Hawaii Will Furnish Motif for Frosh Glee

The third big all-campus dance of the year will be held this Saturday at McArthur court when the freshman class presents the annual Frosh Glee.

The motif is a Hawaiian one, and the edge of the large floor will be lined with palms and Hawaiian scenes. A large lagoon with canoes will be constructed at one end of the floor. The features for the evening will be strictly in keeping with the Hawaiian idea.

Those who have been asked to serve as patrons and patronesses for the dance are:

Chancellor and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Schwering, Mayor Elisha Large, Dean and Mrs. Karl W. Onthank, Dr. and Mrs. Virgil Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shumaker, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Erb, Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Jones, Dr. Edward H. Lesch, Mr. and Mrs. Prince G. Callison, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rosson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hall, Dean and Mrs. James H. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Rae, Mr. and Mrs. Riddesbarger, Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Boyer.

Dean and Mrs. Wayne Morse, Governor and Mrs. Julius L. Meier, Dr. and Mrs. Burt Brown Barker, Right Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gooding, Mrs. Murray Warner, and Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed.

Theta Informal

On Friday night members of Kappa Alpha Theta will hold their spring informal dance at the chapter house. Vari-colored balloons and graceful spring flowers will serve as a decorative motif. Patrons and patronesses will be Mrs. Grace Russell, Mrs. Elizabeth Talbert, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rosson, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins, Miss Evelyn Beebe is in charge of the dance.

Alpha O's Plan Dance

Long entanglements of crepe-paper sea-weed, fantastic fish, and many marine mysteries will form the motif of the Alpha Omicron Pi "Under-Seas" spring informal dance to be held at the chapter house Friday evening. Patrons and patronesses will be Dean and Mrs. Wayne Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rinehart, Mr. and Mrs. E. Siegmund, and Mrs. Lucy Abrams. Miss Peggy McKie is in charge of the dance.

Pi Phi To Entertain

Oregon Alpha chapter of Pi Beta Phi will be host to Oregon Beta members of Pi Beta Phi from Oregon State college at a formal founders' day banquet tomorrow night. Miss Maryline New will be in charge of the celebration, which will be held at the chapter house.

Kappa Delta Will Frolic

Members of Kappa Delta will entertain guests with an informal "K. D. Reel" on Friday night, when "depression amusements" will be the order of the evening. Mrs. Alberta Powell and Mrs. Alice B. Macduff are chaperoning the affair, and Miss Marie Saccamano is in charge of arrangements.

CINEMA

Words fail me. I mean that. I'm afraid to say a darn thing. Today's cinema effort at the McDonald, home of bigger and better shows, is Lionel Barrymore, in a drama called "Sweepings." That's safe. I mean to say, everyone says nice things about Lionel. He's the heir apparent to the throne of America's royal family. His work is uniformly good. We go to see him even though we're certain the show won't be good, because we know Lionel will be. Many prefer him to John—I've had arguments about that, but I'd hate to use this column to do it.

Most notable item in the McDonald ad for tomorrow: William Gargan is mentioned as a cast member. Remember his excellent work in "Animal Kingdom"? Gargan is a punch drunk we'd go to see even without the Barrymore boost. I hate to say this, but I don't like Gloria Stuart, and she's in it too.

"Flesh" at the Colonial. This is not a sex picture, and children's tickets will be sold. The more the merrier. Wallace Beery is the special interest, and his title is fitting.

This is a good show. Wallace plays the homely German wrestler who is as good at hoisting beer barrels as he is at hoisting heavyweights. He is not so hot at hoisting blondes. Karen Morley spells his undoing, with the aid of Ricardo Cortez, never more sinking.

The Boat Sails Twice a Week

For Brazil, the land of nuts and coffee, where these two charming moving picture actresses make the natives crowd the theatres. They are blonde Dea Silva and brunette Carmen Santa, who are helping Brazil's infant cinema industry get on its feet.

Unemployment Survey Gives Timely Information on Jobs

(Information in the following series of three articles comes from a survey made by the American Woman's association among a representative group of business and professional women of New York City. The report of the survey in book form is available in the library.)

By J. L. S. Unemployment, besides being a favorite topic of conversation, has become a very real problem which faces every student upon graduation from college.

Every senior woman on the campus right now is asking herself, "What are my chances, if any, of getting a job? How much money can I expect to earn? Will my degree be of any practical value?"

There is more unemployment among women under 35 years of age than among more mature workers. The percentage of unemployment among those who have gone beyond a high school education is lower than among the high school trained, although the possession of an A.B. degree in itself does not render immunity from unemployment. Women with college degrees only are out of work more than women with less than high school training but practical experience.

Earnings for women run surprisingly high according to this survey, with 10 per cent of the A. W. A. group reporting over $5,000 a year and 10 per cent of the independent women over $10,000. The typical earning of the total group is $3,030.

Salaries run highest in professions where few women are entered and lowest in the groups in which a large proportion of women are employed such as social work, library, design, painting and similar occupations.

The study group for this survey had approximately 6.5 years of groom with Sigma Alpha Epsilon, formal education beyond primary school. Four-fifths of the women graduated from high school and over a quarter graduated from college, while more than a tenth of the number have M.A., Ph.D., LL.D., and other graduate degrees. Do careers depend upon degrees and does going to college pay will be taken up in the next article.

Seabeck Meet 'Is Scheduled For Mid-June

Proceeds of Waffle Luncheon Will Be Used at Y.W.C.A. Conference.

"A World Company Chooses a High Pursuit" will be the theme for the Seabeck Y. W. C. A. conference, scheduled this year for June 17 to 27. A large delegation of University of Oregon women attends this yearly convention at the camp on Hood's canal, near Bremerton.

Proceeds from the Waffle Luncheon, which is to be held Saturday, will be used for Seabeck purposes.

A reduction in expenses has allowed the cost of the ten days' outing at Seabeck to be cut to $18.50. This includes the $8 registration fee, entertainment expenses, board, and lodging.

Addresses, discussions, and informal meetings will provide the means of investigating the part religion might play in solving the present world dilemma. Practical helps in running a local Y. W. C. A., consideration of important world problems, and recreations in the forms of swimming, tennis, golf, and organized sports will make up the rest of the program for the ten days.

Dr. R. Carrothers, professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, will be one of the principal speakers at the camp. John L. Casteel, director of debate at the University of Oregon, will be a discussion leader.

Godfrey Moves Office

George Godfrey, associate in informational service, has moved his office from Friendly to Johnson hall. The office of Charles W. Byrnes, head of informational service, has been remodeled and Mr. Godfrey may now be reached there.

Phi Theta Upsilon

By ANN-REED BURNS

One night at the first of this term, 15 girls were presented with corsages of sweet peas and daffodils and black-and-white ribbons, as tokens of their election to Phi Theta Upsilon, national upper-class service honorary.

Phi Theta Upsilon elects each spring term 13 sophomores, 2 juniors, and, if the presidents of the Y. W. C. A. and the A. W. S. are not already members, takes them as honorary members. Girls are chosen for Phi Theta on the basis of democracy—how well they get along with others, friendliness, leadership, and cooperation. A "C" average is required.

A new method of choosing members was installed this year, in which girls are pledged and initiated within the first two weeks of the term. On the day of pledging, Phi Theta members hold a tea for sophomores and juniors, after which they vote for the girls to be selected. That evening all Phi Thetas go in a body to the home of every girl chosen, presenting her with a pledge ribbon and corsage.

The main purpose of Phi Theta Upsilon is to promote social contacts between upperclass women, performing the same service for them that frosh councillors do for freshmen. This they do especially through the Philometele hobby groups.

Each of these groups, which sponsors some hobby such as drama, prose and poetry, travel, charm, etc., is headed by two members of Phi Theta. The groups are open to everyone on the campus, teas being given during the year to acquaint women with the groups. Each spring term all groups of Philometele manage an all-campus dance, to be held this year on May 5.

During freshman week in the fall, Phi Theta gives teas and par-

Tailored Jackets, Suitable for Any Costume, Intrigue

Seen at Barnhardt's—in their after 6 p. m. unpacking and modeling, a blue and white sport silk in small checks, with Roman stripes. It has a decided Gibson effect and adds one more outfit to the back-to-90's trend. A straight sport jacket with tucked sleeves completes the outfit.

This particular dress is one of many new silk prints priced from $2.95 to $10.75. With the same shipment came a supply of Lacy Sheers in pastel colors, washable and appropriate for afternoon wear on the campus.

Barnhardt's is also showing a new swagger jacket of white in Botany flannel. It is a three-quarter coat and can be worn over both sport and dress clothes because of the fineness of the flannel. A crew neck with a scarf and a tailored cut makes it unusually smart.

Mesh lace shorts for light summer dresses are now on sale for 50, 75 and 95 cents. A very attractive supply of sleeping pajamas in silk and satin is also on sale for $1.95 and $2.95.

ties for any women who wish to come.

Officers during the past year were Edith Peterson, president; Kathleen McNutt, vice-president; Kay Briggs, secretary; Gwen Elsmore, treasurer; Genevieve Dunlop, historian.
