

BOARD WILL INVESTIGATE TENTATIVE BUDGET

9 Candidates Seek Oregon Editor Post

Publications Committee Withholds Names

CLARK PETITION IN

First Reading of Applications for Position Completed; Date of Choice Unknown

By ED STANLEY
If interest in student activities had seemed lagging thus far this year, it spurted suddenly and surprisingly yesterday afternoon as nine candidates marched into the graduate manager's office before 3 o'clock and filed applications for the editorship of the Oregonian.

Nine in all—representing every class from freshman to junior, thereby avowed their intention of entering the feverish struggle for the yearbook post that has kept the publications committee and the executive council in turmoil since April 10, when applications were first submitted. Only two students, Bob Zurcher and Parks Hitchcock, applied for the job at that time, and both were rejected by the executive council, which then decided to reopen the lists and call for more candidates.

Anybody's Race
Apparently deciding it was anybody's race, or aroused by the campus-wide interest resulting from the rejection of Hitchcock and Zurcher, candidates sprang up from everywhere.

The publications committee, after meeting yesterday, refused to divulge the names of the candidates, although it has always been customary to announce the entire field of candidates as soon as the petitions have been given a preliminary reading by the publications committee.

Bob Hall, student body president and chairman of the committee, said when questioned by the Emerald last night that the names were being kept secret in order to save the eight unsuccessful candidates, whoever they may be, from the undesirable publicity which would result. He declared that the committee did not desire a repetition of the publicity that attended the rejections of Zurcher and Hitchcock.

One Candidate Known
As a result of the committee's secretive attitude, the name of only one candidate is known certainly to have been filed. It is that of Barney Clark, freshman in journalism, whose intention to run for the post was made known in the freshman edition of the Emerald Saturday.

Both Hitchcock and Zurcher were declared eligible to re-enter applications for the position, by action of the executive council, but Hall refused to say whether either had filed.

Hall declared that the publications committee was well satisfied with both quantity and quality of

Turnbull Remarks on Shaw Attitude Toward Journalism

By RUTH KING
Much comment has been given to George Bernard Shaw, Irish author, since his recent visit to this country. Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the Columbia university school of journalism, took exception to Shaw's statement that, "in all civilized countries at present newspapers exist for the purpose of concealing the truth." Shaw's accusation was cited by Dean Ackerman as similar to many others made "by intelligent men and women," and he considered them serious charges. A few of those named were: That newspaper standards are determined by circulation; that the press gives the public what it wants, rather than what the public needs; that financial news is promotional rather than informative; and that the weekly papers are subservient to local political machines. In response to these criticisms, which were made by Dean Ackerman in an address before the American Society of Newspaper

Named to Chair

Dr. George Rebec, head of the department of philosophy, who has been named to occupy the Prince Lucien Campbell chair of philosophy, which was created Saturday by action of the state board of higher education.

Rebec Is Honored With Appointment To Chairmanship

Dean of Philosophy at Oregon Obtains Important Post In Professorship

Dr. George Rebec, dean of the graduate school and head of the philosophy department, was named to the chair of the Prince Lucien Campbell professorship of philosophy when the state board of higher education created the professorship Saturday night and named it in memory of the late president of the University. Prince L. Campbell was president of the University from 1902 until his death in 1925. Chancellor William Jasper Kerr recommended that the professorship be established and also recommended Dr. Rebec for the chair.

As president, Dr. Campbell was very much interested in philosophy and often expressed the wish that when he terminated his tenure as president of the University of Oregon he might become professor of philosophy. He died at the height of his career and was deprived of this wish.

Dr. Rebec is nationally recognized for his work as a teacher of philosophy and has been head of the department for many years.

Olds Wins Theatre Pass For Most News Stories

Don Olds, reporter on the Emerald, topped the list for writing the most stories for the paper for the week ending April 28 and won the free ticket to the Colonial theater.

Peggy Chessman was second and Frances Hardy third in the number of stories written. Mary Jane Jenkins wrote the greatest number of heads for stories and Margaret Ellen Hill was second among the copyreaders.

It was decided that each freshman should be taxed a small amount to help defray expenses of the picnic. A nine-piece band has been hired to play for the affair. Ball games and swimming will provide the afternoon's entertainment. A weiner roast and dancing will conclude the evening.

Recital Is Slated By Jane Kanzler

Presenting the second of this week's three student recitals, Jane Kanzler, pianist, appears in her senior recital tonight at 8 p. m. in the school of music auditorium.

Last fall term, Miss Kanzler, who is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, appeared in joint recital with Frances Brockman, violinist. Her mother, Mrs. Jacob Kanzler, president of the Oregon Mothers' club, is remaining in Eugene to hear her daughter play.

In her varied program she offers an airy gavotte by Kanzler. Her other numbers are Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in B-flat minor," Leo's "Arietta," Mendelssohn's "Variations Serieuse," Rachmaninoff's "Polichinelle," and Hutcheson's "Prelude" and "Caprice."

On the other hand, I have no patience with loose general charge.

Jim Ferguson Speeds Junior Week-End Plan

Prom, May 12, Will Be Biggest Event

COMMITTEES NAMED

Lucile Coate Is Secretary; Chuck Thomas Helps Direct; Wagner Head of Construction

With Junior week-end only 10 days away, plans for the annual three-day round of dances, luncheons, banquets, and general campus activity are gathering speed daily.

The Junior Prom, Friday night, May 12, is to be the biggest single event of the week-end. Jim Ferguson, general chairman of the event, has organized his committees and sub-committees, and arrangements have been started.

Assisting Ferguson in the direction of the work is Chuck Thomas. Lucile Coate is secretary of the event.

Construction for the Prom is being handled by Paul Wagner, who has named Stanley Haberland, Wallace Hug, Ed Schlessler, and Marvin McConnell as his committee. Patrons and patronesses are under the supervision of Alice Wedemeyer, who is assisted by Frances Johnston and Elema Parker.

Marion Vinson is to have charge of refreshments, with Edith Clement, Mark Temple, and Phoebe Greenman working on her committee. Mark Cory will have charge of decorating the Igloo, and he will be assisted by Jim Weed, Harlan Boales, Jim Ghormley, Jim Blair, Howard Lewis, Bernice Baynard, Kay Felter, and Betty Karkeet.

Transportation is being handled by Kimball Page, with Louis Vannice, Phil Corrigan, and Kenneth Lottridge assisting.

Ticket sales are under the direction of Ed Schweiker, who has appointed Bill Dowthit, Dick Near, Howard Bobbitt, and Gih Olinger on his committee. The music committee is headed by John Pennington, with Lorraine Beardsley and Milo Glassman assisting. Caroline Hahn is to arrange for programs.

Freshmen Picnic Plan Formulated

Weiners, dancing, and swimming, but no dates and no upperclassmen was the decision of about 40 freshmen who met at the Pi Beta Phi house last night to formulate plans for the Fresh picnic to be held May 30. Jack Miller, chairman of the affair, gave a brief resume of the duties of each committee chairman. The place for the picnic has not been decided.

The suggestion of a walk-out in conjunction with the picnic met with disapproval of the group. Miller flatly refused to discuss it.

It was decided that each freshman should be taxed a small amount to help defray expenses of the picnic. A nine-piece band has been hired to play for the affair. Ball games and swimming will provide the afternoon's entertainment. A weiner roast and dancing will conclude the evening.

Recital Is Slated By Jane Kanzler

Presenting the second of this week's three student recitals, Jane Kanzler, pianist, appears in her senior recital tonight at 8 p. m. in the school of music auditorium.

Last fall term, Miss Kanzler, who is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, appeared in joint recital with Frances Brockman, violinist. Her mother, Mrs. Jacob Kanzler, president of the Oregon Mothers' club, is remaining in Eugene to hear her daughter play.

Casteel Cuts Capers Tonight As 'I Pagliacci' Players Open

"A campground for lodging, a drum or a horn for a lotta noise, and splashy posters and handbills for publicity—the regular road-show ballyhoo," is George Andreini's lineup of this summer's program for the "I Pagliacci" players, who open the book of their adventures as a troupe tonight at 8:00 at the Methodist church in Molliere's farce, "Physician in Spite of Himself."

Oregon and Washington will probably be the territory covered first by the wandering "Clowns," Andreini said. A truck will be the "how" and the best the village has to offer in the way of a campground will do for the one-night stopover. "Of course, when we hit Broadway nothing but the New Yorker's best suites will be considered," he added gravely.

However, New York, if not it's leading hotel, is not just "the stuff dreams are made of" for one of the cast of tonight's farce. Inez Simons, who plays the part of the revengeful wife, has won a scholarship which entitles her to 10 weeks' training with the Repertory Playhouse Associates of that city. She will leave Eugene in June and hopes to remain through next winter as a permanent member of this group and tour the United States with them in the fall and winter of 1934.

Louise Marvin, charming nurse of tonight's cast, has already earned the title "professional" as a member of the Portia Mansfield Dancers, with whom she toured the United States in 1928, the year before she entered the University.

Others of tonight's cast include such well-known figures in cam-

Mrs. Schwering To Be Honored at Annual AWS Tea

Louise Webber To Entertain New and Old Council at Dinner After Social

Preparations for the annual A. W. S. tea, to be held in honor of Dean Hazel P. Schwering tomorrow from 4 to 6 in Gerlinger hall, were announced by Emma Bell Stadden, general chairman, yesterday.

Previous to the tea to which all women of the campus are invited, the new A. W. S. officers for next year will be installed. At 6:30 that night, following the tea, Louise Webber, president of the A. W. S., will entertain the members of the new and old A. W. S. council at a formal dinner at the Gamma Phi Beta house. This dinner will continue the campus tradition of the outgoing A. W. S. president giving a dinner for the outgoing and incoming council.

In the receiving line for the tea will be Dean Schwering, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Mrs. Murray Warner, Louise Webber, and Jean Failing.

Members of Phi Theta Upsilon and heads of houses will act as hostesses. Thespians and Kwamas are to serve. The committee for the tea is Emma Bell Stadden, general chairman; Marjorie Haas, decorations; Ruth Martin, food; Phoebe Greenman, hostesses; and Marie Saccomanno, music.

Papers Wanted
Dr. Parsons of the sociology department is particularly desirous of receiving extra copies of Friday, April 28, issue of the Emerald. Students who have copies of that date that do not want the paper may leave them at the social science house.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

Pot and Quill meets tonight with Joan Cox and Marjorie Warner, 1240 E. 22nd, at 7:30.

Junior Prom directorate meeting at 3 p. m. today in the College side.

Student Socialist club meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. The place will be arranged later.

Pi Kappa Alpha announces the pledging of Frank Arrell, '36, of Eugene.

In Play Tonight

Inez Simons, winner of Repertory Playhouse scholarship, who plays the part of the wife of "The Physician in Spite of Himself" in Molliere's play by that name, given by the I Pagliacci players tonight at 8 o'clock at the Methodist church under the auspices of the Wesley foundation.

pus dramatics as Don Confrey, Wilbur Walker, Cynthia Liljeqvist, Hagen Moore, Professor John L. Casteel, and George Andreini, "king" of the Guild work-shop. Gene Love, lead in last year's Guild production of "Hamlet," directs the play.

Annual Breakfast For Juniors and Seniors Planned

Virginia Hartje Names Members Of Committee; Juniors Will Be Hosts to Seniors

Senior prominence and premier place in campus social affairs will be slightly subordinated Sunday, when the Juniors play hosts to the "uppermost" classmen at the annual junior-senior breakfast. The feast is to take place May 7, in Alumni hall of Gerlinger from 9:30 to 10:30, announced Virginia Hartje, chairman. One junior and one senior will be admitted for 45 cents.

Arrangements are being made to contact every girl living off the campus, but those not reached are asked to sign up at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow, and plans will be made for partners.

Special guests at the breakfast will include Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, Mrs. Alice B.

200 Prepper Trackmen To Compete Here

Annual Meet Scheduled For May 20

14 EVENTS BOOKED

First and Second Place Winners From Eight Districts Will Come to Campus

Approximately 200 youths will be guests on the campus May 20 when high school athletes will gather on Hayward field for the first time to compete in the state high school inter-scholastic track meet.

Fourteen events will be included in the meet and the University will award a gold, silver, and bronze medal to the first three places. The 42 medals are now on display at the Babb Hardware company.

It was customary in the past to hold the meet annually at Oregon State college, but last spring the state board of higher education authorized that the meet should alternate each year between the two campuses.

Other Meet Slated
Friday, May 19, has been set as the date for the dual track meet between the University tracksters and Oregon State college. With this arrangement the high school athletes will see track events between college teams.

In former years each school was permitted to send as many men to the state meet as it chose, but this year a new plan has been put into effect whereby the state will be divided into eight districts and the first and second place winners will compete in the meet here. In the case of district eight, which comprises the Portland High School Athletic association, the four first places in each event will be eligible for competition at the state meet.

Eliminations Soon
The eliminations will be run off either May 6 or 13, and all results must be at the graduate manager's office not later than May 15, it was announced yesterday by Tom Stoddard, assistant graduate manager, who is promoting the meet. This new system will be similar to that used for many years in Washington, California, Idaho, and other states.

The district meets will probably prove a more satisfactory plan because only the cream of athletes will compete. Stoddard and Colonel Bill Hayward, who will be in charge of the meet, expect to run off an elite high class meet in which each athlete will be given a chance to show his best ability against equally capable opponents.

All preliminary events will be run off in the morning and the finals will take place in the afternoon, Stoddard stated. J. L. Gary, principal of West Linn high school and secretary of the state board of control, is authorizing this meet. Three principals or superintendents from each district will conduct the respective meets.

Diplomas Will Be Held Up if Fees Are Unpaid

No diplomas will be order for which the fees have not been paid, Clifford L. Constance, assistant registrar, said yesterday. Students who pay the fees and fail to graduate will be refunded the money, he said.

In stressing the importance of the fees, Mr. Constance pointed out the fact that of the 82 students who filed graduation requirements for January, 1933, only 41 paid for diplomas. A delay in payment will make the receipt of the diploma late, he said.

Dr. Oxtoby To Be Here To Confer on Religion

Dr. W. H. Oxtoby, president of San Francisco seminary, is to be on the campus this Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning for his regular visit to confer with all students interested in religious work.

All students wishing to confer with Dr. Oxtoby may make an appointment by calling Westminster house, 442-J.

Legislative Slashes Deep; New Members Formally Inducted

Men Will Meet To Make Plans for Emerald Edition

ALL men interested in working on the annual men's Emerald Friday are requested to meet today at 5 o'clock in room 104, Journalism building. The men have won over the women for two successive years and will be out to make Friday's edition another winner. The group that puts out the winning paper will be given a party by the losers in the Journalism shack at a future date.

15 Frosh Pledged Skull and Dagger At Annual Dance

Sophomore Honorary Accepts New Men on Basis of General Leadership Ability

At the Frosh Glee Saturday night, 15 of the most outstanding men in the freshman class were pledged to Skull and Daggers, sophomore service honorary. The pledges, carrying swords on their shoulders, marched upon the platform at 10:30 and were formally accepted by Walter Gray, president of Skull and Daggers, as he gave them their pledge-pins.

The selections were narrowed down from a field of 120 freshmen who have worked for the organization during the school year. Candidates are considered upon a basis including the qualities of scholarship, leadership, personality, character, and interest in activities on the campus, and in A. S. U. O. and class activities.

Election to Skull and Daggers is considered the greatest single honor that can be conferred upon a freshman in the field of campus activities.

"This year's selection includes men from every field of endeavor

Tickets for Fete Go on Sale Today

Fifty cents for reserved seats will be the admission charge for this year's canoe fete to be held Saturday, May 13. Tickets will go on sale at noon today at the Co-op Book store. This was revealed last night by Delbert O. Kimberling, ticket manager of A. S. U. O.

Kimberling said: "A large number of ticket orders have been received by mail and I advise those who want good seats to get them by the end of the week." Marion McClain, manager of the Co-op stated that many orders have already come in by mail from other parts of the state as well as Eugene.

Jane Thacher, Soloist, Gives Fine Performance on Sunday

Jane Thacher, as any soloist worth his salt should, dominated the concert given at McArthur court Sunday afternoon by the University Symphony orchestra. Her performance in the Grieg concerto for piano and orchestra was the memory that most listeners carried away with them, overshadowing even the memory of a very capable performance by the orchestra in Dvorak's symphony in E-minor, from the "New World."

Rex Underwood gave fine reading to the "New World" symphony. The well known "Goin' Home" negro theme of the large, wit hits simple picture of the spirit of a proud but sad people, is not nearly as easy to do well as it would seem to be. Irven House, who carried a solo part in the large, on the English norm, left nothing to be desired. The finale, in which Dvorak displays his genius for unconventionally effective orchestration of intertwining themes, was splendidly done.

The opening number, the overture to Gomez "Il Guarany," was no "piece de resistance" or mag-

Sammons' Committee To Meet Sunday

NEXT SESSION MON.

No Recommendation To Oust U.O. Dean of Women Mentioned At Board Meeting

By DICK NEUBERGER

PORTLAND, Or., May 1.—Special—Out of the University club and into the street Saturday briskly stepped Lieut.-Colonel Eddie Sammons, U. S. A., honorably discharged. Under his arm he carried copies of the budgets and figures which will determine the destiny of higher education in the state of Oregon. Mr. Sammons was the last of the board members to leave the scene of the group's first regular meeting in several months. As chairman of the all-important finance committee, he had remained after the session to explain the complexities of the situation to members of the press.

Every other member of the board took away with him a copy of the tentative budget submitted by Chancellor Kerr. For a week the rulers and guardians of higher learning in the commonwealth will study and investigate thoroughly the plans for disbursing the greatly reduced income with which the institutions will be operated during the next biennium. Then they will come back, either to pull to pieces, submit intact or make desultory changes on the budget the chancellor presented.

Finance Trio To Meet

On Sunday, six days from today, Eddie Sammons will sit down with C. C. Colt and Herman Oliver to formulate the report of the finance committee. Theirs will be the most difficult task of all. Funds have been trimmed to the bone; federal appropriations have been discontinued; numerous demands have been made by minorities throughout the state. All these factors must be considered. But those who remember Eddie Sammons' tenacity when he led a column of the Sunshine division over the top in Flanders 15 years ago and recall his recent militant campaigns for the cause of education have faith that he and his committee will help mightily in the struggle to resurrect higher learning from the financial morass in which it struggles today. Thousands of Oregon citizens have implicit faith in Eddie Sammons and his committee.

Rumors on Press Row

Coincident with the meeting of the finance committee will be caucuses and midnight round-table sessions at which other board members will compare their perspectives and opinions on the financial plans. On Monday the board will convene formally at
