confirmed by the interim committee, it was announced yesterday.

C. L. Starr, chairman of the board, said that the two newly appointed members had been invited to attend the meeting, and that they would probably take part in the discussion. They will not be able to vote, however, until after the confirmation of their appointments.

Most of the interim committee members Thursday expressed themselves as being in favor of Mr. McLeod and Mr. Brand. All members of the interim committee were reached except W. H. Strayer of Baker, who was on his way to Portland. George W. Dunn of Ashland, Clyde Williamson of Albany, and Dr. Joel C. Booth of Lebanon expressed favorable opinions. Linn E. Jones of Portland and R. M. Duncan of Burns did not care to make statements until more information about the men had been received.

This book deals with the human relations in New Russia. The author has left out all allusion to political and religious conditions and has dealt only with the personal and sentimental side.

A new book, "Manchoukouo," which views the subject from the Japanese point of view, by K. K. Kawakami, is also available to those interested in that problem. Other books now on the shelf include Wm. B. Seabrook's "Air Adventure," a story of his first flight over the Sahara desert to Timbuctoo, and "The Dark Invader," by Captain F. von Rinteler, master spy of the German forces during the war.

R. D. Jamison to Talk on Chinese Folklore Sunday

R. D. Jamison, professor of comparative literature at Tsing Hua university at Peking, China, will speak Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in Alumni hall, Gerlinger, on the subject of the common elements in eastern and western folklore. All interested are invited.

In his address, Professor Jamison will bring out the fact that there are many more coincidences between eastern and western lore than have been supposed. Following his address he will conduct an informal discussion on the significance of the similarity and differences between the two.

He will arrive Saturday with his mother, who is dean of women at Oregon State college. Professor Jamison was previously the head of the English department at Grinnell college in Idaho. He has published several books, among which are, "A Short History of European Literature."

At present he is on furlough from Peking to study English and American universities and will come to Eugene to visit several friends.

Westminster Groups To Nominate Officers

"Friendship" will be the topic of a talk by Guy S. Claire, assistant professor of law, to the morning group of the Westminster association Sunday at 9:45. This is one of a series of discussions which he has been conducting.

Dr. Nelson L. Bossing, professor of education, is to give the first of a group of two lectures for the Sunday evening forum, reviewing "Rethinking Missions."

Tea will be served at 6 o'clock, followed by the meeting at 6:30. Nominations of officers for each group will be called for at the respective meetings.

Dinner Held at Salem In Honor of W. Folger

In honor of Walter Folger, San Francisco, president of the Pacific Advertising Clubs association, a dinner was given last night at the Gray Belle, in Salem.

Merriman Holtz, of the advertising club in Portland, presided at the dinner. W. F. G. hacher, professor in advertising, the local chapters of Gamma Alpha Chi, women's advertising honorary, Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising honorary, and members of the Portland Advertising club attended the meet.

Original titles and title records of more than 22,000,000 acres are on file in the land division office of the Florida department of agriculture.

Campus Calendar

Senior Leap Week directorate meeting Monday at 4 o'clock in the College Six. Complete reports from each committee are to be handed in at that time.

Heads of houses meeting, 4 to 5 Tuesday, at the Delta Gamma house. Guest speaker, Val Stark, Pacific regional director of Girl Scouts.

Christian church young people are invited to hear Dr. Victor P. Morris speak at 9:45 Sunday morning before the young people's class at the First Christian church on Oak near 11th.

Far Eastern Conflict to Be Topic of Meet

International Institute To Open Tuesday

P. J. TREAT TO TALK

Foremost Authority on Orient Will Lead Discussion on Thursday Night

The outstanding event on next week's campus calendar will be the first International Institute ever to be held at the University of Oregon. The three-day session scheduled for April 25, 26, and 27, is entirely different from the International week held annually for several years.

Dr. Payson J. Treat, named by Dr. Harold J. Noble, professor of history, as one of the two foremost authorities on the Orient alive today, will be one of five Far Eastern scholars who will lead round table discussions. All students, faculty members, and others interested are invited to attend the conferences and take part in them.

The aim of the institute is to promote world fellowship through an understanding study of the present situation in the Far East. Dr. Treat is the author of several books on relations between the United States and the Orient, among them the book called "Far East" which is used by Dr. Noble as a textbook in his class in the history of the Far East. He is a member of the faculty of Leland Stanford university.

Four Discussion Groups There will be four main discussion subjects featured in the three-day meeting of the institute, as well as a special showing at the Colonial theatre of motion pictures taken in the Orient. Skits by members of the Cosmopolitan club and other campus organizations, and a 30-minute talking picture.

Funeral Services For W. E. Miner Set at 2 Monday

Rev. C. S. Palmer To Officiate; No Will Left by Deceased, Says Attorney

Funeral services for Wilbur E. Miner, who with his brother, H. T. Miner, donated the Miner building to the University, have been set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Veatch chapel. Rev. Clay S. Palmer will officiate, and interment will be made in the Resthaven cemetery on South Willamette street. Friends are invited to attend the rites.

Mr. Miner left no will, according to his attorney, L. R. Ray, having destroyed his old one about ten days ago. He had expressed the intention of making a new one, but apparently did not do so. He possessed very little property at the time of his death, Professor C. L. Kelly, who has been supervisor of the Miner building, said yesterday afternoon. Except for his home on Alder street and a few unimproved lots, he had given all his property to the University.

If no will is found, the little property he left will go to his brothers and a sister. Besides his brother in Eugene he has another, H. P. Miner, of Mission Ridge, South Dakota. He is also survived by one sister, Sarah Huntington Miner of DeSota, Wisconsin. Neither will be able to attend the funeral.

He was 73 years of age, having been born September 24, 1859, in Sterling Retreat Community, Beron county, Wisconsin. He had lived in Eugene since 1923. He will be buried beside his wife, who died about 18 months ago.

Today Is Last Day For Fee Payment Without Extra Tax

ALL registration fees must be paid by noon today, or a tax of $1 will be charged to those who fail to meet the requirements.

Last warnings were issued from the registrar's office yesterday afternoon, where the statistics show that there are 350 students yet to pay their last installment on spring registration. Out of this number 50 are non-resident students.

Explorer

Amos Burg, former Oregon student and adventurer, in Eugene for several days. He is leaving for an eight-months voyage to Cape Horn in August.

Judiciary Group To Make Decision On Oregana Head

Committee Will Consider Three Issues on Action of Executive Council

What action will be taken regarding the Oregana editorship rests with the decision of the judiciary committee which meets this week-end.

Headed by Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school, the committee is to consider three issues probing the constitutionality of the executive council's action, and opinions on these questions will form the basis of the decision.

On Monday the council will make known the solution to the perplexing problem which results from the council's disqualifying the only two candidates for editing the yearbook, Robert Zurcher and Parks Hitchcock.

In its meetings the committee will act on the following issues: 1. What are the constitutional limits of the jurisdictional powers of the publication committee and of the executive council as to the selection and appointment of members of staffs of the several publications of the Associated Students?

2. Did the executive council at its meeting act within constitutional powers when it rejected the recommendation of the publication committee that Robert Zurcher be appointed editor of the Oregana?

3. Did the executive council at the meeting act within its constitutional powers when it disqualified Parks Hitchcock for appointment to the editorship of the Oregana?

Nomination by Roustabouts Places Morse As President

By MATILDA BELT-BUCKLE The Roustabouts have lined up their political machine!

Here it is! For president: Senator Raymond (Butch) Morse.

For vice-president: Jack E. (Rip Van Winkle) Robertson.

For secretary: Shamus Hamby.

For senior man: Amalmo de Ferante de Pozzo.

For junior man: Surrogate Le Roy L. B. (Duke) Shaneman, minus J. C.

For senior woman: Rose Gagnon.

Co-op board: Sterling Silver Green and Flamo Wilson.

King of the May: R. Joseph Gagnon.

Substitutes: Leighton Gee (33); Jonathan Londahl (13-old jersey).

Mortar Board Formal to End Co-eds' Reign

Dinners To Precede Ball At Many Houses

KWAMA TO PLEDGE

Tuxedos or White Flannels and Dark Coats in Order For Men

When the Mortar Board ball opens at 9 o'clock tonight at the Eugene hotel, but three hours will be left of Senior Leap week for the class of 1933.

This most formal of formal dances is being preceded by many formal dinners at women's living organizations. Among the houses entertaining before the ball are Delta Gamma, Chi Omega, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, Gamma Phi Beta, Phi Mu, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Sigma Kappa.

At least five couples will get into the dance free, for Virginia Hartje, Caroline Card, Helen Garrison, Helen Osland, Mariana McNamara, and Ann-Reed Burns sold 20 tickets, thereby earning free pastebards.

Ticket Sale Closed The ticket sale closed in the living organizations yesterday noon, and at the Co-op last night. About 20 tickets will be on sale at the door, Aimee Sten announced late last night, for the benefit of those co-eds making last-minute decisions to invite the secret sorrow.

Interest in the dance is particularly high because of the annual feature of Kwama pledging, which for the past four years has taken place at the ball. The names of 19 outstanding freshman women who will be tapped at the dance to-night are known only by the active Kwamas. The pledge ribbons will be given the new members by Mrs. Hazel Prutsman Scherwing, dean of women and herself an honorary Kwama, after the new and old Kwamas have marched down an aisle formed by the Skulls and Daggers, sophomore men's honorary.

Flannels in Order Although the ball is one of the most formal affairs given on the campus, the committee in charge of the dance has announced that (Continued on Page Three)

Cap and Gown Orders Must Be Placed Today

Today is the last day! The cap and gown and announcement orders have not been received in the numbers expected at the Co-op. Just 135 seniors have placed their orders at the present time and by 5:45 p. m. 400 or more must be in.

A large crowd of the would-be graduates are expected to be waiting when the Co-op opens this morning and it is hoped that by the end of the day all orders will have been made.
