(Continued from Page One) the round table on the Sino-Japanese conflict, from 3 to 4:30. He stressed the history back of the Manchurian controversy. He also discussed Japan's treaty rights and their legality; it was established by the forum group that Japan had recognized Manchuria as a part of China.

Toyoichi Nakamura, Japanese consul from Portland, was present at Dr. Noble's invitation and took active and constructive part in the discussion.

At the round table on "The Social and Industrial Revolution in China and Japan," led by Dr. Victor P. Morris, A. L. Lomax, professor of business administration, presented a resume of industrialization of China, and the Pacific basin in general.

Today's program includes the round table discussions, held in Condon hall, and a feature "Around the World via Stage and Screen," program by International and Cosmopolitan clubs, to be given at the Colonial theater at 7 o'clock.

Roustabout Men Withdraw from Political Field

By COINCIDENCE

Declaring that none of their constituents were good enough to vote for them, the Roustabouts last night withdrew from the political field. Their spokesman, Sen. Butch Morse, spoke substantially as follows: "Why should we run? There's no one good enough to vote for us. Thus we withdraw." Mr. Morse said the only candidate they would leave in the race, and that not for an office proper, was Rosie Gagnon for king of May. "By an overwhelmingly distressing oversight Mr. Gagnon's name has been omitted from the ballots which will be distributed today," Mr. Morse said. "Therefore, I urge all loyal Roustabouts to write in his cognomen on the ballots. Mr. Gagnon would make an ideal king. He has the intellect, figure and appetite."

After making this announcement, Mr. Morse and his fellow political experts hailed a street car and departed for Africa, where they said they would seek the long-sought Ovis Poli, not to mention Cliff Potter, now reported to be at Beer-Bottle Island. If Gagnon is defeated for king of the May today, he will hop a blind baggage and meet his fellow explorers in Springfield. If elected, he will don the regal robes, serve his term, and then meet his fellow explorers, who probably still will be in Springfield.

The withdrawal of the Roustabouts leaves only Tom Tongue's party in the political field. Last night, however, rumors were heard that another group might dispute Tongue's candidacy.

Inflation

A. It has always been so and there is no reason to expect a difference at this time. The chief danger lies in over-expansion because of too rapid rise in prices. We must be careful not to overdo things.

Necessities Claim Income
Q. Is it likely that the demand for farm products will be increased by any general rise in prices?

A. A general rise in prices will affect adversely the demand for most things. The effects will be less marked in the case of foods. Necessaries have the first claim on income. Moreover, as indicated in No. 8, the stimulus to export demand and the domestic market may affect farm produce more markedly than conveniences and luxuries.

Debtors Will Gain
Q. What class or classes of persons will gain from an inflation of the currency? What proportion of the whole population of the nation does this group represent? If the debtor class, who are they? Business men? Farmers? Bankers? Corporations with great quantities of securities outstanding and due to mature?

A. Chiefly debtors will gain. All are debtors to some extent but some are creditors to a larger degree than debtors. All depends on the relative importance as debtors as compared with other fields in which the same person as creditor, salaried person or annuitant receives a fixed income, suffers a decline in its purchasing power. There is no way of estimating the relative number of gainers and losers.

Bitter Experience
Q. Wasn't it a bitter experience that drove practically all nations of the world to abandon bi-metallic standards for the gold standard? Are there any nations of economic importance on a bi-metallic standard?

A. It was not "bitter experience" or experience of any kind that led to the abandonment of the bimetallic standard. It was the "epidemic of demonetization" that started in Germany in 1871 and compelled other nations to "follow suit" in order to protect their bimetallic system from dislocation. The weight of economic opinion favors the view that international bimetallicism, starting at a common ratio near the market ratio, might prove workable and in some respects desirable.

Fiat Money in War Time
Q. What has been the experience of countries with fiat money? A. Fiat money has usually come in war time when every condition militates against control and favors overissue because "it's the easiest way to pay for war." In peace time under adequate control free from too much popular pressure, the result may be different.

Gold Notes Form of Credit
Q. What will be the status of notes made payable in gold coin of specified weight and fineness? A. These notes will be presumably a form of credit money based upon standard gold. Even with the large issue contemplated the gold reserve should be ample if it is properly protected from heavy export and a sufficient quantity is garnered for redemption purposes.

Two Suspended At Maryland U.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (Special)

—Enthusiastic support for the action of President Pearson of the University of Maryland in suspending two students who refused to take the compulsory military training at the university, was published recently by the Diamondback, published by the Student Government association of the university.

After defending military training as distinctly a defense move on the part of American universities, the Diamondback says editorially:

"But the controversy, as it has been brought to public attention during the week just past, is not so much concerned with the good and evil of military training; rather, it resolves itself into a question of whether or not two students may take it upon themselves, aided and abetted by outside interests, to alter the entire policy of an American university. They were offered the alternative of petition, which they refused. And so the matter was settled in the only way possible—by the only way which the actions of the individuals left open to authorities. They were suspended by President Pearson until such time as they agree to accept the requirements of this institution."

Making Death Popular Is White Man's Burden
CANNBERRA (AP)—The administration of New Guinea, which is under mandate by Australia, has begun a campaign to "popularize" natural death among Papuans.

Every death not due to violence or misadventure is held by the natives to be due to sorcery. Chief Judge Wanliss says it is one of the duties of the white men to convince the natives that it is better to die of old age than from a spear thrust.

Horse Collar Industry Is Showing Increase

BUFORD, Ga. (AP)—The horse collar business is on the up and up.

And that, says Victor Allen, is an unerring sign of changing business conditions.

About 7,800 horse collars a week are turned out at the Allen factory here. There collars will be used chiefly for farm animals, Allen said.

The increased demand for collars is accompanied by a growing need for horse and mule harness, and a force of 1,700 is busy making sets at the factory.

Operating a shoe factory in addition to the harness plant, Allen said the output of shoes has been doubled this year.

Reports from Atlanta's stock yards indicate that three to four times as many mules are being sold this season than heretofore in several years.

Retail Shops To Be Reduced
DUBLIN (AP)—A reduction in the number of retail shops in the Free State is predicted by a commission now investigating licenses. There are 44,000 shops in the Free State, or one to every 70 inhabitants. In Denmark this ratio is 91, in England 97 and in Switzerland 176.

Incorporating Families Get Lower Tax Rate

MELBOURNE — (AP) — Many men here are incorporating their families so as to get lower rates of taxation and to avoid Australia's death duties.

Upon his death there are hardly any probate duties to be levied—and Mrs. Taxpayer becomes "governing director."

TURKISH TOBACCO
comes to this country in bales. The leaves are small and tightly packed. Each bale contains about 40,000 leaves.

DOMESTIC TOBACCO
is stored in huge wooden hogsheads. Each hogshead contains about 1000 pounds of tobacco.

A flavor that neither possesses alone

Early in the 17th century, tobacco seed from America was taken to Turkey. Different soil, different climate, different temperatures night and day, and different farming methods produced an entirely new tobacco—small in size, but very rich and aromatic.

Four certain spots are famous for the quality of their Turkish tobacco — Xanthi and Cavalla in Greece; Samsoun and Smyrna in Turkey. And it is principally from these places that our buyers get the Turkish for Chesterfield.

These Turkish tobaccos are blended, in just the right amount, with Domestic tobaccos. It is this blending and cross-blending of just the right amount of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos which gives Chesterfield a flavor that neither possesses alone.
